STATE OF EMERGENCY DECLARED IN B.C.

State of Israel Accepts UN Appeal For Cease-Fire

Arabs Meet at Amman To Decide on Course

Haifa, June 1 — (Reuters) — The Jewish provisional government announced tonight it had accepted the United Nations' cease-fire resolution on Palestine and had ordered all Jewish forces to cease fire from 3 a.m., local time, tomorrow provided the Arabs did likewise.

The official statement issued in Tel Aviv said that the cease-fire order had been given on the assumption:

1. The ban on the import of arms to Arab countries shall apply to the delivery of arms from stocks owned or controlled by foreign powers within the territories of the Arab states.

2. During the cease-fire the armed forces of neither side will seek to advance beyond presently-held areas and each side will be entitled to maintain its present positions.

C.C.F. Candidate Wins in Yale, B.C. By Big Majority

Kelowna, B.C., June 1 (CP)—The C.C.F. broke new political ground today through a by-election victory in the traditionally Conservative Federal riding of Yale.

O. L. Jones, 52-year-old Kelowna furniture store owner, swept to victory in Monday's by-election to choose a successor to Hon. Grote Stirling, who had retired from the Commons because of ill-health.

A Progressive Conservative, Mr. Stirling had represented the constituency since 1924. Except for two Liberal terms at the turn of the century, his party had held the seat since 1871. Mr. Jones won for the C.C.F. against Progressive Conservative and Liberal opposition.

W. A. C. Bennett, the Progressive Conservative candidate, conceded the election to his C. C. F. opponent two hours after the polls closed. Mr. Bennett had run close to E. J. Chambers, the Liberal, but both were well behind the C. C. F. candidates.

Flood conditions held up results from some outlying districts. However, with all except 10 of 122 polls reported, the count stood at 10,576 for Mr. Jones against 6,923 for Mr. Chambers and 6,900 for Mr. Bennett. Some political observers felt Mr. Jones' plurality would be the largest ever delivered a Yale candidate.

Victory for Mr. Jones left the Commons standing as follows: Liberals 125; Progressive Conservative 66; C.C.F. 29; Social Credit 13; Independent 4; Bloc Populaire 2; Independent Liberal 1; Independent Progressive Conservative 1; Independent C.C.F. 1; Union Des Electeurs 1; vacant 2.

Belgian Premier Talks With Exiled King Leopold

Brussels, June 1 (AP)—Premier Paul-Henri Spaak talked with Belgium's exiled King Leopold in Switzerland over the weekend, a communique issued by Spaak's offices announced today.

Spaak will tell the government the details of his two-day conversations with Leopold at a cabinet meeting Friday, the communique added.

In Brussels political circles it was believed Spaak talked with Leopold about the return to Belgium of Prince Baudoin, the King's eldest son, when he becomes 18 in September. According to Belgian custom the Prince, on Reaching 18, would take his seat in the Senate and enter officers' training college.

Launch Swamps 22 Men Drowned

Norfolk, Va., June 1 (AP) — Nine marines and 13 navy men perished in Hampton Roads Monday night when a navy launch swamped in choppy waters while returning 90 men to their ship after Memorial Day liberty.

Rear Admiral [illegible], commander of a 12-ship task force whose sailing for the Mediterranean was delayed by the tragedy, issued this statement from his flagship, the aircraft carrier Kearsarge:

"Preliminary report of loss of lives or missing personnel may be placed at 22, nine marines and 13 navy."

The 50-foot open launch was swamped in a wind and rain storm as it was returning a liberty party to the Kearsarge, anchored two miles off the Norfolk Naval Station. The launch, which was attached to the carrier, was swamped when only 200 yards off the Kearsarge's port beam.

Memorial Chapel To U. S. Servicemen

London, June 1 (AP)—A memorial chapel is to be constructed in the east end of St. Paul's Cathedral for the American service men who died in the Second World War. The Archdeacon of London, Canon O. H. Gibbs-Smith said "the chapel is to represent a gesture from the people of Great Britain to the people of America, and will be chiefly a place of pilgrimage."

MEMBER ASKS MORE D.P'S BE ALLOWED ENTRY

Says Classifications Should be Raised

Ottawa, June 1. (CP) — A suggestion that the government increase the classifications of displaced persons who will be allowed into Canada was made in the Commons Monday.

It came from Anthony Hlynka (SC—Vegreville) who said the problem of succoring Europe's displaced persons has "merely been touched" and placed before the chamber a 10-point program which would enable Canada to offer them great assistance.

The House gave final reading to a bill providing for the reclamation of 80,000 acres of marshlands in the Maritimes. The legislation now goes to the Senate.

First reading was given a bill discontinuing a special allowance once granted justices of the Nova Scotia Supreme Court when they sat on divorce cases.

No Date Decided

In the opening stages, Prime Minister Mackenzie King disclosed that Britain has suggested the proposed meeting of Commonwealth Prime Ministers be held in July or in the Autumn, but said no specific date has yet been decided.

Mr. Hlynka, pressing his request for more aid to displaced persons ,reviewed developments in the system of dealing with D.P.S. overseas and said that for many it now amounted to "forced repatriation" to Russia.

For practical purposes, there were 750,000 D.P.S. of immediate concern to Canada and other western nations. Another 346,,000 received no care or maintenance [illegible]. To the end of April, Canada had admitted 16,000.

His 10-point program was made up mainly of suggestions for relaxing the regulations to enable Canada to absorb a larger number.

F. S. Zaplitny (CCF-Dauphin) supported Mr. Hlynka and urged the government to expedite applications made by Canadians who wanted to bring European relatives to this country.

Willing to Pay Passage

H. W. Herridge (People's CCF-Kootenay West) urged that more British immigrants be brought to Canada. Britons were willing to pay their passage and were not looking for charity.

22½ P.C. Britons Own Radios

London, June 1 (Reuters) —Approximately 22½ per cent of the people of Britain own radios, according to figures issued by the Post Office. At the end of last month there were 11,236,450 radio receiving licences in force in England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland. These included 49,200 television licences.

Amman Bombed by Jewish Airmen, 12 Arabs Killed

Amman, Trans-Jordan, June 1. (CP)— Jewish airmen dropped explosive bombs and incendiaries today on Amman, capital of Trans-Jordan, and killed six Arab civilians, officials announced.

(The British army in Haifa, Israel ,announced Jewish warplanes also bombed an R.A.F. airfield near Amman. The British announcement said 12 Arabs were killed and 30 were wounded and a number of grounded aircraft were damaged in the raids.)

Great indignation was expressed at the Royal Palace here where the raid was described as an indiscriminate attack against the civil population. Observers said the raid meant there was virtually no possibility of unqualified acceptance of the cease-fire order.

Officials said about ten bombs of about 50 pounds each, including some incendiaries, were dropped.

One of the three bombing runs made by the plane was in the area of King Abdullah's Royal Palace, which it was believed the Jewish bomber was trying to hit. Three bombs were dropped in this area but caused only one casualty— to a cow. Another bomb fell near the house of the British Minister, Sir Alexander Kirkbride.

The raid lasted about half an hour. This was the first time Amman has been bombed.

PARTY LEADERS ADDRESS GROUPS AT NOMINATIONS

Drew Says Development of Vast Resources Will Keep Youth in Ontario

Toronto, June 1. (CP)—Leaders of Ontario's three major political parties made speeches as official nominations closed Monday with 290 candidates named to contest the 80 provincial seats in the Ontario elections next Monday.

Premier Drew at Walkerton said the way to keep Ontario youth from emigrating to the United States is to continue to develop the province's vast resources. He also spoke at Arthur.

Ontario Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver spoke at Kincardine and Durham. Ontario CCF Leader E. B. Jolliffe made a broadcast over a CBC Ontario network and spoke at Galt and Hespeler.

Premier Drew said that in the last five years his government introduced many innovations into Ontario education. These included school film libraries, practical sources in agriculture, establishment of technical institutes, expension of libraries and an increase in the number of scholarships.

Czech Govt. Hails 89.2P.C. Majority Vote as Popular

By A. I. GOLDBERG

Prague, June 1 — (AP) — The Czechoslovak government, which got itself re-elected by a majority of 89.2 per cent Sunday, unanimously hailed the vote today as popular approval.

Cabinet ministers issued a series of statements insisting that the people now have spoken in favor of the February revolt in which the Communists took control of the government.

Nearly 1 per cent of the voters were recorded as casting blank (opposition) ballots despite a lack of secrecy surrounding the actions of voters.

The number of mutilated ballots was not announced.

In at least one election place the commission was instructed to count all empty envelopes and envelopes containing photographs of President Eduard Benes as votes cast in favor of the government.

This was a day of sober second thought for those who voted the white protest ballots with the knowledge their identities might be known or checked.

Some Czech political observers speculated whether President Benes will go along with Premier Klement Gottwald's government now, or resign.

Two reasons have been suggested for supposing the 64-year-old president may quit. He is represented as having been opposed to the single ticket election, and is known to be against signing the new Czech constitution adopted by the Communist-led parliament May 9.

PATIENT ESCAPES HOSPITAL; FATALLY BURNS SELF

Baltimore, June 1 (AP) — A 45-year-old patient slipped away from a nursing home to a cemetery Sunday, poured gasoline on his clothing, set himself afire and was fatally burned, police reported. Police identified the man as Norman Ganong. A verdict of suicide was returned.

Fierce Fires Raging in North Ontario Woodland Called 'Catastrophes'

Toronto, June 1 (CP)— Three major fires, described officially as "catastrophies," raged unchecked today in the forests of Northern Ontario.

Spurred by the tinder-dryness of the northland and whipped by strong, driving winds, each leaped through an estimated 3,000 more acres Monday, bringing to 46,000 the number now engulfed by the flames.

T. E. Mackey, chief of the forest protection division of the Ontario Lands Department, gave this latest picture:

1, The biggest fire, in the Mississagi region, 45 miles north of the lumber town of Blind River, now covers 25,000 acres.

2. A 12,000-acre fire in the Nipigon District near Helen Lake, 75 miles northeast of Port Arthur, still is making headway.

3. A fire astride the unfinished Chapleau-Blind River Road has spread over 9,000 acres.

"There's no use minimizing the loss," said Mr. Mackey. "These fires are catastrophes."

Although declining to reveal his division's information on the cause of the fires, he stressed that all three are the result of "carelessness."

"There's no reason for any of them—they all could have been avoided."

At least 800 men are fighting the blazes, he said. There are 300 in the crews battling the Mississagi fire; 250 at Helen Lake, 250 on the Chapleau-Blind River road. Some 40 pumps, several bulldozers and aircraft are being used.

Mr. Mackey said reports received from the fire fronts indicate the crews had "a pretty bad time" yesterday. He emphasized that estimates of the extent of the fires are hampered by the density of smoke.

"The situation is really bad. The fires are so large and they're moving so fast that it's pretty difficult to get around them. The timber is terrifically dry and the breezes are steady.

"The fires were completely out of control yesterday—just roaring masses of flames. More men and equipment are being moved in to give us a better chance of getting around ahead of the fires and put our strength where it will do the most good."

In every case the flames have whirled across a "considerable amount" of cut-over land, he said. But the flames also have destroyed "a lot" of standing green timber.

Mr. Mackey said the timber loss is "terrific" although there is no estimate so far. There will be some salvage possibilities, he added.

JUSTICE MINISTER ILSLEY RETIRING AT END OF MONTH

Wartime Finance Minister Will Return to Private Practice in Montreal

Ottawa, June 1 (CP)—Rt. Hon James L. Ilsley, who won the respect of Canadians as the country's wartime finance minister, is retiring from public life at a time when many capital observers believe he may be approaching the pinnacle of his political career.

The 54-year-old justice minister disclosed in a surprise announcement Monday night that he will retire from the government at the end of this month and enter the Montreal law firm of Ralston, Kearney, Duquet and MacKay. This is the firm headed by the late Col. J. L. Ralston, his close friend and former cabinet associate.

His announcement came as an "Ilsley boom" in the race for the Liberal leadership was rolling up on Parliament Hill.

However, while Mr. Ilsley is giving up public office, he will still be eligible for the leadership should any group of delegates ask him to stand and should he agree to run.

Wedding Delayed As Princess Anne Becomes Ill

Athens, June 1. (Reuters)—Princess Anne of Bourbon-Parma's wedding to former King Michael of Romania, fixed for Saturday, has been postponed indefinitely because Anne has been taken suddenly ill, it was reliably reported here today.

In Copenhagen, however, sources close to Princess Anne's family said there was no foundation in the Athens reports that the Princess was ill. She was in good health and at her home in Copenhagen, they said. There was no comment on the wedding date.)

Earlier reports that Michael had put off his arrival here had suggested that religious difficulties were causing a hold-up.

Reports of the delay were accompanied by authoritative reports from the Vatican that the Roman Catholic Church would not recognize a wedding in the Greek Orthodox church rites.

Anne is a Roman Catholic. Michael is a member of the Orthodox Church.

SMOKE FROM FOREST FIRES CREATES HAZE

The haze which has been creeping over the city and district all day is believed to be smoke from the disastrous forest fires in northern Ontario. The haze is spreading evenly all across the western horizon and is visible to the north of the city and over Prince Edward County.

The nearest major blaze is in the Mississagi district 300 miles northwest of Belleville.

Carlsbad, N.M., June 1 (AP)—A Santa Fe railway passenger train toppled into a washout near Lake Avalon Monday night, killing the engineer and injuring three others of the crew. The washout resulted from cloudbursts.

MASS EVACUATION BEGINS AS FLOODS BRING NEW PERIL

Columbia River at Flood Stage for 750 Miles

Portland, Ore., June 1 (AP) — The Columbia River flood, which already had taken a toll of at least 20 lives and property loss of more than $37,000,000, forced mass evacuation today of a 120-mile section at the lower end of the stream.

The river had already caused the northwest's greatest disaster as its crest approached the rich farmlands from the Portland area to the sea. Army engineers gave the warning to evacuate, but said many of the thousands of residents already had fled.

Toll Not Known

The toll of dead will not be known until waters recede. No estimate of damage throughout the area was available. but the Portland housing authority said

Smuts Accepts Offer of Seat In S.A. Parliament

Capetown, June 1 — (CP) — Jan Christiaan Smuts, retiring as prime minister of South Africa, today accepted the offer of a seat in parliament from a member of his United Party.

He previously had stated that he hoped to continue to do his duty as leader of the party, but "if there is any blame for the present failure let it be mine."

Smuts will take over the seat of C. W. Clark, who won in Pretoria East in last week's election with a majority of more than 3,000.

Smuts lost his seat at Standerton, which he had held for 24 years, in last week's general elections to Nationalist candidate.

After the defeat of his United Party, which won 65 seats to the 70 for Dr. Daniel Malan's Nationalist Party, Smuts said he would retire to his farm near Pretoria when Dr. Malan took office, but only to await events.

Today's statement was his first public announcement since his election defeat.

Smuts is due in London on Sunday on his way to Cambridge where he is to be installed as chancellor of the university on June 10.

It was suggested that he would accept the offer of a parliamentary seat on his return to South Africa.

Under South African law he is entitled to remain a member of the cabinet and address parliament for three months after the dissolution without finding a seat. After that he must find a seat in either the upper or lower house.

Three Choices of Government Face Newfoundlanders in Referendum

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

St. John's Nfld., June 1 (CP)—Who is the Newfoundlander?

Outwardly, he is a person who smokes American cigarets, drinks Canadian beer and has tea every afternoon.

Before the war Newfoundlanders were British in outlook although there were—and are now—many who dislike the British because they think they regard them as nothing more than "colonials."

But now the Newfoundlander is taking on a complexion of four Nations—Britain, Canada, the United States and his own Newfoundland. He is being torn four ways by the referendum that comes off Thursday.

There are three choices on the ballot—commission government, confederation with Canada and responsible government.

If the Newfoundlander votes for commission he will be favoring British colonial government, if he votes for confederation he wants to become a Canadian and if he votes responsible he will want to govern himself.

If he votes responsible he may well be plumping for closer ties with the United States, for a group advocating economic union with the United States has been in the forefront of the responsible government campaign.

Newfoundland is a country that exists on fish, lumber, iron, copper and zinc. There is some agriculture on the west coast but next to none in the Avalon peninsula where the bulk of her 320,000 population is concentrated. Newfoundland has to import much of its food and consequently costs are higher here. Most meats cost about 20 cents more per pound than in Canada and an ordinary meal in a hotel comes to $1.50 or $1.75.

One single-track railway line spans the country and there are few roads outside the Avalon peninsula, in the southeast corner of the island.

St. John's is the heart of the country in every sense but geographical. Here moves the big majority of imports and exports for the country, here are located most of the fish processing plants and businesses that sell to fisherfolk.

On the other side of the island is Corner Brook, paper mill town of some 5,000. Scattered along a railway line between there and here are Buchans, mining centre, Grand Falls, another paper town, Gander Airport and Botwood, once a great air base. North and south of this dividing line here is hardly a settlement.

The rest of the population is dotted around the coast in outposts.

Premier Calls Out Troops to Combat Ravaging Floods

Looting Breaks Out in Two Sections of Fraser Valley

By ERWIN FRICKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Vancouver, June 1 — (CP) — Battle lines were drawn today along the banks of the disaster-strewn Fraser River as the army took control of British Columbia's fight against ravaging floods.

A state of emergency was declared in the province by Premier Byron Johnson Monday night. He empowered Col. T. E. Snow, B.C. army commander, to call out all troops in the province to "combat the flood as well as any other matters arising out of this emergency."

One "matter" has already arisen. A new threat has been added in the form of looters. The navy reported looting has broken out in at least two sections of the distressed Fraser Valley.

Col. Snow was given authority by Premier Johnson under the aid to the civil power section of the army act to "call on all citizens" to help and "wherever necessary, solicit transport of essential materials."

While new preparations were being drawn up the mighty Fraser continued to spread calamity with each new hour. Peak of the river's rise was drawing near.

Red Cross officials estimated the Fraser alone already directly affected 75,000 people. Estimates of its damage ranged as high as $20,000,0000.

Ready to Fulfil Any Request

The Federal government in Ottawa announced it was ready to fulfil any request for aid from the B.C. government and in Vancouver John Bracken, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, said his party would support immediate passage of a special House grant for flood relief.

Two more "ghost" towns were added to a list becoming alarmingly longer each day.

Fifteen hundred persons late Monday night and early today were evacuated from Matsqui, 40 miles east of here.

Worst spot in interior B.C. was at Creston, 70 miles from Trail. The withdrawal of families from lowlands was being speeded up as 8,000 acres of rich farm lands surrendered to the Kootenay River.

290 IN FIELD FOR 90 SEATS, ELECTION MONDAY

With Nominations Over Ontario Election Enters Homestretch

Toronto, June 1 (CP)—With 290 candidates officially nominated, the Ontario election today entered the homestretch.

The close of nominations Monday left the June 7 contest a fight between Progressive Conservatives, Liberals and the C.C.F. a Canadian Press compilation showed that both the Progressive Conservatives and Liberals are contesting every seat while the C.C.F. has candidates in 81. The fourth largest group is Union of Electors with 12. Independents round out the field.

The Communist Labor-Progressive party, which in the 1945 general election ran 31 candidates, has only two entrants in this election. Elsewhere it has announced it will support C.C.F. candidates but the C.C.F. repudiates the offer.

A record 317 candidates competed for the 90 legislature seats in the 1945 campaign—27 more than in the present contest. The difference in the number of Labor-Progressive party candidates largely accounts for the reduction in the total.

Premier Drew, in a three-way fight for re-election in Toronto High Park, heads the list of 90 Progressive Conservative candidates. His party won 66 seats in the last election and at dissolution held 65, one being vacant by death.

Oliver in Four-Way Fight

Heading a slate of 88 straight Liberals, Farquhar Oliver is in a four-way fight in the Grey North constituency he had represented since 1926. His party supports Liberal-Labor candidates in the remaining two ridings. The Liberals held 11 seats at dissolution and Liberal Labor one.

E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. leader, faces Liberal and Progressive Conservative opponents in the York South riding he represented from 1943 to 1945. The C.C.F. House leader, W.J. Grummett, is in a four-way contest in the Northern Ontario riding of Cochrane South.

OPTIMISTS HEAR REV. D. C. AMOS

A bright future for Alaska and the Canadian Northwest was prophesized Monday evening by the Rev. D. C. Amos in an address to the Optimist Club of Belleville entitled "Contrasts in the Canadian North West." Mr. Amos was the first civilian chaplain on the Alaska Highway.

An influx of new people, new industries, and new methods is changing the character of the northwest, said the speaker. Vast engineering powers are breaking the isolation of a land of fur traders where old timers remember the march of the Klondikers, the speaker concluded.

President of the club, Arthur Cruji, gave a report on the recent Kinsmen district convention held at Saint John, New Brunswick, while the annual Kinsmen initiation program scheduled for next week was discussed by the members.

Marmora

Candidate, Other Liberals Discuss Party Policies

Marmora. (Special.) — The Marmora Liberal Association held a meeting in the Town Hall on Monday evening in support of Mr. Bernard Hughes, candidate for West Hastings. There was a fair attendance and Mr. George Aunger acted as chairman. Short addresses were made by Reeve V. M. Lynch, Fred Johnston and H. W. Sabine, preceding Mr. Hughes' address in which he criticized the Premier of Ontario in bringing on an election at this time, when he still had two years to go.

Brought Expense, Claimed

He stated that he brought this expense on the province of Ontario for selfish ends. He spoke of Premier Drew's radio talks on Education, Agriculture, Health and Labor, which should have been dealt with by the Ministers of those departments, and said he was making plans to head the government at Ottawa and was using Ontario as a stepping stone for his own selfish plans. Mr. Hughes said it was unfair to the people of Eastern Ontario to have to pay for the change over of Hydro from 25 to 60 cycles by Western Ontario.

Outlines Platform

He gave the platform of the Liberal party and paid tribute to Farquhar Oliver, and said he was the man to put Ontario on a good sound basis. He was a Mackenzie King in the making and that was a lot. Mr. Hughes said he was new in politics, but had accepted the invitation to run as member of West Hastings and if sent to Queen's Park, he intended to get some action in this riding, which has been badly neglected.

Mr. McLean Haig, of Belleville, was then introduced by Mr. Hughes and gave an interesting address on the points of the Liberal platform and what they stood for. He said the future of Ontario rests on the Liberal Government if it is to be saved from Socialism. He criticized the Drew Government in its respect to Agriculture and said that Premier Drew had neglected the farmers but after June 7, he predicted that agriculture would get more attention from a Liberal government. They would promote the life of the rural communities and set up a conservation board under the Department of Agriculture. There would also be training facilities for the youth on the farms.

He spoke of the unfortunate feud between the Ontario and Canadian Governments and said the salvation of the province lies in sending a Liberal government to Queen's Park and he hoped that Mr. Hughes and Mr. Oliver would get the support of the electors of West Hastings and that the Liberal government would be established at Queen's Park on June 7th.

A vote of thanks was tendered the speakers by the chairman and the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Bodies of Two Men Drowned In Bay, Recovered

Drowned in the Bay of Quinte a week ago Sunday evening when they went fishing in a boat near Point Anne, the bodies of Rodwell Parsons, 24, Belleville, and Virgil Sears, 32, of Point Anne were recovered this morning.

The body of Parsons was found floating in the bay 500 yards south of Salmon Island, three miles east of Point Anne, while that of Sears was found at the mouth of Maybee's Creek, one mile east of Point Anne.

The two young men had gone fishing on the evening of May 23rd and failed to return home. The following morning their flat-bottomed boat was found in the bay east of Point Anne.

Provincial Police from Belleville have assisted in the search for the bodies of the two men, their efforts being rewarded this morning when both were found floating on the surface. Cpl. Sam Ervine and Constable Hurrie, with Manson MacDonald, who has worked consistently with the police in their search, recovered both bodies.

A post mortem on the two bodies has been ordered but it is not expected an inquest will be held.

MASS EVACUATION

damage at the crumbled warhousing city of Vanport was $27,000,000.

The only other estimate was $10,000,000 damage in the Kelso, Woodland and Kalama district of Southwest Washington.

Before the Vanport disaster, United States Army engineers had predicted the Columbia and its tributaries would cause a total loss of $30,000,000. Hhs engineers now won't make any kind of an estimate.

The river, second largest in the United States in amount of water discharged, is at flood stage for 750 miles. The crest will reach the Portland area tonight and tomorrow.

Part of Portland's downtown area, including the union station, was under water today after the Willamette River topped the seawall. The station is Portland's only railroad depot, and trains were unable to use it.

Ordered Abandoned

Meanwhile, the main Columbia River dike guarding a section of North Portland was ordered abandoned and all workers and troops cleared.

The swollen Columbia broke through at Woodland, Wash., South Kelso, Wash., Kalama, Wash., and Dalles, Ore., and slashed across a highway to send the water-logged debris of shattered Vanport cascading into another North Portland diked area.

Five thousand Southwest Washington residents scurried from flood areas of three towns.

Communications are breaking down, transportation is crippled and hydro-electric generators at Bonneville and Grand Coulee dams, the region's basic source of power, are gradually stalling to a critical low margin.

Army crops spokesmen said it was hopeless to venture a guess at the total damage. Red Cross officials said there are already 45,000 persons "severely affected" and about 10,000 homes damaged or destroyed.

Entire City Destroyed

While the peak in the metropolitan Portland - Vancouver, Wash., sector is due tomorrow, it is unlikely that anything it will bring could compare with the tragic blow that the swollen river has dealt to shattered Vanport's population of 18,700. The entire city, once Oregon State's second largest, has been destroyed. How many perished in the disaster that came when a railroad dike burst is still a mystery.

In North Portland, the backwash of the great river struck again at the scene of the Vanport disaster.

A highway embankment against which the shattered dwellings had crumbled and smashed into splinters gave way and sent an ever-widening swath of water cascading into another mile - square dike-guarded section.

At Woodland, Wash., Brig.-Gen. Ensley Llewellyn, commander of the Washington National Guard, said flood damage in the Southwest Washington sector will soar $10,000,000 in the area bounded by Kelso, Woodland and Kalama.

Nominations for Hastings West And East Held at Stirling, Madoc On Monday Are Quiet Affairs

At Stirling

Standard-bearers of three political parties will contest the riding of West Hastings, in the forthcoming provincial election.

Following submittal of formal qualification papers, the three candidates were officially named at the final nomination meeting held in Stirling Community Hall on Tuesday afternoon.

Contesting the riding are Elmer Sandercock, Belleville, Progressive Conservative; Clare Ridley, Belleville, C.C.F. and Bernard W. Hughes, Liberal, Marmora, Ont.

Following the reading of the King's writ of election, Returning Officer Garnet Dobbs formally closed nominations at sharp 2 p.m. after all three candidates had qualified. Mr. Dobbs after reading the declaration of the election stated that polls will be open on Monday, June 7th from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Nominated candidates were given the privilege of addressing the convention for fifteen minutes, with three minutes rebuttal. Supporting speakers, with the exception of the Liberal candidate, spoke following the nominees.

Liberal First Speaker

Mr. Hughes (Liberal) the first speaker denounced the Drew Government on the grounds that it had called an election for purely political motives and not for the "hydro question." Two years ago," he charged, "the Government's Board of Strategy had ideas that the party had reached its peak. If it waited another year it would have been defeated sure, and even in another six months its chances would not be so good."

"George Drew" Hughes said, "had bigger ideas than Ontario. He has his eyes on Ottawa and he is asking us to pay the way so he can get there."

Criticizing the Conservative party's radio broadcasts, the speaker demanded to know "why George did all the speaking on various subjects. Do not his cabinet ministers know what is going on in their departments or does George have to do all the talking."

Just a Means Claim

"Drew," he charged, "is a practising dictator in his own right in Ontario. Other countries have seen enough of dictatorship, and we don't want it here."

"The hydro changeover," he said, "was agreed upon by all parties, but there is a great deal of political trickery in it. We in the east have had 60 cycles and enjoy a large surplus. Why should we pay Western Ontario's shot? It is just a means to bring on an election."

Ontario needs a sound sane government, and in Farquhar Oliver it has a sound sane man. The Liberals do not swing to the extreme right and left as do the other two parties. Oliver is not a loud-mouthed politician but another Mackenzie King in the making—and that is saying something.

Outlines Platform

Outlining the Liberal platform, Mr. Hughes said his party would increase old age pensions from $30 to $40 per month, and reduce the age limit to 65. Drew said he has done this, but this is not true. There will be no amusement tax, provincial income tax and the three-cent gasoline tax will be eliminated. Worwmen's compensation will be raised to 75% and the waiting time from seven to three days. Labor codes will be improved. Portion of the liquor revenue will be devoted to an educational campaign against over-indulgence of liquor. Local option will be granted to all municipalities and local laws will be enforced. Housing will be encouraged by assumption of municipal taxes over a short period of years and hydro will be taken out of politics.

Cabinet representation will be given Northern Ontario and university established in that part of the province. Negotiations will be opened with the Federal government with a view to avoiding duplication of taxes, and the useless bickering that has been going on between Ontario and Ottawa will be done away with.

Will Give Sane Govt.

"The Liberal Party feels," Mr. Hughes concluded, "that we can give a sound sane government, something which is needed most at this time."

Mr. Ridley, the C.C.F. candidate, told the nomination meeting that in the party's first-term program was old age pensions, forestry conservation, welfare, security, housing, labor legislation. This was connected with a definite principal that of the government in power "be the workshop for the people to produce and provide everything they need."

Referring to housing, Mr. Ridley stated that under present day conditions, the average working man cannot afford to build a home. The C.C.F. in its first-year program will build 20,000 houses at a rental the working man can afford. It will provide cheaper loan interest and will assist municipalities by loan assistance. Housing research will be conducted.

"His party," Ridley said, "will take rental control under its wing. Commercial control has been lifted with the result that many rentals have been increased from 40-500 per cent forcing many small businesses to the wall.

Give Free Medicine

While he thought the present hospitalization plan was working all right it had its limitations, gives only certain hospital time with a number of exclusions. The C.C.F.'s plan will provide free medicine, dental, hospital and optical care to those drawing old age pensions, line pensions, mothers allowances, etc. "The Saskatchewan hospital plan," he said, "contained no time limits, provided $5 per person with a maximum of $30 and was good for 60 days hospitalization outside the province and in the U.S.A."

The Drew government claimed that 72,000 were drawing $40 old age pension. This was not true. Figures reveal that less than 3 per cent of the 72,000; less than 10 per cent receiving $10 or more and the remaining 65 receiving the pitiful sum of $30 monthly.

"The C.C.F." Mr. Ridley asserted," claims that a pension of $40 could be paid to all by using a small part of the 25 million surplus of the Drew Government. All that is required is one-eighth of this surplus to provide a mother with one child $60 monthly with $15 monthly for other children. With these increases, he said "we also promise the free services."

Give Hydro Benefits

He declared that one of the main reasons why young people are leaving the farms for the city is the lack of electrification in 160,000 rural homes. The C.C.F. plans to give people who have not got it, the benefits of hydro instead of the proposed changeover. It will also establish community centres along a large program to be financed by capital grants.

Farmers will set up their own marketing board and operate it themselves instead of large organizations having the control. Cost of automobile insurance will be greatly decreased such as Saskatchewan where it costs but $6 instead of $45 as in Ontario.

Referring to the liquor question the C.C.F. candidate stated that large cities wanted a vote on the question but this was denied. Under his government people will be given the chance to vote, higher standards for taverns will be demanded and education along moderation in drinking introduced.

Action, Not Promises Claim

"The other speakers have lots of promises, but I have action," Mr. Sandercock, Conservative candidate said in a brief address. "No other government in the history of Ontario has done so much for the province, and brought on such an era of prosperity. It has done a lot for everything, agriculture, health, welfare, education, hydro in fact everything has been taken care of. You don't have to go out of this riding to see what the Drew Government has done, hospitals at Bancroft and Trenton and a new high school in the north. The government has not allowed one department to lag in its efforts for the common good."

Declaring the amusement tax fair because it was earmarked for the health department and every cent of it will be devoted to this measure. "It is one of the fairest taxes we have," he said.

After serving the county for the past 19 years, he had found wonderful opportunities to find out and know the problems of Hastings West, Mr. Sandercock told the meeting. "It has been an education to me and if elected on June 7 it will stand me in good stead. I repeat that we all know the Drew Government has a splendid record and has done more for the people of Ontario since being in power than any other government."

In rebuttal Mr. Hughes (Liberal) said that "Drew made 22 promises several years ago—and how many did he keep? He never made any promises for the small man except put on a three-cent gasoline tax and the amusement tax. To the working man that is a lot of money, but Drew sees to it that the wealthy benefit. What we need in Ontario is another Mackenzie King and we'll see one on June 7th."

Did Not Criticize

Mr. Ridley did not criticize other parties' platforms or plans but rather added to the C.C.F. first-term "People First" program, a Bill of Rights, votes for liquor establishment in municipalities and the promise that Workmen's Compensation would be paid 100 per cent by the C.C.F. instead of the 75 per cent promised by the Liberals, with no waiting period. It will guarantee places that are organized.' two weeks vacation with pay and ensure collective bargaining in all places that are organized."

Mr. Sandercock amid smiles, said that "These fellows have said nothing, so I can't offer anything in rebuttal."

Asked for supporting speakers, Mr. Hughes said he had none. J. Fred Wilson, ex-M.L.A. spoke in support of Mr. Sandercock while Messrs. Douglas Bews and Arthur Cole spoke for the C.C.F. candidate.

At Madoc

The riding of Hastings East was assured of an election next Monday with three party standard bearers in the running as at Madoc Monday afternoon the candidates of the three parties, the Progressive Conservatives, the Liberals and the C. C. F. were officially nominated at the riding nomination meeting.

Contesting the election in Hastings East will be Roscoe Robson for the Progressive Conservatives; George Jordan of Marlbank for the Liberals, and Edward A. Schlievert, Belleville for the C. C. F. party.

Only a comparatively small crowd turned out for the nomination meeting in the Madoc Armouries which in the past has seen many a spirited election campaign. Barton Haggerty, riding returning officer, accepted nominations from one until two o'clock following which the three candidates were heard in brief addresses. The Hon. Dana Porter, Minister of Planning and Development, spoke in the interests of Roscoe Robson. Peter McLaren, Melrose, acted as chairman for the program of speaking following nominations.

Representative Speaks First

Speaking first as the current riding representative Mr. Robson pointed to the program of road building which had been seen in the riding since the Drew government came into power back in 1943.

"Prior to that time and during the Hepburn administration we in Hastings East had more or less felt neglected," said Mr. Robson. "But since 1943 there has been more pavement laid in the riding and more highway construction than in all previous years combined."

The speaker referred to the Madoc-Millbridge section of Highway 62 now under construction and to the miles of pavement completed on No. 37. The four miles south of Tweed on this highway would be graded this year with the contract to be let within the week. Also No. 62 east of Maynooth had been paved.

Carries Out Program

The Drew government was also carrying out its program of rural electrification with Hydro for the north part of the riding to become an actuality within one or two years.

Speaking in the interests of Mr. Robson, the Hon. Dana Porter outlined to the nomination meeting what had been accomplished by his department in setting up conservation authorities to deal with flood control.

He referred to the proposed Moira River survey and stated that already approximately 40 men were in the district to make a complete survey of the watershed. From their recommendations the department could then work out the authority plan with due consideration for flood control, reforestation and soil conservation.

The speaker criticized the C.C.F. Party for bringing personalities into the current election campaign and stated that Premier Drew had been made out as a strongwilled personality and that he was carrying the government on in a dictatorial fashion.

Democratic Govt.

"The truth of the matter is," he said, "that Ontario has never had a more democratic government than that headed by Premier Drew. Premier Drew always confers with his party members and never presents a bill to the Legislature unless he knows every member whose vote he expects is familiar with the bill."

"If you call that dictatorial, then consider the policy adopted by Mitchell Hepburn who very rarely conferred with his party members."

Premier Drew has the courage to confer with his cabinet members and has no "yes" men in the Legislature. Drew was giving true leadership to his province.

The two opposition parties were stated to be promising "just a little bit" more than has already been done by the Drew government. The C.C.F. goes one better in that in addition to promising more it promises also to cut taxes.

Defends Action

The speaker defended the action of the Drew government in not reducing the gasoline tax. It had done this for one good reason. That reason was that it was desired that the parties who used Ontario roads would pay for them. The present 11 cents per gallon gas tax worked out at something like one-half cent per mile and the four million cars of American tourists would help pay.

The Drew government had used this tax to compensate the municipalities and have avoided the income tax field, a tax which they feel is already too high.

Promises of the two opposition parties were that they would "spend twice as much and tax only half as much" concluded the speaker. "They don't tell us where they are going to get the money."

As candidate for the C.C.F. party Mr. Schlievert denied that his party was indulging in personalities, stating that they were more thoughtful of what those in power were doing for "the other fellow."

Would Adopt Hospital Plan

Mr. Schlievert launched directly into his party's platform stating that the C.C.F. would adopt a provincial hospitalization plan which would pay all hospital bills for a premium of only $5 each. An automobile insurance program along the same lines as that adopted in Saskatchewan would, for from $4.50 to $5 give the same protection for which Ontario insurance companies are charging $45 per year.

If the C.C.F. were elected they would immediately adopt a housing program designed to give the veteran low housing at rents which they could afford. "We are convinced that housing can be provided at less cost and with less profits for the contractor than is being accomplished at present," he said.

Adequate Pensions Advocated

An adequate pension would be provided. Old age pensioners could not possibly hope to pay their way under the present high cost of living on what pension they were receiving.

Contradicting reports that the C.C.F. were ready to take the land away from the farmer Mr. Schlievert pointed to the party program in Saskatchewan which assured farmers against eviction from their farms when payment of interest charges were not made through no fault of their own. Under this program interest and principal payments were delayed.

Mr. Schlievert considered that co-operatives were a good way of doing business and stated when the C.C.F. came into power there would be no opposition to their formation. In fact they would be assisted by way of long term loans and by technical advice. The party would also pass farm marketing legislation giving the farmer greater control over his produce.

Established Community Centres

Rapid rural electrification of Ontario's 160,000 farms now without hydro was seen as a way to make farm life more interesting for the young people. Community centres in rural areas would be established. He also felt there was great need for rural hospitals.

Mr. Schlievert concluded by assuring that the C.C.F. was definitely against communism. "If we have a common sense government, then we can easily defeat communism," he said.

Liberal standard-bearer Mr. George Jordan assured his listeners that he was a follower of Farquhar Oliver, the great Liberal leader, "who for 22 years had represented his own riding." There cannot be anything wrong about a man who can represent his own riding for 22 years," stated Mr. Jordan.

Still Benefiting Claim

The speaker referred to the last Liberal government in Ontario and stated that East Hastings was still benifiting from policies set up at that time.

Mr. Jordan referred to his own municipal activity and recounted his life as a cheese maker, as a farmer and as the father of seven children, two of whom served in the last war.

"I have full confidence in the electors of this riding to mark their ballot in the manner in which they think best and I leave it in your hands," he concluded. "If elected I will work for the benefit of the people in East Hastings regardless of their creed or color."

Roscoe Robson in brief reply told how the Drew government had made it possible for the formation of commodity groups where collective opinions of the farmers' problems were gained. Benefit of such commodity groups was seen in the recent action of the Cheese Producers' Association which recently announced they were prepared to pay at least 32 cents for cheese on Ontario boards. This was done to assure the farmer of a fairer share of the 60 cent price of domestic cheese next fall.

Money For Housing

The housing shortage in the cities was the result of high wages being paid in the urban centres—wages which the farmer could not hope to meet. The Drew government had made 30 million available to assist veterans in purchasing their own homes.

The danger of the communist party supporting C.C.F. candidates in the forthcoming election was stressed by the speaker who stated the communists had failed in their objective through labor strikes and now were seeking to infiltrate through the C.C.F. party. "The C.C.F. does not want communist support but we have no guarantee the communists will not dominate the C.C.F. party."

"The C.C.F. are expecting their support in East Hastings from labor, but what government has done more for labor than has the Drew administration?" asked Mr. Robson in conclusion. "They have given labor collective bargaining and the right to an organized vote. If 51 per cent of the employees of a plant favor a union then that union will receive certification."

Seven Cheque Writing Machines Found In Burlap Bag

Kitchener, June 1 — (CP) — Seven cheque writing machines in good working order were found Monday in a burlap bag in Breithaupts bush near here. Provincial police have no record of any theft of such machines. They are checking provincial police headquarters for any record of such loss on file.

The find was made by Roy Utley and some friends. The bag had been hastily thrown into a clump of bushes.

Police believe that the machines may have been used by a gang forging cheques.

Council Gives $125,000 By-Law For Hospital Third Reading After Municipal Bd. Approves

Approval of the Ontario Municipal Board to a by-law calling for the issuing of debentures for the borrowing of $125,000 as a temporary loan to the Belleville General Hospital has been received by city council with the by-law Monday evening receiving its third and final reading.

The City of Belleville today officially takes over the hospital from the Women's Christian Association and the money will be made available to provide new equipment and for other temporary expenses.

The evening's council session was one of the briefest of the current year with little business of any great importance being conducted.

Ex-Mayor Harry Rollins, as member of the Parks Board, appeared before council asking that council set up a committee to act with the Parks Board and the Industrial Commission to meet with officials of the Stewart Warner-Alemite with regard to Pine Street playground used by the above company's employees. Mr. Rollins stated that it was the intention to use the playground as a site for plant expansion. He recommended the meeting to see if anything could be done to preserve the playground in that area.

Meters Operate Wednesday

In reply to a request from council, City Solicitor R. A. Pringle informed council members that the local parking meter by - law called for the meters to be in operation on Wednesday afternoons. To an inquiry regarding the closing of Front Street gangways the solicitor informed council that there was nothing to prevent the owner of a private gangway from closing the space. In connection with the latter a special committee of Aldermen Hyde and Armstrong was named to have authority to confer with the city solicitor in regard to taking action necessary to have the fence removed from the Riverside Drive route at the rear of the J. B. Boyce and Sons garage.

Alderman Allin pointed out that with driveways on the west side of Front Street being closed up it would eventually be necessary for the city to purchase some property in order to provide an exit to the parking area along the river bank.

A recommendation that the garbage getter truck be transformed into a dump truck was amended with a request that Musson's Ltd. be asked to send a representative to the city to report on the truck. Alderman Hyde stated the truck was continually out of repair.

Opposition Expressed

Opposition to the garbage getter being transformed into a dump truck was seen from Alderman Armstrong who stated the reason for the frequent repairs was the fact the machine was being overloaded. This thought was also echoed by Aldermen Allin and Tice, the former stating it would be a move in the wrong direction to dispense with the garbage getter. Alderman Tice stated this type of machine was used exclusively for garbage collection in Toronto and the machine here was too small for the amount of work it had to do.

A committee of Aldermen Armstrong, Clarke and Lazenby was named with power to act with regard to the securing of property to be used as a park site in the Parkwood Heights area.

A committee of Aldermen Lloyd, Wilbur and Vanner was appointed to investigate the request of William Argue regarding the purchase of three city lots on the west side of Charles Street between the property owned by Elizabeth Argue and the C.N.R. spur line. Alderman Clarke presented a recommendation calling for the sale of the three lots to Mr. Argue but Alderman Lloyd felt the property may some day be utilized as an industrial site.

Under inquiries Alderman Allin asked as to the comparative cost of patching pavement by hand methods and by machine. He said patching by hand resulted in an extremely rough street.

Actually Costs Less

In reply Alderman Hyde stated patching streets by machine actually cost less but unless there was considerable area to be resurfaced contractors were not interested.

Alderman Brown wanted to know if any action had been taken with respect to the request of Foster Ward residents for additional work by the public works department in cleaning up streets and providing other services. He was told the matter had been looked into.

The matter of low rental housing was brought up by Alderman Duffy who asked what progress was being made with respect to construction of Wartime Housing north of the Docter sub-division. Alderman Armstrong stated two different plans were being considered by Central Mortgage and Housing and that the plan was expected to be ready for council approval some time this week.

Alderman Lattimer inquired regarding the probable start of zone painting. He was told this would commence this week. Alderman Hyde informed council that tenants at the city hall would be moved today. The tenants will move into the new city barns. The tenants will be charged rental.

Chairmen Warned

Alderman Clarke warned committee chairmen regarding overspending their various budgets and read a list containing figures regarding the amount spent in each department.

At the request of Alderman Armstrong a special committee was named to meet with the public utilities commission regarding the method of installation of water services in the Docter subdivision. He argues that if the water service was laid under local improvements residents would be discriminated against as they would be called upon to pay the costs of the service and also the regular water rate.

A grant of $100 was voted to the local Salvation Army to help defray expenses of the Salvation Army Band which will visit the city in June.

Labor Bodies Protesting P.E.I. Labor Union Act

Ottawa, June 1 — (CP) — A joint delegation representing the Canadian Congress of Labor and the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada will petition Justice Minister Ilsley tomorrow for disallowance of Prince Edward Island's Trade Union Act, it was learned today.

The unusual joint action by the two major labor bodies in Canada is in protest against the restrictive labor legislation passed by the P. E. I. Legislature last March 15.

Under the legislation, unions on the island may not be a part of a national international union.

A. R. Mosher, president of the C. C. L. and Percy Bengough, T. L. C. president, will head the delegation, scheduled to meet Mr. Ilsley at 4 p. m. EDT tomorrow.

Carrier Steaming For Rendezvous With Destroyer

Halifax, June 1 (CP)—Canada's newest naval craft—H.M.C.S. Magnificent—steamed leisurely along the Nova Scotia coast through fog and drizzle this morning to a rendezvous with the veteran destroyer Haida.

The Haida—carrying news and radio reporters and camera men—will escort the 18,000-ton aircraft carrier into her future operational base here. The Haida left Halifax before dawn today.

The Magnificent is due to arrive in Halifax this afternoon to one of the greatest welcomes ever accorded a warship.

An early-morning fog and drizzle combined to spoil the first scheduled welcome ceremonies — a flight of navy aircraft from the eastern passage airport which were to salute the carrier from the air. Take-offs were cancelled.

Waiting in the gaily decorated city hall are gifts which Mayor J. E. (Gee) Ahern will present later to the Magnificent, to her commanding officer, and to her executive officer.

The grey-hulled Magnificent — a light fleet carrier—is of the same "colossus" clas as the warrior which she succeeds.

Her first cruise will take her into the Canadian Arctic with her brood of escort destroyers.

The Warrior was turned back to the Royal Navy several months ago.

Burden Easing in Britain

It is pleasant news to hear that the burden which the British people bear is beginning to ease a bit day by day.

What Britons have borne on their shoulders and in their hearts for the world is well enough known. In the First World War they had no small share in bringing the victory that gave if not the lasting peace so much desired, at least a respite for a few years which prepared the world for the onslaught of Hitler against the world. In 1940 particularly Britain bore the brunt of the Second World War as she faced alone the attempt of Germany to crush Europe. What she went through in that time and the later years played no small part in gaining for humanity the time to gain the victory over tyrannous Germany has been a burden which she is still feeling at home and in the factories of Britain. It has placed burdens on this freest of peoples for the sake of the good of others. That burden is still being borne by Britons but it is easing, according to word yesterday from London.

If any people deserve to have the things they need it is the people of the British Isles. One of the brighter lights in the outlook is that more and better things may now be bought by the British housewives. The Briton has known the ration far longer than Canadians and now too there is a little more money in the weekly envelope and more and better things may be bought. More eggs, more cheese, seasonal increases in milk are some of the improvements.

For these they are duly grateful.

And the world of their Allies in the Second Great War will hope that these improvements will continue to expand.

Days in June

What is so rare as a day in June?
Then, if ever, come perfect days;
Then Heaven tries earth if it be in tune,
And over it softly his warm ear lays.

That month of June which is believed to sum up the essence of the appeal of the outer world has come, the climax of springtime, for three weeks from now will arrive the season of summer in all its fulness. June marks the height of springtime with its mildness, its scents and colors and just towards its close it marks the change over to the peak of the year with its sense of full maturity of everything in nature.

June brings total release to the boy and girl from the studies of an entire year. The young in the days ahead live largely outdoors and thrive amazingly on the fresh air and the early products of the field.

As the poet Lowell says this is the time when "if ever, come perfect days." Without the cold of winter, the variableness of early spring or the intense heat of the depth of summer, June seems perfection.

It is the month when the sun's power is felt most benign, when the radiance of light causes the gentle processes of nature to carry on as no other month can speed them. June is even tempered, gentle and mild. It brings the firstlings of the harvest of the year, the first fruits of growth, the tender vegetables of spring.

Out of the Colleges

Out of the universities are pouring now young men and women who have completed their studies introducing them to the callings they are to follow in the years ahead. Many thousands are at this time leaving the halls of learning where they have spent the years which have been of inestimable value in preparing them to take their place in life in which they can make their contribution to the world.

They are entering upon a world at a time of great perplexity and of many problems which are crying for a solution. The training of the years just past will however prove of value in the times ahead, both the days afar off and of the times just ahead.

To the courage and optimism of youth stepping out into the world by themselves with their dauntless will to achieve and serve their desire to make their training serve the people and the country, is owing an immense debt. These young people offer themselves for they are inspired by ideals and by their studies to carry on their progress which has been due to the effort and sacrifices of others and to make their place by contributing something worthwhile to those about them. The ideals of youth are bright, and these will carry the young far on the way of success. What they will be able to do in service to the state may be largely unknown as yet because they have yet to prove themselves in the battle of life. But high ideals have inspired those young people to carry the light of progress on and on.

They have come to a time when the whole world seems expanding. There is a sense of growth and progress surrounding them. Possibilities of the greatest moment seem in the offing for them. They have been trained by hard study and will not be found wanting when it comes to bearing their share of responsibility in improving conditions about them.

For the individuals there are opportunities in a very great number of occupations, the number of which grows year by year.

To these young people who serve this day and generation their elders owe the encouragement they can give for who knows what blessings to humanity there may lie in these young persons who are stepping out into the world. Canada has done well by them giving them a good education and training and they will do well by Canada. From them cannot fail to come results which will be of untold blessings to this nation in the years ahead.

National Parks

To its credit, Canada early appreciated the advisability of setting aside tracts, both large and small, in different parts of the country which might be preserved in perpetuity for the benefit of its people and of others who might come here as visitors.

Every government that has held office since this policy was first laid down has adhered to it and has done its best, within the limits of its financial resources, to add to the chain of national parks.

It is the intention of the government at this time to add to these facilities and to build more roads into the different parks which are in existence. This is a wise decision. The national parks are now a great lure from the standpoint of tourist business. Not only are they visited by large numbers of Canadians but people from other lands, notably the United States, find them a decided attraction. Moreover, the greater part of the tourist business today moves by means of motor vehicle. New and better roads leading to the national parks will increase tourist visitors just when the funds they represent are badly needed.

Canada made no mistake in starting her chain of national parks when she did. A good many other countries have since followed her example. Nor is she making a mistake in steadily increasing their number. — Brockville Recorder Times.

Russia and Reich

If the Marshall Plan succeeds, and the condition of the western Germans improves along with the conditions of their neighbors, Russia will have lost the struggle for the support of the German people as a whole. At the point where the eastern Germans realize that western freedom can provide more than eastern tyranny, Russia can maintain its present occupation only at a price, military and economic, which will not be worth paying. At that point, and not before, Russia may be expected to agree to a general German settlement which could be a world peace settlement. — Winnipeg Free Press.

New A-Pile Nearly Ready

Britain's new atomic pile at Harwell is expected this summer to start producing radio-active isotopes — artificial radio activity produced in about 15 hours compared with 2,000 years for radium. The Ministry of Supply estimates that the increased production will meet the demands of all research workers in Britain. Atomic research scientists in Britain have hitherto been producing isotopes from Gleep ((Graphite Low Energy Experimental Pile).

The Packsack of Gregory Clark

A dapper little man in a gray pin stripe suit and gray fedora was standing at a downtown bus stop waiting for the bus when he noticed, on the pavement by the kerb, a small glittering trinket, red and white, peering out of the dust.

He was just about to bend down and pick it up when he realized, with a self-conscious start, that there were cigarette butts also on the pavement. Glancing about, he observed all his fellow-citizens hurrying by. They would think, perhaps, that he was a snipe-shooter: one of those unfortunates who hover about picking up butts. He blushed, and eyed the small trinket furtively. A young lad came up and joined him at the bus stop. He too saw the trinket; and picked it up.

The dapper little man remarked at once that the trinket was valuable and he took the boy's name and address and offered to help him advertise his find.

The trinket proved to be rubies and diamonds, part of a lavalliere lost from a lady's jewels at a down-town party the night before. The boy got a reward of $100.

The dapper little man, who told me this story, was penniless. Worse than penniless. His pin stripe suit, his clean gray fedora, were literally all he owned in the world. The $100 would have been riches to him. He could have paid his room rent for ten weeks with it.

He had reached the stage where appearances were everything to him. If he had owned $100, he would not have thought twice about stooping in public to pick up a trinket worth $1500. But because he was penniless, he dare not appear to be picking up a cigarette butt. When I slipped him a few dollars for his rent, we agreed:

"Only the rich and the bums can scorn appearances."

All Available Aircraft Sent To West Canada

Montreal, June 1 (CP)—Every available four-engined North Star aircraft of Trans-Canada Air Lines that can be spared has been routed to Western Canada to provide emergency links between Vancouver and Alberta, Anson C. McKim, Vice-President of Traffic, announced here Monday night.

Use of the 40-passenger planes will not interfere with regular schedules and meantime the air routes are providing the only form of transportation between the distressed west coast province and other parts of the country.

Twelve extra sections are now being operated in both directions by TCA between Vancouver and the rail centres at Edmonton and Calgary to meet the crisis.

Justice Lazure Postpones Hearing Until September

Montreal, June 1 (CP)— When Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure discovered Monday that a principal witness in a case before him was a man he has known for 12 years he postponed the hearing until September when another Judge will preside.

The case, in King's Bench Court, was that of William J. Lawrence, formerly of Montreal and now of Belleville, charged with fraudulent re-sale of a property.

The hearing had almost been completed when the defence called Lawrence's brother, a court stenographer.

His Lordship intervened to say he had known the stenographer through his courtroom duties for 12 years and felt therefore he would not be "observing my oath of offiice if I were to continue to sit at this trial."

The crown alleges that Lawrence sold a property on William Street in August, 1946, and to have re-sold the same property later to his brother.

R. W. Barclay testified he signed an agreement to Aug. 23, 1946, to buy the property and paid Lawrence's agent, The Guardian Trust Co., $500. There was an additional $6,000 to be paid within 10 days of the sale, Barclay said.

Later he noticed several improvements were being made to the property. Thinking this strange, he investigated and found the property had been sold to Lawrence's brother.

Lawrence testified he was going out of town and transferred the property to his brother so the brother could complete sale arrangements with Barclay. Lawrence denied any fraudulent intentions.

Fire Destroys Stockyard Pen, Livestock Saved

South St. Paul, Minn., June 1 (AP)— The tinder dry wooden pens of the South St. Paul stockyards Monday were attacked by fire which spread over a two-block area in less than 30 minutes.

Yards employees turned their first efforts toward saving an estimated 2,000 head of livestock Many of the animals were turned lose and fled to swamps near the yards.

Firemen lamented the lack of wind, saying the flames spread in all directions whereas a wind would have driven them in one An unusually dry spring contributed to the hazard. The straw-strewn pens and sheds burned fiercely. Smoke could be seen for 10 miles.

EXPENDITURE ENDORSED

Toronto, June 1 (CP)—A maximum of $300,000 expenditure on permanent low-rental housing which Mayor H. E. McCallum promised would wipe out any further city commitments toward emergency housing was endorsed unanimously by city council Monday night.

The city's plan is to assist municipalities surrounding Toronto to build 1,000 additional low-rental houses under Federal and Provincial patronage. The city will take over suburban initial housing obligations.

A BLESSING ON THE DIABETIC

Here's a book which a good many readers have found of great practical value, they tell me, and I have therefore recommended it here when asked for gentral advice on the subject the book deals with—diabetes:

A Book for Us Diabetics, by Don H. Duffie, M.D., published by the author, Central Lake, Michigan, ($2.25 postpaid).

According to Joslin's famous textbook Treatment of Diabetes Mellitus (Root, White & Marble are co-authors of recent editions), published by Lea & Febiger, Phila., $7.50—(the book is a technical one, not suitable for the lay reader) — the disease, diabetes, is not directly inherited, but the tendency or potentiality to develop diabetes is transmitted by inheritance. Usually the child inherits the potentiality from a grandparent. The chapter on Heredity in Diabetes in the Joslin is by one of the co-authors, Priscilla White, M.D.—another woman who has reached the top of her profession, girls—scientifically shows that about 25 per cent of the entire population of the United States are now carriers of the potentiality or tendency and may pass it on to their children or through their children to their grandchildren.

Readers sometimes ask me how to make a chemical test of the urine for sugar and I never try to tell 'em how, because I'm afraid a little knowledge might do them more harm than good. A Book for Us Diabetics not only gives simple instructions for the Benedict test, which is preferable to the (Fehling test) but shows, by photograph and precise recipes how to economize even on the test. Dr. Duffie, with wide experience as a country doctor, knows how much such economies means to the welfare of the diabetic patient.

I discovered Dr. Duffie, I am proud to say. I came across a contribution of his in a medical journal and it struck me that there was a man who had the Oslerian touch or spirit so I wrote and urged him to put his sound teachings into a form suitable for the layman—and eventually Dr. Duffie got out the first edition of A Book for Us Diabetics: The book is probably in its sixth of eighth edition now, but it is still available at $2.25 and, in my opinion, the finest guide book any one can put in the hands of a diabetes patient.

Characteristic of the homely simplicity of the author's teachings is his definition of diabetes:

> A diabetic is one who is starving for sugar while his blood is full of it . . . Much of our food, in the stomach, is digested into sugar, and as sugar it is picked up by the bloodstream for delivery to wherever needed in the body. The difference is that the healthy body can pick this sugar out of the blood again, as needed, whereas the diabetic body cannot. So the sugar piles up in the diabetic's blood, because for some reason his tissues cannot make use of the sugar after he gets it. It might be said that his sugar rides round and round on the delivery wagon instead of being delivered.

That, I think, is an explanation of diabetes which is hard for any one to forget.

In this valuable little handbook Dr. Duffie simplifies a problem which every diabetic should be prepared to face—acidosis. Acidosis, he points out, seldom afflicts any one who is sugar-free. Acidosis is what "runs into" coma, and diabetic coma, before the days of insulin, usually ended in death. Then Dr. Duffie lists the Symptoms of Acidosis.

1. Pain in the pit of the stomach
2. A peculiar deep breathing of the air-hunger type
3. Rosy complexion — even the veins may look ruddy instead of blue
4. Sudden loss of appetite
5. Mental confusion, with increasing drowsiness.

When a diabetes develops these symptoms the doctor should be summoned immediately.

Air Transport Opens Up Markets Rotarians Told

"The modesty and self-effacing character which is invariably associated with Canadians is really an inferiority complex," stated Mr. Murray Stainton, Canadian sales manager for American Airlines, in an address to the Rotary Club at the regular weekly luncheon meeting held in the Hotel Quinte. "This feeling is unjustified and unnecessary," continued the speaker, "because the services and products of Canadian industry are comparable to anything in the world."

Mr. Stainton, who returned recently from a twelve day air tour of the British Isles and Holland came directly from the International Trade Fair in Toronto to address the Rotarians on the subject "World Trade and Aviation."

First Trade Fair

"The International Trade Fair now in progress at Toronto is very significant," stated the speaker, "because it marks the first time that such a fair has been held on his side of the Atlantic. It has exceeded all expectations and plans are being made already to hold a similar fair in the United States next year. Exhibitors from 30 foreign countries showing 1,500 different products are at fair with buyers from 60 countries. Sixty per cent of the products exhibited are made in Canada with the emphasis on building up the export trade."

"International trade is of vital concern to the Canadian people," stated Mr. Stainton. "Our standard of living in this country depends upon the export-import trade. Five million Canadians are employed directly or indirectly in producing for export or processing imports. The solution to present economic difficulties lies in increased production and sale of products in areas where the American dollar is the medium of exchange." "New markets are needed," stressed the speaker. "Canada can no longer continue to export to the sterling areas because it is American dollars that are needed."

32 Trade Commissioners

"Canada has thirty-two trade commissioners abroad, serving the interests of the nation," Mr. Stainton declared. "They analyze the needs of the foreign market and report on the products manufactured in the lands in which they serve."

"Canadians are too self effacing" charged the speaker. "We in this country have the highest quality products and though they are well known they are not as well known as they should be. The abilities of Canadians in International Trade have been proven. It is generally conceded that the Canadian delegation to the In-Canadian delegation to Inter. Aviation Conference in Chicago in 1945 was responsible for the success of that meeting."

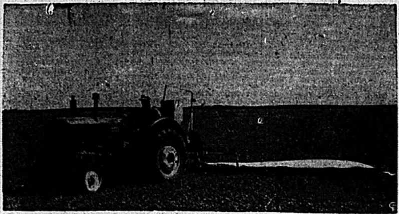
New Markets Opened

"The success of many business ventures is dependent upon the transportation facilities available," Mr. Stainton continued. "Air Transport has opened up new markets hundreds of miles from the point of manufacture. Today San Francisco and New Orleans are one day by air from Toronto. Mexico is two and one half days away. Such prompt delivery of almost all types of merchandise makes it possible for dealers to operate with a small stock requiring little capital investment for replacements. This smaller investment permits dealers to handle a greater variety of merchandise than was possible formerly."

"Canadians should consider this new medium of transport because it opens rich U.S. markets to Canadian manufacturers which were formerly beyond their reach markets not only in the United States proper, but in those overseas areas where the United States dollar is the medium of exchange."

The speaker was introduced by Freeman Burrows and thanked by Arthur Francis.

Mr. J. Deacon led the sing-song with Leo Riggs playing the accompaniment. President Alec Nathan presiding at the meeting translated a Christmas card from the Rotary Club in Acapulco, Mexico, which arrived at the Belleville branch last week.



FARMERS ON PRAIRIES USE WONDER DRUG TO KILL WEEDS

The prairie farmer whose 'dusting rig" is shown in this photo grew the cleanest flax crop in his life-time by using the wonder chemical 2,4-D, to kill off weeds in the growing crop. This year, he may try out the new "chemical summerfallow" which it is hoped will eliminate the need for numerous cultivating operations, largely responsible for serious water erosion in some prairie areas.

As the discussion turned in other directions, John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) said the Veterans' Department was discriminating against certain areas in settling veterans on farms. Some veterans in his own constituency, for instance, had been denied settlement on farms near the lands of their parents.

Norman Jaques (SC-Wetaskiwin) warned that the conflict in Palestine might spread beyond the boundaries of the Holy Land because of the type of propaganda now being used. Diverging views on the situation were creating hostility among nations which otherwise might be together.

When the Chamber moved into the agricultural estimates, Agriculture Minister Gardiner disclosed that a recently-established irrigation board will carry out work somewhat similar to that of the United States Bureau of Reclamation.

Water Divided

The Board will recommend what division should be made of the waters of the South Saskatchewan river in a proposed Prairie province irrigation scheme. The water will be divided among Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

In discussion leading to adoption of the Marshlands Legislation ,Mr. Gardiner said that projects aimed at improving the economy of the Maritimics likely will be tackled one by one.

He said the lands which would be recovered by the current project were valued at from $30 to $80 an acre. It was hoped, by providing dikes to keep out the tides which now washed over them twice daily ,to return them to their former value of $80 to $200 an acre.

The legislation met general approval from opposition members.

PAY TRIBUTE TO AMPS

Niagara Falls, June 1 (CP) — Several hundred American visitors Sunday paid tribute to 75 Canadian world war veterans—amputation cases from Toronto. They delayed their sight-seeing schedule to give the amputees priority on the Spanish aero car across the whirlpool.

Mississagi Fire Out of Control And Spreading

Blind River, June 1 (CP)—The Mississagi forest fire, raging uncontrolled some 50 miles north of this Northern Ontario lumber town, covered more than 35,000 acres of timber late Monday night and brought Deputy Lands Minister Frank MacDougall to the scene.

Mr. MacDougall announced that all available men and equipment will be rushed from district points to help combat the blaze.

He said the fire was one of the worst he had ever seen and confirmed the belief that a trapper's carelessness was responsible for the fire which is still spreading rapidly.

"The size of the fire is tremendous," he said. "All resources of the department will be thrown into the fight in an attempt to keep it from spreading anymore."

The wind shifted from the southwest to northwest and reached a velocity of 50 miles an hour, creating a dangerous condition for hundreds of firefighters.

The situation became so desperate that firefighting crews were forced to follow Sunday's plan of deliberately burning timber to try to save lumber camps.

With strong westerly winds fanning the flames, the fire spread in all sections. Camps of the McFadden Lumber Company lay directly in line with the path of the fire.

Reinforcements came from as far away as North Bay upon instructions of Regional Forester E. L. Ward. District Forester Arthur W. Leman of Sault Ste. Marie said more men will be flown to the blaze, along with more equipment.

A report from Blind River said two fire fighters have been missing since Sunday. R. Ovileon and an Indian named Wabonnett have been unaccounted for and efforts are being made to locate them.

HAD BEEN DEAD FOR ALMOST WEEK

Escott, June 1 (CP) — Believed to have been dead for almost a week, William Peck, about 75, was found by neighbors in bed at his home in this Leeds county village, where he lived alone.

Neighbors became suspicious by an untended garden and an odor. They obtained a ladder and hoisted it to the upper window of the locked house Sunday night and Peck was buried before midnight.

PREMIER CALLS

At Kamloops in the Okanagan Valley the rising Thompson River forced the first large scale evacuation in flats west of the city.

Five hundred volunteers with bull dozers worked continually for 72 hours under flood lights to save North Kamloops village.

While many farmers were being forced to shoot their cattle, possible food shortages loomed with all rail lines cut from Eastern Canada.

There will be a bread shortage by tomorrow if the embargo on the importation of yeast from the United States is not suspended temporarily.

Kamloops, isolated from Vancouver, has been ordered by its city council to ration butter, milk, canned meats, sugar and gasoline.

PaperMillWorkers Flown into Bush To Combat Fires

Maniwaki, Que., June 1 (CP)—About 40 paper mill workers in this town, 85 miles north of Ottawa, were flown into the bushland Monday to combat four forest fires raging in the district. However, Maniwaki itself is in no immediate danger.

Largest of the fires is at Tudhope Lake, 47 miles northwest of here, where flames already have raced through 30 acres of bushland. Other fires are reported at Lake Baskatoshin, 40 miles north of Maniwaki; Lake Petawagama, 25 miles northwest and Lake Cayamont, 30 miles southwest of here.

Two of the fires are believed to have started from lightning; the other two from campfires or careless fishermen.

Strongest Party In West Germany Loses Heavily

Munich, Germany, June 1 (AP) — Western Germany's strongest political party lost almost half its strength in Bavarian cities today.

The party, the Conservative Christian Social Union, lost ground to the communist and right wing parties, final municipal election returns from the United States - occupied state show.

Nearly 1,200,000 persons voted in 41 Bavarian cities Sunday. In some areas, particularly the city of Nuernberg, the communists showed an unexpected increase in strength.

The C. S. U., strongly backed by Catholic and Conservative elements, got 35.1 per cent of the total vote in 1946 elections in Bavarian cities. Sunday it dropped to 18.5 per cent.

The votes the party lost were picked up by the communists, who jumped from 9.3 per cent in 1946 to 10, and by small right wing parties.

Non-Red Effort At Understanding With Russians

London, June 1 (CP) — Four young "world government crusaders" plan to take a loudspeaker truck through 1,500 miles of Russia this summer to spread their idea of a "single world government by 1950."

In a 20-horsepower truck, Ewan Cameron, 18, Liberal, Derek Graham-Hodgson, 29, labor; and two Conservatives, Ken James, 27, and James Robertson, 25, will travel from Leningrad to Stalingrad in a "non-communist effort to reach an understanding with the Soviet people."

Biggest Civil Service Union Shakes Off Reds

By ROBERT LLOYD

London, June 1 (Reuters)—Britain's biggest civil service union, the Civil Service Clerical Association which caters for the lower or "clerical" grades of the administrative machine, has shaken itself free from communist control at its annual conference just concluded at Prestatyn in Wales.

After a bitter three-cornered fight between communists and pro-communists, loyal labor supporters and "no-party" civil servants proposing any line between trade union work and socialist politics, a new executive was elected which will have an anti-communist majority of at least 15 to 12.

Eleven defeated pro-communist candidates included the former president of the union, while among those elected with pro-communist votes was Miss Ann George, recently suspended from her post as private secretary to the minister of education, George Tomlinson, under the government's security purge.

WEDDINGS

MARVIN—SMITH

Picton Baptist Church was decorated with baskets of lilacs, tulips and other flowers for a lovely wedding at three o'clock on Saturday, May 22, when Rev. Peter B. Reid, B.A., united in marriage Eleanor Jane Smith, Reg.N., daughter of Mr. Fred W. Smith and the late Mrs. Smith, Picton and Frank Wellington Marvin, son of Mrs. Marvin, and the late Mr .C. H. Marvin, Belleville. Mrs. Harold Ostrander, Picton, played the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Gordon V. Smith, Kingston, the bride was lovely in white brocaded satin made on princess lines with sweetheart neckline, lily point sleeves and short train. She wore a fingertip embroidered net veil held by a coronet of orange blossoms, and carried Premier roses.

She was attended by her cousin, Mrs. Melvin Tayler, Wellington, who wore turquoise marquisette over taffeta made on lines similar to the bride's dress with matching headdress and gauntlets. She carried Talisman roses.

The groom's brother, Mr. John Marvin, Belleville, was groomsman. Ushers were Mr. John Irvin, Belleville, and Mr. Lavergne Minaker, Picton.

A reception was held at Maple Inn, Bloomfield, where roses, snapdragons and pink candles decorated the table. The assistants were Mrs. M. Finnegan, Mrs. George Lovell, Miss Ruth Jones and Miss Anne Cryan, all graduate nurses who have been associated with the bride.

Guests were present from Belleville, Toronto, Kingston and Fort William.

For travelling the bride donned a hyacinth blue gabardine dressmaker suit with black accessories, corsage of roses. After a honeymoon in Western Ontario they will reside in Picton.

PIGEON—LEE

Spring flowers augmented the beauty of the Church of St. Michael The Archangel for the marriage at nine-thirty on the morning of May 29th., of Patricia Mary Lee, daughter of Mrs. Lee, 233 John Street, and the late Patrick James Lee, and Joseph Arthur Pigeon, of Stratford, Ont., son of Mrs. Pigeon and the late Arthur Joseph Pigeon, with the Right Rev. Monsignor J. F. Nicholson V.G.A.P., officiating, and Sister Bibianna presiding at the organ. The soloists were the Misses Forhan and Lucy, members of the Children's Choir.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Frank Lee, the bride was charmingly gowned in white faconne fashioned on princess lines, with a softly draped skirt, the bodice featuring long fitted sleeves, pointed over the wrists. She wore a large white straw picture hat, and carried a cascade of American Beauty roses and lily-of-the-valley. Her only ornament was a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom.

The bride's attendants were her sisters, Miss Helen Lee, of 233 John Street, as maid of honor and Mrs. Stewart Laturney (Margaret), of Toronto, as bridesmaid, their similarly fashioned gowns being of azure blue and smokey pink faconne, with which they wore matching picture hats, and carried cascade bouquets of Spring flowers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Quinte Golf Club, where Mrs. Lee received, wearing a flowered gown of dusty pink mesh, with large black hat, and accessories. She was assisted by the groom's mother wearing a gown of turquoise blue crepe, with a large black hat and accessories.

For travelling to Gaspe, the Eastern Coast and American cities, the bride donned a suit of white gabardine with navy accessories. Following their return Mr. and Mrs. Pigeon will be "at home" in Stratford, Ont., after July 1st.

RICHARDS — BUSH

Wooler.—In the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Bush, Stirling, an arch of evergreens, was the background for the wedding at high noon, May 29th., of Keitha Bernice Bush, and Carman Wesley Richards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Richards, of Wooler, Ont., with Rev. Ralph W. Barker as the officiating clergyman. Streamers of pink and white, Spring flowers and lighted candles completed the decorations. Wedding music was provided by Miss Grace Pitman, A.T.C.L. of Stirling, and the soloist was Miss Doris Sills, of Trenton, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony, "Because" during the signing of the register, and "Through the Years" at the reception which followed.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore the traditional white satin, embroidered with seed pearls, an embroidered floor length veil falling from a matching embroidered coronet, and a pearl necklace, the gift of the groom. Her shower bouquet was of red roses.

The maid of honor, Miss Phyllis Beatty, of Halloway, Ontario, wore a gown of blue taffeta, fashioned with bustle effect, and a matching floral headdress from which fell a fingertip veil. She carried an arm bouquet of cream roses. The bridesmaid was Mrs. Harold Morgan, of Hilton, Ont., gowned in pink taffeta, fashioned similarly to that of the maid of honor, with matching floral headdress and veil. She carried an arm bouquet of deep pink roses.

Mr. Lorne Richards was his brother's groomsman.

Following the ceremony sixty guests were received by Mrs. Bush, wearing a gown of grey crepe, with black accessories and a corsage of red carnations. She was assisted by the mother of the groom, in a gown of grey and green figured silk, with lime green accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

For travelling to Ottawa, Quebec Province and Eastern cities, the bride chose a suit of grey with fuchsia colored topcoat and black accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Richards will take up residence on the groom's farm, Wooler, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Richards were the recipients of congratulatory telegrams from Nottingham, England, and from Darlington, England, where the groom made many friends while serving with the R.C.A.F. overseas.

V.O.N. NEWS

"I've good news for you," the doctor told his patient. "You may leave the hospital for home to-morrow. What do you think of that?"

"It's good news, certainly," exclaimed the patient, "but I thought you felt I couldn't manage these bandages on my arm and so couldn't leave until they could be removed, for getting nurses are out of the question."

"All that you say is true," admitted the doctor, "but our country is blessed with an organization known as the V.O.N. who make it their business to do among other things besides nursing".

"But what about the expense doctor. How can I afford this extra nursing care".

"You needn't worry, for the fee is nominal."

"Does this mean I'm no longer under your care?"

"No, by no means. The V.O.N. simply comes in and follows directions given by each patient's doctor. That's why doctors feel free to let their convalescent patients leave the hospital at an early date. I sent home a heart case last week knowing she will have excellent care from the V.O.N.

"I suppose this helps solve the over-crowding here."

"That's right," said the doctor. "And also serves to make room for the acute and critically ill cases."

"Well", said the patient, "I'm grateful to their Order".

The V.O.N. stands ready to aid you in all bedside nursing. Call 175 or 1125 Saturday afternoons, Sundays, and all holidays.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

It's Foolish to Lie About Your Age

No matter what the motive, lying is very dangerous business. Even thought it may be only what seems a harmless white lie, the consequences are often all out of proportion to the size of the lie.

One of the lies I most frequently hear about are those having to do with age. Here are two of the type I mean.

From a girl: "I have been going with a boy whom I like very much, and I think he likes me too. When I first met him, I told him I was 23, in order to be a year younger than he is. Actually I was 25, a year older than he. I would like to tell him the truth next time I see him, but I just don't know how to go about it. Please tell me how to tell him.

The other letter is from a boy of 19 who writes that he is "very much in love with a girl who has just turned 21. When I met this girl," he says, "I lied to her, and told her I was also 21. I was afraid that she wouldn't go with me if she knew how old I was.

"Now I want to tell her the truth about my age but I am afraid because I love her very much and I don't want her to break up with me. Should I tell this girl the truth, or should I go on the way I have? Also, do you think it's all right for a fellow 19 to go with a girl 21?"

Now there's only one way to undo a lie, and that is to tell the truth. And to tell the truth means stating the facts exactly as they are.

There is, however, more than one way of stating facts. One way is to come bluntly out with them. Another is to be diplomatic and tactful about the telling, and this is the way I think both this girl and this young man should handle their particular problem.

There is no need for them to make an important issue of the matter and deliberately create an artificial opportunity to blurt out the truth. It would be far better for them to wait until some time when the thing seems to come up naturally, and then set the other person straight. It should be simple enough at that time to explain the reason for having told the lie, and the reason should flatter the other person since both the girl and the boy misstated their ages because they found the other person so attractive they didn't want to lose him or her. That, of course, is the angle for them to stress in making their confessions, and if they do it right, it ought to work.

As for the young man's question about whether a fellow 19 should go with a girl 21, that all depends, as I have often said before, on how near they are to each other from the point of view of maturity. It's perfectly possible, though not perhaps the usual thing for a 19-year-old boy to be as mature as a girl of 21. This applies equally to the girl who wrote the letter saying that she had lied about her age because she was older than her boy friend, as this is merely the other side of the same picture.

Attaining a Trim Waist

Poor Posture can ruin the trimmest-looking figure, so Jacqueline White of the moviesremembers to stand tall.

By HELEN FOLLETT

PULL in your waist line! Fashion designers are still issuing that order to the girls who would be chic and handsome, and who wouldn't? They're offering help inside and out, founcations that keep you snug at the equator, wide belts that nip in, make the waist look smaller.

Since trim lines amidship are an important detail of the silhouette, why not get busy and grow them? It can be done. It is a matter of taking up muscle slack, sending fat cells into a state of dissolution if they are present.

Correct Carriage

Correct carriage is the main point. Let us say, for the sake of argument, that you have got into the habit of slouching just a wee bit. You're tired maybe, feel like dragging your heels.

Stand as tall as you can, extending your spinal column to the limit. Inflate your chest. Let your arms fall easily at the sides of your body. Slowly inhale a deep breath. That region below your ribs will flatten as you lift your chest. Hips seem to retire to the back. Your tummy will be as flat as your hand. At this moment your waitsline is full inch smaller than when you sit down and make a lump of yourself, which of course you should never do. Ten minutes of this exercise every day will bring wonderful changes for the better.

Proper Exercise

Nature never intended that the feminine shape should have unnatural bulges. If a woman had proper exercise from childhood on, did not over-indulge in the good things of the table, she would have corsets of strong muscles and her waist would be small.

Even if one is not precisely a beautiful figurette, much can be done in the way of improvement. It is never too late to try.

Fashion Flashes

CLEVER HANDLING of precious pelts is noted in new "little furs," those capes, stoles and jackets that seem to appear on all but the very warm days. A beautiful cape-stole of silver blue mink has the skins worked so that they form a sort of flying winged motif in back, coming to a deep triangular point. The same idea is used for a comparatively inexpensive cape stole of American broadtail (good old processed lamb.)

SMART SIMPLICITY is responsible for some delightful after-dark Summer frocks. Nice for country club doings is a short-sleeved shirtwaist frock of delicate white eyelet-embroidered organdie. Moderately full skirt is ankle-length. Narrow shawl-type collar, self buttons and tailored self belt.

TEAM up your best print frocks with a full-length faille coat. Once in the high brackets, manufacturers are now turning out good faille coats at reasonable prices, and such a coat is a good wardrobe companion. Cut on modified boxy lines is a nice black faille coat that closes to a high, turn-down collar. The bracelet-length sleeves have easy, wide, turn-back cuffs. Slit pockets.

ONE BY ONE the old fashions return. Along with the beaded velvet ribbon choker, we have the evening capelet of black or white silk taffeta with an edging of jet beads. One cape is very pretty, closing high at the throat, at a small bead-edged turn-down collar, and rippling to the waist in back. Nice for very decollete evening dresses or with a sheer frock.

EXQUISITE detail marks many of the gloves being prepared for early Fall display. Fine beige suede is used for a five-button glove that has tiny fleur-de-lis embroidered between rows of very fine tucking, the embroidery in pale green. A similar glove is in black with pink.

COMING IN from abroad are some exquisite handbags. A soft pouch of black antelope and gold metal bands has a large dome top which separates in half when opened to reveal mirror and compact.

sionnerGD ● yihv? r? ehead

IF YOU LIKE the slim skirt, especially for a separate or extra skirt, you'll be glad to know that manufacturers are concentrating on this line, and that it will comprise most of the stock in the stores, come Fall.

ALWAYS RIGHT, and becoming to almost every type, is the simple, flower-trimmed sailor. White baku straw is used for a sailor with a medium brim and wide, flat crown which is banded with tiny yellow and white flowers interspersed with pink and mauve heather.

SPRING NIGHTS bring out the popularity of the silk suit or two-piece frock with fur jackets. Pewter-gray silk taffeta makes a handsome suit. The slim jacket has a jutting peplum stiffened with tucks and stitching. Slim skirt is slit in front.

SOFT AND SWEET little linen dresses are cited as favorites with women at smart resorts. Nice for summer in town, too. Pale hyacinth mauve or hydrangea blue linen makes a pretty frock, with neck-to-hem fly-front closing. The simple shirtwaist bodice uses drawn work to block off big squares. Linen with a touch of handwork is particularly good.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Hostess and host should shake hands with every guest, arriving and departing

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband has a son by a former marriage. Recently the son and his wife came to see us. My husband and I met them at the door and my husband shook hands with both his son and daughter-in-law. I did not shake hands with them because I thought that it was proper for a woman to do as she prefers about shaking hands, and that a smile and a nice greeting would be appropriate. But my husband insists that I should have shaken hands with them when we went to the door to greet them. Which of us is right? (I had met the son and his wife before . . .if that makes any difference in your answer.)

C.O.

Always a hostess should shake hands with guests . . .a woman, a man, a child . . . as she greets them and always as she bids them goodbye. Your husband is right, and he must have been mortified and they must have been disappointed and perplexed that you did not shake hands with your guests when they arrived and when they left . . . particularly such important guests as your husband's son and daughter-in-law. It is true that on the other occasions, such as an introduction, a woman may or may not shake hands, according to her preference and inclination. But this extending of the hand, by hostess and host, to guest is the fine and traditional evidence of welcome and hospitality . . . a must in the world of courtesy.

Not to overdo politeness

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a 16-year-old boy, and I really try to be polite. . . "mind my manners," as my mother calls it. Lately I've gone to several parties at the homes of my classmates, and I've been perplexed as to whether I should rise every time the mother of the girl or boy giving the party enters and leaves the room. I've been brought up to rise when a woman enters the room, but it seems to me really ridiculous for a boy to rise every time a mother or aunt or older sister of the girl or boy comes and goes while serving refreshments or attending to other things in the giving of the party. Don't you agree?

Bob D.

Indeed I do agree. . .it looks rather ridiculous for a boy or man to rise every time a woman enters and leaves the room under the circumstances you mention. Naturally you should rise when the older woman enters the room the first time, perhaps to greet the guests, and of course when she introduces an arriving guest. And it is polite for you to rise and offer to help in the refreshment-serving. This will show that you know the rule and observe it when it makes for both courtesy and common sense.

With a hospitable heart.

Put your heart into the hospitality you offer to your friends! Then as you greet them warmheartedly, you will make them feel delightedly at ease, happy that they are with you in your home.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Highlighting the Eyes

Don't curl your nose scornfully when the novelist tells you that his beautiful heroine has eyes that seem to change color. Of course they don't, really. But they are affected by their surrounding. The color may appear deeper in the evening, when the lights are on, than during the day.

With and without eye shadows the eyes are not the same. We can dress the lids with pigment, darken the lashes if they are faint, give accent to the eyebrows. Then the eyes will be vastly more interesting and alive than they are just after the morning face-washing. That is, if one knows the make-up ropes, uses restraint and intelligence. Natural beauty? Grand if you have it. But how about the toll the birthdays take, even early in life? A few modern improvements may be for the better. Certainly the woman who applies make-up cleverly and skillfully looks more attractive than the one who makes no effort to overcome pallor. And complexion batik is fashionable. Without it one is dated.

Let the brunette don a rose-red hat and her brown eyes will take on depth and velvety richness of color. French blue will bring out the loveliness of blue eyes. A green hat will glorify the red-head, have a beautifying effect upon grey or hazel eyes. When you buy a hat keep these facts in mind.

A hat of cold steel grey has a depressing effect upon the eyes, as it drains the color from the complexion. Blue eyes may gain intensity of color when a black hat or a black frock is worn. Black is the best bet for the blonde who has retained the freshness of youth; it forms a perfect background for delicate features and a complexions of the roses-and-milk type.

The girl who powders her eyelids when she powders her face is making a good-looks error. The practice causes her eyes to look dull and heavy, while a bit of cream—the slightest film —put on a shine that, by some strange trick, gives sparkle to the eyes.

Eyebrows and eyelashes should both be brushed

We eall realize well enough that long, thick, black lashes make the eyes intriguing. If your winkers happen to be short and scanty, apply mineral oil twice a day. It often works like a miracle, this beauty trick. The little shafts feed upon the oil, take to sprouting; the growth thickens. Eyelashes, of course, are pretty much neglected. We decorate them with mascara, do little or nothing to promote a healthier condition.

Eyebrows and eyelashes both should be brushed. They like to be groomed; they respond to it. A line of single marching hairs is out of date. More normal patterns are preferred, as you will see if you take a keen look at the lovelies of the stage and silver screen. Tweezing the eyebrows has been overdone.

SAY CHRISTIAN INSTITUTIONS USED

Jerusalem, June 1 (AP) — A manifesto drafted by officials of the Christian Union in Palestine Monday accused Jewish forces of having used Christian religious and humanitarian institutions as military bases in the battle for Jerusalem.

The manifesto said three priests have been killed, two wounded and more than 100 women and children and other non-combatants had become casualties inside the Holy city "since the Jews began the attack."

FALLS FROM BRIDGE CARRIED OVER FALLS

Ottawa, June 1 (CP)—Charles Dean, 31, of Ottawa today is in hospital with facial cuts and shock suffered when he fell from a bridge Sunday night and was carried over a 40-foot drop of the Rideau Falls here.

Police said Dean had been standing on a narrow lowertown bridge 15 feet above the falls when he suddenly lost has balance.

$25,000 GRANT TOWARDS PURCHASE OF HOSPITAL

Owen Sound, June 1 (CP) — Speaking at Markdale Saturday evening Hon. Russell T. Kelly, Ontario Minister of Health, announced that the Drew government would make a grant of $25,000 to assist in the purchase of Dr. R. L. Carefoot's private hospital at Markdale and turning it into a public hospital.

Dr. Carefoot announced he would donate an additional $5,000. The county of Grey had already promised a $25,000 grant.

Montreal Port Is Quietest Since Year 1936

Montreal, June 1 (CP)—Montreal's far-flung waterfront looked quiet today and proof of a shipping slump was given by an announcement that hundreds of longshoremen were without work.

One police official said the harbor was the quietest it had been since the depression of 1936, blaming it on the dollar shortage and the lack of ocean vessels.

Only 31 ocean vessels were in port Saturday compared with 50 on the same day last year.

Thirty-six gangs of longshoremen with 20 men to a gang, usually employed by two large shippinc companies, were idle last week.

"The United Kingdom is not buying as much as was expected," a spokesman for the longshoremen's union said Sunday.

"A lot of people thought the Marshall plan was going to make the port busy," he added. "Now, nobody seems to know where we are going."

Grain shipments at present make up most of the vessel movements and one shipper sounded a warning, saying exports of this item "may drop off from now on."

This slump is the exact opposite of early season predicitions when a busy year was forecast by shipping officials.

Main reason for the sudden change is said to be the dollar shortage throughout the world. Little besides foodstuffs is being exported whereas in ordinary times, newsprint and automobiles fill several ships.

An example of this is that only one boat has sailed from here for Australia and New Zealand. Normally five or six boats would have sailed on this run by the first of June.

Railway Traffic To Vancouver Stops for 72 Hrs.

Vancouver, June 1. (CP) — The Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways have put an embargo on all railway traffic to Vancouver.

The embargo announcement was made Sunday night following a joint meeting of railway officials.

Harassed by devastating floods, no attempt will be made to bring trains through the Fraser Valley for at least 72 hours.

Officials of both lines will meet again Wednesday when the situation will be reviewed.

The Great Northern Railway reported Vancouver-Seattle lines were running on schedule but service from Chicago was running from five to six hours late.

Persons wishing to travel east by rail from Vancouver could go via Chicago.

TWO PERSONS KILLED

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., June 1—(CP) — Two Sault Ste. Marie persons were killed and a third suffered minor injuries in a three-vehicle collision on Highway No. 17 near MacLennan, 23 miles east of here, last night.

Dead are Mrs. Irene Eaton, 23, a passenger in a truck which rammed the rear of another truck, and Edward Corbett, who was repairing a parked automobile. Mrs. Corbett suffered shock and minor hurts.

HALIFAX PREPARES WELCOME

Halifax, June 1— (CP) — A civic welcome was prepared today for Canada's newest aircraft carrier, H.M.C.S. Magnificent. Latest addition to the Canadian navy, the carrier is expected to arrive at 1:30 p.m. EDT Tuesday.

Houses, garages and wreckage float in the flood-beset Fraser Valley as the waters of the mighty Fraser river rise hourly, making hundreds homeless. A Canadian navy task force evacuated hundreds of women and children. Every rowboat available is helping navy craft to save residents. Meanwhile, Vancouver has become a casualty clearing station.

Rescue workers stop to get a cup of tea. Working 24 hours a day, they fear that flood peak is yet to come. B. C. towns are hard hit by the swollen Fraser river floods and damage to property is steadily mounting.

Tokyo — That drunk robber may have struck again.

Some time ago, a robber broke into a Tokyo house, accepted some wine from his victim, became mellow, disgorged his loot and left with apologies.

This time — and it could be the same one — a robber turned up at a kindergarten of all places. He was drunk, and tearful.

He took 1,750 yen ($35) and a wrist watch from the kindergarten operator but he was so drunk he couldn't find his way out again.

The operator kindly led him to the door. If this is the same robber he is getting meaner.

Far from disgorging his loot in return for this courtesy, he kept right on going with the 1,750 yen and the wrist watch.

Detroit — The thought of stealing anything was farthest from her mind, Mrs. Vivians Coddington Mann, 37, told police.

She just wanted to be a store detective.

So, police quoted her as saying, she tried to walk out of a department store with $34.67 worth of merchandize —without paying. Then she planned to return the goods to convince the store it needed a detective, she said.

The woman is being held for investigation.

The store said it doesn't plan to hire her.

Chicago — Sally, Irene and Mary — three erudite young ladies from Yale, if you please — began a new project today.

The girls are chimpanzees. They were loaned for a few years to Brookfield Zoo by the New Haven, Conn., primary laboratory for exhibition. They were used at Yale in behavior tests.

But, zoo director Robert Bean said, his newest charges seem to think they were sent here to study human beings. He explained:

"They haven't yet shaken off the somber mien of the researcher.

"So far," they've done little but stand and regard their visitors with disbelieving perplexity."

Los Angeles — A blind leather worker and his seeing eye dog, Ethel, had been inseparable companions for seven years — until the animal lost her sight too.

When Ethel could no longer guide him, Ralph Cross took her to an eye specialist.

At an animal hospital, Dr. George Blasdel removed cataracts from the dog's eyes and designed corrective goggles that restored her vision.

Miss Freeman-Mitford, Centre of Speculation When War Broke, Dies

Oban, Scotland, June 1 (AP)—Unity Freeman-Mitford, 33, centre of a storm of speculation at the beginning of the Second World War because of her friendship with Hitler, died Saturday night.

Miss Freeman-Mittford, the daughter of Baron Redesdale, became ill a few days ago at the home of her parents on the Island of Inchkenneth. A friend of the family said her death was believed to have been caused by meningitis.

In Germany, near Hitler's Berghtesgaden retreat at the beginning of the war, she was seriously wounded by a pistol shot in her head under circumstances never publicly explained.

She was unconscious three weeks in a Munich hospital. Top German physicians attended her, and on Christmas Eve, 1939, Hitler arranged to send her home. On his orders an ambulance train took her to a French channel port and the British government allowed her to join her family.

In England she recovered speedily from her wound.

Her English friends said it was an accident. In Germany it was known that she had seen Hitler on several occasions in those tense days immediately preceding the German attack on Poland and the British declaration of war on Germany. She had been a guest at his retreat in the Bavarian Alps.

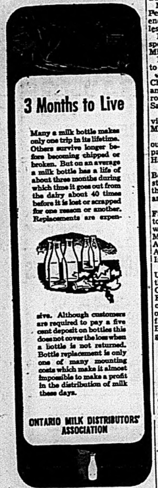
Miss Freeman-Mitford first went to Germany in 1935, when she was 20, to attend a Nazi summer festival. She was accompanied by her sister, Diana, who later married Sir Oswald Mosley, pre-war British Fascist leader. Unity was quoted in Germany at the time as saying she was a "woman Fascist" and she praised the Reichschancellor.

Blonde, blue-eyed and unsophisticated in a manner, she was a non-smoker and a non-drinker.

She met Hitler at a Munich beer garden, and became his friend. She met and apparently won the approval of other top-ranking Nazis, except Rudolf Hess, Deputy Fuehrer.

KING MICHAEL TO WED IN ATHENS SATURDAY

Athens, June 1 — (AP)—Premier Themistocles Sophoulis announced today that former King Michael of Romania and Princess Anne of Boubon Parma will be married in Athens Saturday.



3 Months to Live

Many a milk bottle makes only one trip in its lifetime. Others survive longer before becoming chipped or broken. But on an average a milk bottle has a life of about three months during which time it goes out from the dairy about 40 times before it is lost or scrapped for one reason or another. Replacements are expensive. Although customers are required to pay a five cent deposit on bottles this does not cover the loss when a bottle is not returned. Bottle replacement is only one of many mounting costs which make it almost impossible to make a profit in the distribution of milk these days.

SERVING CANADIANS THROUGH CHEMISTRY

"Chemistry? IT DOESN'T MEAN A THING TO ME!"

IF YOU WERE a farmer it might seem that way at first glance. But take another look!

Those fine crops, which mean so much to Canada's health and economy, often depend upon chemical fertilizers. Weed and pest destroyers, orchard sprays too, are but a few of the services that chemical research extends to agriculture.

Through good times and bad, the chemical industry plows a straight furrow, ever moving forward to create better things for farm, industry and home. Look to chemistry with confidence for a finer future . . . and to the C-I-L oval symbol of an organization devoted to serving Canadians through chemistry.

For instance:

HERBATE

AMONG the many contributions of chemistry to agriculture and horticulture is the killer, "Herbate" that eliminates mustard-weed, dandelions, plantain and other weeds without harming grain or grass. It is a product of Canadian Industries Limited, Head Office, P.O. Box 10, Montreal.

290 IN FIELD

The C.C.F. held seven seats at dissolution but another member was killed in a traffic accident shortly before the election was announced.

Sixty-two constituencies have three candidates; there are two-way contests in seven; 18 have 4 candidates; three have five-man fights; in one, Toronto St. David there are six candidates.

H. S. Emel, who sought to contest Waterloo North as a Social Credit candidate, failed to get into the race because his nomination papers were not in order before the 2 p.m. deadline for qualifying.

Seven women are numbered among the candidates — five C.C.F. and two Liberal. Three members of the last legislature are contesting the election under new party affiliation and 10 members of the last House are missing from the field.

Few Surprise Starters

Majority of the candidates have been in the field for more than ten days, but there were a few surprise starters at the last minute—most of them in the independent category.

R. Emel, who failed to get into the race because his nomination papers were not in order before the 2 p.m. deadline for qualifying, had only 92 signatures on his nomination papers when he first visited returning officer F. W. K. Bingham's office Monday—100 is the required number.

Mr. Emel obtained the remaining seven signatures and was waiting at Mr. Bingham's office when the returning officer returned from the official nomination meeting in the county court house. Mr. Bingham refused to accept them on the grounds that closing hour for nominations was passed.

Mr. Emel said that he did not know the official meeting was being held in the court house. Mr. Bingham replied that day, hour and place of the meeting were clearly shown on the election proclamation. Mr. Emel applied to County Judge E. W. Clement. However, the judge said later there is nothing in the Election Act which would give him jurisdiction to hear an appeal from the candidate.

Of the women candidates, best known is Agnes Macphail former member of parliament and of the Ontario legislature, who is contesting York East for the C.C.F.

Under New Affiliation

Three members of the last legislature are contesting the election under new party affiliations. In Brantford Stanley Dye, first elected in 1945, is in the fight as an Independent Progressive Conservative. He was defeated in a bid for the Progressive Conservative nomination. In Sudbury, Union Leader Robert H. Carlin is running as Independent C.C.F. The C.C.F. refused to support him in this election on the grounds of his connections with reputed Communists in his Union. In Waterloo North, Joseph Meinzinger is running as an Independent Conservative. He won the last election as Liberal-Labor.

Ten members of the last House are missing from the field. Eight of them are Progressive Conservatives: A. Holland (Holly) Acres who represented Carleton from 1923 until this year when he was defeated at a nominating convention. Dr. R. P. Vivian, former Health Minister who now is a professor at McGill University, is replaced in Durham by Rev. John Foote, Victoria Cross winner; James F. Wilson, Hastings West; W. G. Thompson, former Minister of Lands and Forests, in Kent East; Carl D. Hanniwell in Niagara Falls; Harry H. Hyndman in Toronto Bracondale; A. Kelso Roberts in Toronto St. Patrick; and Howard Sale, who failed to win the nomination in York South.

Liberal Withdrawals

One Liberal has withdrawn—Aurelien Belanger, scholarly 70-year-old Ottawa man, who won Prescott riding for his party in six provincial elections. Alex Parent, who won Essex North as Liberal-Labor candidate in 1945 and later became a straight Labor man, has also retired.

In Fort William, the city's mayor, Garfield Anderson, is seeking re-election for the C.C.F. and one of his two opponents is the mayor of neighboring Port Arthur, Charles W. Cox. Mr. Cox is a former Liberal member of the legislature for his own city of Port Arthur.

Two Thomas Creightons are running in Eastern Ontario constituencies. Thomas K. Creightin is seeking re-election as Progressive Conservative in Ontario riding. Thomas Creighton, former warden of Lennox and Addington, is running as an independent Progressive Conservative in Prince Edward-Lennox. He was defeated by James DeC. Hepburn, Speaker of the House, in a convention bid for the Progressive Conservative nomination.

Cardinals Five-Game Losing Streak Drops Them Out Of Loop Lead As Giants Take Over

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sport Writer)

Memorial Day, 1948, which produced the greatest single day turnout ever witnessed in the major leagues, will be remembered by baseball fans for a long time, but it will bring naught but poignant memories to the followers of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Only 24,009 fans were on hand in Cincinnati to see the lowly Reds inflict two decisive defeats upon the slump-ridden Redbirds which knocked the Cards out of first place in the National League.

The scores were 4-3 and 7-0. The defeats were the fourth and fifth straight suffered by the Cards.

The proud new occupants of the top berth are the New York Giants, who assumed a half-game lead over the Cards by earning a split in their double header with the Dodgers in Brooklyn. The Giants began by bowing to the Brooks 4-3 in the morning game. They came back strong, however, to win the afternoon game 10-1.

A crowd of 22,753 saw pitcher Ralph Branca help win his own game with a run-scoring single in the seventh inning which broke up a 3-3 tie. Another 34,349 came to see Johnny Mize slug two home runs, his seventh and eighth, and lead the Giants to their first victory at Ebbets' Field this year.

The Philadelphia Athletics bounced out and back into the lead in the tight American League race by dividing a double header with the Boston Red Sox before 24,838 home town rooters. After Joe Dobson of the Red Sox had blanked them 7-0 on four hits, the A's came back to win the second, 2-1 to retain their game lead over the Cleveland Indians.

Indians Split

Manager Lou Boudreau's grand slam home run helped the Indians defeat the St. Louis Browns 8-3 in the first game to put the Tribe into temporary possession of first place. The crowd of 48,961 Cleveland rooters were doomed to disappointment, however, when the Browns, behind the 4-hit pitching of Cliff Fannin, came back to win the second game 6-0.

The pitching of Frank Shea and the hitting of Bobby Brown enabled the New York Yankees to defeat the Washington Senators in both ends of a double header 10-0 and 5-4, before 62,626 fans at Yankee Stadium. Shea held the Nats to two hits in registering his third victory and second shutout.

Detroit's biggest crowd of the year — 55,875 fans — saw the Tigers divide a double header with the Chicago White Sox. Scoring four runs in the first two innings, the Tigers won the opener 5-4. The Sox belted four pitchers for 15 hits to win the second game 9-3.

The largest attendance in the history of the Chicago club—46,965 — saw the Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates split a twin bill. The Cubs won the opener 4-3, the Pirates won the second game 4-2 and left the third place Pirates only one game behind the front-running Giants.

Trenton Defeats North. Electric By 7-2 Score

Sam Ellis, stocky Trenton southpaw was in rare form at the Exhibition Grounds last night when he let down the Northern Electric batters with three scattered singles to pace his team to a 7-2 seven-innings victory over Lefty Noakes crew, in a scheduled Belleville Baseball League fixture.

The husky lefthander was only in trouble a couple of times, once in the second when by virtue of two walks, a hit by pitcher and a hit he filled the bases twice in a row, only to hurl himself out of the hole. The only other two hits off his delivery came in the seventh when Robb and Semark hit successfully, one a scratch infield tap to score the second and last Electric run of the game. Ellis bore down and struck out Yorke and caused Noakes to ground out to cut off the rally. Ellis whiffed thirteen batters and walked three.

Coach "Lefty" Noakes essayed the pitching chore for the Electric and was deserving of a slightly better fate. He was touched for six hits, one a triple and two doubles, but his mates kicked the ball around a half dozen times, three of them costly. His worst innings was the third when the Trenton crew smashed two hits off his delivery but three errors were committed behind him. These with a hit by pitcher enabled the town squad to send four runs across the plate and the ball game was over then and there as far as the planters were concerned.

Noakes struck out seven and issued a pair of walks.

Took Run Lead

Electric took a one-run lead in the second innings when Cunningham who had walked went to third on James smash to centre. Semark was hit by an Ellis shoot filling the sacks. Murphy struck out and Ellis walked Hurst to force in the run. James was forced at the plate and Bohonis struck out to end the innings.

Trenton surged into a one run lead in their half of the innings when Sexton's triple to deep left scored Brown who had strolled. Sexton came home on Coe's two-bagger.

Then came the disastrous 4th with hits by Campbell and Haffey with three bobbles by the Electric fielders. Trenton scored its final run in the fourth on Campbell's second two-base hit of the game Carswell racing home with the run after he had reached first on James' bad throw to first.

Electric threatened in the sixth when Semark beat out an infield hit and came home on Robbs clean single to centre. But Ellis was too good and the rally ended there and then.

Campbell paced the hit parade for the winners with two doubles Sexton got a triple, Coe got a double and single, with Haffey contributing a bingle to the cause. The only Electric hitters to connect safely were Robb, Semark and James.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BY GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Floodlight baseball will make its 1948 debut in the Exhibition Grounds baseball park tonight when the Oshawa Merchants clash with the Batawa Shoemen in the first Central Ontario Baseball League game played here this season. The Oshawans who gave the Kingston Locos a shellacking in their opening tilt took an unmerciful walloping at the hands of Eddie Murphy's Peterborough club over the week-end, and you can bet grandpap's store clickers that the Motor City crew won't be in an Alphonse Gaston mood come tonight's floodlighting.

• • •

They do tell us that there has been some mild skulduggery going on in certain baseball camps of the area, and there is a strong possibility that the Batawa-Peterborough postponed game scheduled for the Exhibition Grounds here Thursday night will not be played. It doesn't involve the Peterborough squad at all, merely some of the boys are finding it hard to "play ball" off the regular diamond.

• • •

It was a case of too much Sam Ellis, and too many cowboy fielders who were wont to kick the ball around at the Northern Electric-Trenton intermediate tilt at the Exhibition Grounds last gloaming. Sam who is a husky gentleman, with an all-body delivery, let the planters down with three measly hits, but the Electric lads were no world-beaters afield. They hoofed the pellet around a half dozen times and thereby hung three juicy runs. At that, the best the squad from the town to the west could do off "Lefty" Noakes was a half dozen clouts and only three of the Trenton runs were earned. But the Electric bludgeons were woefully weak and Ellis had a field day sending thirteen of them down via the whiff route.

One of the neatest pieces of baseball English and danged good advice at that comes in a pamphlet from the Hon. William Snyder, estimable secretary of the Ontario Baseball Association, Hamilton. The miniature tome presents some of the best advice for umpires present and future we have seen since the Old Arbitrator set some neat ideas in the public prints. Bill has tabbed the brochure "How to be a Better Umpire" and if some of the pad and mask buckaroos would take time off to mark, learn, and inwardly digest some of the sage advice it contains, things might be better for all concerned—especially Ye Umps.

Snyder goes right to the point at the start. He advises all and sundry—umpires, that is, "to" stay on top of the play no matter what game you are officiating. You can't catch everything if you lag behind. He opines that a lazy ump who misses a play and has to guess his call, creates distrust and anger by players and onlookers. He advises all umpires to keep in good physical condition so he can be able to run around the diamond on a hot day without a call for the St. Johns Ambulance, or a bicycle pump. And a most important point he stresses is that the Nibs should know his rule books, backwards, forward, inside out, outside in and for gawshsake always carry it with him.

• • •

Snyder feels that the boys in blue, while supposed to keep calm and cool and keep their top under control, should have a spot of color about their calisthenics. "When you make a call," he says, "don't mumble it—shout it out. Make appropriate motions so that everyone in the park knows exactly what the decision is. Emphasize your concentration on the play. And make your calls most decisive. Don't for the luvamik show any indecision in any call. He also thinks that all umps should be properly attired. Don't slouch around in any old thing. Dress like a big leaguer and act like one.

• • •

Two good points contained in the pamphdet are "Check equipment before a game, like OHA referees do. See that the lins are laid right and the rubber and bags are all right. Also call the rules just like they are in the book. No private interpretations at all. If it's a balk that is what it should be called regardless of what anyone says. Snyder has a summary of four rules. First, know the rules; second, be decisive; third, call them as they are in the book and fourth, never become prejudiced against a team or player which may be riding you. Umpires are too prone at time to let their feelings get the best of them, after they have been subjected to a ribbing by the crowd or players. And they sometimes "take it out" against those involved by their actions. 'Taint cricket, lads. You are the boss and you hold the book, or you should. Try throwing it at some of the erring players, or officials some time and you'll see how quickly your trouble will decrease.

• • •

Here's one for the little red book. In Glen Falls, New York the other day two school boy hurlers tossed no-hit, no-run games, yet one was the loser. The winning pitcher was 15 year-old Ray Lapointe, a Glen Falls junior who struck out nine, walked one and hit two. He retired the last fourteen in a row. The unsuccessful youngster was seventeen year old Mat Sassone of St. Mary's Academy, who was the victim of a dropped pop fly in the fourth which allowed the winning run to score. The count was 1-0.

• • •

The Optimists Club Midgets defeated the Kinsmen Club younkers 7-2 in an Inter-Service Club baseball game at the East Hill playgrounds last night. And speaking of those grounds, several complaints have reached this desk about their condition. Seems as though a little smoothing work would would not be amiss, and should be done before some budding Babe Ruth falls and breaks an arm or a leg. Isn't the Board of Education responsible for the condition of these playgrounds? If so, how about it, gentlemen?

Girl Tennis Star Plays in Tourney At Wimbledon

Ottawa, June 1 (CP) — The capital is blossoming with girl champions. Having given the world Barbara Ann Scott as a figure skater, Ottawa hopes to have another winner, this time a tennis champion.

Its hope lies in Patricia Lowe, a 17-year-old girl who used to bounce a ball in Westmount Tennis courts a few years ago. Today she is preparing for world tennis competition at Wimbledon.

It all started two years ago when Patricia captured the Canadian singles tennis championship for girls 15 and under. Last year she entered the Canadian Open at Vancouver for Junior Women, 18 and under. She proved her ability by staying right up to the finals.

Capt. Gerald Wattsford, Patricia's grandfather, was one of a team to capture the Ottawa Men's doubles championships in 1910 and 1911. In 1930 Patricia's mother, Mrs. Norman Lowe, won the Ottawa Women's singles championship. Patricia has taken the local junior women's singles championship the last two years.

Like Barbara Ann, young Patricia practises hard and is serious about her game. She has been playing since the age of 12.

On Wednesday she boards the train for Halifax where the Acquitania will carry her to England. Patricia said there may be 82 entries in her junior class in the all-England championships at Wimbledon.

Miss Lowe expects to return in time for entry in the Ontario tennis championships to be held here July 19.

Her passage is partly paid by a $100 gift from the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association who received a British invitation for a boy and girl entry. Ottawa and district tennis enthusiasts helped her along with the passage fare.

Beaches-Indians Devise New Plan To Pay Players

Toronto, June 1 (CP)—Toronto Beaches-Indians this season will take a page from the history of Calgary Bronks and follow the western team's player payment plan of the late 30s.

The plan is that 50 per cent of the gate money will go to the Ontario Rugby Football Union Club and the other 50 per cent will go into a players' pool. Each player will be rated on a point system, with a maximum of five.

Players on the starting line-up will get five points while those regarded as of less value will receive either four, three, two or one point. Rating will be decided on a game-to-game basis and will be subject to change with a player's performance. Points and monies will be handled by a five-man committee, of players, appointed by the team mates, and after each game a listing will be posted showing what each member is entitled to in points.

Unsatisfied players can meet with the committee which will vote on whether the applicant has a right to more points. Injured players will receive one or two points a game, depending on the decision of the five-man board.

An old Calgary Bronks' player who served on such a committee, Bob Cosgrove, suggested the idea. He said the system worked as well as any which could be devised for a co-operative football club.

Rugged Robert will return to active play with the club this season after spending a year as coach of the Toronto Indians. Bobby Porter also will turn out in uniform to help the team along with his passing and hoofing.

The plan was outlined at a meeting of players last week by Coach Ted Reeve. He told some 75 gridiron hopefuls that the Beaches-Indians had decided not to import United States players "unless you fellows feel there is an outstanding American who would help."

Stranahan Will Try to Match Jones' Grand Slam

New York, June 1 (AP)—As a record field sought to qualify today for the National Open Golf Tournament, one of the foremost questions in the sport was:

Can Frank Stranahan do it?

Young Stranahan, recent winner of the British amateur, has announced he's going after the other three big ones—the United States and British opens and the United States amateur.

Only the famous Bobby Jones has been able to encompass this "grand slam" in a single year. Many of golf's sages say it'll never be done again.

But others think differently — among them Charles (Chick) Evans, Jr., veteran amateur from Chicago.

"I think Bobby Jones' feat may be duplicated in our day," Evans, winner of the National Open in 1916, said recently, "and I think Stranahan is the player to do it."

Stranahan's big test undoubtedly will be the United States open, to be contested June 10-12 at Los Angeles. As one of the top 20 finishers last year he automatically qualifies.

Stranahan rates a good chance in the British Open, in which he was beaten out by a stroke last year, and the United States amateur which he has never won.

Stranahan acknowledges that it'll take "breaks" for him to do the trick. "I can't do much more than try," he added Monday. The British Open is a Muirfield, Scotland, June 28-July 3. The United States amateur is at Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 30-Sept. 4.

A record field of 1,418 entered the National Open but all except 31 of them will have to fight for 140 spots in sectional qualifying trials.

Twenty-six of the trials are scheduled today throughout the country.

Brantford Moves Into Fifth Place Of Intercounty

Brantford's Red Sox said it in a convincing manner last night to move into sole possession of 5th place in the intercounty baseball senior series by trouncing Guelph Maple Leafs 12-2 at Brantford. London Majors were helped by three Galt errors to defeat Terriers 5-1 in a rather listless tilt at Galt. No other senior games were played.

Angelo Torti, who has been complaining of a sore arm of late, was the big man in the Sox win. His arm held up well enough to limit Leafs to four hits over the entire route. He also fanned 11 batters and then, just to make things sure, hit a home run inside the park. He never lost control as Leafs never threatened seriously.

The Galt-London tilt ended in a near free-for-all. When London ended the game with a twin killing, the Major first baseman Mush Higgins threw the ball at Cracky Liscombe after the latter had crossed the bag. The two players then tangled and after being separated by team mates, resumed the feud.

In the lone Central Ontario Baseball League senior game, Batawa scored a 4-3 upset victory over Kingston Locos at Kingston. The winners, however, deserved the victory and outplayed the Locos in fielding, committing one error to Kingston's six.

Losing pitcher Jim Sherwood was relieved by Jack Stone after the first man up had singled in the seventh. Stone hurled hitless ball the rest of the way striking out six with his speed ball.

FISHERMEN KILL BEAR

Montreal River, June 1 (CP)—Two Detroit business men—anglers — had to kill an uninvited guest about to invade a fish fry Sunday. John H. Trentham and Alvin Callam shot a 500 - pound black bear which appeared ready to attack them.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By JOE MacSWEEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Halifax, June 1 (CP)—The vagaries of Canadian boxing in the middleweight division have set Alex (Halifax Herald) Nickerson thinking.

"Gaul," says Nick, "as a whole, may be divided into three parts—but the Canadian middleweight championship, without benefit of Caesar, has been divided into four parts.

"The first or major part is claimed by Len Wadsworth of Sudbury, or Hamilton. The other claimants, in order, are Roger Whynott of Mahone Bay, N.S., Pete Zaduk of Toronto and Geo. Ross of New Waterford, N.S.

"Whynott and later Zaduk won decisions over Wadsworth, the recognized . . . ruler, in 10-round contests. The Canadian Boxing Federation—a self-appointed organization with officials in Ontario and Quebec—refused to recognize these bouts because they were not over the 12-round route."

Early this month at Glace Bay, N.S., Ross, a coal miner, battered Wadsworth to submission in a 12-round fracas. "Nevertheless," "the C.B.F. ruled that Wadsworth was still the Canadian middleweight ruler."

Nick claims that Ross now is Canuck middleweight champ. He is adamant on the point, and he is by no means alone.

In his column he published a letter from Sammy Keller, Manager of Zaduk, who wishes to match the Ontario lad and Ross for the title.

Says Keller in the letter: "Zaduk, as you may know, just previous to the Ross-Wadsworth bout in Glace Bay, decisively defeated Wadsworth in Kitchener.

Keller then expounded his proposal of a Ross-Zaduk tangle and added "this matter has been discussed by the Canadian Boxing Federation and I am sure that their official sanction would be given to such a match as being for the title."

Citation Will Not Be Shipped To Suffolk Downs

(By The Canadian Press)

Trainer Jimmy Jones of the Calumet stable, said in New York Monday that Citation, Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner, would not be shipped to Suffolk Downs for the $50,000 Yankee Handicap on June 5. He said he was afraid the shipping of the colt might affect his training for the Belmont Stakes, third jewel in racing's triple crown scheduled June 2.

Jackie Robinson's right knee, which has been slow in healing since it was injured on May 13, will undergo X-ray examination Tuesday to determine whether there is a break. The Brooklyn Dodger infielder collided at first base with Benny Zientara of the Cincinnati Reds on May 13. Robinson has been in and out of the lineup ever since.

The Liverpool soccer team left New York Monday by plane to meet St. Louis All-Stars Tuesday night. The touring British team has won all five of its games so far against American competition. They will fly to Montreal Wednesday for the seventh game of their tour Thursday night. They are scheduled to appear in Toronto on June 15th.

Odds against My Love, France's chief hope for the Epsom Derby, shortened from 100 to 9 to 10 to 1, it was announced in London Monday night. At the same time bookmakers extended the odds against My Babu, for the classic race to be run next Saturday. My Babu eased to 4 to 1.

Shannon II of Australia, won the $50,000 Argonaut Handicap before a record crowd of 71,789 at Hollywood Park Monday. Mafosta was second and Trust third in the 1 1-16 mile event. The crowd was the largest in the history of the track.

Sherbrooke was granted a franchise in the Quebec Senior League at the annual meeting in Montreal over the weekend, bringing the circuit up to eight teams and forming the largest group since the Q.S.H.L. was incorporated in 1937. Besides Sherbrooke, the loop includes Montreal Royals, Ottawa Senators, Quebec Aces, Shawinigan Falls Cataracts, Valleyfield Braves, New York Rovers and Boston Olympics.

Gus Lesnevich, world's light-heavyweight boxing champion, became the father of twin girls Monday at Englewood, N.J. The twins bring the number of children in the Lesnevich family to four.

Joe Pyle of Montreal punched out his second win over Phil Palmer of Vancouver in the main event of a professional fight card in Vancouver Monday night. Pyle, considered to be a threat to Johnny Greco's Canadian welterweight crown, displayed terrific form.

Mauri Rose Wins Speedway Race In Record Time

Indianapolis, June 1 (AP) — Fighting off challenges all the way, Mauri Rose of South Bend, Ind., Monday won the speediest 500-mile automobile race since the Indianapolis motor speedway's first Memorial Day feature in 1911.

Rose crossed the finish line with an average of 119.813 miles an hour for his third speedway victory and his second in a row.

Right behind were his hard-luck team-mate, Bill Holland of Rading, Pa., at 119.147; Duke Nalon, Los Angeles, 118.934, and Ted Horn, Paterson, N.J., 117.844.

All four of those times were better than the previous record of 117.2 miles an hour, set 10 years ago by the late Floyd Roberts.

It seemed to be a record crowd as well as a record race. The crowd appeared to be between 150,000 and 200,000.

Last year Holland led most of the race and surrendered the victory to Rose.

Holland had bad luck again Monday. He was running strongly near the end when his transmission began kicking out of gear. Duke Nalon also was coming up fast in the novi grooved piston special when he had to make a pit stop for fuel.

Nalon and Horn both made two pit stops to one each for Rose and Holland, and that was the difference at the finish. Horn nevertheless remained the most consistent driver who ever rode the Indianapolis bricks. It was the ninth straight race in which he had placed fourth or better, although he never has won. He drove Wilbur Shaw's old Masterati, now owned by H. C. (Cotton) Henning, which apparently was unharmed by a strenuous pre-race sabotage attempt.

Mack Hellings, Burbank, Calif., won fifth money in the new Don Lee Kurtis-Kraft.

Finishers besides Hellings were Hal Cole, South Gate, Calif., sixth, in the "City of Tacoma" Kurtis-Kraft, and Lee Wallard, a first-time driver from Schenectady, N.Y., seventh in the Iddings Special.

Bob Porterfield Yet to be Beaten In International

(By The Associated Press)

Pitcher Bob Porterfield, hailed by Manager Bill Skiff of Newark Bears, as the greatest big league prospect in the minors today, has yet to taste his first International League defeat.

Porterfield has made eight starts for the league leading Bears and has won every one of them. His latest victory came Monday when he pitched the Bears to a 9-2 victory over the Jersy City Giants.

The triumph came in the first game of a Memorial Day double header and snapped a five-game winning streak. The second game was called at the end of five innings because of darkness with the score knotted up at 2-2.

Jay Difani paced the Bears' 11-hit attack with two home runs. His first came with two aboard and his second with the bases loaded.

Five home runs helped the Buffalo Bisons hand the Toronto Maple Leafs a double shellacking 11-1 and 12-5 at Buffalo. Larry Barton belted one with the bases full for the Bisons in the opener. Johnny Groth and Anse Moore also homered in the first game. Coker Triplett and Moore cleared the barrier in the nightcap.

Syracuse and Baltimore divided a twilight-night doubleheader, the Chiefs winning the opener 8-0 and the Orioles taking the nightcap 8-5. Johnny Hetki pitched the shutout for the Chiefs.

Montreal and Rochester divide a double header. After Paul Minner blanked the Red Wings 2-0 on three hits to outpitch Al Green, the Wings came back to outslug the Royals 11-5 in the nightcap.

Record Numbers Attend Events Memorial Day

New York, June 1 (AP) — If there's been any deflation in the war-bred sports boom in the United States it wasn't noticeable Monday when record numbers of Memorial Day celebrators poured into major league ball parks and race tracks.

A total of 337,776, an all-time high, witnessed doubleheaders in eight big league baseball cities. The American League drew 192,300 and the National attracted 145,476.

But the diamond attractions failed to cut too deeply into devotees of the turf. A total of 345,997 visited 10 tracks and wagered $16,062,024.

The 500-mile speedway at Indianapolis, the country's greatest single gate lure, meanwhile, drew more than 175,000.

Belmont Park had the biggest turnout in its history and the second largest in the history of New York racing — 63,499. Belmont's mutuel was $3,444,160.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

To finesse or not to finesse is often the question. Whether to finesse through the player at your right or your left is another. The answer sometimes shows up with a bit of card reading.

Count the cards you see in dummy and your own hand. Add them to the cards that have already been played by opponents. If you are skillful enough, also add what opponent bids have told.

We are talking about this deal:

NORTH
♠8 7 6 2
♥7 6 5 2
♦K 9
♣K Q 7

WEST
♠A K J 9 5 4
♥10 8
♦8
♣6 4 3 2

EAST
♠10
♥J 9 4 3
♦Q 7 6 5 4 3 2
♣5

SOUTH
♠Q 3
♥A K Q
♦A J 10
♣A J 10 9 8

South was declarer at five clubs. West took two top spades and south ruffed the third round of that suit. Now there must be no more losers. Not even in diamonds.

First thought would be to ruff the third diamond in dummy. This would be abandoned only if its danger is discovered in time. Another plan would be to finesse diamonds, if necessary.

When this deal was played, east showed out of spades on the second round of that suit. West was thus read with an original holding of six spades. Absolutely no doubt about it.

So dummy took two rounds of trumps. East showed out of these on the second round. West was thus read with an original holding of four clubs. This means that west must have three red cards.

Leads of south top hearts would bring out how many west held in each red suit. This may help decide whether a finesse should be taken in diamonds. Meanwhile, west may ruff something.

So, declarer pulled the balance of trumps and cashed three top hearts. West showed out of hearts on the third round. He was thus read for only one diamond.

A lead to diamond king showed what it was. Coming back through east for a finesse was a proven cinch. Clinch a cinch.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, June 1 (AP)—Deadline for ticket applications for the Orange Bowl football game New Year's Day is midnight tonight—and no guarantee. Requests for more than 100,000 seats in the 60,000-capacity stadium already have been received . . . Bud Worsham, kid brother of open champion Lew Worsham, played the No. 2 position on the Wake Forest College golf team this spring. But he's considered a great prospect . . .

How's that Again?

One sentence from a statement issued after a recent Professional Golfers Association meeting; "In the future, the appearance fees for the U. S. G. A. Open champion, the P. G. A. champion, and the leading money winner will be paid to those of these players who participate in P. G. A. co-sponsored tournaments only if they are P. G. A. members."

RIDER RESCUED FROM BLAZING MOTORCYCLE

Toronto, June 1 — (CP)—Pinned to the pavement by a burning motorcycle at nearby Dixie Sunday, 20-year-old Clayton Hommell of Toronto was rescued by passersby. Police said the motorcycle crashed into a car driven by 70-year-old Mrs. Jane Gordon of Dixie.

ARM CUT WHEN TRAIN CARRIES CAR 100 FEET

Toronto, June 1 — (CP)—Anthony Humphrey, 19, suffered only a cut arm Sunday when his automobile was carried 100 feet and crushed by an 11-car freight train. Two passengers, George Wilson, 19, and Donald Reid, 20, also escaped. Wilson's forehead was scratched but Reid walked away unhurt.

AT THE McCARTHY — Fearfully, Dean Jagger, Walter Brennan and Ruth Warrick keep a bedside vigil as little Natalie Wood fights for life. This memorable scene is from Republic's stirring drama, "Driftwood," which opens today at the McCarthy Theatre.

Jamestown, N.Y. —A broken mirror proved lucky for Fred J. Harrington's family.

A light bulg ignited a celluloid lampshade. The flames spread to a curtain and window sash, then burned through a cord suspending a mirror. The crash attracted the attention of the family at dinner downstairs in time to avert serious damage.

Buffalo, — Police telephoned Ronald Brown, 14, that his lost property had been found, but that he'd have to pick it up personally.

Ronald retrieved Mortimer, his five-foot pet black snake, in a neighbor's driveway.

New York—A bugler and a drummer in a Police Department band did double duty Monday.

Informed that a man in the audience at a central park band concert was wanted for car theft, the two musicians stepped out of ranks and arrested him.

Philadelphia—A group of golfers were forced to scatter Monday as a small airplane made a forced landing on the city's Juniata Golf Course.

No one was injured. As pilot W. Hodges went to look for help in removing the plane, the golfers pushed his craft to one side of the fairway and continued their game.

Pittsburgh — The prankish youngsters who have been regularly setting fire to the Ohio River for the last two weeks are due for disappointment.

Norman Stapley, a professional diver, will descend 15 feet into the river today and clamp a patch on the leak in an eight-inch gas pipe.

The leaking gas bubbles up through the water like a geyser and the kids like to ignite it by flinging inflammable materials.

AT THE CAPITOL — Romantic lovers of "Dear Ruth" — Joan Caulfield and William Holden, co-stars of Paramount's picturization of the famous Broadway stage hit. The comedy, now at the Capitol Theatre, today and Wednesday, features Billy De Wolfe, Edward Arnold, Mona Freeman, Mary Phillips, Virginia Welles and Kenny Morrison. On the same program "Angels With Dirty Faces," starring James Cagney, Pat O'Brien, Humphrey Bogart and The Dead End Kids.

Three Candidates Will Seek Election In Prince Edward

Picton — (Special) — Three candidates will seek election in Prince Edward-Lennox on Monday. Those officially nominated here yesterday were Hon. James Hepburn, Picton, Progressive Conservative; Donald Baxter, Bloomfield, Liberal, and Thomas Creighton, Lennox, Independent Conservative. There were no speeches.

The Progressive Conservative committee rooms here yesterday made public a message from Premier George Drew which stated that Hon. Mr. Hepburn, Speaker of the Legislature, and choice of the riding convention, was endorsed by the government and by the Ontario Progressive Conservative Association.

Creighton was defeated by Hepburn at the convention by an overwhelming vote and is being censured by the party he formerly supported as entering as an opponent of Mr. Hepburn after pledging his word to support the choice of the convention. Mr. Creighton and his committee of three criticized appointments made by Hon. Mr. Hepburn, who in turn points out that all appointments he has made have been filled by war veterans.

Backed by the outstanding record of the Drew government, the Progressive Conservatives are confident that Hon. Mr. Hepburn will be re-elected despite added opposition.

RUSSIAN SOLDIERS RESCUE MEMBER OF POLICE PATROL

Vienna, June 1 — (AP) — A group of Russian soldiers attacked the Russian member of a Four-power international military police patrol Sunday night and freed a Soviet soldier arrested following a cafe riot, official sources said. Three Russian soldiers started the riot and broke several windows. Only the one was captured.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop came home and hung up his hat, and ma said, Well, William, isn't there something you want to ask me?

Well naturelly, my dear, pop said, and ma said, Well, I'm waiting.

How do you feel? pop said, and ma said, I feel wonderful, and I've felt wonderful ever since I listened to The Cutting Family on the radio this morning and learned that Gloria acctually is going to have a baby and that Mr. and Mrs. Cutting will be proud grandparents instead of just wishful thinkers. You knew how anxinously I was waiting for the news about Gloria when you left the house this morning, William, so I should think you'd of shown enough intrist in my affairs to at least ask me what happened. But, no, the whole thing left your mind just as blankly as though I'd had nothing to do with it, ma said.

My dear, how little you know me, pop said, and ma said, I know you only too well. Maud Hews called me up and told me that Yewlace telephoned her as soon as he got to his office to find out the news. But not you, William, your mind was too full of bizzness and bizzness men's lunches, she said.

You evidently forget how nerviss and excited I was when Benny was born, pop said, and ma said, Well yes, that's true, the nerses at the hospital talked and laughed about you for days. Perhaps I did misjudge you, Willian. Well then listen. The Sudden Suds Company is already hinting about a big prize contest for the most appropriate name for the baby when it arrives, so if you're truly intristed you'll help me think up a name, she said.

I'm your man, pop said. I temporarily suggest the name of Snookems as being appropriate for either a boy or a gerl. By gollies, Snookems is even plural, in case its twins, he said.

Being the temporary end of the subject.

JUSTICE MINISTER

In a 175-word statement delivered to the press gallery, Mr. Ilsley said the "sole" reason for his decision was the necessity, after 22 years in public life, to give attention to his personal affairs. He "deeply regretted" leaving a government whose policies he "whole-heartedly approved."

He labelled as "unfounded" newspaper reports that he soon would be appointed to the bench.

Considering Two Avenues

However, close friends disclosed that Mr. Ilsley for some time has been considering two avenues—whether to accept appointment as chief justice of his native Nova Scotia or whether to return to private practice with Col. Ralston's firm.

Mr. Ilsley told reporters he will make no announcement about when he will relinquish his Commons seat at Digby-Annapolis-Kings until he has conferred with party leaders in the Nova Scotia constituency.

Mr. King said his departure would be "deeply" felt by every member of the administration and would cause "general regret" in the country. He had known Mr. Ilsley's intention for some time.

Gordon Graydon, acting leader of the Progressive Conservative party, said Mr. Ilsley's retirement would remove from parliamentary life "one of the brilliant, honorable, patriotic men of our time." It would mean a "heavy loss" to the government.

A native of Somerset, N.S., Mr. Ilsley first was elected to parliament in 1926. He entered the cabinet as Minister of National Revenue in 1935, became Finance Minister in 1940 and was appointed to the Justice Portfolio in 1946.

PARTY LEADERS

The Premier said opposition claims that his government is a one-man administration are "childish nonsense". In the five years of his administration no member of the legislature had ever been asked to pledge his vote for a government bill. On several occasions Progressive Conservative members voted against the government but they were again party candidates in this election.

Should Reduce Rates

Mr. Oliver, at Kincardine, said the Liberal Party supports a policy of decentralization of industry to build up farm communities. He said the province's future depends on a healthy agricultural industry in a countryside studded with small industrial communities.

Industries should be brought to these small communities to provide employment for rural people who choose not to work on farms, he said. Hydro-electric power rates for rural subscribers should be reduced as much as possible so that larger communities would not have an advantage in attracting industries.

At Durham, Mr. Oliver charged that Premier Drew's $27,000,000 reduction of the provincial debt was not a matter of good government. He said more than that amount had been refunded by the federal government as a result of wartime tax agreements.

Mr. Jolliffe said in his broadcast that while the Communists say publicly that they are supporting the CCF in the election campaign, in their own party literature they are making "bitter attacks" on him personally and on the CCF.

Continue to Fight

"When they are talking to their own members, the Communists don't pretend that they support the C.C.F. They continue to fight us with lies and misrepresentation as they have always done."

He declared the real purpose of the Communists is "to damage the C.C.F. as much as possible" and he again repudiated Communist offers of support.

At Hespeller Mr. Jolliffe said one reason the Progressive Conservatives are trying to show a connection between the Communists and the C.C.F. is that "several thousand people will be voting for the C.C.F. for the first time June 7."

At Galt he said one-eighth of the $25,000,000 surplus reported by the Drew government would have eased the deficits facing Ontario hospitals. He said the rest of the surplus could have been used to increase old age pensions and mothers' allowances, to provide subsidized low cost housing and increased school and road grants.

Holstein Sale Nets High Prices

Oakville, June 1 —A total of $73,800 was paid for 59 head of cattle at the national Holstein sale here yesterday, for an average price of $1,294 per head, the second highest average since the sale was established in 1919.

No animal brought more than the $5,000 paid by Richard B. Ross of Gowanda, N.Y., for a bull calf, compared to the $10,000 $15,000, $21,000 and even $40,000 paid at previous sales for single animals. The fact that the average was so high is an indication that the market is settling, cattlemen said. They said a steady market at good prices now apparently has been reached.

British, South America and United States buyers took many of the 59 head. William Downes president of the British-Canadian Holstein Breeders' Association, purchased several head for the association from William Murphy of Lindsay, one of Canada's largest cattle exports. Downes and other members of the association are on what he called "a buying expedition" in Canada that will send thousands of dollars worth of Canadian cattle to the United Kingdom.

Albert Stagg, Toronto, bought a $3,600 bull calf from H.L. Gilbert, Vercheres, Que., for shipment to Italy, the first Canadian Holstein to be shipped to that country since before the Second Great War.

$5,000 For Bull Calf

..The top-priced animal at $5,000 was the bull calf Glenafton Kinsman owned by J.J.E. McCague, Alliston. Ross bought him as a sire for his herd in New York. The average price at the sale last year, when several high-priced animals were sold, was $850 which is $444 lower than this year.

Seven bulls brought an average price of $2,014; seven milking females, $1,246; 31 bred heifers, $1,632; 11 open yearlings, $1,111.

A group of Ontario County breeders, Tom Flett, Oshawa; Orvan Chambers, Milford and Hugh Ormiston, Brooklin, bought a bull calf from the Elmcroft Farm for $3,500.

Other good prices were $3,000 paid by G. R. Row of Curries; D Hart, Woodstock, and A. Gilmor, Burgessville, to C.J. Cersell, Beaton, for a bull calf; $2,650 paid to Albert Stagg by G. D. Iozia, Lafayette, N.Y., for a bred heifer; $2,200 to J. A. MacDowell, Oxford Centre, received from Richard B. Ross, Gowanda, N.Y., for a heifer calf; $2,000 each paid by J. A. Sutten, Visalia, Calif., to Gordon Innes, Woodstock, and H. J. McFarlane, Picton, for a bred heifer and a bull calf.

WANTED
'A HOME
Perhaps you have never heard of me, but I'm a little British car called "FLYING STANDARD." I'm just a little fellow and honestly don't eat very much. Why, you could drive me all week and never miss what it would cost to run me. Say, here's another thing — I don't take up very much room. I can practically find shelter underneath your verandah.
People are usually very kind to me. My one previous owner tended me like a baby and when other cars pass me on the road they treat me with lots of respect. So, if you have a nice home for a wee fellow please get in touch with WEST END MOTOR SALES who are taking care of me for now. I know they won't charge you too much for me. I'll tell them not to.

OFFICE NURSE

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

Tonight was something out of the ordinary for him. To have invited someone he liked, on his own, just to do something he wanted to do, was quite a novelty. Quite.

Waiting for her now in the appointed meeting place, he found himself a trifle apprehensive. He hoped the evening would turn out successfully. One would think he did not see Janice every day, had not seen her every day for four years.

What had happened, he wondered, noticing a girl who was just coming through the swinging door—an exceptionally attractive young girl, but vaguely familiar—what had happened to him and Elissa? Their marriage, by ordinary standards, was a success. Yet something was missing. He had not thought about it before.

He had not thought—By Jove! The girl was coming up to him, smiling, as though she recognized him and was glad of this chance encounter. Her pretty face was glowing, her eyes—

* * *

"Good Lord!" He took a step toward her. "I didn't know you." That was, undoubtedly the wrong thing to say. But he had said it. Miss Hilary, his office nurse—he still could not believe it was she. It was impossible for anyone to look so entirely different. Or perhaps the fault was his, perhaps he had never actually looked at her like this.

"I'm afraid you're trying to flatter me," Janice said, the smile in her lovely gray eyes deepening.

He realized that she thought he had pretended not to recognize her because of her clothes. She was well dressed; he could not have been Elissa's husband without realizing that. But it was not the clothes that made all the difference.

"I honestly didn't know you, Janice," he said gravely. "It's as though I were seeing you for the first time." He had taken her hand in his by way of greeting; he still held it in his own.

She laughed, her color deepening, and withdrew her hand. They stood in the centre of a crowded hotel lobby, but they might have been alone.

"I can't look that different!" she protested, but her eyes acknowledged that she knew what he meant.

He stood like an awkward schoolboy, not knowing what to say. He had not experienced this feeling in so long that he had forgotten he had ever experienced it. He also felt warm inside, excited.

There must have been something in the air, something that had been let in through the revolving door as Janice had come through.

"We must get some flowers," Eric said impulsively. "Am I too dressed up?" Janice's gray eyes held a shade of dismay, yet she knew that she looked beautiful, as she had hoped to look. She saw it reflected in Eric Holbrook's dark eyes. She knew that, for the moment, she had made him unsure of himself; indeed, that she had startled him out of a self in which had been too long submerged.

He took her arm with assurance now; he was himself again. "You look beautiful," he told her gaily. "So beautiful that you made me think of flowers. There's a tiny shop right off the lobby. Let's see if we can find something that will do for you."

It had to be something special. The short plump proprietor, raising bushy white eyebrows up and down, first in expectancy, then in disappointment, could produce nothing that Dr. Holbrook would have.

"An orchid then? A ve-ery special orchid. See!" He brought out this treasure with a grand flourish.

The doctor pursed his handsome mouth, refusing almost to glance at it. "What are those?" He bent down to peer back into the depths of the enormous refrigerator case. "No, no—that small bunch clear at the back. Ah, yes, those! Those should be just right. That is, if you like them, Janice?" Straightening up, his eyes met hers.

They were tiny, tight yellow rosebuds. Janice said she thought they were adorable. When they were made up into a corsage—and the bushy eyebrows proved himself an expert designer—they did look lovely pinned against her brown fur jacket.

* * *

It was a wonderful evening. And Michelle's food was as perfect as Dr. Holbrook had promised.

Again Eric made a selection that must be "just right" for Janice. He insisted that Michelle produce a special wine, nothing ordinary would do. "It must be very special," he said. "Something just right for Miss Hilary. A bit sweet, but not too sweet. But you will know what to serve, Michelle."

Janice could not have said whether the wine was much better than her father's favorite California sherry, but it was delightful, and it made her color high, her eye shine, and her senses sing.

"How would you like to take a ride through the park in a hansom cab?" Eric Holbrook suggested when they had finished dinner.

Janice had never driven in a hansom cab and she confessed that she had always wanted to.

"That settles it!" the doctor proclaimed. "That is the order of the evening—to do what we want, not the things we usually do. It seems," he added, after they had found a cab and settled themselves in it, "that this is the first time in years I've done the things I enjoy doing."

It was wonderful, driving through the park. They did not talk much. They seemed bound in a sort of enchantment. The trees were dark but friendly shadows, full of mystery that held no terror. The sky was embroidered with stars.

It was the sort of experience one wished need never come to an end. They both gave a little sigh when it did.

"We'll do it again," Eric promised.

But Janice wondered if it could ever seem so perfect again.

* * *

"There's one place more I'd like to take you," he said, "one thing more I'd like to do. The evening wouldn't be perfect, without it. It has, been perfect, hasn't it, Janice? And you won't say no to this last wish of mine?"

She did not suppose she would, or could, though when he named it she had a moment's trepidation.

He wanted to stop at his house and play a few of his favorite recordings for her. The evening had to have music and, again, just any music would not do. Fearing that she would refuse or misunderstand his request, he added, "You know it's all right my asking you, don't you, Janice?"

Of course she did. It was ridiculous to think, even for a moment, that it was not. They knew each other so well. If she had been a friend of his or his wife's he would have thought nothing of taking her to his home to hear some music.

"Of course it's all right," she said. "I'd love the music." She laughed and added, "My head has just got clear of Michelle's special wine. Now I know why it is so special—it seems harmless when you are drinking it, but it creeps up on you so that too much might become dangerous—like a smoldering, unseen fire."

"If I had known that you got that big a surprise from Michelle's wine I'd have insisted on your taking more. It's not sensible to pass up anything that sets you on fire. And you see, you got over it quickly, driving in the park."

Those were words that he—and she — were to remember, but neither knew it at the time.

Eric's house stood in total darkness when their taxi deposited them at its door. Janice knew that the house had belonged to Mrs. Holbrook's father. It was one of Manhattan's landmarks. It stood on a corner on Fifth Avenue and sight-seeing drivers pointed it out to visiting tourists. It was more like a museum than a dwelling. It loomed even more formidable in its complete blackout.

The music room was off the large centre hall which looked, when lighted, like a museum, too, with its formal furnishings, old tapestries, oriental rugs, and massive carved chests.

Eric's favorites proved to be some of Janice's too: "Liebestod," from "Tristan and Isolde," the Paganini Violin Concerto, Tschaikovsky's "Sixth Symphony," Bach's "Toccata and Fugue in D Minor," and nearly anything of Debussy's.

Janice was amazed when she glanced at a little French clock on the mantlepiece and discovered it was long past midnight. She said she would have to go. It had been delightful and she could have gone on listening much longer, but after all, as she said, she had to get up in the morning.

"I'm a working girl, remember?" she asked, her gray eyes smiling into his dark ones.

"We'll do this again," he promised. "This is only a beginning. . . ." He had gotten up immediately at her suggestion that she must leave, as though to assure her he would make no effort to urge her to stay. He had crossed over to where she sat, on a small love seat. Now, standing before her, the sentence he had begun died.

* * *

Janice stood up. Neither of them said anything. Throughout the evening they had found that they could talk or remain silent, and that magical bond that held them remained unbroken.

Perhaps that was what brought them even closer together now. Perhaps one—or both—took another step that brought Eric's arms around her, her lips against his own. Certainly it was not planned. It happened—that was all.

There was a long moment that came from out of nowhere, a moment far more heady than any imported wine.

"I didn't mean that to happen, Janice—please believe me," Eric said as he released her. His dark eyes were grave. There could be no doubt to his sincerity.

"I know you didn't," Janice answered. She knew, though, that they should never have come here to his house. The servants were aslep. The silence and darkness outside this room were too deep now with the music stilled.

"It just happened," Eric said. He looked as he had earlier in the evening, not only much younger, but abashed. His eyes were grave and troubled.

"I know," Janice said again.

"It wasn't our fault—either of our faults," he said. "But I cannot say that I am sorry, Janice."

* * *

Her eyes, meeting his so candidly, told him that neither could she. But it was she who realized that it would be someone's fault—most likely hers if it should happen again. She said, "Let's not talk about it any more tonight! Please take me home."

"As you wish, of course, my dearest." His tone was tender, intimate. It said that postponement could not change what had happened to them. He called her by an endearing term—not lightly, but significantly.

Flag, Badges Given to Pt. Anne Boy Scouts at Father-Son Banquet

Pt. Anne — On Tuesday evening May 25 1948. A father and son banquet was held in the Parish Hall for the boys of the 1st Point Anne Boy Scout Troop and their fathers. There were about 60 in attendance. Following the bountiful supper served by the members of the Scout Mother's Auxiliary, the Scout Master Frank Insley presented First Class badges to Scouts Peter Green and Bud MacDonald. Mr. Armstrong was called on and presented a new Scout flag to the troop and Mr. Tom Bowler, president of the Sponsorship Committee, spoke briefly.

The Scoutmaster then introduced the guest speaker for the evening, Mr. Angus Duffy of Belleville, who gave a fine talk which was much enjoyed. This enjoyable occasion was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

Labor Minister Yields Floor To Audience Member

Hanover, June 1 (CP) —Labor Minister Daley, after making an Ontario election campaign address Monday night in this Grey South riding industrial town, yielded the floor to a member of the audience, and walked out of the hall.

During a question period at the end of the speech, Herman Denef superintendent of the local public utilities commission, asked a series of questions about hydro and Mr. Daley suggested that Mr. Denef might like to take the platform and make a speech himself.

As Mr. Denef walked up to the front of the hall and prepared to speak, Mr. Daley said:

"I came here to make a speech not to listen to one."

Then he left the building.

Candidate Fails To Qualify in Time

Kitchener, June 1 (CP) —With advertising posted over the riding of Waterloo North asking voters to support him as Social Credit candidate, H. S. Emel failed to qualify for a place on the ballot at the nomination meeting at the courthouse Monday.

Mr. Emel was waiting for the returning officer at the latter's office on his return from the courthouse. He had his papers fully signed but as the closing hour for nominations had passed F.W.K. Bingham, refused to accept them.

Mr. Emel said he had not knowledge the official meeting was at the courthouse but the returning officer pointed out the day, hour and place were clearly indicated on the proclamation.

Farmer Saved By Wife When Attacked by Bull

Brussels, Ont., June 1 — (CP) —Carl Proctor, 52, suffered a fractured rib, cuts and bruises when attacked by a bull on his farm near this Huron county community.

He escaped possible death when his wife stopped the animal. She was unaware of her husband's plight until a neighbor, a quarter of a mile away, saw the incident and telephoned her.

"I could see him being butted along," she said. "Every time my husband tried to get up the bull would charge again. I stood there stunned and then gave the bull a terrible look. I shouted at him to get back and stay back. He did."

"It was almost an hour before I could get him to the house. He was so badly injured he lost consciousness two or three times."

100,000 to Leave Britain This Year

London, May 31 (Reuters) — British immigration to the Commonwealth is to be speeded up this year, particularly to Canada and Australia. At least 100,000 migrants will leave Britain in search of new homes overseas.

Canada, which had 33,747 migrants from Britain last year, expects these figures to be greatly exceeded this year and approach the "bumper" years before the First World War.

The 30-year-old British liner Aquitania has been brought into use as a migrant ship and will make 11 trips carrying 12,000 immigrants. She is already fully booked up for her first five crossings.

Planes chartered by the Canadian government will carry a further 10,000 immigrants between June and next March. They will make 20 trips next month carrying 40 passengers per trip at reduced rates.

FORESTALL STRIKE IN RUHR

Duesseldorf, Germany, June 1 — (AP) — Union leaders cancelled today a strike of 100,000 Ruhr metal workers which was to have started at midnight.

The strike was to have protested the appointment of Hermann Reusch, pre-war German steel magnate, as chairman of a committee on Ruhr steel production.

Hans Boeckler, Union leader in the British zone, said the walkout was called off pending talks in Frankfurt Tuesday between labor leaders and the German economic administration.

Car Hit by Train, One Man Killed

Owen Sound, June 1 — (CP)— One man was killed Monday night and another injured when their automobile collided with a southbound Canadian Pacific passenger train, one mile east of here.

Dead is Alfred Beale, 51, who emigrated here from England two months ago. Taken to hospital with undetermined injuries was William Horne, 32.

Police said the car was carried 600 feet by the train, bound from Owen Sound to Toronto. Beale's body was found 500 feet from the railway crossing.

Provincial Police said they had been unable to learn who was driving the car, which Beale bought only Monday. Mrs. Horne said her husband had gone out to teach Beale to drive.

Prisoner Escapes From Courtroom

North Bay, Ont., June 1 — (CP) — A 15-foot drop didn't halt Paul Lachek Monday when he jumped through an open window in North Bay's police court and escaped.

Awaiting trial on a charge of possessing an unregistered revolver, Lachek, 30-year-old Sudbury miner, sprang from his seat, bounded to an open window and jumped the 15 feet. Then he ran over the roof of a one-storey building and jumped from there to Main Street, disappearing up an alleyway.

Red-faced police began search of the district.

ruce Must Provide nified Palestine rabs Inform U.N.

Accepts Armistice, Leaves Time Cease-Fire Undecided

Cairo, June 2 (AP)—The Arab states informed the United Nations today that any truce which does not provide for a unified Palestine has no chance of success.

The detailed reply was an acceptance of the four-week Armistice asked by the U.N., but it left the time of the cease-fire to be decided.

While the Arabs and Jews debated the scope of the truce both accepted Tuesday, gunplay continued in the Holy Land. Whether Israel's statement of "assumptions" regarding the four-week Armistice and the Arab reply would bring an effective Armistice could not be said.

The Trans-Jordan Arab Legion repulsed Jewish attacks on three gates of the old walled city of Jerusalem before 3 a.m. Palestine time which Israel had set for a cease-fire. Military headquarters at Tel Aviv asserted that Egyptian armed forces broke that cease-fire twice in actions below Tel Aviv.

Attack Repulsed

The Arab Legion which captured old walled Jerusalem last week said 600 Jews attacked the Zion, Jaffa and New Gates of the old city between 1 and 3 a.m. Arab marksmen repulsed the attacks and estimated they killed 20 Jews. The Legion commander said a Jewish plane was heard but that it stayed out of range of anti-aircraft guns.

Artillery, mortar and automatic weapons sounded through Jerusalem after sunrise. The Arab Legion commander said he was considering going ahead with a previous plan to shell the Jewish agency building in modern Jerusalem.

Al Assas, a newspaper supporting the Egyptian government, said Egyptian artillery was throwing 25 - pound shells this morning at Rehovot, 2 miles southeast of Tel Aviv. Jewish army headquarters also reported the Egyptian attack.

An unofficial report reaching Amman, Trans-Jordan said Jewish armored cars with motars penetrated eight miles into that Arab country early today and killed eight of a garrison of 15 policemen at Ghore Safi. The site is near the southern end of the Dead Sea. The report said surviving police still were resisting the attack at mid-morning.

Planes Hit Two Places

Tel Aviv military headquarters reported Egyptian troops, artillery and planes hit two places this morning.

Negba was attacked and Hulda bombed, the announcement said. The latter is near the southern boundary claimed by Israel, the former some seven miles south

SORELY-STRICKEN FRASER VALLEY LICKING WOUNDS

$30,000,000 Damage Already Done and Worst, in Sections, Yet to Come

Vancouver, June 2 — (CP) — The sorely-stricken Fraser Valley today was licking its $30,000,000 flood wounds, waiting for the worst, which, in many sections is yet to come.

Six thousands more acres of once-fertile farmland late Tuesday became a river floor for the Fraser as a 45-foot silt-laden torrent breached an 80-foot hole in the dike at Cannor, about 55 miles east of here near Chilliwack.

An estimated 1,000 residents were evacuated from the area. An army official said "at least 9,000 persons" have been made homeless in the Fraser Valley alone.

Flood experts advising the Federal government Tuesday night placed the flood loss in the valley between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000.

The Columbia River has reaped a toll of havoc in B.C.'s East Kootenay district. It is sweeping into the smelter city of Trail and emergency crews were frantically throwing up dikes and retaining walls as the water seeped into the heart of the business district.

John Desroches Acquitted on Old Murder Charge

Montreal, June 2 (CP) — John Desroches, a stooped; grey-faced figure stood in the prisoner's dock in court Tuesday and heard a jury acquit him of a 35-year-old murder charge.

It was April 3, 1913, when Desroches walked into a Montreal tavern, whipped out a revolver and shot Eugene Venne dead.

Desroches, then only 28, went on trial in July, 1913. He was found mentally unfit and was ordered held in the criminally-insane wing of Montreal jail at Bordeaux.

Tuesday Desroches was brought to trial again. Medical evidence showed he is no longer insane.

Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure told the jurors their verdict-acquittal on the ground of insanity—would be only a formality.

The jury quickly returned the verdict and Desroches, his prison pallor and wisps of gray hair contrasting with his neat brown suit and tie, left the court room with prison guards. Official consent of the Lieutenant-Governor for Desroches' final release is expected within two weeks.

$50,000 FIRE LOSS

Toronto, June 2 — (CP) — Damage of $50,000 was estimated when fire swept through the wool processing plant of the Union Felt Produce Co., in Toronto's west-end. The blaze was believed to been caused from a spark from a machine.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, June 2 (CP) —Synopsis: Maximum temperatures were generally in the eighties on Tuesday throughout south central Canada. Warm dry air covering this whole region is circulating around an extensive area of high pressure which is moving slowly eastward. Clear very warm weather is expected to continue throughout most of the province today and Thursday, with no indication of relief for forest fire fighters. Cooler air will enter northern sections on Thursday with scattered showers occurring along its leading edge.

REPORTS SEVERAL ILLEGAL COMBINES IN OPTICAL TRADE

Finding as Result Of Probe Made Public

By JOHN LeBLANC
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, June 2 — (CP)—Several illegal combines have been operating to inflate prices in the Canadian optical goods trade, Justice Minister Ilsley was advised officially today at the end of an eight-year-old federal investigation.

F. A. McGregor, commissioner under the Combined Investigation Act, named two United States optical companies, a Canadian subsidiary and a group of Canadian wholesalers as having combined "against the interest of the public."

Control of patent licences has been the device used to hoist prices in the optical trade, the commissioner found, and his report marked the first Canadian instance in which a patent licensing system has been cited as principal factor in an illegal trade restraint.

Mr. Ilsley said no decision has been reached on the question of court action growing out of the commissioner's finding.

Officials said also that the question of prosecutions doubtless would be considered, too, by the Attorneys-General of the provinces — all of which have been included in operations of one or another of the combines.

Conditions Reported

The report showed such conditions as these:

1. The combine forced optometrists and opticians to charge not less than $15 for glasses costing $5.80.

Says Yugoslavia Recalls Two Ambassadors

London, June 2. (AP) — A spokesman for the official Yugoslav News Agency, Tanyug, said today the Belgrade government has recalled its ambassadors from London and Ankara.

The Yugoslav ambassador to Britain, Dr. L. Leontig, now is in Belgrade. He left for his home capital some weeks ago.

The Tanyug spokesman could not clarify immediately whether the two ambassadors have been recalled for routine consultations or withdrawn by the government.

Later Dr. F. Kos, Charge D'Affaires at the Yugoslav Embassy, said Leontic has been retired "at his own wish".

Kos said he could not speak for Bozhin Simic, who represents the Belgrade government in Ankara.

Pope Calls For Just And Necessary Social Reform For Problems

Rome June 2 (AP) — Pope Pius called today for "just and necessary social reforms" to solve problems "growing out of the ruin and revolution of the world and its aftermath."

Not otherwise could "wayward and embittered hearts" be won back to the "true concepts and sound ideas about the world and God."

He invoked "earnestness, loyalty, energy and fairness" of "all men of right principles" for the task, citing especially the "urgent need to provide the poorer classes with housing, bread and work.

To Roman Catholics he gave the watchword, "watchfullness"—lest the enemy, whose identity he did not specify, "retake the ground so laboriously conquered."

The speech, which was in Italian and lasted 25 minutes, was the Pontiff's first major address since a Communist-led challenge was turned back in Italy's election April 18 and 19.

It was in reply to greetings from 17 Cardinals of the Holy College of his Saint's Day. The Pope's name is Eugenio Pacelli, his Saint is St. Eugene.

The address came coincidentally, on the second birthday of the Italian Republic, celebrated nationally.

The broadcast was carried by the Vatican short and medium-wave stations and by the Italian government radio system.

To the church's enemies, whom he did not name, he devoted less attention than usual.

The Pontiff noted that "Father forgive them, for they know not what they do" might be valid for those enemies.

But "that would not change in anything the objective penicious-ness of their conduct."

In announcing Church's 25th Holy Year would be held in 1950, the Pope referred obliquely to the defeat of the Communist led Popular Front.

In setting forth the Pontificate's continued devotion to world peace, he cited his having a special envoy to the recent western European Congress in The Hague to encourage "the union of peoples."

He spoke sadly of continued bloodshed in Greece and China, and said the world hailed the truce in Palestine with "a sigh of relief, as a dawn of hope."

Six West Europe Nations Agree On Political and Economic Future of Western Germany

London, June 2. (CP)—A six-power conference on Western Germany's political and economic future reported officially today it has reached agreement on recommendations covering the whole field.

That was the heart of an 80-word communique summing up the results of six weeks of talks which brought together high-ranking diplomats, financial and production experts from the United States, Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxemburg.

It mentioned directly none of the major accomplishments of the talks, among them the recommendation to establish a separate western Germany early next year, plans for creating an international control board over the Ruhr's key minerals, or long-range methods for preventing rebirth of German aggression.

But it did say that a report on its recommendations will shortly be made public.

A Foreign Office spokesman was unable to say whether Russia would be informed by the British government or other participating governments about the results of the conference.

Asked whether a meeting of the French, British and United States Foreign Ministers was likely to follow the conclusion of the conference, the spokesman said that he knew of no arrangement for such a meeting.

Mayor Lawrence Recommends Strong Committee

Windsor, June 2. (CP)—Immediate setting up of a provincial-municipal committee to study the division of responsibilities between the Ontario government and the municipalities was urged today by Mayor Sam Lawrence of Hamilton.

In his presidential address prepared for delivery to the annual conference of the Association of Ontario Mayors and Reeves, he said establishment of such a committee was suggested in the Speech from the Throne at the last session of the Ontario Legislature.

"This Association, as a result of its previous definition of the municipal position and of its deliberations and findings at this conference, should be prepared to make any necessary representations to the joint provincial-municipal committee.

"I do not think that a better approach to municipal problems can be made than by representatives of this association. I recommend that the Prime Minister of this province be respectfully requested to establish the provincial-municipal committee immediately."

The Association had contended that the three great burdens placed upon municipalities were the costs of social services, the costs of roadway development and maintenance and the growth of exemptions from municipal taxation for an increasing number of properties.

Mayor Lawrence recommended that the association "press strongly" for answers to submissions already placed before the provincial and the federal governments.

Nude, Battered Body of Woman Found in Yard

Halifax, June 2 — (CP)—The nude battered body of Mrs. Maureen MacDonald, 35, wife of a Victoria, B. C., navy officer, was found in a rain-soaked backyard in midtown Halifax today.

Police arrested Victor Robart, 32, Negro employee of Camp Hill military hospital, on a charge of murder. He was remanded to June 10.

Police said the woman was attacked in a dwelling on Upper Water Street about 2 a.m. and her body dragged or carried half a mile and dumped into the yard of a home.

Investigators found the Water Street premises in wild disorder.

Mrs. MacDonald was the wife of Lt.-Cmdr. Harry H. MacDonald of Victoria. Police said they understood the husband had filed action for divorce some time ago.

John Sparks, a resident of the Water Street house, told detectives that a man dragged Mrs. MacDonald out by the arm. She was screaming.

Witnesses said that after dragging Mrs. MacDonald to the street, the man beat her with his fists until she was unconscious.

Seven German Doctors, S.S. Officers Hanged for Brutalities in Camps

Landsberg, Germany, June 2—(AP) — Seven German doctors and S. S. (Elite Guard) officers died on American gallows today for war crimes.

They were convicted of killing and maiming thousands in brutal medical experiments in Nazi concentration camps.

They were the first to be hanged of 25 Germans sentenced to death by United States war crimes courts at Nuernberg.

Several died protesting their innocence and complaining against the American system of justice which convicted them.

The executions went off without a hitch. The last man dropped to his doom just 62 minutes after the first stepped on the trap.

The experiments described in court included high altitude experiments in which human guinea pigs were crushed and strangled. There also were malaria, mustard gas and sterilization tests which killed many — most of them dying in agony.

Gen. Karl Brandt, 43, top medical officer of the Nazi state, was the first to die. He once boasted:

"There is one German the Americans will never hang."

Brandt once was Hitler's personal physician. Another of Der Fuehrer's personal doctors, Dr. Theodore Morrell, died last week — of natural causes.

Brandt scorned religious solace, as did the others. They were:

Karl Gebhardt, 50, once president of the German Red Cross, head surgeon of the Elite Guard and personal physician of Heinrich Himmler.

Joachim Morgowsky, 42, chief Elite Guard hygienist.

Wolfram Sievars, S. S. Colonel and chief administrative officer under Martin Bormann.

Waldemar Hoven, chief medical officer at Buchenwald.

Rudolf Brandt, adjutant to Himmler and chief of S. S. hygienic institute.

Five other defendants convicted at the trial, which ended last August, were sentenced to life imprisonment. Four received lesser prison terms. Seven of the 23 original defendants were acquitted.

SPEAKERS DIVIDE ON MARGARINE BILL BEFORE HOUSE

Senate Wants Supreme Court Ruling on Bill

Ottawa, June 2 — (CP) — It was two to one against oleomargarine in the Commons Tuesday night.

Two Liberal mem [illegible] against it while one [illegible] Conservative spoke for it as the Chamber again debated second reading of a private bill introduced by James Sinclair (L-Vancouver North), which would lift the long-standing ban on the contentious butter substitute.

Opposing the measure were Eugene Marquis (L-Kamouraska) and J. O. Gour (L-Russell) while T. L. Church (PC-Toronto Broadview) favored it.

No progress has been made on the bill and it went to the bottom of the list. It likely will not come up again before the end of this month.

But its temporary disappearance in the Commons does not mean the end to margarine debates in parliament. Senator W. D. Euler (L-Ontario) gave notice of a motion which will revive the margarine questions next Tuesday.

His motion will call on the Senate to express the opinion that the government should have the Supreme Court rule on the validity of the legislation which outlaws margarine in Canada.

Aircraft Carrier Placed on View In Halifax Harbor

Halifax, June 2 (CP) —Canada's newest and largest naval craft — the light fleet aircraft carrier H.M.C.S. Magnificent — was on display today to thousands of curious Nova Scotians who lined the Navy dockyard fences to gaze ta the stately warship.

An estimated 20,000 persons turned out Tuesday to give the Magnificent one of the greatest welcomes ever accorded any ship to enter this harbor in its 200-year history.

Leaden skies and a low-hanging mist failed to dampen their ardor. Weather conditions did force cancellation of the scheduled fly-past of 30 aircraft.

Commanding the carrier is Commodore Harry G. Dewolf, C.B.E., D.S.O., D.S.C., of nearby Bedford, NS., and the executive officer is Cmdr. Desmond (Debbie) Piers, a native son.

After shake down cruises off the Nova Scotia coast, the Magnificent will sail into Hudson Strait. The Magnificent has been "Arcticized" — insulated — to withstand the icy blasts of the North Atlantic or the torrid heat of the tropics.

A carrier of the "Colossus" type as the Warrior — her predecessor which had been loaned to Canada by the Royal Navy—the Magnificent carries 58 officers and 637 men while the air section aboard has 26 officers and 132 men.

'OLE SWIMMIN' HOLE' GOES

Applies to All Travel-Permit Areas and Lakes

Unchecked Flames Spread Over Almost 100,000 Acres

(By The Canadian Press)

The fire-ravaged forests of Northern Ontario were closed today to all persons except those on "essential" business.

T. E. Mackey, Chief of the Forest Protection Division of the Ontario Lands Department, made the announcement in Toronto.

The ban on travel applies to all travel-permit areas and lakes in the bulk of the northland, he said. It will be in effect indefinitely.

"This will be tough on a lot of people," said Mr. Mackey, "but the fact is that the forests are not safe to go into. This really is a move to protect people.

"From now on, only people with legitimate business — people engaged in fire-suppression or in some other essential work—will be permitted to enter the bush."

Costliest in History

The announcement came as unchecked flames spread over areas totalling almost 100,000 acres.

One of the three major blazes—in the Mississagi district 55 miles northwest of Blind River—is one of the largest and costliest in Ontario history, Mr. Mackey said.

It is expected to link within a few days with a 40,000-acre fire in the Chapleau-Blind River sector. The fires now are separated by only 10 to 15 miles.

The travel prohibition applies in regulation areas where permits normally are required by tourists, trappers and fishermen between April 15 and Oct. 31.

Forestry officials took this drastic action, Mr. Mackey said, because the situation is "frankly very bad."

"All fires are spreading out in all directions and if the weather continues dry and hot, things are going to be even worse."

Temperatures in the 80s and light winds are forecast for today as crews were called on to fight three new blazes totalling 3,100 acres.

The Mississagi blaze covers between 40,000 and 50,000 acres, mostly valuable red and white pine. If it joins the Blind River fire, raging in standing timber, the front will extend over a narrow area of 40 miles.

Mr. Mackey said the fires probably would not join to form a solid front. Instead narrow tongues would extend out from each. "No Man's Land" between the two is completely obscured by smoke, making observation and fire-fighting almost impossible.

The 12-day-old Helen Lake fire raged out of control over 7,000 acres of cut-over timber.

150 Fight Fire

A 1,200-acre fire, five miles west of Long Lac, is being fought by 150 men on both sides of the Long Lac-Port Arthur highway. It is destroying cut-over pulpwood slash.

At Martinette Lake, 40 miles northeast of Schreiber, 150 men are battling a 1,000-acre blaze in pulpwood slash.

The third new outbreak is in Godfrey township, six miles west of Timmins. It covers 900 acres and is being tackled by 50 men.

Mr. Mackey blamed human carelessness for all the fires.

"Our investigators are out, but it is too early yet to make a statement," he said. "We know lightning was not responsible."

LIBERALS, C.C.F. ASKED TO STATE STAND ON LIQUOR

Premier Drew Says Neither Party Has Made Clear Its Own Position

Toronto, June 2 (CP)—Leaders of Ontario's three major political parties, nearing the end of their June 7 general election campaign tours, spoke Tuesday night in centres in the southern section of the province.

Premier Drew, in a half-hour broadcast over a CBC Ontario network, explained the functions of the government-sponsored Research Council. He addressed a Toronto Business Men's luncheon and spoke at night meetings in Brantford and Paris.

Farquhar Oliver, Ontario Liberal leader, spoke on old age pensions at a Parry Sound rally. E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. leader, in a Sarnia speech hailed election of a C.C.F. candidate in the Yale, B.C., federal by-election as "a good sign of what is to come in Canada."

A group of about 100 persons heckled Labor Minister Mitchell at a Liberal election rally in Welland. Premier Drew was heckled at a campaign meeting in the same city last week.

Another federal minister, Trade Minister Howe, spoke in support of a Liberal candidate at Port Arthur.

Parties Challenged

Premier Drew at Brantford challenged the Liberals and the C.C.F. to say exactly where they stand on liquor policies. He said the leaders of those parties had criticized his government's handling of liquor sales without making clear their own position.

At Paris he cited Toronto as an example of a place where his government's housing program has shown evidence of getting results. It had been announced in Toronto Tuesday that an agreement had been reached for the Dominion to go ahead with construction of 1,000 low-rental houses.

Abbott Declares Income Tax Rates Cut 51 Per Cent

Ottawa, June 2 (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott Tuesday night asked the Commons to remember that income tax rates have been cut by 51 per cent during the last three years.

He made the statement after G. K. Fraser (PC—Peterborough West) renewed a request for greater tax exemptions for persons in the low-income brackets. The discussion occurred while the Chamber studied a resolution to a bill providing for the income tax changes announced in the budget.

Mr. Abbott said because of the current economic conditions the government felt that this was not a year when major income tax reductions should be made.

He said that a 29-per-cent reduction in the tax was granted last year and in the last three years the reductions amounted to 51 per cent.

Mr. Fraser said that from 1939 on the income tax rates rose like a skyrocket and a 51-per-cent reduction did not mean much when present rates were compared with those of pre-war years.

Crime in London at High Level Until Living Conditions Bettered

London, June 2 — (Reuters)—In overcrowded, rationed, London crime is likely to remain at a high level until living conditions improve, Sir Harold Scott, commissioner of the metropolitan police, states in his annual report issued today.

Sir Harold is responsible for the security of a population of 8,250,000 which is still increasing.

Appealing to "good citizens" to help, he points out that crime can only be kept within bounds by continued and increasing co-operation between the public and the police.

He attributes the fall in public morality and the large increase of crimes of dishonesty to shortages of all kinds which "have led many people, who in normal times were scrupulously law-abiding, to dabble in the black market and to evade regulations."

The metropolitan police force, total strength of which is 15,000, is revealed to be suffering a deficiency of nearly 5,000 men. Many of the officers are young and not yet experienced.

Some 2,000 recruits joined last year and 1,200 the year before.

Board Reserves Decision On City Application

Members of the Ontario Municipal Board reserved decision here yesterday on the application of the City of Belleville for approval of an extension to the city building by-law which would prohibit the erection of a bus terminal in the Catherine, Everett and Coleman Streets section of the city.

Present in the city for the hearing of the application were Mr. W. P. Near and Mr. Doucette of the Ontario Municipal Board. They reserved their decision on the application after hearing argument from City Solicitor R. A. Pringle and interested residents, and by solicitors for the Collacutt Bus Company.

Some weeks ago the above bus company purchased property in the Coleman Street area with the intention of erecting a bus terminal with the result that residents protested the move by petitioning city council. Council then moved for an extension to its building by-law prohibiting the use of land in the designated area for the erection of bus terminals.

Previously council had voted the local branch of the Canadian Legion exclusive bus terminal rights in the city. The Legion bus terminal was officially opened 2 weeks ago.

Approximately 75 persons attended the hearing at the City Hall.

[illegible] by Judge A[illegible]cate [illegible]bers of Kiwanis Clubs

[illegible] vivid description of communism, its aims, and functions was given by Squadron Leader J. Gellner, D.F.C., Judge Advocate General, of Trenton Air Station, in an address given members of the Belleville and Oshawa Kiwanis Clubs at an inter-club meeting held at the Kiwanis Centre Tuesday evening.

The meeting, presided over by Vice president Norm Edwards, in the absence of President Ted Schwab, was opened by the toast to the King, followed by Grace said by Rev. Arthur Smith. Guest for the evening, Glen Tamblyn, was introduced by Mr. Smith.

Following the enjoyable dinner, the Oshawa club provided the entertainment. Albert Hircock, assisted by Matt Gouldburn at the piano, sang two vocal solos, "The Big Bass Viol" and "Mother Machree".

An announcement and appeal for volunteers to canvass on June 15 for the Fresh Air Fund was made by Frank Harbeck, who noted that out of fifty men approached to assist not one had refused. A sign of the co-operative spirit of the members.

Born in Italy

The guest speaker was introduced by Bob Thompson. In his introduction, Bob told the group that Squadron Leader Gellner had been born in Trieste, Italy of Czechoslovakian parentage. In 1930 he graduated in law in Berne, leaving that place when the Germans overran it in 1939. He then went to the United States and thence to Canada where he joined the R. C. A. F. in 1940, serving overseas in 1941 and winning the meritous award, the D. F. C. He later returned to Canada as a trainer and served in the Ferry Command. His first-hand information on which he based his address is derived from his personal contacts while in Europe and those which he retains at present, some of which are through blood relations. His speech is thickly accented with his former native tongue, and although claiming to be a nervous speaker, his address was delivered in a calm, but forceful method which conveyed full meaning and emphasis to his audience.

Communism Topic

"What is Communism?" was the theme of the address. The speaker began by pointing out that the world is becoming increasingly [illegible] the dangers of communism [illegible] few persons in Canada today [illegible] examined the principles and workings of communism.

"Communism is not party program. It is a philosophic system", said the speaker. "We cannot pit a party program against communism. We must pit Christianity as an equal weapon." This statement the speaker backed-up by reviewing the Italian elections held recently. He showed that how only by the intervention of the church had communism been defeated. It was the words of the Pope that had turned the tide when he had informed the Italian people that they could not compromise with God and communism.

"The Italian elections were a victory of Christianity over communism, and not a victory of democracy," related the speaker.

Movement Not Changed

Proving that the communist movement was not a party program, the speaker stated that "Communism has not changed one iota in 100 years." Party programs are frequently changed to meet the demands of the situation.

The speaker explained that the communist believes in things that are tangible. As outlined in the "Manifesto of Communism", the communist believes that it is "not man who creates history, but history is actually only resultant of certain natural conditions." It is the belief of the communist that history is the result of class struggle through the ages. The only end that can be achieved is the subsequent obliteration of one or both classes before a peaceful world can be attained. The main two classes in existence today are the politarians and the bourgeois—capitalists and the middle class citizens—we represent the capitalists while the communists set themselves up as the middle class.

Quotes Constitution

Quoting from the Russian Constitution of 1936, the speaker told the group, "That a Russian can have private means, but, they must be the result of his own labor". If the acquisition of these private means requires the services of an apprentice or hireling, they are immediately confiscated by the state and the owner rated as a capitalist.

"Communism is merely biding time and militant class-struggle is inevitable if there is to be communism because it upholds all the ideology in which a communist believes."

In conclusion the speaker gave five points which should be considered and learned in connection with communism:

1. Communism is a religion and as such has fervent adherents.

2. A real communist in a capitalistic country is disloyal to that country. He will always be engaged in fifth-column activity.

3. Communism must be fought with a better ideology.

4. Communism does not allow for compromise. Capitalistic and communistic ideals cannot be mixed or existent in harmonious relationship.

5. As long as communism is existent we will be the attacked society.

"The showdown will come whenever the leaders of communism think the time is ripe," concluded Squadron-Leader Gellner.

The thanks of the group were conveyed by "Shell" Eaton and furthered by the customary presentation made by Norm Edwards. Further music was enjoyed and the door prize, donated by Fred Symons was won by Cliff Baragar. It was first won in the draw by Taylor Franklin, who conceded the prize as he had recently been a winner.

Education Board Approves New Public School System And School on Yeomans Street

Re-organization of the Belleville public school system to include junior and senior schools and the construction of a fifth public school on the Yeomans Street property has been approved by members of the local board of education at a special meeting.

Cost of the new one-storey public school on the Yeomans Street property recently acquired by the Board from the city is estimated in the neighborhood of $300,000. The building would include 13 classrooms and playroom, together with separate rooms for the principal and staff.

By re-organization of the public school system as suggested above, it is the opinion of members of the Board of Education that construction of an additional school to serve recently developed property in the east of the city will be avoided. In any event a new school would have to be provided in the west end of the city to relieve over-crowding conditions at King George and Queen Mary schools.

Under the policy of re-organization of the public schools, junior schools would accommodate kindergarten classes and up to Grade VI, while the senior school would accommodate children in Grade VII and VIII. Queen Mary School under the new set-up would be the senior school to take Grades VII and VIII with possible later consideration of Grade IX, pupils now in the Collegiate. The new set-up would become effective in September 1949.

Board members voted that immediate steps be taken to prepare plans for a new building to replace Queen Mary School, the building to be located on the Board's property on Yeomans Street.

School Lasts 50 Years

Taking into consideration that a new school building can be expected to last in the neighborhood of from 50 to 60 years it was decided that re-organization of city schools must either be done at the present or wait for another half century.

Advantages of re-organization were stated to be that the school program for Grades VII and VIII were essentially different than that of pupils up to Grade VI and their play and social interests were also vastly different.

It was pointed out that unless re-organization of the local school system took place at the present time it would be necessary to build two schools — one east of MacDonald Ave., to relieve over-crowding conditions in Queen Alexandra and at Queen Victoria schools and one west of Ponton Street to take the children out of the basement at Queen Mary School. In this case each building would cost almost as much as the one planned under the re-organized plan.

Give Sufficient Space

Re-organization will make available sufficient space at Queen Alexandra and at Queen Victoria schools to take care of any foreseen development in the east end of the city without requiring children to walk any further than pupils have to walk in these same school districts.

By a rather peculiar coincidence the distance to Queen Alexandra School and to Queen Victoria School from the easterly limits of the new Docter sub-division is the same as from Queen Mary School to the south westerly limits of the city. It is considerably less than the distance some pupils now have to walk to attend King George School.

Although detailed plans for the new school on the Yeomans Street property have not been considered by the Board, the new building is expected to be of one-storey construction with the classroom plan to be sufficiently flexible to accommodate variations in classroom requirements.

Costs Reduced

By reason of the one-storey construction, supporting steel will be unnecessary and therefore costs will be reduced. The school will have modern prism glass lighting, and all classrooms will be planned so as to have an outside exit door.

The Yeomans site provides for adequate play facilities, the lot extending 649 feet on Yeomans Street with a total depth of 694 feet. Floor space required for the school building would be approximately 21,626 square feet. According to figures suggested by the Department of Education it is thought the building can be constructed at a cost of approximately $300,000.

BROILING FISH

For broiled fish at its best, use a moderate heat, placing fish about six inches from the broiler. No extra fat is used with oily fish but lean fish is rubbed with butter before broiling.

SIDNEY G. LOCKYER
(Picton)

Picton — (Special) — One of the leading greenhouse operators in this part of Ontario, Sidney G. Lockyer, died suddenly at his home near Picton yesterday afternoon. He had recovered sufficiently from effects of a stroke suffered several months ago to be able to go for car rides, and had watched part of a softball game the previous night from his car. He was suddenly stricken after dinner yesterday and died three hours later.

Born in London, England, 55 years ago, Mr. Lockyer resided in Flint, Mich., where he was employed in the automotive industry before coming to Picton in 1919. He purchased the Spencer greenhouse and has since developed it into one of the biggest flower and vegetable businesses in the district. He operated a farm as well and was keenly interested in agriculture. He was active in all groups pertaining to the welfare of agriculture. He served as president of Prince Edward County Agricultural Society after being a member of the Board many years and played a prominent part in staging Picton Fair.

Gifted musically, he and members of his family gave freely of their talent on hundreds of occasions. For 25 years he was bandmaster of Picton band which became the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment Band. In pre-war days he attended camp with this unit. In earlier days he was associated with noted Salvation Army bands in the United States.

Few persons here gave more unstintingly of their time and effort to community life than Mr. Lockyer. He supported every good cause. He was a member of Prince Edward Yacht Club, Picton United Church, Prince Edward Masonic Lodge, Post 78 Canadian Legion, Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce, the Canadian Florist Association. He was a sports enthusiast and was vice president of Picton Amateur Athletic Association. He helped establish the floodlighted softball diamond in Picton. During war years he was active in patriotic work and assisted with Victory Loans.

Survivors are his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Jack Ward of Picton; two sons, Chris of Belleville and Creighton at home. A brother, William Lockyer, resides in Belleville. Rev. A. E. McCutcheon will conduct the funeral in Picton United Church Friday afternoon with interment taking place in Glenwood Cemetery.

Garvin of this city and (Lena), Mrs. A. Venters, of Toronto. She is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Felix Lebarge of Tweed and ten grandchildren.

Brighteners

London — "What is a thunderbolt?" 10-year-old Roy Scott asked his mother Tuesday night.

There was a blinding flash, soot cascaded down the chimney of the Scott's Cotman Gardens home in London, and tiles flew off the roof.

"That," said Roy's mother.

Philadelphia — (AP) — The city is reaping a profit on its vice squad decoys.

Plainclothesmen Frank Wolf and Stephen Cambers for four months have pretended to be bettors in a drive to share bookmakers and numbers operators.

The two not only caused more than 50 arrests but laid their bets so shrewdly that they cleared a profit of $200. A cheque for that amount was sent to the city treasurer.

New York — (AP) — A. Michael Kivatisky, 12, a realist, says the pleasures of the country are nothing compared to his own hot, teeming Manhattan East Side in summer.

Michael refused two free weeks at a summer camp offered by the Children's Aid Society of New York because:

He can go swimming any time he wants to in an East Side pool shadowed by skyscrapers instead of trees.

He's centre fielder on a baseball team that plays under the Queensborough Bridge.

He's a key member of a boys' club punch ball team.

Anytime he needs money, he can work delivering orders.

Chicago — (AP) — Last fall Michael J. Stragegos, 25, was vitally interested in babies. He was a prospective father.

When he saw a picture of a six-month old boy chinning himself, he said to his wife June, 17:

"When our baby's born he'll do better than that."

Tuesday Strategos called the newspapers. His son, Michael, Jr. was four months old and the tot celebrating by clutching a rod held by his dad, permitting Strategos to lift him, and then —— Strategos said — chinning himself.

When photographers arrived, the baby held on to the rod all right, but he wouldn't repeat the chinning exploit. But you know babies, when company's around and you want them to show off.

ONE JAPANESE SHOT ON ATOLL

Pearl Harbor, June 2 (AP)—United States marines Monday shot and killed a Japanese who had been hiding on one of Kwajalein Atoll's tiny islands since the American capture of that Marshall Island base in February, 1944. And there may be another, still living, the navy said. The Japanese was killed after he opened fire on Marines sent to capture him.

TWO GREEKS ACQUITTED

Athens, June 2 — (AP) — Two wealthy Greeks charged with giving financial aid to the leftist guerrillas have been acquitted by a military tribunal and released, it was announced Tuesday. They are John Papastratos, whose family has a tobacco fortune, and John Yannopoulos, a tannery owner.

Rt. Hon. James L. ENDS FINN CRISIS

Appointment of Hertta Kuusinen as minister without portfolio in the Finnish cabinet has ended a political crisis inspired by Red leaders. The new cabinet member, often called the "soul of the Communist party," is the wife of Yrjo Leino, former Communist minister of the interior, who was dismissed recently after he was censured by parliament.

REPORTS SEVERAL

2. A minimum retail price of $10 was set for glasses costing $4.20.

3. Lenses costing $1.65 a pair had to be sold for not less than $5.

4. Low-priced lenses were taken off the market under combine pressure, and the prices of others was jacked up.

While the commissioner did not estimate the cost to the public, he observed that sale of optical goods to retailers by the 26 chief Canadian wholesalers in 1946 had been worth $8,400,000 — or 2½ times that of 1939.

In the same year, the public had paid more than $18,000,000 on eyeglasses and the services accompanying their purchase.

Combine profits, apparently, lay in some portion of the difference between those figures.

Commissioner McGregor's figures were based on an investigation opened briefly in 1940 and then deferred until 1946 because of court actions. It covered the period between 1939 and 1947.

However, the Commissioner said that—despite some 1947 modifications in licence controls last year—the combine effects are still carrying through. Retail price competition, he said, is still "minimized".

The giant of the Canadian ring, he found, was the American Optical Company of Southbridge, Mass. It had "substantially controlled" the trade in Canada against the interest of the public, along with its Canadian subsidiary, Consolidated Optical Company of Toronto (now known as the American Optical Company Canada, Ltd).

He named American Optical, Numont Ful-Vue Corp., of Southbridge and Toronto and 26 Canadian wholesalers as having participated in one or another of the various combines.

Among these firms were:

Imperial Optical Co., Toronto, and three associate firms—National Optical Co. Montreal; Imperial Optical Co., (New Brunswick), and Imperial Optical of Nova Scotia, Ltd.

Bausch and Lomb Optical Co., Ltd., of Toronto, Canadian subsidiary of Bausch and Lomb Optical Co., Rochester, N.Y.

Boyles Optical Co., Charlottetown. (inactive after 1942).

George F. Brodie Optical supplies, Toronto, (since March, 1946 only).

Butler Optical Co., Montreal.

Canadian Optical Service Co., Quebec.

Champlain Optical Co., Quebec

Commercial Optical Co., Montreal, (including branches in Toronto, Ottawa and Three Rivesr, Que).

Garnett Optical Co., Halifax (since 1945).

General Optical Co., Montreal (since 1945).

H. & M. Optical Co., Toronto.

Hudson Optical Laboratory, Vancouver, (with branches at New Westminster, B.C., Calgary and Edmonton).

Kahn Optical Co., Toronto with branches in Montreal, Kitchener, London, Ont., Winnipeg and Calgary).

K. & W. Optical Co., Kitchener.

L'Optique Laviolette, Three Rivers, Que.

Maritime Optical Co., Quebec.

Monarch Optical Manufacturers, Ltd., Toronto.

Premier Optical Co., Saskatoon, (formerly Prince Albert, Sask., where business was started in 1944).

Sterling Optical Co., Toronto.

United Optical, Reg'd., Sherbrooke, Que.

Also named as participants were Central Optical Co., of Montreal, acquired by Bausch and Lomb in 1944, and Regal Optical Co., in business in Toronto before 1947.

The Imperial Company was stated to have been a strong supporter of the patent licensing plan, though a relucant entrant into it at first.

As a manufacturer and wholesaler, it was described as an outstanding participant in an arrangement to withdraw low-priced lenses from the market and by agreement to set wholesale prices for other lenses at higher levels.

Rebates

Ottawa (CP) — Some Canadian doctors get kickbacks from dealers on their eyeglass prescriptions, F. A. McGregor, Combines Investigation Act Commissioner, reported to Justice Minister Ilsley today.

IN 1946, these rebates ran to at least $500,000, Mr. McGregor said in his Combines report on the Canadian Optical trade.

However, he declared, the majority of doctors do not engage in the practice of accepting these rebates — of perhaps $5 a customer from the firm making the glasses from their prescription.

"The greatest amount of rebating," he reported "was engaged in by wholesalers or by retail dispensing outlets operated by wholesalers, such as the Retail outlets operated in several cities by Percy Hermant, Ltd., under the name Optical Prescription Company.

"Imperial Optical Company (Percy Hermant, Ltd.) and some of these affiliated houses made about 75 per cent of these payments and Consolidated Optical about 10 per cent. These 2 companies have branches throughout Canada, though by no means all their branches make rebates; they both make rebates through branches in most provinces."

(In a footnote, the commissioner said that since completion of the investigation, Consolidated had stated it had discontinued rebating in all branches.)

Mr. McGregor did not condemn outright the practice of rebating, which is the method of some opticians in obtaining the business of individual eye doctors.

What he did do, in finding that a combine existed among optical goods firms, was to note that it shed a light on the rigidity of the optical goods price structure.

"Even when the optician's return is reduced by the payment of a rebate," he said, "the individual consumer would not benefit unless the doctor passed on part or all of the rebate. This is done by some . . .

"Unless the reductions in price represented by rebates are made directly available to the consumer in the form of lower prices, elimination of the practice would be of no material benefit to the general public, and would in fact deprive some consumers of benefits which they now secure indirectly."

These benefits apparently are the cancellation of patients' bills by some doctors after they received their rebates.

SORELY-STRICKEN

Responding to an urgent appeal, the army here dispatched 89 officers and men to the new danger area. The crest is expected today. Fresh outbreaks were reported in Lillooet and Lytton, about 120 miles northeast of here. The Thompson River was at the 58-foot mark at Lytton and flood workers said the situation "is becoming more grim hourly." Lillooet was completely isolated.

The death toll in the 11-day B.C. flood still stands at four. Both the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific Railway companies have announced the current embargo on rail traffic to and from Vancouver will be continued until June 7.

Flood experts, however, said in all probability Vancouver would be shut off from the rest of Canada for another three weeks.

Veterans Minister Clegg announced his department would help to re-establish veterans in flooded areas.

Officials of wholesale companies, feed and seed supply houses and machine companies said they would not press Fraser Valley farmers and business men to settle their accounts.

Meanwhile, the "battle of the Fraser" continued relentlessly. The cresting river was lapping at the top of dikes at Pitt Meadows, 25 miles east.

Dikers used timber, gravel and stones to reinforce the saturated sandbags continually giving way.

A new threat, increasing hourly along the whole Fraser Valley still dyked, was the danger that a gradual undermining of the dikes would make them topple before the surging waters.

SOVIET CHIEF MAD AT HIM

Col. Frank Howley, U.S.A., is reported bearing up very well under the circumstances despite the announcement of Major-General Alexander Kotikov, of the Soviet Red army, that he would no longer sit beside the American officer at meetings of the Kommandatura, the four-power governing body in Berlin. The Red general made his pout after a bitter 15-hour meeting at which Col. Howley represented the U.S. Henceforth, a Soviet deputy will be seated between Kotikov and Col. Howley. Before his diatribe on seating arrangements, the Red general accused the U.S. and Britain of "trying to divide Berlin."

REPORTED VERY ILL

A report from Prague, Czechoslovakia, says Jan Benes, elder brother of President Eduard Benes has told friends that the president, 64, is "a very ill man, and I have paid him my last farewells." The government has emphatically denied the story.

TRUCE

Both Arabs and Jews agreed Tuesday to a four-week United Nations truce in the Holy Land. The Jews also said they ordered their forces to cease fire at 3 a.m., Tel Aviv time, today.

The Arabs did not announce any cease fire order but the Israel foreign minister, Moshe Shertok, told a Tel Aviv press conference that the Jews would resume fire unless Arab forces stopped shooting. The Jewish cease fire order was timed to take effect with the deadline set by the U.N. Security Council for replies to its armistice plea.

Both sides attached strings to their acceptances of the Council's plea.

Shertok said the Israeli cease-fire order was based on five assumptions of the meaning of the U.N. appeal. One assumption was that free immigration into Israel would be allowed during the truce.

Prime Minister Mahmoud Fahmy Nokrashy Pasha of Egypt said in Cairo last night, "I believe such a condition can not be accepted.

Accept Peace Plan

He made this statement in talking about a unanimous decision of the Arab League Political Committee to accept the U. N. peace plan. Of the league countries, Egypt, Trans-Jordan, Iraq, Syria and Lebanon have sent troops into Palestine.

Other Jewish assumptions concerned a ban on import of arms to the Arab states, a stand-fast order to all forces, freedom of access to Jerusalem for food and essentials, and free transport of goods for Israel.

On the day the agreements came, Israel made its first air raid on Amman, Trans-Jordan capital and centre of Arab military planning, and fought with the Egyptians only about 14 miles from Tel Aviv.

90,000 Besieged

In Jerusalem, the Trans-Jordan Arab Legion and Iraqui forces were besieging 80,000 to 90,000 Jews in the new city. Within 15 miles to the west, Jewish fighters strove to break through at Latrun and Bab el Wad Gorge so as to open the road from Tel Aviv.

Before the announcement today of the Egyptian attacks, the Jewish chief of operations said the cease-fire came at a difficult time, when the Israeli army had just mounted two offensives in the north against the Arab triangle and had gone over into the offensive in the south against the Egyptians.

The Arabs have said their troops in this triangle, midway between Nazareth and Jerusalem, were aimed at Tel Aviv..

Other new offensive operations scheduled for Tuesday night were called off barely in time, the spokesman said, and added that it was difficult to do so without damaging the Israeli position.

31-POUND TROUT HOOKED

Brockville, June 2 — (CP)—A salmon trout weighing 31 pounds, largest fish of the species to be taken from district waters for 20 years was landed at Charleston Lake, Leeds county, by J. S. Jeffrey, Brockville.

A 32-pound trout was caught in the same lake in 1929. Mr. Jeffrey's catch measured 37¼ inches long and 24 inches in circumference.

EIGHT CHARGES LAID

Arnprior, June 2 — (CP) — A revenue department official here Tuesday said eight charges under the Income Tax Act have been laid against Albert D. Claman and W. N. Thomson, partners of the Arnprior Mill Stock Company.

The official, a member of the intelligence branch of the department, said the charges include two against each partner for filing false statements in their income tax returns for the years 1942 and 1943.

Convicted Holdup Man Foiled In Escape Attempt

Toronto, June 2 — (CP)—David Nolan, 32-year-old bandit, tried unsuccessfully to escape Saturday from a train on which he was being taken to Kingston penitentiary to serve 15 years for armed robbery, police said today.

Feigning illness, he was taken to a washroom where he grabbed a hidden automatic pistol and grappled with a guard. He pulled a trigger three times but the weapon did not discharge because the safety catch was on, police said.

The gun is believed to have been hidden in the washroom by a "mysterious stranger" seen on the train as it left Toronto, police said.

Nolan was one of six prisoners being escorted to Kingston. He was shackled hand and foot to a convict named Terrence O'Reilley. Shortly before the train left Toronto, Nolan asked to be taken to the washroom. When he got there, he asked to be unshackled but his request was refused by sheriff's officers.

Complained of Cramps

Later, apparently when the train was near Belleville, he complained of cramps and was taken again to the washroom. With him and O'Reilley was Sheriff's Officer Frank Reilly, former Toronto policeman.

Nolan reached into a corner, grabbed the pistol and pulled the trigger. Reilly struck Nolan on the jaw, dropping him to the floor. Later, 12 bullets wrapped in a handkerchief were found in the washroom.

Police said they believe a friend was waiting with an automobile at Belleville to help Nolan escape if he succeeded in shooting his way off the train.

Escort Provided

Kingston police, notified from Belleville of the escape bid, provided motorcycle and cruiser escorts to take Nolan from the station to the penitentiary.

Nolan, 32, of Hamilton, was sentenced last March 16 to 15 years for armed robbery of the Coxwell Inn on east-end Danforth Avenue Feb. 9.

Police said he was released from penitentiary shortly before the holdup. He had served most of a 10-year term for the attempted holdup of a Hamilton bank.

At his trial, Nolan read a long prepared statement which said his criminal actions were prompted solely by his desire to get money for an education.

Says Russ Zone Is Police State Of 'Ruthlessness'

Berlin, June 2 (AP)—An official report of the British military government said today the Russian occupation zone is a police state where "Soviet ruthlessness" has eliminated virtually all political opposition.

The report said so hopeless has become the position of Germans opposing Russian policies there is "apprehension that nothing short of force will improve conditions."

The British exposes apparently were designed to take the steam out of Communists' efforts to extend their influence through such manoeuvres as a current "people's plebiscite for German unification."

Brighteners

London — "What is a thunderbolt?" 10-year-old Roy Scott asked his mother Tuesday night.

There was a blinding flash, soot cascaded down the chimney of the Scott's Cotman Gardens home in London, and tiles flew off the roof.

"That," said Roy's mother.

Philadelphia — (AP) — The city is reaping a profit on its vice squad decoys.

Plainclothesmen Frank Wolf and Stephen Cambers for four months have pretended to be bettors in a drive to share bookmakers and numbers operators.

The two not only caused more than 50 arrests but laid their bets so shrewdly that they cleared a profit of $200. A cheque for that amount was sent to the city treasurer.

New York — (AP) — A. Michael Kivatisky, 12, a realist, says the pleasures of the country are nothing compared to his own hot, teeming Manhattan East Side in summer.

Michael refused two free weeks at a summer camp offered by the Children's Aid Society of New York because:

He can go swimming any time he wants to in an East Side pool shadowed by skyscrapers instead of trees.

He's centre fielder on a baseball team that plays under the Queensborough Bridge.

He's a key member of a boys' club punch ball team.

Anytime he needs money, he can work delivering orders.

Chicago — (AP) — Last fall Michael J. Stragegos, 25, was vitally interested in babies. He was a prospective father.

When he saw a picture of a six-month old boy chinning himself, he said to his wife June, 17:

"When our baby's born he'll do better than that."

Tuesday Strategos called the newspapers. His son, Michael, Jr. was four months old and the tot celebrating by clutching a rod held by his dad, permitting Strategos to lift him, and then — Strategos said — chinning himself.

When photographers arrived, the baby held on to the rod all right, but he wouldn't repeat the chinning exploit. But you know babies, when company's around and you want them to show off.

Pearl Harbor, June 2 (AP)—United States marines Monday shot and killed a Japanese who had been hiding on one of Kwajalein Atoll's tiny islands since the American capture of that Marshall Island base in February, 1944. And there may be another, still living, the navy said. The Japanese was killed after he opened fire on Marines sent to capture him.

REPORTS SEVERAL

2. A minimum retail price of $10 was set for glasses costing $4.20.

3. Lenses costing $1.65 a pair had to be sold for not less than $5.

4. Low-priced lenses were taken off the market under combine pressure, and the prices of others was jacked up.

While the commissioner did not estimate the cost to the public, he observed that sale of optical goods to retailers by the 26 chief Canadian wholesalers in 1946 had been worth $8,400,000 — or 2½ times that of 1939.

In the same year, the public had paid more than $18,000,000 on eyeglasses and the services accompanying their purchase.

Combine profits, apparently, lay in some portion of the difference between those figures.

Commissioner McGregor's figures were based on an investigation opened briefly in 1940 and then deferred until 1946 because of court actions. It covered the period between 1939 and 1947.

However, the Commissioner said that—despite some 1947 modifications in licence controls last year—the combine effects are still carrying through. Retail price competition, he said, is still "minimized".

The giant of the Canadian ring, he found, was the American Optical Company of Southbridge, Mass. It had "substantially controlled" the trade in Canada against the interest of the public, along with its Canadian subsidiary, Consolidated Optical Company of Toronto (now known as the American Optical Company Canada, Ltd).

He named American Optical, Numont Ful-Vue Corp., of Southbridge and Toronto and 26 Canadian wholesalers as having participated in one or another of the various combines.

Among these firms were:

Imperial Optical Co., Toronto, and three associate firms—National Optical Co. Montreal; Imperial Optical Co., (New Brunswick), and Imperial Optical of Nova Scotia, Ltd.

Bausch and Lomb Optical Co., Ltd., of Toronto, Canadian subsidiary of Bausch and Lomb Optical Co., Rochester, N.Y.

Boyles Optical Co., Charlottetown. (inactive after 1942).

George F. Brodie Optical supplies, Toronto, (since March, 1946 only).

Butler Optical Co., Montreal.

Canadian Optical Service Co., Quebec.

Champlain Optical Co., Quebec

Commercial Optical Co., Montreal, (including branches in Toronto, Ottawa and Three Rivear, Que).

Garnett Optical Co., Halifax (since 1945).

General Optical Co., Montreal (since 1945).

H. & M. Optical Co., Toronto.

Hudson Optical Laboratory, Vancouver, (with branches at New Westminster, B.C., Calgary and Edmonton).

Kahn Optical Co., Toronto with branches in Montreal, Kitchener, London, Ont., Winnipeg and Calgary).

K. & W. Optical Co., Kitchener.

L'Optique Laviolette, Three Rivers, Que.

Maritime Optical Co., Quebec.

Monarch Optical Manufacturers, Ltd., Toronto.

Premier Optical Co., Saskatoon, (formerly Prince Albert, Sask., where business was started in 1944).

Sterling Optical Co., Toronto.

United Optical, Reg'd., Sherbrooke, Que.

Also named as participants were Central Optical Co., of Montreal, acquired by Bausch and Lomb in 1944, and Regal Optical Co., in business in Toronto before 1947.

The Imperial Company was stated to have been a strong supporter of the patent licensing plan, though a relucant entrant into it at first.

As a manufacturer and wholesaler, it was described as an outstanding participant in an arrangement to withdraw low-priced lenses from the market and by agreement to set wholesale prices for other lenses at higher levels.

Rebates

Ottawa (CP) — Some Canadian doctors get kickbacks from dealers on their eyeglass prescriptions, F. A. McGregor, Combines Investigation Act Commissioner, reported to Justice Minister Ilsley today.

IN 1946, these rebates ran to at least $500,000, Mr. McGregor said in his Combines report on the Canadian Optical trade.

However, he declared, the majority of doctors do not engage in the practice of accepting these rebates — of perhaps $5 a customer from the firm making the glasses from their prescription.

"The greatest amount of rebating," he reported "was engaged in by wholesalers or by retail dispensing outlets operated by wholesalers, such as the Retail outlets operated in several cities by Percy Hermant, Ltd., under the name Optical Prescription Company.

"Imperial Optical Company (Percy Hermant, Ltd.) and some of these affiliated houses made about 75 per cent of these payments and Consolidated Optical about 10 per cent. These 2 companies have branches throughout Canada, though by no means all their branches make rebates; they both make rebates through branches in most provinces."

(In a footnote, the commissioner said that since completion of the investigation, Consolidated had stated it had discontinued rebating in all branches.)

Mr. McGregor did not condemn outright the practice of rebating, which is the method of some opticians in obtaining the business of individual eye doctors.

What he did do, in finding that a combine existed among optical goods firms, was to note that it shed a light on the rigidity of the optical goods price structure.

"Even when the optician's return is reduced by the payment of a rebate," he said, "the individual consumer would not benefit unless the doctor passed on part or all of the rebate. This is done by some . . .

"Unless the reductions in price represented by rebates are made directly available to the consumer in the form of lower prices, elimination of the practice would be of no material benefit to the general public, and would in fact deprive some consumers of benefits which they now secure indirectly."

These benefits apparently are the cancellation of patients' bills by some doctors after they received their rebates.

Responding to an urgent appeal, the army here dispatched 89 officers and men to the new danger area. The crest is expected today. Fresh outbreaks were reported in Lillooet and Lytton, about 120 miles northeast of here. The Thompson River was at the 58-foot mark at Lytton and flood workers said the situation "is becoming more grim hourly." Lillooet was completely isolated.

The death toll in the 11-day B.C. flood still stands at four. Both the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific Railway companies have announced the current embargo on rail traffic to and from Vancouver will be continued until June 7.

Flood experts, however, said in all probability Vancouver would be shut off from the rest of Canada for another three weeks.

Veterans Minister Clegg announced his department would help to re-establish veterans in flooded areas.

Officials of wholesale companies, feed and seed supply houses and machine companies said they would not press Fraser Valley farmers and business men to settle their accounts.

Meanwhile, the "battle of the Fraser" continued relentlessly. The cresting river was lapping at the top of dikes at Pitt Meadows, 25 miles east.

Dikers used timber, gravel and stones to reinforce the saturated sandbags continually giving way.

A new threat, increasing hourly along the whole Fraser Valley still dyked, was the danger that a gradual undermining of the dikes would make them topple before the surging waters.

SOVIET CHIEF MAD AT HIM

Col. Frank Howley, U.S.A., is reported bearing up very well under the circumstances despite the announcement of Major-General Alexander Kotikov, of the Soviet Red army, that he would no longer sit beside the American officer at meetings of the Kommandatura, the four-power governing body in Berlin. The Red general made his pout after a bitter 15-hour meeting at which Col. Howley represented the U.S. Henceforth, a Soviet deputy will be seated between Kotikov and Col. Howley. Before his diatribe on seating arrangements, the Red general accused the U.S. and Britain of "trying to divide Berlin."

REPORTED VERY ILL

A report from Prague, Czechoslovakia, says Jan Benes, elder brother of President Eduard Benes has told friends that the president, 64, is "a very ill man, and I have paid him my last farewells." The government has emphatically denied the story.

Both Arabs and Jews agreed Tuesday to a four-week United Nations truce in the Holy Land. The Jews also said they ordered their forces to cease fire at 3 a.m., Tel Aviv time, today.

The Arabs did not announce any cease fire order but the Israel foreign minister, Moshe Shertok, told a Tel Aviv press conference that the Jews would resume fire unless Arab forces stopped shooting. The Jewish cease fire order was timed to take effect with the deadline set by the U.N. Security Council for replies to its armistice plea.

Both sides attached strings to their acceptances of the Council's plea.

Shertok said the Israeli cease-fire order was based on five assumptions of the meaning of the U.N. appeal. One assumption was that free immigration into Israel would be allowed during the truce.

Prime Minister Mahmoud Fahmy Nokrashy Pasha of Egypt said in Cairo last night, "I believe such a condition can not be accepted.

Accept Peace Plan

He made this statement in talking about a unanimous decision of the Arab League Political Committee to accept the U. N. peace plan. Of the league countries, Egypt, Trans-Jordan, Iraq, Syria and Lebanon have sent troops into Palestine.

Other Jewish assumptions concerned a ban on import of arms to the Arab states, a stand-fast order to all forces, freedom of access to Jerusalem for food and essentials, and free transport of goods for Israel.

On the day the agreements came, Israel made its first air raid on Amman, Trans-Jordan capital and centre of Arab military planning, and fought with the Egyptians only about 14 miles from Tel Aviv.

90,000 Besieged

In Jerusalem, the Trans-Jordan Arab Legion and Iraqui forces were besieging 80,000 to 90,000 Jews in the new city. Within 15 miles to the west, Jewish fighters strove to break through at Latrun and Bab el Wad Gorge so as to open the road from Tel Aviv.

Before the announcement today of the Egyptian attacks, the Jewish chief of operations said the cease-fire came at a difficult time, when the Israeli army had just mounted two offensives in the north against the Arab triangle and had gone over into the offensive in the south against the Egyptians.

The Arabs have said their troops in this triangle, midway between Nazareth and Jerusalem, were aimed at Tel Aviv..

Other new offensive operations scheduled for Tuesday night were called off barely in time, the spokesman said, and added that it was difficult to do so without damaging the Israeli position.

31-POUND TROUT HOOKED

Brockville, June 2 — (CP)—A salmon trout weighing 31 pounds, largest fish of the species to be taken from district waters for 20 years was landed at Charleston Lake, Leeds county, by J. S. Jeffrey, Brockville.

A 32-pound trout was caught in the same lake in 1929. Mr. Jeffrey's catch measured 37½ inches long and 24 inches in circumference.

EIGHT CHARGES LAID

Arnprior, June 2 — (CP) — A revenue department official here Tuesday said eight charges under the Income Tax Act have been laid against Albert D. Claman and W. N. Thomson, partners of the Arnprior Mill Stock Company.

The official, a member of the intelligence branch of the department, said the charges include two against each partner for filing false statements in their income tax returns for the years 1942 and 1943.

Convicted Holdup Man Foiled In Escape Attempt

Toronto, June 2 — (CP)—David Nolan, 32-year-old bandit, tried unsuccessfully to escape Saturday from a train on which he was being taken to Kingston penitentiary to serve 15 years for armed robbery, police said today.

Feigning illness, he was taken to a washroom where he grabbed a hidden automatic pistol and grappled with a guard. He pulled a trigger three times but the weapon did not discharge because the safety catch was on, police said.

The gun is believed to have been hidden in the washroom by a "mysterious stranger" seen on the train as it left Toronto, police said.

Nolan was one of six prisoners being escorted to Kingston. He was shackled hand and foot to a convict named Terrence O'Reilley. Shortly before the train left Toronto, Nolan asked to be taken to the washroom. When he got there, he asked to be unshackled but his request was refused by sheriff's officers.

Complained of Cramps

Later, apparently when the train was near Belleville, he complained of cramps and was taken again to the washroom. With him and O'Reilley was Sheriff's Officer Frank Reilly, former Toronto policeman.

Nolan reached into a corner, grabbed the pistol and pulled the trigger. Reilly struck Nolan on the jaw, dropping him to the floor. Later, 12 bullets wrapped in a handkerchief were found in the washroom.

Police said they believe a friend was waiting with an automobile at Belleville to help Nolan escape if he succeeded in shooting his way off the train.

Escort Provided

Kingston police, notified from Belleville of the escape bid, provided motorcycle and cruiser escorts to take Nolan from the station to the penitentiary.

Nolan, 32, of Hamilton, was sentenced last March 16 to 15 years for armed robbery of the Coxwell Inn on east-end Danforth Avenue Feb. 9.

Police said he was released from penitentiary shortly before the holdup. He had served most of a 10-year term for the attempted holdup of a Hamilton bank.

At his trial, Nolan read a long prepared statement which said his criminal actions were prompted solely by his desire to get money for an education.

Invitations had been sent to leading bands in the United States, Canada, Britain and France.

A native of Woodstock, Prof. Goble graduated from the O.A.C. in 1931.

STABBED TO DEATH IN PRISON

Philadelphia, June 2 — (AP)—Richard Rafter, 44, convict serving a long-term hold-up sentence, was stabbed to death at Eastern Penitentiary Tuesday in what Warden C. J. Burke said was a sudden eruption of a long-smouldering prison feud. Before Rafter died he accused Rober McGrogan, 25, and William Parmer, 23, of attacking him without provocation.

DEER GO THROUGH SANITORIUM

Brantford, June 3 — (CP) — Two deer in a hurry didn't take time to skirt the Brant Sanitorium here Tuesday so they went through it. Patient Bill Shaw of Toronto saw the fleet-footed critters dive in one window, soar across an eight-foot corridor without touching the floor, and amid crashing glass, disappeared thru another window opposite.

Woodstock, June 2 (CP) — At rally in Plattsville Tuesday night Hon. H. C. Nixon, Liberal candidate for Brant, pledged a Liberal government in Ontario to laying a permanent pavement on Highway 97 which runs from Hickson to Freelton. Pavement would be laid he said "before two winters roll around."

Montreal, June 2 (CP) —New emphasis on July 28 as the possible date of the forthcoming Quebec Provincial election was seen today in the fact the Union Nationale party of Premier Maurice Duplessis has reserved broadcast time on most radio stations in Quebec until July 26.

Says Many Live In Premises Unfit for Humans

Toronto, June 2. (CP)— In the face of the continuing housing shortage, many Toronto families are living in premises considered unfit for human use, the Civic Welfare Committee was told Tuesday.

Reports included these cases:

A mother and eight children living in a dilapidated five-room house which has no inside toilet.

A mentally-retarded girl living in a basement room which lacks proper light and ventilation.

An elderly man occupying a shed at the rear of buildings on a downtown street.

'Miraculous Dutchman' Dies

Winterthur, Switzerland, June 2 (Reuters)—Mirin Dajo, the "miraculous Dutchman" who had a sword passed through his body 500 times without effect, died here following a stomach operation last week. But his disciples claim that the operation, performed after he had swallowed the blade of a sword, was not the cause of death. They say he had a heart attack. An inquest has been ordered.

CONSTABLE SUSPENDED

Toronto, June 2 (CP)—Police said today that Randolph Jamer of Toronto, arrested in Cochrane, on a charge of armed robbery, resigned from the Toronto police force last Monday.

Officials said Jamer, who joined the force as a probationary constable five months ago, was suspended prior to his resignation.

Ontario provincial police at Cochrane had quoted Jamer as saying he left Toronto Sunday night and planned to stay in Northern Ontario before returning to duty in Toronto.

BEER-MONEY

Beer-money was an allowance of one penny a day to soldiers of the British army in lieu of a supply of beer. Instituted in 1800, it was abolished 73 years later.

Says Russ Zone Is Police State Of 'Ruthlessness'

Berlin, June 2 (AP)—An official report of the British military government said today the Russian occupation zone is a police state where "Soviet ruthlessness" has eliminated virtually all political opposition.

The report said so hopeless has become the position of Germans opposing Russian policies there is "apprehension that nothing short of force will improve conditions."

The British exposes apparently were designed to take the steam out of Communists' efforts to extend their influence through such manoeuvres as a current "people's plebiscite for German unification."

Mutual Confidence

Announcement by President Truman of the United States on Tuesday that he had just approved a bill to admit young Canadians to Annapolis and West Point Academies was accompanied by his declaration of his pleasure in doing so. To both the peoples of the United States and Canada the announcement must have come with a great deal of satisfaction, so close has been the tie binding these good neighbors for more than a century and a third.

The President expressed the opinion that the young Canadians should benefit by the experience gained at these two institutions while he thought young Americans would derive a broader background and perspective from knowing Canadians at closer range as they would come to know the young Canadians.

So close indeed were the United States and Canadian forces and United Kingdom forces in the recent World War that mutual understanding had full scope, as it was a natural course to follow. For years the closest of ties have existed between the North American peoples and similarity of ideals in world outlook and in regard to the guarantee of maintenance of freedom have been drawing the nations more closely together than ever.

It is a proof that these two nations have had and will always have the utmost confidence in one another and that the kindly relations will not only last but grow more and more. Their faith in one another's integrity and sense of fairness is imbedded in the spirit and life of the two nations. There is no hesitancy, no doubt about the sense of honor of these two lands.

A fine example of the solidarity of the friendship is recalled by those who remember reading in the newspapers and hearing by radio of the events associated with the visit of His Excellency the Governor-General of Canada and Prime Minister King to Williamsburg, Virginia, in the Old South, where with the President of the United States they were honored with degrees from William and Mary College.

Growing Knowledge

Dr. Gordon Patterson, professor of aerodynamics at the University of Toronto and scientific consultant to the Naval Ordnance Laboratory at White Oak, Maryland, has been made a Fellow of the Royal Aeronautical Society "for technical eminence in his profession." During the past year he has been directing a group of eight graduate students who designed and built a rectangular shock tube. The group can now send shock waves down the tube at speeds up to 3,000 miles an hour. The experiments are opening the door to what airmen will face when supersonic speed is achieved. It is said that the strength and direction of shock waves fluctuate as speed increases. The young scientists with Dr. Patterson are trying to determine the speeds at which shock waves are weakest and are investigating other mysteries of that weird world far beyond the sound of speed. A report states that it is the belief of the investigators that their present equipment will generate shocks up to 8,000 miles an hour.

This is a sample of the work of investigation going on. Never was science so ambitious. New worlds are opening up [illegible] the intrepid investigators who are ever [illegible]king for new fields to conquer. Theirs is a wide scope for never will there be an end to the possibilities of discovery.

It is not many people who have the privilege of being discoverers in a field so foreign to ordinary experience but the past has shown how much of human progress has been due to discovery and invention that there seems no end to the possibilities lying in the future.

In this new world however what is being achieved is being turned to make the conditions of life better. That is a natural outcome of the scientific investigation.

Building

Belleville may well take pride in the showing of the $283,100 building permit record for the month of May. This is an indication of the steadiness of the development which has been taking place. Among the permits the great part is for the construction of homes, of course. Others are for business construction and a considerable number for additions and improvements to homes.

"The Cloths of Night"

There is something soothing and calm about the evening sky. It has all the quiet shades and all the lovely ones. Greens mingle with greys that are gentle, and blues that are soft and deep.

These are the "cloths of night" that change and interchange, unfolding an endless pattern of loveliness. The eye does not weary in watching them. Their variation is fascinating. No two evenings are the same, nor any two moments. Clouds gather and disperse. Others fill in the empty places. They change from instant to instant, assuming strange forms. They are forests and legions and birds in flight. And their banners of color blend and blend again.

But there is more than form and color to the evening sky. There is a kind of quiet. It is an intangible thing, not born of earth or clouds, but a stillness that transcends them both, moving and breathing with the night, perpetually transmitting peace, says Montreal Gazette.

Song of Advancing Science

("Women scientists are working on Britain's atomic secrets at Harwell. A Ministry of Supply spokesman said: 'There are not many jobs in the atomic field which women cannot do'." — News Item.)

When lovely woman turns to science
And finds the atom fills the bill,
Shall we not place complete reliance
On her capacity and skill?
Then in the day when wrath unleashes
The dogs of war on this new trail,
Shall not the female of the species
Prove quite as deadly as the male?

Why, yes, of course—there's nowt to stop it;
Gone are the days when women's art
Was wasted as a household poppet,
A plaything in a minor part.
We reach a more enlightened sequel
Where sheer ability prevails
And backroom boys and girls are equal
Performers on atomic scales.

So rises Eve's accomplished daughter
From household chores to higher scope
As mistress of the heavy water,
The cyclotron and isotope.
Down with the saucepan and the ladle,
Let sterner tackle take their place—
The former hand that rocked the cradle
May yet disrupt the human race.

—Lucio in Manchester Guardian

Sentenced for Murder

First murder trial since the House of Commons suspended the death penalty for murder for five years, was that of a young man, aged 22 years, charged with killing a police constable.

It took the Old Bailey jury 30 minutes to bring in a verdict of guilty against this army deserter who shot down the policeman who questioned him.

Asked if he had anything to say before sentence of death was passed upon him the man composedly answered "No."

Mr. Justice Hilbery, knowing the half-smiling killer facing him in the dock will not be hanged, ignored the black cap and omitted all the traditional ceremony.

He said: "The sentence of the court upon you is the sentence prescribed by the law, namely, that you suffer death by hanging." — London Daily Mail.

FEDERAL SYSTEM

In considering the union of Western Europe, Canada would seem to offer the best model. For if Western Europe is ever to be united as one country, it will have to be by a federal system, which will create a central government, but which will also have strong local governments for local neds. The racial, historical and geographical divisions of Europe are so marked and so real that all hope of western union will fail unless the conception of unity is combined with that of local autonomy. — Montreal Gazette.

HERITAGE OR IMITATION

Just three years old! and on the phone
Lisping what all women declare:
"I've worn out every frock I own,
I've not a thing that's fit to wear."
And as her grandma used to say
Through all our years of happiness:
"I must get into town today.
I simply have to get a dress!"

She added: "It's been weeks, I'm sure,
Since I've been near a beauty shop.
I badly need a manicure.
My hair is like a tangled mop.
I need a rinse and finger wave!"
How strangely memory is stirred!
I wonder through the thrill it gave,
Was it her grandma that I heard?

Just three years old! repeating o'er
What she had heard her mother say,
And I so oft had heard before
On many a by-gone happier day.
Is this mere power to imitate
Her elders in a manner grave,
Or of her heritage a trait:
"I need a rinse and finger wave!"

Old Country Letter:

Social Security Scheme Starts in Britain in July

By STUART UNDERHILL

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The people of Britain are looking forward to the biggest social security scheme the country has ever attempted.

On July 5 the government's new national insurance scheme goes into effect. Everyone in the country is eligible for principal benefits. Every worker whether he is a £5 ($20) a week laborer or a multimillionaire director must make weekly contributions.

Beginning in July all workers over 18 will contribute four shillings seven pence (about 92 cents) in the case of men and three shillings 10 pence (77 cents) in the case of women every week. The employer will add three shillings 10 pence for each male employee and three shillings for women. The exchequer will make a supplementary contribution of two shillings one penny for men and one shilling seven pence for women.

"Self-employed" persons must send in a weekly payment of six shillings two pence if male or five shillings one penny if female.

The employed contributor is insured for sickness and industrial injury benefit, maternity benefit for his wife, widows benefit, guardians allowance for his children, retirement pension and death grant. Self employed contributors get the same benefits with the exception of unemployment and industrial injury insurance.

Linked with national insurance in the publics mind will be a new health service scheduled to go into effect the same day. It will be principally financed by ordinary taxation, only one-sixth of the national insurance fund going toward its upkeep.

Right now the new health service seems slated for a rocky beginning. Although the British Medical Association has agreed to co-operate after obtaining guarantees and its independence will be safeguarded, thousands of individual doctors are refusing to enter the scheme.

Even if many of them change their minds, the shortage of nurses will limit hospital accommodation for which there will be a tremendous new demand.

USES MACHINE GUN TO REPULSE BANDITS

Asmarar, Eritrea, June 1—(Reuters) — A British sergeant with a machine-gun repulsed an attack on the Asmara-Massawa train Sunday night by 19 armed bandits. The bandits, armed with guns and grenades, stopped the train by placing a tree-trunk across the track.

LIBERALS, C.C.F.

In his broadcast he said one function of the Research Council is to originate new ideas both in types of production and industrial technique.

"In the past we have depended a great deal on Great Britain and the United States for new designs and patents. It is extremely important that as our industrial production expands and we bring to use more and more of our resources, we originate new ideas both in types of production and in industrial technique."

A plan has been drawn up by the Ontario government under which British industry could establish plants in Ontario without affecting the United Kingdom dollar position, the Premier said in his Toronto speech. He hinted the plan would involve advancement of capital here to those companies on the basis of credit in Britain.

Mr. Oliver said the Liberal party would not endorse a $50 monthly old age pension because it would involve more money than taxpayers could afford.

If elected June 7 the Liberal party proposed to raise the basic old age pension to $40 a month from $30. An agreement with the Federal government on taxation might enable a still higher pension to be paid.

It had been charged that the Liberal party would not be able to form a cabinet if elected, Mr. Oliver said.

"I have no hesitation in saying we are prepared to take over the reins of government. I am very proud of the Liberal candidates. If I can't form a government stronger than the one which has administered the province for the last five years I'll eat my hat."

Would Save Car Owners

Mr. Jolliffe, after terming the C.C.F. victory in the Yale by-election "encouraging," said a C.C.F. government if elected in Ontario June 7 would institute universal low-cost autombile accident insurance, similar to a plan in operation in Saskatchewan.

"The average insurance paid by car owners in Saskatchewan is $5 a year. The average person in Ontario carries between $40 and $50 car insurance. A scheme similar to Saskatchewan's for Ontario would save car owners at least $20,000,000 a year."

Sometimes elections were decided by the people who stayed away from the polls, he said. Urging citizens to vote next Monday, he said that in this election every party should do everything in its power to get people to vote.

"I believe it is possible for between 85 and 90 per cent of those eligible to vote on Monday."

Mr. Howe, describing himself as a representative of the only government in Canada building homes, told a Port Arthur meeting that Federal Housing plans were keeping up to schedule. He predicted that the Dominion plan to foster construction of 100,000 new homes in Canada during 1948 will be achieved. Last year the objective was 80,000 homes and 79,000 were built.

Mr. Howe, in what he said would be his only election address in the Ontario campaign, criticized both the Progressive Conservative and C.C.F. parties. He accused Premier Drew of making the Ontario Hydro a "political arm" of the government and said there would be a threat from Leftist elements in the C.C.F. if that party were elected.

FEED THAT BABY BANANAS

At the age of five months every baby should receive a daily ration of ripe banana. Just a spoonful at first, and only well ripened pulp. When a banana is ripe enough for a baby it is mottled or flecked with brown spots (not black bruises) and the pulp is golden yellow, soft but not mushy, and sweet.

If the baby likes the banana, increase the daily ration with an extra spoonful day by day until the baby takes from one-half to a whole banana daily at the age of six to eight months, and after that as much banana every day as the baby wants.

The banana diet has proved curative in many instances of infantile atrophy, marasmus, malnutrition. This condition must not be confused with actual starvation from deprivation—which so many infants have suffered for being born to civilized parents—or with tuberculosis, syphilis or cancer.

Infantile atrophy, marasmus, athrepsia, progressive emaciation, wasting away, failure to grow or gain weight or actual loss of weight, like malnutrition, retarded growth or underweight in school children, is not due to improper or inadequate food alone and cannot be prevented or corrected by merely giving the infant or child more food, as so many amateur sociologists assume. In most instances the trouble is rather that the infant or child can't take the proper food or nourishment or can't assimilate it or can't utilize it normally for building, repair, or for heat or energy.

Well, why not?

I don't know. But I'll give my own theory or notion about it.

In most if not all cases of marasmus of infantile atrophy there is fundamental vitamin deficiency, in my opinion. A deficiency of vitamin B complex, specifically but not solely B1 (thiamine) deficiency.

That's all I shall say about it today. I must remind you here, however, doctors and folks, that in any case of marasmus in a baby or malnutrition in a young child or underweight in a growing child, regardless of what general treatment is used, there is rarely any good reason why the infant or child should not receive an optimal daily ration of vitamin B complex in one form or another as a supplement to the treatment.

The vitamin B content of ripe banana is only one reason why the banana diet is so beneficial in infantile atrophy. I could mention several other reasons, but, after all, I'm not selling bananas. I'm just trying to make a lot of babies and children happier.

When I say "banana diet" I do not mean to imply that the infant or child should not have other food than banana. In marasmus or malnutrition the diet should always include milk or milk-products, fresh fruit or fruit juice and some egg or meat or meat soup and broth. But if the baby will not or cannot take there other foods, or cereal gruel perhaps, but will or can take ripe banana, by all means feed the baby all the banana the baby can take, and before long the vitamin B may arouse the baby's interest in and desire for these other foods and awaken or increase the capacity to assimilate and utilize food in general — including bananas.

For the marasmic infant banana should be well ripened—it is well ripened when the peel is flecked with brown spots (not black bruise marks) and the pulp is golden yellow, soft but not mushy, and very sweet.

Now for goodness sake, folks, don't "try" bananas or vitamin B complex for a week and then "try" something else. Banana diet or B complex is not medicine, it is just food that is essential for good nutrition. Do try to get this through your head and give the baby a break—feed the baby banana or B complex not just this week but next week, next month and next year too.

OFFICE NURSE

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

"You know, of course," he told her when they reached her door, "that we will have to talk about this, Janice." He was completely himself now, in control of the situation. There was a sort of triumph in his words and in his bearing.

There was dismay in Janice's gray eyes raised to his, in her low reply. "Yes, I suppose we shall." Then again, she took the situation in her hands. Her voice was gentle, but exceedingly firm.

"Good night, Dr. Holbrook." She stressed his name slightly—as though she were reminding him that she was only a girl who worked in his office. "It was a lovely evening. Thank, you very much."

"It was a lovely evening—but it is I who must thank you, Janice." And he. in turn, put an emphasis on the use of her first name, as if to make it clear that she was not just a girl whom he employed—and never could be that again.

The switchboard in Dr. Holbrook's office was kept so busy throughout most of each working day that it was tacitly understood by all employes that no personal calls should come through unless absolutely necessary.

There had been several calls for Mrs. McRae during the past week. Miss Willows had made no effort to conceal her disapproval, even when Mrs. McRae had explained that Edna Mae, her little girl, was sick. Janice said that Mrs. McRae need not come in until the child was better, but Mrs. McRae said that Edna Mae was not that ill.

"If you ask me," Miss Willows said, "it's she who's not well—not that child. She's worried half to death, and not over her little girl. Didn't you notice how her hands were shaking when she hung up the phone? Her face was white as a sheet of paper, too."

An hour or so had passed before Janice had time to think further about Mrs. McRae. Then, during what the office called a breathing spell, Janice noted that Eileen McRae had gone out. No one ever left the office without letting Janice know.

It was a half-hour before Mrs. McRae returned. And then she slipped in, her pretty plump face flushed, and she did not offer any explanation or excuse. When it was time for the office to close Janice drew Eileen aside.

"I don't want to seem like a busybody," she said, with her warm friendly smile, "but I couldn't help noticing your going out this afternoon. If something's wrong, Eileen, maybe I could help."

• • •

"I had to meet someone—someone who couldn't come here," Mrs. McRae returned. "There's nothing wrong—nothing you, or anyone, could help."

She did look ill. More than that, there was a frightened look in her eyes.

"I wish you would stay home tomorrow," Janice said. "We can get along."

"I can't stay home!"

"But if Edna Mae is sick —" Janice did not mean to insist, or to attempt to pry deaper into whatever lay behind that apparent fear in Eileen's eyes, but she was really concerned. She thought, If I had not been so immersed in my own problems lately I would have known something was worrying Eileen.

"She's just got a little cold," Eileen returned. "The woman I have is keeping her in bed. It isn't necessary for me to stay home. I'll be in tomorrow, Janice."

There was nothing more Janice could say. It seemed odd that Eileen insisted upon coming in, and that she had said so forcefully that she could not stay home.

It was odder still that Eileen did not appear the following morning.

There were two phone calls for her that day, one in the morning, another after the lunch hour. Miss Willows reported this to Janice. She did not say so, but it was evident that Miss Willows was worried.

Janice could not help feeling uneasy. She kept remembering the look of fear in Eileen's eyes. She suggested that Miss Willows phone Eileen's home and inquire about Edna Mae.

• • •

Miss Willows seemed to consider that a good idea. However she told Janice a short while later that she had been unable to get much satisfaction.

"The superintendent just said there was nobody home at the McRaes," Miss Willows reported. "I told him I knew very well that someone had to be—they'd hardly take the little girl out in a drizzling cold rain. But he just said, real curt and cross-like, he guessed he knew what he was talking about—no one was home."

"Well, I suppose we'll have to take his word for it," Janice said. But she was far from satisfied. Some of the fear that had been in Eileen's eyes the day before seemed to have enterd Janice's heart.

The worry continued to nag her as she walked home. It still was raining, a steady autumn downpour. But Janice was protected by her white raincoat and umbrella; she did not mind walking in the rain.

Her head and her umbrella were bent forward against the slant of the rain so that she almost collided with someone coming toward her as she rounded the corner into her street. She did not know why she was not more surprised to find it was Eileen McRae.

She tried to hide what surprise she felt with a casual enough greeting. 'Why, Eileen—Sorry if I practically knocked you down."

"I have to talk to you," the older girl said. "I have to talk to someone." She made no pretense now; her eyes were naked in their fear.

"Of course!" Janice strove to keep her tone and manner natural. "Do you want to come home with me? Or perhaps you'd rather go somewhere we wouldn't be interrupted. There's a little tearoom around the corner on Third Avenue—"

"Yes, yes. Let's go there!"

It must be even worse than I thought, Janice decided. Poor Eileen, she looked desperate.

Across a table in a corner booth in the tearoom Janice saw that Eileen was trembling uncontrollably.

"We'll have some hot tea, with lemon," she suggested. She wished she could have ordered a brandy. There seemed no doubt that Eileen was suffering a chill, or shock.

"Why didn't I talk to you yesterday?" Eileen said. "Why didn't I go home, as you wanted me to?" She buried her face in both hands, elbows on the hard table. But in a moment she looked up again. Her voice was dull, full of disbelief in what she was about to say.

"She's gone," she said flatly. "He did it. He said he would. But I never thought he would. If only I'd talked to you — to someone — yesterday."

"Tell me about it now," Janice suggested gently. "Try to take a sip or two of your tea while it's hot. You're shivering, Eileen; you'll catch a dreadful cold. That's right—fine." She gave the older gril a smile of approval as she obeyed, almost automatically. "Now tell me —who's gone and whom to you mean by 'he?'"

Of course Janice knew that Eileen meant Edna Mae; she could not be so upset about anyone else. By 'he' she must mean her husband. She usually referred to him, when she spoke of him at all, as "he" or "him". He had not supported his family in years.

"I told him to get out," Eileen said. "I should have told him that long ago. But after all, he's Edna Mae's father."

"Yes?" Janice prompted. She could not help feeling glad that Eileen had finally taken a stand. The man might be Edna Mae's father but apparently he had never felt the responsibility of the relationship.

• • •

"He couldn't get on with Mrs. Burger—that's the woman I have for Edna Mae. Dell took a dislike to her—I guess because she got his number right off. Only I never thought he would be so mean, so low. He said, when I told him to get out, that if he did, he'd see that I'd live to regret it to the last day of my life."

Janice tried to summon a little laugh of reassurance. She said, "Of course he was only bluffing."

"That's what I thought." It still seemed as though Eileen could not put what she had to say into words, as though she was afraid that if she did, she must acknowledge the truth of them.

"Yes?" Janice prompted again.

"He said he'd take her away and I'd never see her again." There—the dreadful words were out. Eileen said then in the same flat voice, but there was conviction in her tone as she added, "That's what he's done, all right. I'll never see her again — never. My bab-y—my little girl!" She turned her head away as though she knew that the grief in her eyes was too much to ask anyone to look upon.

Janice reached quickly across the table. Her firm grasp gave the other girl's shoulders a quick shake.

"Certainly you'll see her again! Don't say such things!" She purposely made her tone sharp. "We'll go to the police."

"No, no—not that! He might do anything then. You don't know him. He doesn't care anything about Edna Mae, as most men do their children. He was always jealous—he said I cared too much about her. If I went to the police he might hurt her. All our quarrels were over Edna Mae. He said she was the cause of all our trouble. He said I was trying to turn her against him."

Janice considered a moment.

"Perhaps Dr. Holbrook—" she began.

• • •

"No, no!" Eileen protested. "That's why I wouldn't let Dell come near the office. Please — please. I don't want the doctor to know. I couldn't go back to work day after day, if he knew."

"I understand," Janice said.

She decided that it would be better, for other reasons, too, not to have Eric know. Janice was discovering, since that evening when he had taken her to dinner, that it was no longer wise to go to the doctor during office hours about anything that was not strictly professional. It was becoming difficult enough to maintain the role of doctor and office nurse.

There was, of course, one other man Janice could go to. Ben Archer. She had not seen Ben since that night when she had gotten Albie to take her place. He had not come to the Hilary house since.

But this trouble of Eileen's was bigger than hurt pride, bigger than any other consideration. Everything else must be put aside now for Eileen McRae.

"I know just the right person," Janice said, getting to her feet. "Wait here, Eileen. Or why don't you go back to the rest room and bathe your eyes and powder your nose?" Action of any kind was better, she knew, than futile discussion. She also knew she could rely upon Ben.

She hoped she would be able to catch him before he left his office. Already she felt an immense relief, dialing the number. For Janice knew that if anyone could help, it would be Ben.

DEMOLISH FAMOUS SPIRE

London —(CP)— Southwark's famous landmark, the 225-foot spire of St. Olave and St. John's Church, is to be demolished because it has a "lean" of 18 inches.

RICH TIMBER EATEN BY FLAMES IN ONTARIO

Over 20,000 acres of valuable timberland in the Mississaga area of northern Ontario, has been destroyed in one of the worst forest fires to hit that section of the province. Supplies and equipment are being rushed to the 400 firefighters as the "battle of the blaze" continues. The weatherman says nothing short of a baby cloudburst will help the situation.

100,000 Homes In 1948 Promised By Hon. C. D. Howe

Port Arthur, June 2 (CP) — A prediction that the Dominion government's plan to foster construction of 100,000 new homes in Canada during 1948 will be achieved was made here Tuesday night by Trade Minister Howe. Mr. Howe was addressing a meeting on behalf of H. H. Styffe, Liberal candidate for Port Arthur in the Ontario elections June 7.

Terming himself a representative of the only government in Canada building homes, Mr. Howe said Federal housing plans are keeping up to schedule. Last year the objective was 80,000 homes and 79,000 were built. This year, with a good backlog of unfinished dwellings as a start, housing was off to a good start and was maintaining a good pace.

The Trade Minister, who said this would be his only election address in the Ontario campaign criticized both the Progressive Conservative and C.C.F. parties. He accused Premier Drew of making the Ontario Hydro "a "political arm" of the government. He warned of the threat of leftist elements in the C.C.F. if that party were elected.

ACTRESS WARMLY WELCOMED

London, June 2 — (AP) — Sophie Tucker kept a sentimental date with her British public Monday night — and her reward was one of the most smashing personal triumphs known to the theatre's old timers here. Two jammed houses at the London Casino welcomed the 64-year-old trouper back to this country after a 12-year absence. They cried bravos at her songs, new and old, and gave her tremendous applause.

Labor Minister Heckled At Welland Meeting

Welland, June 2 — (CP) — A group of about 100 persons at an election campaign meeting Tuesday night heckled Labor Minister Mitchell for 45 minutes.

They made it almost impossible for a time for Mr. Mitchell to address the meeting held in support of H. W. Walker, Liberal candidate in Welland riding in the June 7 Ontario election.

The hecklers, identified by reporters at the meeting as members of the Canadian Seamen's Union (T.L.C.) and the United Electrical Workers (C.C.L.) filed into the hall before the meeting started. After the chairman called for order they booed and jeered. Liberal supporters shouted to "shut up" and "sit down."

A Welland crowd last week heckled Premier Drew at an election campaign meeting. The Premier said then that the demonstration was arranged by Communists and the C.C.F.

At Tuesday's meeting the cheers and jeers continued until the hecklers made an organized withdrawal similar to that staged at the Drew meeting.

Toronto City Police Officer Held on Charge

Cochrane, June 2 — (CP) — Provincial Police here have arrested a member of the Toronto city police department on a charge of attempted armed robbery.

Charles Bernstein, owner of a Cochrane fruit warehouse, told police a man wearing a white handkerchief over his face entered the building late Monday, thrust a pistol in his face and ordered him to "turn out the lights."

Provincial Police arrested a man they identified as Constable Randolph Jamer of Toronto an hour later, seized his revolver and turned him over to municipal police. Police said the suspect was hiding behind a woodpile in the warehouse.

Jamer will appear for trial next Monday.

Holloway St. WMS "At Home" to The Tabernacle Auxiliary

Basket bouquets of lilacs and of tulips and other Spring flowers served in adding a decorative touch to the attractive Sunday School hall of Holloway Street United Church on Tuesday afternoon, when a travelogue on Palestine, as seen through the eyes of a member of the R.C.A.F., during a week's leave from the air base at Cairo, was the subject matter of an interesting address by Mrs. Erle Denyes. The story might well be called a Canadian version of H. V. Morton's 'In the Steps of the Master'.

Hitch Hiked 400 Miles

"Palestine", said Mrs. Denyes, "is fast becoming one of the most modern of Eastern countries, with electricity developed by harnessing the Jordan River and the salt and potash industry developed around the Dead Sea. From Cairo to Palestine is a distance of 400 miles, and the boys hitch hiked. Crossing the Suez Canal they saw good crops, and passed through groves of date palms loaded with ripened fruit. In Bersheba, the first town past the Sinai Desert, there was a cemetery of Canadian heroes of World War I, and also a fine mosque.

"Passing through the Judean hills they reached Jerusalem, 2,000 feet above sea level, and registered at what is called the 'Million Dollar Y.M.C.A.' a beautiful white structure of modern architecture'. The old city wall was built by the Turks in 1500 and is in almost perfect condition. The temple area is on top of Mt. Maria, where the mosque of Omar now stands. Near the centre of this area is the 'wailing wall' of the Jews; the church of the Holy Sepulchre built by the Crusaders; and here may be seen the Crusaders' Cross carved on the stones by the British 8th Army. Custody of the sepulchre is in Moslem hands.

Visit Many Interesting Sites

"The boys", continued Mrs. Denyes, "visited Bethany and the Mount of Temptation, where there is a dearth of vegetation; the Jordan River, not nearly as large as our Moira; the Allenby Bridge to Transjordan, where Jesus was baptized by John, and the Dead Sea where the bathers are absolutely safe from drowning because of the large amount of salt in the water.

"Going north to the Sea of Gallilee, they passed through numerous small towns, all dry and dusty, each with its church, usually under Roman Catholic supervision. On this route they saw Mt. Tabor, the scene of the Transfiguration; Nazareth, where Jesus lived as a boy, and women clothed as in Biblical times, carrying earthen water pots on their heads. Beside the sea they visited the site of the 'feeding of the 5,000' and returning, they viewed a sunset across the Mediterranean Sea, and over the Judean hills.

Midnight Mass in Bethlehem

"Of special interest was the Church of the Nativity with its very low door, in Bethlehem, six miles from Jerusalem. This is the oldest church in Christendom. At Christmas time the road from Jerusalem, the streets and the court yards are packed with pilgrims of all nationalities and Christian creeds. The manger site is marked with a low altar. On Christmas Eve carols are sung outside the church by a choir from the Church of England. Inside, the beautiful midnight Mass lasts two hours, and the boys were privileged to be present for that.

"The Garden of Gethsemane, and the Tomb of Mary on the Mount of Olives, with its large trees 800 years old, and a Church of all Nations, where, among several others, there is 'the Canadian Dome', were other points of interest visited. Tel-Aviv, near Joppa, known as the seaport of Jerusalem, is modern and clean. Here the boys enjoyed a swim in the Mediterranean.

"This trip occupied all of a week's leave, and the travellers arrived in Cairo at eight a.m., on a Monday, just in time to report for duty."

Mrs. Denyes displayed photos of some of the places visited, which helped to make her description even more vivid and realistic to her audience. On behalf of all present, Mrs, Fred Wilson expressed real appreciation to Mrs. Denyes for a very entertaining 'trip to Palestine'.

Members of the Holloway St. W.M.S., were 'at home' to the ladies of Tabernacle Auxiliary. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Kilbank, Mrs. Fred Wilson opened the meeting, welcomed the guests, and conducted the business period. Mrs. E. M. Hubbs presided at the piano. The program was in charge of Mrs. R. G. Coulter, with the topic, 'Student Missionaries in Outlying Districts". She conducted a quiz with answers given by Mrs. Frederick, Mrs. Tucker, Mrs. L. Reid, and Mrs. Lough. The Scripture Lesson from Psalm 103 was read by Mrs. Moynes. Prayer was offered by Mrs. C. A. Perkins, and Mrs. Bell contributed the solo, "I'll Go Where You Want Me to Go".

Following the program, the Holloway Street ladies served afternoon tea and members of the two auxiliaries were given an opportunity to become better acquainted as they visited together.

Mrs. G. V. Faulkner Heads Country Club Ladies

Mrs. George V. Faulkner was named president of the ladies division of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club at a special clubhouse meeting this week. President Clare B. Morgan acted as chairman.

Other officers elected are: Vice President, Mrs. Airhart; secretary, Miss Helen Lee; game captain, Marjory Cook; vice game captain, Mrs. J. M. Stewart. The junior captain of the games committee will be named at a later date.

Headed by Mrs. Clare B. Morgan, the social committee includes Mrs. W. Ryder, Mrs. S. L. Joss, Mrs. L. McDougall and Mrs. Grant. House committee is composed of Mrs. A. Chaplin, Mrs. Pryke and Mrs .Weller.

The success of weekly teas last season which attracted a large number of playing and social members, warranted the resumption of this club function. The teas will be held on Wednesday afternoons, to which members may bring a guest. The opening tea will be held on Wednesday afternoon, June 16. Hostesses will be Mrs. C. B. Morgan and ladies' president Mrs. Faulkner.

Ladies' field days will be held on Tuesday afternoons, the meeting decided, and members will take part in varied competitions. It is planned to play matches with clubs of the district.

Laudatory comments on the attractive appearance of the clubhouse, recently renovated, were heard on all sides. Much interest is being taken in the season's activities by the ladies of the club, and they are looking forward to an active summer with increased social and playing members.

UNESCO Topic Discussed At Women's Guild

U. N. E. S. C. O. was the topic discussed at the Young Women's Guild meeting held Monday evening, at the home of Mrs. A. D. Archibald, Dufferin Ave.

Miss Irene Grills was in charge of the program, assisted by Miss Olive Elson, Mrs. M. P. Buck and Mrs. Scripture. Miss Hazel Thompson conducted the worship service.

The United Nations Educational and Cultural Organization is one of the specialized agencies of the United Nations. It came into being in Nov. 1947 with twenty nations accepting its constitution. by May 1947 eleven other countries had become members. The first General Conference was held in Paris in Nov. 1946. Its purpose is to contribute to peace and security, by promoting collaboration among the nations. The broad objectives of Unesco have been summarized thus: —"Since wars began in the minds of men, it is in the minds of men, that defences of peace must be constructed.

In 1947 the program got under way. An effort was made to rehabilitate the educational facilities in the war torn countries. Surveys were made in the fields of press, radio and film. An inquiry was begun into the tensions affecting international understanding. A commission convened in Brazil to study the problem of reclaiming the large territory in the basins of the Amazon and its 14 tributaries from the jungle. The exploration of the possibilities of the Hylean Amazon is one of its most fascinating projects. Many scientists and medical authorities are at work on this problem. If it is possible to combat the jungle and make it safe for human habitation, it is so fertile, that it would be capable of solving the world's food problem. The growth is so luxuriant and rapid, that four crops a year could be realized.

Important Project

Fundamental Education is another important project. Its aim is to attempt to provide education for the immense masses of people who lack even the most elementary means of taking part in the life of this modern world. It must strive for both adult and child education. One of the greatest barriers is the language problem. Leaders in this field have suggested a de-Babelization scheme, by providing some form of universal language, so that the people of the world could communicate and understand each other more readily. It plans to help vast numbers of illiterate people to become literate.

A seminar for teachers was held near Paris in the summer of 1947, where plans were studied to improve the instructions about international understanding in the school systems. Five outstanding Canadian educators participated in this plan.

The second Annual Conference of Unesco was held in Mexico City late in 1947 with a much larger and more enthusiastic number in attendance. Further plans were drawn for 1948. Conferences are to be held again this year with leaders from the fields of university administration, adult education, library, art, and science. A program for mass communication through the media of film, radio, and newspaper is being studied. Many scholarships have been offered to help rehabilitate the personnel of these three fields of communication, from the war devastated countries.

Operation Costs Slight

The cost of operation for the program of Unesco is one eightieth of the amount spent in one day, for the prosecution of the war. While it is a comparatively new organization it has already made tremendous strides towards its goal, and even if some of the projects take the better part of a century to complete, it will be very worth while.

The President, Mrs. Grant Coulter presented Miss Norah Dane with a gift from the Guild, prior to her departure for her home in Ilford.

Clothing was brought to pack a box, and funds were contributed for the monthly food parcel, to be sent to England.

Mrs. A. Wells and Mrs. G. Stanton were appointed to be the Nominating Committee to present the new slate of officers at the June meeting.

Mrs. H. Mills extended an invitation to the Guild to hold their June meeting at her home. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess committee.

Women's Activities

BRIDGE ST. W. A.

The May meeting of the W. A. of Bridge St. United Church was held in the ladies' parlor, Friday, with Mrs. R. B. Morden, presiding for the business period. Mrs. J. E. Buchanan, group leader, presented the program for the afternoon with Mrs. Taylor Franklin in charge of the devotional period, reading the well known poem, "Trees". She was assisted by Mrs. H. Fox, Mrs. R. Clapp, and Mrs. E. Buchanan. Mrs. K. Bird, with Mrs. Guthridge as accompanist, sang an appropriate solo.

The guest speaker was Mrs. J. G. Sparling, who chose "Social Service in the Community" as her subject. Mrs. Sparling is eminently suited to speak on this subject, having worked in Social Service for several years. Her listeners were deeply interested as she gave case histories dealing with many branches of this work. The thanks of all present were extended to Mrs. Sparling by Mrs. Buchanan, and Mrs. Morden later expressed appreciation to the speaker for her kindness in coming to speak to the ladies.

At the close of the meeting afternoon tea was served by the group in charge.

CHRIST CHURCH EVENING W. A.

The Evening Branch of Christ Church W. A. held the closing meeting of the season as a picnic at the cottage of Mrs. F. Clare, Oak Lake, when thirty members were conveyed there by bus. The pot luck supper was most enjoyed, with Mrs. G. Burleigh receiving the lucky tea cup prize. Games and races formed the program of entertainment. Mrs. E. Smith with Mrs. R. Ragsdale, and Mrs. A. Simpson with Mrs. Graham being the teamed winners. A reading by Miss Eliza Bell was much appreciated and community singing was enjoyed. Rev. J. Grant Sparling, Rev. Henry Hill and Mr. Everett Smith were present during the evening and all spoke briefly.

Miss Frances Reid, president of the organization, on behalf of the members, thanked Mrs. Clare for her hospitality, and for a most enjoyable time.

HOLLOWAY ST. Y.P.U.

The regular meeting of Holloway Street Y.P.U. took the form of a wiener roast at the home of Miss Ruth Ireland at Carman, on Monday evening.

After an amusing ball game led by Norma Arkles the Missions group conducted the Worship Service in the house.

Quiet music by Margaret Hillis was followed by the Call to Worship read by Ruth Ireland. Rev. Mr. Sunter led in prayer. The Scripture passage was read by Doug Ptolemy. Meditations were read by Ruth Ireland and a poem "Rejected of Men", was read by Mary Potter. A solo "The Stranger of Galilee" by Mrs. Ireland accompanied by Mary Morgan was greatly appreciated. Following this service the members went out-of-door around a bonfire where everyone enjoyed hot dogs and coffee. The meeting closed with the Friendship Circle.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Maturity Means More Than Age in Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

About a year ago I fell deeply in love with a fellow eleven years my senior. Sometimes he shows such affection toward me that I think he feels the same way. But one night we had a long talk in which he said there could never be anything between us because of the difference in our ages. I just can't seem to convince him that this does not matter.

I cannot go on like this, loving him so much with him feeling as he does. Please advise me.

"Blue"

Dear "Blue":

Since you don't say how old you are, it would be pretty difficult for me to form an opinion as to whether 11 years' difference in your ages is important or not. If, for example, you happen to be 20, and the man 31, this age difference might matter more than if you were 25 or 26 and he was 36 or 37. The point is of course, that the older a girl is, the less such an age difference matters. If, however, a girl is unusually mature at 20 or thereabouts, a man of 30 or so might not be too old for her, since the success of any marriage depends to a very large degree on whether or not a man and a woman have reached approximately the same point of maturity.

If this man has no real intention of marrying you, and has told you so, however, you are foolish to let him hang around, no matter how much you may like him. It is not fair of him to monopolize you and keep you from making friends who might be other matrimonial prospects, and you shouldn't let him do it.

Be Content With Friendship, "Puzzled"

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 17, and I have been going out pretty steadily with a boy of the same age for about six months.

About a year ago, he was going with a girl who moved away, and he has not seen her since. He says he is still in love with her. Do you think a boy of his age could be in love with a girl and still be in love with her after a year of not seeing her? From what I have heard of the girl, I don't think she is too suitable for him. How can I open his eyes without having him think I'm doing it to get him interested in me? I don't care for myself, because I believe that a girl of my age can't really love any boy.

"Puzzled"

Dear "Puzzled":

Of course you're doing it for yourself, and you might just as well realize and admit this frankly. No girl is going to care who a boy likes, whether suited to him or not, unless she is very much interested in him.

It would be very bad tactics, however, for you to try and "open his eyes", as you put it, to what you consider the faults of this other girl. Nothing makes a boy think so little of a girl as to hear her run down another girl.

As to your other question, I think it extremely unlikely that a boy of this age could be "in love" with anybody, and I think the same about a girl of your age. Why not be sensible about all this, and be satisfied to be just good friends with this boy?

A Very Serious Situation For a Twelve-Year-Old

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 12 years old, but very developed for my age. I have fallen deeply in love with a man of 28 who is married and has one child and he has returned my love in a very definite manner.

I know I am doing wrong, for I have seen his child and she is very cute, and his wife seems to be a very nice lady. He tells his wife he work late, and as my mother works at night, she does not know I meet him. He says he fights with his wife all the time, and that I am the only one he really loves.

I really am not a bad girl. I have tried, but I can't help loving such a nice guy. Of course he doesn't know my real age. I have told him I am almost 17.

Should I stop seeing him, or should I not worry about anything and just have fun?

"Very Worried"

Dear "Very Worried":

This is not a situation in which to "have fun", but one about which you should tell your mother at once. If you are as mature for your age as you think, you must know that it is not only wrong for you to meet this man as you are doing ,but very wrong indeed for him to let you do it. No "nice guy" would take advantage of your circumstances in being alone at night while your mother is away from home.

I am not blaming you for this unfortunate business, as it is understandable that you are lonely in the absence of your mother and feel safer and happier with an older person around. But the state of affairs you describe is something that should be stopped immediately, and even though you are afraid your mother will be angry, you still should confide in her and let her handle the matter. If you don't, I am very much afraid the day will come when you will wish you had.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A Graduate's Manners Should be "Extra Special"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When I am receiving congratulations on Commencement Day, after the graduation exercises, should I just say "Thank you"?

2. And how should I thank a relative or friend who brings a gift to me at the exercises?

3. Is it necessary to reply to cards of congratulations?

Elsa

1. On Commencement Day graduates are so dramatically in the limelight that they should wisely give "an extra added attraction to their manners. For example, add the name to your "Thank you", and then a gracious comment that will please the other person :"Thank you, Marie, very much. How kind of you to say such pleasant things. . . I shall always remember them." Or, "Thank you, dear Aunt Margaret. What you say makes me very proud. . . and having you with me today makes me very happy!

2. When the guest at your graduation brings a gift, thank her or him for it with warmly appreciative words. There usually isn't time or opportunity, at a graduation, to open gifts. . .so you'll have to let your words of general appreciation say your thanks until you have time afterward (later that day or the day after) to write the note of thanks that must be written. And remember that people naturally expect a graduate to be able to write a really good and articulate thank-you note!

3. Yes, ma'am! For every congratulatory card sent to you, write a pretty little note of appreciation.

Girl Must Receive Direst Invitation from Boy's Mother

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it proper for my daughter to accept the invitation of a boy she knows very well to spend the weekend of the Fourth of July at the country home of his family? She insists it is, insists I'm being "old fashioned" in my point of view that the boy's mother should indicate that she would like to have her come.

"Her" Mother

Indeed you are right . . .your daughter must receive an invitation from the boy's mother, the hostess of his home. In this note she would welcome her and tell her the dates of the weekend, the plans for meeting her, and something about the schedule-of-events, which would give her cues about the clothes and sports-equipment she would take with her. Assure your daughter that if this invitation (which may properly be by telephone, if not by note) is not forthcoming soon, it is simple for her to say to the boy, "Mother says I may go, and of course I'd love to go. . .but Mother thinks it would be best if your mother would tell me that it would be convenient for her to have me come on that weekend." (As a matter of fact, the courteous thing is for the boy's mother to get in touch with you also, so that you will know about the dates, plans, and so forth.)

The Host Answres The Bell

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a couple are giving a party in their home—no maid to answer the bell—should the wife or the husband greet the guests at the door?

S. T.

The husband.

Attractive Culotte Costume

By ALICE ALDEN

THE CULOTTE DRESS, while not quite so popular as in seasons past, is appearing at some of the very smart resorts. Printed Celanese beach fabric in a white on blue star-like print is used for this charming culotte-dress and matching bolero, designed by Grace Acuri. The print straps top a bodice piped in white. The belt accents a narrow waistline above the full divided skirt. A nice topping for the wide skirt is the brief bolero jacket, collared, lapelled and buttoned in white. With the jacket the dress does a double-switch from cabana sunning to dinner dance. A nice choice for the Bermuda-bound lassie!

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Pleasing Voice Means Beauty Plus

A sweet voice makes a strong appeal

American women have a reputation the world over for style, beautifully shod feet, chic hairdos. Fine! Grand! They also have the reputation for having unpleasant, shrill voices. Of course, it isn't fair to put them all in one bracket. But the painful truth is that the voice, as an element of charm and feminine loveliness is given scarcely a thought.

If the voice is pitched too high, if too much volume is used, it is bound to be unpleasant. It isn't necessary to take lessons in elocution to correct these troubles. Just use the old head, that's all. A flat, unmusical quality, a monotonous range of tones and slovenly enunciation are other defects. Make it a practice to give the vowels an open sound. Pronounce each word with clearness and precision, and you will cultivate a beautiful expressive quality .

Think of the efforts women make to be pleasing to the eye, vast sums they spend for grand dry goods and treatments at the beautery. Figure remodelling goes on all the time. The hairdo must be the latest frenzy. Sweet perfumes appeal to the nose. Yet little is done to make woman attractive to the ear. The voice may be hard, brittle, rasping or shrill and nothing is done about it. How does it get that way. By careless speaking habits that can be corrected.

When the talkies took the place of the silent pictures, many a lovely star had to retire for the time being because her voice was lacking in charm. Did she stay retired, out of business? She did not. She sought a teacher of voice culture, had her voice made over. It has been done many times. Many public speakers, men as well as women, have taken a course of professional training, been benefited.

The woman who is in the habit of breathing deeply will be more likely to have a pleasing voice than the shallow breather. One permit stale air to remain in the lower cells. Breathe with full lung capacity. You will not only have a better-controlled voice, but lovelier coloring in your cheeks, brisker circulation to give you energy.

When speaking, make an effort to emit tones that are crystal clear and musical; then you will never have the nasal tone that is anything but a charm asset.

Think of the women you know whose voices do not qualify. Those who keep everlastingly on one key. Those who shout and insult your eardrums. Those who talk too fast, and those that uh-uh before they can get their spaking ngin going.

A sweet voice makes a strong appeal to the members of the sterner sex.

Fashion Flashes

A SWEET SUMMER EVENING should find plenty of belles in beautiful cotton dresses. White organdie embroidered in red polka dots, is the theme for a lovely dress. The off-shoulder neckline has a deep pleated ruffle and there is another deep ruffle at the hemline of the very wide, full skirt.

ENCHANTING housecoats intended for bridal trousseaux are in the shops. White silk mousseline makes a beauty, slim of bodice, high of neck, closing down the front to the waist with tiny self-covered buttons. The full skirt has insert bands of rose-blush lace.

A GOOD CHOICE for the bride's going away costume is the fur trimmed suit, the jacket a boxy topper nice to wear with other things, the skirt, very slim. Petal pink gabardine is used for a charming suit of this type, the jacket of 30-inch length, has tuxedo stoles of pale gray fox.

ALL WHITE hats both plain and trimmed, are liked by smart women the country over. Semi-rough white straw makes an open-crown hat trimmed with a wreath of white cabbage roses with leaves of white satin.

NOT A BIT too soon to start thinking in terms of fur coats, judging by the trade shows already presented. The full coat steps into the sartorial limelight. Such furs as beaver and mink are used for a full-flared full length coat with wide, double, stand-up collar and full bishop sleeves with cuffs. The curved face-framing collar is especially good.

PURE SILK shantung in its natural shade is the medium for a delightfully cool and attractive, easy-to-wear daytime dress. The Chinese infulence is apparent in the small standing collar and double breasted button closing to the waist. Shaped tucks mold the waistline. The fully flared skirt conceals pockets at the hips. It's a good town, country or travel number.

A FABULOUS HAT is in order when your best beau invites you for a luncheon at the country club, to the races, or is escorting you to a wedding reception or a garden party. Photographed at Bermuda, to show how right such a hat would be at a resort is this Braagaard creation, a forward swooping bonnet of white balibuntal straw. It has an edging of frosty white mink, and is accented by pale pink silk roses, which adds up to pretty exciting combination.

Welland Stokes Rack Up Sixth Straight Victory

(By The Canadian Press)

Majority of the senior amateur baseball teams in Ontario took a holiday last night although three games were written into the records.

Down in the fruit belt, Welland Stokes continued their winning ways by racking up their sixth straight win in the Niagara District League, this time at the expense of Niagara Falls Flores who they blanked 3-0. Niagara Falls Houcks, however, did better than their cousins and pulled a 6 - 4 victory out of their hats over Niagara Falls, N. Y., Kimberley Clarks.

Over in the eastern section of the province, Batawa Shoemen took over second place in the Central Ontario Baseball League by defeating Oshawa Merchants 6-2 at Belleville.

The Welland victory was largely due to the five-hit pitching of Mario (Smoky) Comy. He also struck out eight. Stokes broke up a neat pitching duel between Comy and Billy Poole in the sixth when they shelled the Flores hurler from the mound with five singles.

Accounts for Two

Catcher Billy Sherk's single accounted for two runs, while Trotter's drive to right brought in the third Welland marker. Welland batters slammed out a total of 8 hits. Stephenson hit a triple and Kerr a double for the losers.

A four-run eighth inning climaxed by a timely base-cleaning triple by Steve Wodynski gave the Houcks their victory. The visitors changed hurlers twice in an effort to hold the lead but the winners did not stop hitting. In all, the Houcks slammed out 15 safeties while Kimberleys managed 13 off Carmen Rienzo.

Billy Whittet was the big batter with three hits in four trips to the plate. Bernat and Casey led the losers with three safeties in four tries.

Pile up Big Lead

Batawa's victory was their second in as many nights. The winners piled up a six-run lead in the first five innings off the hurling of Pat Sheehan who gave up six hits in the four and two-thirds innings he worked. Hill, replacing Sheehan on the mound, held Batawa to a single hit for the rest of the game.

Tall Ken Peacock worked for the winners giving up seven hits, fanning 11 and walking four. Dick Bridgman and Mac Watson led the winners, each with two hits in three times at the plate. Ed Brisebois had a perfect night at bat for Oshawa with four-for-four. Andy McMullen had two-for-four.

League Attendance Ahead of Last Year's Record

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Thanks to the huge crowds which jammed the parks over the holiday weekend, the major leagues today were ahead of last year's record breaking pace when they attracted an unprecedented total of 19,874,539 specators to the games.

Including Tuesday's games, the 16 big league clubs have played to 4,966,889 paid admissions. At a corresponding date a year ago, the same clubs drew 4,853,034 persons.

At this rate, the majors will play to the first 20,000,000 attendance in its history this season—exactly 21,071,073 will pass through the turnstiles.

The Cleveland Indians, averaging 32,700 persons per game, are setting a wicked pace in attendance as well as in the American League standings, with a total of 556,068 in 17 home games. The Detroit Tigers also are past the half-million mark with 514,038 in 19 home games. The New York Yankees are just below with 478,493 in 17 home games.

The New York Giants, first place tenants in the National League, are also the circuit's best attraction. They have played to 438,131 in 19 games at the Polo Grounds.

A crowd of 44,779 saw the Yankees inaugurate the night season at the stadium. The inauguration proved anything but a success as the Washington Senators, behind the five-hit pitching of Walter Masterson, defeated the Yankees 4-1. Masterson retired the last 20 men to face him in order.

Only other game in Philadelphia saw the Boston Red Sox try to dump the Athletics out of first place when Joe McCarthy's men beat them 8-1. The defeat left the A's still a half game in front of the Indians.

Eddie Joost, Athletics' bespectacled shortstop, finally committed his first error of the season after playing through 31 consecutive errorless games—28 this season and three in 1947. The miscue ended a streak of 225 errorless chances. Both are new American League records.

Whitey Lockman and Gil Hodges drove in four runs apiece as the Giants and Dodgers played an 11-inning 4-4 tie at Ebbets Field before 9,353 fans. The game was halted after 11 innings in order to allow both teams to catch trains.

American Optical And Alemites Win at Softball

In an action packed double-header at the Alemite field Tuesday evening the Alemite squad came from behind to down the Moose Lodge 8-7 in the opener and the American Optical nine staved off a determined challenge by the Bell Telephone to win the nightcap 6-3.

In the opener Alemite came from behind twice to tie the score and eventually go on to squeeze out a win over a hard fighting Moose Lodge nine. The Moose opened the scoring in the first inning on a single by G. Carson with one out. Carson went around to score on two stolen bases and a wild pitch. Alemite came back in their half of the first with Breadman scoring on Young's single to left field.

Breadman opened the third inning for the Alemite with a homer to deep right field with nobody aboard. Harris singled and Young and Barnum were whiffed. Hager and Tebworth got on on errors and Schreider's single cleared the bases.

Two errors, two walks and a home run counted five runs for the Moose and put them back in the lead, in their end of the fourth. Burley got on via an error. K. Bellis was walked and with two men down Murray got on on an error as Burley and Bellis scored. G. Bellis was walked and B. Carson unleashed a mighty circuit clout right down the first base line driving in Murray and Bellis.

Burley Triples

The Moose added another in the fifth when Burley tripled and then scored on a passed ball Alemite got one of the runs back in the bottom half of the fifth when Tebworth, who singled, moved to second as Schreider was passed and then came on home on an error to the shortstop.

With two men on and no one down in the bottom half of the sixth the Alemite sent in Kilpatrick to pinch hit for Barnum and he poled out a triple to drive the winning runs across the plate.

Moose made a desperate attempt to tie the score in the top of the seventh when Murray beat out a dropped third strike and worked around to third with only one out. Peters popped up to the third baseman holding Murray at third. Ray Burley then smacked a long one to deep left field which was taken by Hager to end the game.

Schreider Whiffs Six

Schrelled, on the mound for the Alemite struck out six, walked four, and gave up four hits for seven runs over the seven inning route. Galpin, losing pitcher for Moose Lodge, struck out three, walked two, and gave up eleven hits for eight runs. Big man at the plate for the lodge was Carson with a single and a homer in four trips to the plate. Breadman and Tebworth for the Alemite got two for four and Harris had two for three. Line up:

Mows Down 15

In the nightcap Connie Harris, on the hill for the American Optical crew used his fast and slow balls to perfection to mow down fifteen Bell Telephone batters over the seven inning course to give the Optics the verdict 6-3. Connie had the Bell boys going for everything and he retired the side in the third and seventh innings by a subtle mixture of speed and science.

The Optical nine counted once in the first inning when Shore drew a pass and then scampered home as the Bell crew wobbled afield. With two down in the second Williamson got a life on the shortstop's error and was promptly scored by Young's timely four master down the right field foul line.

The telephone crew threatened to break into the scoring column in the top half of the third when two errors and a base on balls loaded the sacks with two men out. Harris bore down and struck out the last batter to retire the side. Two singles counted another run for the Optical nine in their end of the third frame.

Bells Get Under Way

The Bells got under way in the fourth when Thrasher singled with one away. Reid hit for three bases driving in Thrasher but a strikeout and a weak grounder to the pitcher retired the side before any more damage was done. The phones were back knocking on the door in the fifth when two singles and an error counted two more runs but Harris fanned two and Reid went down short to first to quell the uprising.

Two walks an error and a single counted two more for the Optical in the sixth to sew up the game.

The Bells' effort in the seventh when they put two runners aboard with no one out was crushed as Harris came through in the clutch with three strikeouts to salt away the victory.

Harris, winning pitcher for the Optical, gave up three hits and three walks and struck out fifteen for three runs. Reid, losing pitcher for the Bell Telephone struck out three, walked four, and gave up six hits for six runs.

Burns was best at the plate for either team getting two hits in two official times at bat. Thrasher had two for three.

OPTIMISTIC OVER GREEK SITUATION

New York, June 1 (AP) — Dwight Griswold, Chief of the United States mission for aid to Greece, left for Athens by plane Monday night after conferring for two weeks with government officials. He said "there is no change" in American policy toward Greece as a result of his visit and "I am very optimistic about the Greek situation."

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BY GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Out Batawa way they should present tall rangy Ken Peacock with the town hall, the keys to the city, or at least a pair of new shoes. For the righthander came through with as neat a piece of hurling as has been dished up here in some time. Not only did he strike out 11 of Moose Matthew's cream-colored Oshawans last night, but the big guy was masterful in the clutches. Cool as an autumn gherkin, cluttered bases bothered him not at all. He merely hitched up his pants, took a breath of stratospheric ozone and poured in the pitches.

• • •

Belleville's first sight of the new COBL senior baseball left a fairly pleasant taste in the mouth of fandom. The game was productive of good hurling, some sparkling work afield and some schoolboy errors. Six errors were committed with the teams dividing the bobbles. Hitting was nothing to write home about, only one extra base clout, a triple, going down on the books.

• • •

But it was enough to satisfy the fans that the COBL should thrive. Only a few expected teams of major league calibre, the rest were curious as to what constitutes Eastern Ontario senior baseball. While it is not good senior type, nevertheless it is good groundwork stuff that augurs well for future seasons.

• • •

Pat Sheehan, ex-RCAF hurler was no puzzle to the Batawa bats. He lasted 4 2-3 innings and was nicked for 6 runs and as many hits. The Ole "Moose" essayed a pinch hitting role in the 9th and he obliged the Batawa fans by striking out. This boy Briseboise (you pronounce it) was the only Oshawan to show any ability with the hickory, poling out four of his mate's seven clouts.

• • •

There was a slip-up somewhere last night regarding umpires. Its bad enough to have to wait until 9 o'clock to get the benefit of the floodlights, let alone waste extra minutes for officials to show up. It appears no Belleville umpire had been arranged for, and "Red" Townsend, a spectator for a change was pressed into service. The game was delayed 15 minutes.

• • •

'Twas reported last night that the powers-that-be will turn on the floodlights earlier so that games can be started at 8.30 instead of nine. This spot of news will be welcomed by all and sundry, especially visiting teams who have to travel long distances, radio and press who have to meet metropolitan dailies and C.P. deadlines, and fans who come from outside points. Besides it will be better for the box office. So lets have it.

• • •

After the game, there was one fan whom it appeared took the result of the game rather too much to heart, or at least so thought bystanders. The irate one was igniting the ozone with words of flaming character, and the bloke wasn't fooling. However, the real cause of his vitriolic verbal outbursts was not the fact that the Oshawa team had lost the verdict, but a foul ball, looking for a soft resting place, had crashed through a window in the family jalopy. And it was parked fender to fender with the sports-staff amphibian. The gods are good, Julius!

Trenton Flyers and Belleville Merchants tangle under the lights tonight at the Fair Grounds with the curtain rising at 9 p.m. Merchants will start either Williams or Fitzpatrick while the Flyer hurler can be one of three or four. Flyers won their first game, dropped the second, while Merchants lost their only game played to date. The game should be a worthwhile looksee. Meanwhile Northern Electric trek to Picton for a twilight game.

Barbara to Help Crippled Children With Money Earned

Ottawa, June 2 (CP)—Barbara Ann Scott today journeys to Philadelphia as a professional skating artist but her thoughts are with Canadian crippled children.

She has asked that part of the money she will make in future will go towards helping the youngsters. Barbara Ann signed a contract with Music Corporation of America Artists in Toronto Monday and announced that the newly-formed St. Lawrence Foundation, a charitable organization, will share in her future salaries.

"I want to help crippled children and I shall do all that I can," the 20-year-old who thrilled thousands with her ice twirls Tuesday told The Canadian Press.

Accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Clyde Scott, Barbara Ann had driven to Toronto Sunday to say goodbye to her amazing amateur career which had elevated her to the highest figure-skating ranks. She travelled in the powder-blue convertible, gift of the people of Ottawa.

Still on a well-earned rest, Barbara Ann asked that her whereabouts be not disclosed. She spoke by telephone from a secluded cottage.

Barbara Ann has no idea just what sort of work she will do as a professional. If she is to appear in pictures, she hopes the pictures will be made in Canada. Possibly she may have to leave Canada for a few months.

She showed no worry about her professional career. Professionalism, said Miss Scott, was like a new dress. You had to wear it for a little while to find out what it was like.

In Philadelphia Miss Scott will be crowned "Queen" by United States Junior Boards of Trade. Attending will be delegates from Canada and other countries.

Ken Peacock's Fine Hurling Paves Way for Batawa 6-2 Win Over Oshawa Merchants

Behind the masterful seven-hit pitching of Ken Peacock, the Batawa Shoemen stepped into second place in the C.O.B.L. standing Tuesday night, defeating the Oshawa Merchants 6-2 in the first floodlight game of the season here.

It was the Shoemen's second victory in a row as they disposed of the Kingston Locos in Kingston Monday night by a 4-3 count in a game that saw Peacock in a relief-hurling hero role.

The tall, rangy righthander was practically invincible last night, striking out 11 Oshawa batters and walking four. He was exceptionally good in the clutches, bearing down to retire the side after his mates committed near-costly errors. He held the Oshawans scoreless up to the 8th innings, and to that time allowed but four hits, two of them bunts.

Errors Pave Way

Two errors, a walk and a single in the eighth paved the way for both Oshawa runs and with runners on first and second Peacock forced the batter to fly out and retire the side.

Pat Sheehan, former Brooklyn, and R.C.A.F. hurler, went to the mound for Oshawa but his offerings were no puzzle for the Batawa bludgeons. They got to him for four hits and three runs in the first four innings and pounded him for three more hits and two runs before he went to the showers with two out in the 5th.

Norm Hill, a lefthander relieved him and promptly struck out Rankin to retire the side. Hill held the Batawa bats to one hit and no runs over the balance of the pastime, but the damage was done and with Peacock's rare form, the game was in the Batawa bag. Hannah, Oshawa starting catcher, did not help Sheehan's cause with two costly errors at the plate and he also retired with his battery mate in the fifth in favor of Normile.

Draws First Blood

Batawa drew first blood in the second when Aquino reached first on Jubenville's bad throw. Rankin sacrificed him to second and Bridgeman slashed out a single that sent Aquino to third. An attempt to nail Aquino resulted in a bad throw and he scored on the error. Bridgeman was nipped off third and Solmes grounded out.

With two out, Ranken beat out a bunt in the fourth, racing home on Bridgeman's blasting triple to deep left centre. Sheehan heaved a wild pitch and the shortstop came home with the second run of the innings, Solmes grounded out.

In the fifth Watson drove Spencer who had walked, across the plate and scored himself on Aquino's single to left. Cook drew a walk ahead of Aquino, raced to third on the hit and scored on Hannah's second error of the game. Sheehan and Hannah were yanked, and Hill stepped into the breach to retire the side.

That was all the scoring for Batawa who were held in check for the remainder of the game by the Oshawa southpaw.

The visitors threatened in the sixth when they filled the bases with none out on two walks and Baxter's clout to centre. Peacock forced Bidgood to pop to third, struck out the next batter and the next went out at first on an unassisted play.

Moose Strikes Out

McMullen, Oshawa outfielder, lined a hit to left in the ninth, and "Moose" Matthews, pinch-hitting struck out. Dell filed to left and Brisebois lashed out his fourth hit of the day to send McMullen to third. Briseboise pilfered second, but Peacock sent three strikes past pinch-hitter Cook to end the rally and the game.

Briseboise, Oshawa third baseman, got four hits for five, with McMullen collecting a pair. Jubenville got the remaining Oshawa hit. Bridgeman's triple was the only extra base hit of the game. Watson, got a pair of singles with Spencer, Aquino and Rankin contributing singles. Bridgeman led the attack with a three bagger and single.

Lifetime Ban Placed on Player And Official

Winston-Salem, N. C., June 2 — (AP) — Police investigation continued today where organized baseball left off Tuesday in the banishment of two men from the game for life.

A lifetime ban was placed against Bernard Deforge, pitcher-manager of Reidsville, N. C. team of the Carolina League, and Ed Weingarten, an official of the Florence, S. C., club of the Tri-State League and Leaksville, N.C. of the Blue Ridge loop.

They were banned on charges of bribery, gambling and game-throwing.

George M. Trautman, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, ruled the two men out of organized baseball Tuesday at his Columbus, O., offices.

Trautman said Deforge admitted throwing a game for $300.

Weingarten denied any connection with the incident.

At Florence, where Weingarten was general manager and major stockholder of that city's entry in the class B Tri-State League, minor stockholders said the team would continue league play.

Following Trautman's decision, Police Chief Frank N. Littlejohn of Charlotte, N. C., said he had assigned two detectives to investigate reports of a betting coup at the Florence-Charlotte Tri-State game at Charlotte May 15.

Littlejohn added that investigation thus far revealed no evidence of a "fix," but he ordered a "crack-down" on all gambling at local games.

Weingarten and Deforge were expelled from baseball, Trautman said, following a May 14 game at Winston-Salem in which that club won from Reisville, 5-0.

An inquiry was opened because of reports that heavy gambling had taken place on the basis that Winston-Salem would win by three runs or better, that a "known gambler had been seen talking with Deforge while he was warming up, that there was no logical reason for relief of pitcher Abernathy, and that Deforge had issued bases on balls in order to assure defeat of his team by at least three runs."

Philadelphia Will Make Application For Franchise

(By The Canadian Press)

Confronted with prospects of the hottest early-summer weather in Montreal, owners, managers and other representatives of the six National Hockey League clubs made ready Tuesday night for their annual two-day meeting.

The early arrivals were reticent as to what the private deliberations will concern, but it is believed one of the outstanding pieces of business will be a Philadelphia application for a league franchise. Len Peto, representing Philadelphia interests, will present Philadelphia's bid for a second fling at major league hockey. Philadelphia is seeking the Maroon franchise, held by the Canadian Arena Company which operates Montreal Canadiens.

President Bill Tobin of the Chicago Black Hawks, in Montreal for the annual meeting of the N.H.L., Tuesday tabbed Gordon Knutson of the Regina junior Pats last season, as "the best prospect in Canada, bar non." Tobin said the Hawk-owned centreman would play his hockey next season with the Quebec Senior Hockey League, Montreal Royals, a farm club of the Montreal Canadians. He wants to attend McGill University and if accepted likely will line up with the Royals.

General Manager Frank Selke of Montreal Canadiens announced in Montreal Tuesday that Maurice Richard and Kenny Reardon have already agreed to terms for next season's hockey campaign. "We have talked things over and they are both satisfied," said Selke. Richard, along with Bouchard, was a hold-out last year.

World and Olympic figure skating queen Barbara Ann Scott heads the list of several hundred Canadian and U. S. skaters slated to attend summer classes at the McIntyre Arena at Schumacher, near Timmins. Miss Scott is booked for July and August, it was announced Tuesday. Olympic title holder Dick Button of Englewood, N.J., will also attend.

Middleweight Jake La Motto, in his first fight in six months Tuesday night knocked out Ken Stribling of Washington in 2:46 of the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round bout, at Washington.

Boston's Ted Williams, 1947 champion, is setting the pace in the American League batting race with .382 in statistics released Tuesday in Chicago. The Red Sox slugger holds a 23-point margin over Lou Boudreau of Cleveland Indians, who has .359. Al Zarilla of St. Louis Browns is third with .352. Ken Keltner leads in the home run race with 13.

Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cards trails Boston Braves' Tommy Holmes by a single percentage point in latest averages released in New York Tuesday in the National League batting race. Holmes is hitting .394 and Musial .393. Frank Gustine of Pittsburgh is next with .386. Hank Sauer, Cincinnati Red rookie, tops the home run parade with 13.

Groth Rewards Thomas' Faith In His Pitching

(By The Associated Press)

Ernie Groth, chunky righthander for Baltimore Orioles, has finally rewarded manager Tommy Thomas' faith in his pitching ability.

Groth on option to the Orioles from Cleveland Indians, pitched his first complete game of the season Tuesday night, blanking the first place Newark Bears 13-0 on five singles.

Prior to this game, Groth started seven times for the tail-end Orioles and each time he failed to go the distance. Lack of control has hampered the 25-year-old pitcher in the past.

The loss cut the Bears' lead to half a game over the runner up Syracuse Chiefs who downed Jersey City Giants 9-2.

Southpaw Jim Wallace checked the Giants on four safeties while his mates pounded out 14 including four-baggers by Kermit Wahl and Clyde Vollmer.

Sixth place Rochester Red Wings downed the third-place Montreal Royals 19-5, banging out 20 hits with Ed Kazak showing the way with four. Glenn Nelson and Charley Marshall slammed homers and Frank Gravino drove in four tallies.

Eddie Blake, who relieved starter Ray Yochim in the fifth, and hurled shutout ball the rest of the way, was the winner and Walter Nothe the loser.

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Regina, June 2 — (CP)— The local boxing faithful were stunned last week when they heard that their Adam Faul was decisioned in his first bout as a heavyweight in the Canadian Olympic trials.

They were more than a little relieved — and annoyed at the error — when next day they learned it was all a big mistake. Their Adam had really won, but the judge who meant to vote for Faul voted for the other guy because he couldn't tell them apart.

Dave (Regina Leader - Post) Dryburgh took a very dim view because the judge didn't know which boxer was who.

"A good many boys," he said, "who dropped decisions will be disgruntled.

"If Faul was a loser once because of mistaken identity, who is there to say that the same situation didn't arise in other bouts?"

Dryburgh was even more surprised when he learned the "erring judge was Bobby Leithsm, a former boxer of considerable renown."

Like every other prairie golfer, Dryburgh was stung into action by record swarms of mosquitoes, hovering in the thousands over local links and assaulting the faithful unmercifully.

The mosquitoes, he suggested, might be collecting royalties from golf-ball manufacturers for every ball their tactics caused to wind up in the creek.

They never, he complained, bother you on the first tee and "not a mosquito will trouble you on the first green, either."

"But about the third hole, when you're chortling to your partner that those softies back in the clubhouse are exaggerating about mosquitoes, you run into the odd sniper.

Beset by mosquitoes, you drop your ball into the rough on the seventh and eighth where the mosquitoes collect them and sell them back to the club pro.

"By the time you reach the 9th green, there isn't a mosquito on the horizon."

The Kibitzer

The fireworks start in each deal with the opening bid. The end is not always a spectacular display. But a flurry of excitement can be worked up in some form if you are inclined that way.

A deal had this pair of hands:

SOUTH
♠A K 6
♥A K [illegible] 7 4
♦A J [illegible]
♣A J

♠9 5
♥10 6 5 3 2
♣K 7 3

South opened the bidding with a heart. North responded with an assist to two hearts. This is known as a simple assist. Generally such a mild bid does not stir up much encouragement in an opener.

Such a response promises adequate support. They are in a hand containing three tricks. Among the tricks are two high cards. No assurance of more than this can be found in such a bid.

Contrary to opinions of many, it does not necessarily denote weakness. But it certainly does not teem with strength. If it had much strength, a takeout or jump might be found.

With a trick count of seven in his own hand, south sees ten in their pair. These are enough to go game in the agreed suit. But he was in the mood for adventure.

Spirited by the size of his high cards, south hoped to find a bit more in north. Perhaps enough for slam. So he came out with a bid of five no-trump, the king asking convention.

Reply from north was six hearts, convention signal for showing two kings. Learning all the aces and kings were in their pair, south was tempted to try for a grand slam.

Luckily for him, however, he passed and played it in a small slam of six hearts. The opening lead from west was spade queen. The south king of spades won this first trick and a top trump was led.

East showed out of trumps on the first lead of hearts. How can south be positive of taking 12 tricks? Lay out the remaining opponent cards to suit your taste. Anything but the dark brown flavor.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 2 (AP)—The long-awaited trip by Cary Grant for a picture in Europe now is shaping up.

The Bristol-born actor will leave for England as soon as he finishes "Every Girl Should Be Married" (any arguments about that title?) He'll huddle with Sir Alexander Korda about their picture, which now appears to be an unpublished Graham Greene Story, "the Third man". It's an adventure yarn in occupied Vienna, and may be filmed in its actual locale.

Rudy on Stage

Rudy Vallee, who has tried about everything, will take a whirl at the stage. He replaces Joe E. Brown for a week in "Harvey", then does a two-week stand in "Anything Goes" in Los Angeles. Meanwhile, he keeps his hand in radio, films and television.

Will Rogers, Jr., appears to be still set to portray his dad in the Warners film biography. He did a day's work in "Silver Lining", enacting a backstage meeting of the great comedian and Marilyn Miller (June Haver). He's a carbon of his famed father.

Bette Davis has no yen to do "A Streetcar Named Desire" on the screen, as has been reported. She feels the play will be emasculated by film censorship. She has also been mentioned for the other Tennessee Williams opus, "The Glass Menagerie", but says no to that one, too.

Travel Notes

June Haver to Wyoming for a fishing vacation after "Silver Lining" . . . Donna Reed joining the trek to Europe in July. She'll return for "Monty Stratton", probably opposite James Stewart. . . Dorothy Malone to her Dallas home after "South of St. Louis".

Larry Parks is angling a couple of independent film deals which he hopes will complete his break with Columbia. The studio thinks otherwise . . . Wayne Morris' popularity as a golf opponent has zoomed since the Frank Borzage golf match, the actor tells me. Wayne had high score: 104.

Ray Milland, whose last two films showed him as a heel and the evil, looks destined to continue his villainy. Among the possibilites for his next vehicle are "Babylon Revisited", in which he'd play a reformed alcoholic, and remakes of "The Scoundrel" and "Death Takes a Holiday".

Killer Instinct In Italian Heavy

Chicago, June 2. (AP)— Observers said Enrico Bertola, claimant of the Italian heavyweight championship, had a "killer instinct". After two unimpressive victories in his first starts in the United States, Bertola uncorked his savagery Tuesday night.

The 193-pound slugger slammed down Orlan Ott, 203, Hartley, Iowa, for the count in 1.08 of the first round of a scheduled eight-round bout in the Marigold Gardens outdoor show.

In the space of one minute, Bertola had sent Ott sprawling to the resin for eight counts three times. He finally nailed him with a vicious right to the jaw. Ott was out far about four minutes.

Record Field For U.S. Open Reduced to 171

New York, June 2. (AP)—The record field of 1,418 which filed for the United States Open Golf tournament was reduced to a cozy 171 today with most of the top fairway giants still answering "here".

The championship, golf's most coveted prize, will be contested June 10-12 over the Riviera Country Club at Los Angeles.

The defending titilist is Lew Worsham of Pittsburgh, who got in automatically and thus didn't have to wrangle with par in Tuesday's scattered sectional qualifying trials.

The tests produced good and mediocre golf. The best was from a little-known pro named Jack Harden of El Paso, Tex., who got a hole-in-one.

One big man who missed out was Jimmy Thomson. He turned in a two-round 153 at San Francisco and fell one stroke short of qualifying.

Hottest round of the day was engineered in the torrid southwest. El Pasco's Jack Harden did it with a nine-under-par 67-66—133 at Lubbock, Tex.

AT THE CAPITOL — Tough hombre! Danny Kaye, as "Slim" Mitty, tough and terrific in a western episode, champions beauteous co-star Virginia Mayo, in Samuel Goldwyn's comedy, "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty," opening Thursday at the Capitol Theatre. Quarter-Final And Semi-Final Matches Carded

St. Anne's-on-the-Sea, Lancs, England, June 2 — (CP)—Quarter-final and semi-final matches are carded today in the British women's golf tournament with British entrants having the upper bracket all to themselves and the three surviving American contenders all in the lower bracket.

In the upper bracket, Maureen Ruttle of England meets Mrs. Helen Holm of Scotland and Mrs. E. M. Hartley of England engages Scotland's Jean Donald.

In the other bracket, Louise Suggs of Atlanta, Ga., United States champion, collides with Dorothy Kirby, also of Atlanta, whom she defeated for the national crown last year. Mrs. Joan Gee of England meets Dorothy Kielty, glamorous stroker from Los Angeles, in the other part of the lower bracket.

Tomorrow the two survivors will play 36 holes for the crown won last year by Mrs. Babe Didrickson Zaharias, only American to win the trophy. She has since turned professional.

DISROBE IN PROTEST

London — (CP) — Twelve prisoners in suburban Wandsworth jail stripped off coats and trousers and ran about in their underclothing in a "strip-tease" protest against being made to wear blue-patched clothing.

AT THE McCARTHY — Acted with superb simplicity, "Driftwood," now playing at the McCarthy Theatre, is a moving tale of a little girl, Jenny (Natalie Wood) and her collie, "Hollingsworth" (Major) who confront an adult world and find it confusing.

WILL THINK ABOUT IT

Ottawa, June 2 — (CP) — Removal of taxes on high - grade outboard motors was urged in the Commons Tuesday night by G. K. Fraser (PC — Peterborough West).

Speaking during study of budget resolutions, he said they were used by guides who look after American tourists visiting Canada. When buying a motor the guides had to pay $50 in taxes.

Finance Minister Abbott said he would lift the taxes as soon as he could. However, it was not possible to give one class of purchaser special consideration.

Once an Orphan, Leaps Among MP's To Discuss Bill

London, June 2 —(Reuters)—A young, curly-headed, powerfully-built man today vaulted the barrier of the Commons gallery and, shouting "Excuse me. I would like to take charge," landed among the members of parliament in committee discussing a children's bill.

Waving a copy of the bill he tripped and fell into vacant benches.

Two attendants seized him, but the man tried to fight them off, grabbed hold of a corner of a bench and held on, shouting "this is a very feeble point. If that is the best you can do we should get the lot of you down the mines."

He was removed after two policemen had been called in to help. His name was not disclosed.

The man afterwards told a reporter that he had spent 12 years in an orphanage.

"I came today determined to say my piece because I believe that the bill in regard to orphans is feeble and does not go half way to meet the orphans' needs," he said.

SPEAKERS DIVIDE

Senator Euler, long a proponent of margarine, introduced this session his third Senate bill aimed at removing the ban, only to see it defeated last month by a vote of 35 to 21.

The Commons spent most of the day on the budget resolutions, approving those removing the sales and excise taxes from foods and other goods and modifying the Dominion successions duty. A start was made on modifications in the income tax law.

In the opening proceedings, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said the government is ready to give British Columbia the "fullest" assistance in the "very serious and grave" situation created by the floods.

He and other Commons members expressed their regret at the decision of Justice Minister Ilsley to retire to private life.

Opening the margarine debate, Mr. Marquis said a surplus of 100,000,000 pounds of butter would develop if margarine was made available on the Canadian market. There would be a "disaster," not only for the dairy industry, but for the whole Canadian economy. The recurring butter shortages were only temporary and would pass.

Mr. Gour said there was little difference between the price of butter and that of margarine. Between 1930 and 1935, butter sold at from 18 to 25 cents a pound. A margarine-producing company could not sell even "axle grease" at 18 cents a pound.

Should be Free Vote

Mr. Church said the removal of the margarine ban "will not hurt the dairy industry one bit." Industrial workers deserved some protection and the government should allow a "free" vote, without regard to party lines, on the issue.

The budget debate drew a number of statements from Finance Minister Abbott.

He told the Chamber he had "every reason" to believe that the savings from the removal of the eight-per-cent sales tax on foods will be passed on to the consumers. But he turned down suggestions that the government "police" retail merchants to make sure they adjust their prices to meet the tax reduction.

To a suggestion by John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) that the government use its budget surplus to lower the cost of living, he reiterated that heavy tax cuts this year would boost prices rather than reduce them.

He agreed, however, to consider opposition suggestions that the sales tax be lifted from hearing aids and other equipment used by those who are incapacitated

Might Remove Tax

He felt that the excise tax applying on silverware and jewelry could be continued for another year.

Mr. Arnott indicated he might remove the 25-per-cent excise tax from 35 millimetre still-picture projectors used by church and educational groups if this can be done without affecting 35 mm. projectors used for regular motion pictures, the tax is being abolished on 16 mm. projectors.

The suggestion for this step came from Rodney Adamson (PC—York West), who said many still-picture projectors in that size were used in visual education classes.

The minister told Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) that between 80,000 and 100,000 persons would benefit from the provision for a $500 income exemption for persons over 65.

Douglas Ross (PC—Toronto St. Paul's) wanted the tax removed from candy and soft drinks but Mr. Abbott said more than children paid those levies. "Everyone who has a scotch and soda contributes to the tax," he said.

W. Chester S. McLure (PC—Queens(urged that either the sales tax or the processing tax be removed from furs.

ITALIAN THRONGS PAY LAST TRIBUTE TO "BUZZ" BEURLING

The funeral of George "Buzz" Beurling, Canadian war ace killed en route to Palestine to fight for the new state of Israel, provoked a spontaneous tribute from hundreds of Italian Jews who followed the casket to the cemetery in Rome after impressive services. Killed with the veteran pilot was Leonard Cohen, another Canadian ace of World War II.

20 Known Dead, Many Homeless As Waters Recede

By WILLIAM PHIPPS

Portland, Ore., June 2 (AP)—The crisis in the mighty Columbia's most disastrous flood came today for diked lowlands along the 100 miles from Portland to the Pacific Ocean. The river's crest collided with a high tide surging in from the sea.

Water boiled toward the top of earthworks protecting towns, villages and fertile farms. In spots the difference preventing inundation and destruction was only a matter of a few inches.

The rush of water seaward meant the worst was over upriver where the toll is 20 known dead, an unknown number unaccounted for in the Vanport, Ore. disaster, 50,000 homeless and damage in millions of dollars.

The flood crest has passed the major cities — Portland, Oregon's metropolis; and Vancouver and Longview on the Washington side of the state-separating river.

An estimated 10,000 homes were swept away. The entire city of Vanport was destroyed.

The fight now is against disease, to search for the dead, to bring families back together again, to feed and clothe those who lost everything, to supply temporary housing.

Impetus to the tremendous task came from President Truman. He ordered federal agencies into full-speed rehabilitation of the stricken region.

The Red Cross and Salvation Army reported gains in providing housing, shelter, food and clothing.

Problems Under Control

Health authorities believed they had their problems under control. Typhoid immunization teams toured all shelter areas. Planes have sprayed flooded areas with DDT.

Portland's housing authority has asked for war surplus buildings, tents and trailers for the emergency housing. The wheels are turning toward rebuilding low-cost housing projects.

The United States Navy is ready to break out surplus vessels from its "moth-ball" fleet at Astoria, Ore., for use in the emergency housing. Two decommissioned hospital ships can be moved to Portland from the port at the river's mouth and there are idle ocean tankers available to supply power for river towns.

Truman has also asked the army and interior departments to reappraise their long - range planning for Columbia river development.

Communications and transport is severely crippled through the lower river valley where high water will remain for weeks.

SAY MOTHER OF THREE KILLS SELF WITH RIFLE

Sudbury, June 2 (CP) — Police said today that Mrs. Helen Jones, 26-year-old mother of 3 young children, killed herself Tuesday night with a rifle. They said her husband, John V. Jones, went to British Columbia about a month ago.

FIELD MARSHAL SMUTS CAMBRIDGE CHANCELLOR

Pretoria, South Africa, June 1 — (Reuters)—Gen. Jan C. Smuts, defeated South African premier, will visit Cambridge University, England, June 10 to be installed as chancellor. He will also visit Leyden University, Holland, June 18 to receive an honorary doctorate conferred on him in 1946 for services in the cause of peace.

EXPORT MORE WOOLLENS

Melbourne, Australia —(CP)—Australia's quotas on blankets, rugs, non-worsted woollen piece goods and other woollens were increased recently for export to sterling countries. As part of a general export drive, the increase caused expansion of local production to meet the demands.

Rawdon

Dutch Family Welcomed To Mt. Pleasant

Rawdon.— Approximately one hundred friends from Mount Pleasant, Carmel and Hoard's gathered at the old Whitton home on Monday evening to welcome a Dutch family, Mr. and Mrs. Andriss Visser, with four small daughters and a baby son, to Canada. Their new home is on the boundary of three communities.

Rev. N. Cole, pastor of Rawdon circuit, welcomed the family and spoke briefly of the country of Holland. He presided over the following program.

Rev. R. W. Barker, pastor of the Carmel Stirling circuit also extended a gracious welcome and led in community singing.

Several selections of guitar music were given by Mr. Harvey Couch and Mrs. Will Jeffs.

Readings were given by Mrs. Merle Spencer and Mrs. Percy MacMullen.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Visser and Mr. and Mrs. S. Heidi contributed two vocal quartet in their native tongue and little Miss Visser sang sweetly for the group.

Mrs. Robert H. Hoard read an address voicing a welcome to this country and paying tribute to the hospitality which the people of Holland extended to our Canadian soldiers. The address was signed by Gladys McAdam, Marian Sharpe, Eleanor Bailey, Alice Hoard and Helen McConnell.

A large table was filled with gifts of canned fruit, vegetables, groceries, towels, kitchenware and many other useful articles.

A group of ladies served delicious refreshments and the visitors departed wishing the Visser family every happiness in their new home.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Merrick extended their thanks to all those who had been kind enough to cooperate in making this homewarming a success.

Boards to Work For Rail-Union Compromise

Ottawa June 2 — (CP) — Two federal mediation boards will begin wage differences between the railways and their 140,000 union employees.

Labor department officials said today the boards would go right to work at trying to get the disputants together on a compromise that would avert a paralyzing strike of rail transport across the nation.

In announcing the set-up of the boards Tuesday, the department took about the last step left to the government.

Earlier, conciliation boards had failed to reach a medium on which the unions and companies could agree.

In the latest move, the government reconstituted as mediation boards the two conciliation boards that had acted earlier. Both are headed by Mr. Justice J.C.A. Cameron of the Exchequer Court of Canada.

After the conciliation investigation, the boards recommended an increase of seven cents an hour, against the 35 asked by the employees. The railways accepted the seven cent figure, but the unions rejected it.

Since then, strike votes have been ordered among the 112,000 members of the 18 International unions involved and the 30,000-man Canadian Brotherhood of Railway employees and other transport workers (CCL). The C.B.R.E. members have voted for a strike; the vote of the other unions is due to be finished by June 21.

Under the new setup, the boards chief function will be to get the unions and companies to resume the negotiations they broke off several weeks ago.

Abortion Death Inquest Adjourned Until Thursday

Toronto, June 2 — (CP) — An inquest into the death of Mrs. Jane Gordon was adjourned Tuesday night until Thursday after a married man told of having an affair with her but denied responsibility for her pregnancy. An autopsy earlier showed death due to an abortion.

The 28-year-old estranged wife of a Toronto doctor was found dead last April 9 on a lonely side road in suburban North York township. But Tuesday night's 4-hour hearing ended without establishing how she came to be there.

John S. Glover, rangy, good-looking real estate salesman, testified that he started taking Mrs. Gordon out in February and that late in March she told him she was pregnant and that he was responsible. He said he loaned her $500.

"Jane came to me and said that she was pregnant," said Glover, who told the jury he had been intimate with the girl on two occasions. "I told her that I could not be responsible."

"You say you weren't responsible for her condition and yet you loaned her $500," said jury foreman Raymond Digman. "Why?"

"Because I was very friendly with her."

Last Seen April 8th

Glover said Mrs. Gordon mentioned the possibility of going to Montreal or Buffalo. He repeated he did not know why she wanted the $500.

Glover said that on the morning of April 8 Mrs. Gordon asked him to drive her to North Toronto."

He let her out of the car, waited long enough to smoke a cigaret and then drove back to his office. He said that was the last time he saw her.

Glover said he tried to reach Mrs. Gordon by telephone that afternoon.

"At 1:39 there was no answer. I called at two and got a busy signal. I got another busy signal around four and I had tried seven or eight times between then. I think Mrs. Gordon was at home.

Detectives Call

"The next thing I knew, about five o'clock in the morning, five or six detectives called at my house."

Glover had said earlier Mrs. Gordon had mentioned three doctors.

"A Dr. Watson definitely was one."

William Thoburn, who described himself as a real estate man and a friend of Glover, said that on learning of Mrs. Gordon's death Glover telephoned him and asked him to meet him in a restaurant.

"He (Glover) said he'd been trying to get her (Mrs. Gordon) on the phone the day before and that she had gone to the doctor."

"Did you know what doctor?"

"I understood it was Dr. Watson."

"How?"

"He mentioned the name."

Business Spotlight

(By The Canadian Press)

Security exchanges remained in the consolidation stage Tuesday, as United States markets resumed after a three-day holiday.

Oils were responsible for New York making an average advance, with the Associated Press 60-stock average gaining .1 to 71, still around its high since July, 1946.

All Canadian and United States signs point to continued high industrial and business activity, and in these conditions observers find little reason for any market downturn.

Canadian markets saw little of interest. In Toronto industrials, golds, base metals and western oils were all off in the exchange's index.

Papers and industrials showed best with some new highs for the year. In Montreal selected industrials were firmer, and on the average utilities, industrials and papers made gains, while banks and golds were off.

Weather is the chief factor in recent Chicago grain trade, and rains in the southwest depressed wheat Tuesday, while lack of rain in the corn belt strengthened that cereal. Oats was unchanged. Winnipeg rye lost its 10-cent limit, oats was mixed and barley lower.

Cattle prices continued to advance on Canadian livestock markets on slim supply which is likely to last until July. Both weighty steers and fed yearlings reached new all-time Canadian tops, 22.75 for the steers and $22.50 for the yearlings.

Oakes Mansion National Museum

Niagara Falls Ont, June 2 (CP) —Oak Hall, mansion home of the late Sir Harry Oakes, will become a national museum, it was announced today.

Labor Minister Mitchell, visiting this border city, said in a statement it is expected the building will be reconverted in time for the 1949 tourist season.

The hall, which overlooks Niagara Falls, was given to the people of Canada by Sir Harry's widow after the unsolved murder of the Canadian-born mining magnate at his Nassau home in 1943.

In the building will be exhibited the work of Canadian artists and specimens of the Dominion's natural resources.

London Letter:

Betting Still National Fever And Britain the Number One Gambling Country of World

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, June 2 (CP)—Almost 100 years ago, the parliament of Britain tried to legislate gambling out of existence. But the law had a loophole. Today betting is still a national fever and Britain the No. 1 gambling country of the world.

Stroll the streets of London almost any day and see workmen hunched over lunch pails, studying racing sheets or working on football pools. Later you'll see them paying pennies for newspapers, which they quickly turn sideways to read "stop press" results. The turnover on horse racing alone is more than £1,000,000 ($4,000,000) a day.

Oddly, only a fraction of the total wagered changes hands in one day. In Britain it is easier to bet on the cuff than for cash—all because of the law parliament enacted in 1853.

Design Frustrated

The betting act prohibited, among other things, "the keeping of any office or other place for the purpose of betting with persons resorting thereto." The legislators thought this would stamp out bookmaking offices, other than those at race courses. The development of telegraph and telephone frustrated their design.

Instead of "resorting to" betting offices, backers make their wages by telephone and telegram. The result is that off-the-course betting in this manner is not only legal but is carried on through state services, while betting for cash is prohibited. Betting offices, as intricate a business organization as almost any other in Britain, abound to an extent that would have astounded the legislators of 1853.

Even on Weather

Bets are taken on horses, greyhounds, football and cricket—and in at least one case on whether it rains on Sunday. At the end of a week the backer receives his winnings, or pays his losses, by cheque or postal order.

Perhaps 20 per cent of Britain's adult population have "accounts" with one or more of the country's hundred-odd "investment offices." They receive neat little notebooks, often containing 20 to 30 pages of instructions on the many complex forms of wagering dear to a Briton's heart.

Each backer receives a punchy nom de plume starting with the letter of his name. This he signs to telegrams or uses in making telephone bets with the imperturbable girl operators who handle incoming calls. Telegrams may be dispatched any time up to the set time of a race but if you happen to be in Canada, you'd have to send it to arrive the day before the race.

To a North American, it seems a chancy method. But it works —a bookmaker who welshes is as rare as a triple dead heat.

United Nations Staff Have Chance to See World

By LARRY HAUCK

Lake Success, June 2 (AP) — Join the United Nations staff and see the world!

In its first 30 months, the U.N. has assigned workers to accompany missions to such remote and enchanting corners of the globe as western Samoa, Tanganyika and Kashmir.

Others have moved into the battle zones of Greece and Palestine. Some spent a winter in sunny Havana.

The plum now being dangled in front of the staff in Paris where the 1948 meeting of the General Assembly will be held this fall.

U.N. workers get their close-up at the world through being assigned to investigating bodies set up by the General Assembly, Security Council, trusteeship council and economic and social council. The visits to far-away lands vary from days to months.

A worker's salary remains the same while on "foreign duty." Transportation costs are paid, of course. Each person draws expense allowance on per diem basis, the amount varying with costs in the area. It was $12 a day in Havana and it is $15 in Palestine.

Personnel to accompany the commissions is selected on the basis of specific requirements with volunteers being given preference where possible. The staff chart usually calls for nearly all skilled workers such as interpreters and economic experts. The vounteers usually catch on as pool stenographers and secretaries.

Some of the staff ends up overseas more less permanently. For instance, the economic and social council has authorized economic commissions for Latin America, Asia and the Far East, and Europe. The commission home offices are in Santiago, Shanghai and Geneva and the staff stays there. Other workers have been shipped out on a permanent basis to the network of U.N, public information offices in a dozen countries.

The workers travel by plane or ship, depending on the accommodations available and the need for speed.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma found an old newspaper in the storeroom and after supper she showed it to pop, saying, Look, William, 1928, do you realize how long ago that was?

Twenty years, and getting ferther away every minute, pop said. By gollies, those were the days. No atom bomb just around the corner, no bacteriological warfare, just up in the next cloud, he said, and ma said, Goodness yes, it just seemed like a nice easy world to live in.

High ho, it's gone forever, pop said. Let me have a look at what the lucky people were doing back in the good old days. Well, listen to this. "Meat prices Boosted Again. Women Threaten Action. Mrs. Jarvers T. Janders, president of the National Association of Womens Organizations, stated today that unless the price of meat reterns to a reasonable level, she will call a general strike of the 14 million women of whom she is the head. Mrs. Janders announced that beginning next Monday and continuing till ferther notice, women all over the nation will refuse to cook meals, make beds or sew on buttons."

Mercy, those prices must of been going up longer than I thawt, ma said, and pop said, Here's another item. "Militerry Chief Takes Gloomy View." General Lucius Gratz, who reterned today from a tour of the werld, predicts that another war will leave this country a shambles of uninhabited houses without roofs."

But William, we've had another war since that paper came out, ma said, and pop said, The generel must of alluded to still another war. We mustn't be impatient. Here's more. "Forty New Strikes in 17 Fields of Industry."

Oh dear, maybe I just picked up the wrong paper, ma said, and pop said, I'm just going to put it down again.

Britain Suspends Arms Shipments To Arab States

Jews of Military Age Must Stay in Cyprus

London, June 3 (AP)—Britain has stopped supplying arms and military equipment to Egypt, Iraq and Trans-Jordan in accordance with the U.N. truce conditions for Palestine, a Foreign Office spokesman said tonight.

Britain also has barred all fit Jews of military age from moving to Palestine from Crypus, where 24,000 Jews were interned at the time the British mandate over Palestine ended.

Supersedes Alliance Pacts

The suspension of arms in effect supercedes Britain's treaties of alliance with the Arab countries. The spokesman said each country understands that Britain's obligations to the United Nations come ahead of her commitments to her Allies.

The commitments to the three countries, has supplied them arms of all kinds, munitions, aircraft and ships.

Britain also supplies the other Arab League countries — Saudi Arabia, Yenen, Lebanon — and Syria. However, supplies other than unfulfilled contracts were suspended when the United Nations earlier this year called for an embargo on shipments of military goods to the middle eastern danger zone.

An informed Whitehall source said adequate military measures have been taken in Cyprus to control possible disturbances by the 24,000 Jews held there.

A Foreign Office spokesman said the ban on the movement of Jews out of Cyprus will continue for the entire period of the four-week United Nations truce presumably soon to go into effect.

The decision is based on the British government's own interpretation of the Security Council's resolution calling upon Jews and Arabs to halt the importation of fighting personnel into Palestine during a truce.

"We interpret the term 'fighting personnel' as something broader than 'armed forces'" the spokesman said. "We see that the intention to exclude fighting personnel meant that any persons capable of being used for fighting should be excluded from Palestine."

The spokesman said many Jews on Cyprus previously had some form of military training, and "it would be inconsistent with the Security Council's resolution if those people were allowed to leave for the fighting areas."

Since Britain ended her Palestine mandate May 15, Israel authorities removed about 500 of the Cyprus Jews, refugees from all parts of Europe who were interned on the island after trying to enter Palestine without certificates when the Holy Land was British-governed. Arrangements to transfer others now apparently will be delayed so that authorities may sort out those considered possible fighting material.

The Foreign Office spokesman said older men, and women and children, will be allowed to leave.

Housing Shortage Blamed on Taxes On Real Estate

Windsor, Ont., June 3 (CP)—Reeve Ann Shipley of Northern Ontario's Teck township Wednesday blamed the housing shortage in Canada on the increasing trend towards placing the burden of taxes on real estate.

In an address prepared for delivery at the Convention of Ontario Mayors and Reeves, Reeve Shipley urged municipal officials to look for new fields of taxation in order to ensure that taxes are borne in the most equitable way possible.

"You cannot expect the little man to take a chance on building if he has to bear the ever - increasing cost of services not properly the responsibility of the home-owner," she added.

Reeve Shipley also spoke at length on the brief presented to the Dominion cabinet by the Association last February. She outlined the three main problems currently faced by municipal governments causing a need for further study and definition of the position of those governments.

These problems, she said, were those of "costs of services, of roadway development and maintenance, and the growth of exemptions from municipal taxation of an increasing number of properties."

Recent aid given by the province vince in providing social services was welcome, but "it is still not the final solution."

Regarding increasing costs of roadway development, Reeve Shipley said the costs were being foisted on the home owner and not necessarily on those using the highways.

The third problem — that of exemption of properties from municipal taxation — has meant that "municipal taxpayers not only pay for their own services but are burdened with the cost of municipal services up to 25 per cent of the properties exempted from taxation."

Count Bernadotte Is Optimistic Over Truce Plan

Cairo, June 3 (CP)—Count Folke Bernadotte, United Nations Palestine mediator, told reporters here today he is "very optimistic" about a successful four-weeks' truce in the Palestine fighting.

There was increasing optimism here today that he would be able to arrange the truce soon.

Count Bernadotte will make a flying trip to Ammah, Tel Aviv and Beyroth and return here tomorrow.

He has been charged with fixing the hour at which Arabs and Jews shall cease firing in the Holy Land, under the four-weeks truce plan of the U.N. Security Council.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, June 3 (CP)—Synopsis: The weather continued clear and warm over most of Ontario on Wednesday with maximum temperatures generally in the 80s. Along the shores of the large lakes where the water is still cold, on-shore breezes held temperatures to the high 70s. Evening thundershowers brought some relief to northern sections of the province. Today will be clear and hot again in the Lower Lakes district. The thundershowers activity will continue today in Northern Ontario. Much cooler air will enter the James Bay region today, advance southward through the central part of the province on Friday and probably reach Southern Ontario on Saturday, though by that time it will have warmed up considerably.

Judge Dismisses Damage Action

Toronto, June 3 — (CP)—Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel today dismissed the $5,000 damage action brought by a 38-year-old Toronto housewife as a result of injuries she suffered two years ago at a National Hockey League game here.

Mrs. Ernest Payne sued Maple Leaf Gardens and Gaye Stewart and John Mariucci of Chicago Black Hawks. Stewart was a Toronto Maple Leaf at the time of the incident.

Mrs. Payne claimed she suffered a broken nose and other injuries when struck by a hockey stick for which Stewart and Mariucci were wrestling. She was in a rail seat.

Mr. Justice LeBel commented at the hearing Wednesday that Mrs. Payne must have known the risk of a front-row seat.

"I wouldn't sit there myself," he said.

25 PER CENT CUT IN MARSHALL PLAN URGED

Committee Wants Extension in Time

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

Washington, June 3 — (AP)—A 25-per-cent cut in funds for the Marshall plan and other foreign aid programs was urged today by the House of Representatives Appropriations Committee.

The committee sent to the House floor for probably hot debate a $5,980,710,228 global assistance measure. This is a reduction of only $553,000,000 or 7.5 per cent, in the amount Congress itself authorized and President Truman asked.

But the effect is a one-quarter slash for this reason: The authorization law provided that the money could be spent during twelve months. But the committee said the cash it is willing to put up must be stretched out over 15 months.

Summary of Recommendations

In summary, here's what the committee recommended to finance the Economic Recovery Act:

Economic co-operation administration, for aid to 16 non-communist European countries and Western Germany — $4,245,000,000 asked, $4,000,000,000 recommended. Congress had authorized $5,300,000,000 for E.C.A. and already has made available $1,055,000,000.

Aid to Trieste — $20,000,000 asked as a separate item; the committee recommended that this come from the general E.C.A. allotment.

Aide to Trieste — $20,000,000 key — $275,000,000 asked, $200,000,000 recommended, with no stipulation as to how the cut should be applied.

Aid to China — $400,000,000 requested and granted.

International Children's Emergency Fund — $60,000,000 requested and granted.

Cut Occupied Relief

Government and relief in occupied areas, administered by the army — $1,400,000,000 asked, $1,250,000,000 recommended. The committee estimated that bizonal Germany would receive $706,000,000, Japan and the Ryukus $424,000,000, Korea $107,000,000, with the balance to be used "for maintaining law and order" in occupied Austria.

International Refugee Organization — $70,710,228 asked and granted.

There appeared little doubt that the House would follow the recommendation of the committee and vote the fund cuts. The administration will pin its hopes on the Senate to restore at least a part of the original amount asked.

First Strawberries At $1 Per Quart

London Ont June 3 (CP) — First strawberries of the season sold for one dollar a quart on the local market today, and the first consignment was only a dozen boxes. They came from the Leamington district.

Racoon Tangles Toronto Traffic At Bay and Bloor

Toronto, June 3 — (CP) — Traffic at midtown Bay and Bloor streets was snarled today for three hours — by a racoon.

The animal climbed a Hydro pole at the busy intersection and crouched dangerously close to wires carrying 4,400 volts. After several attempts by Humane Society officers and Toronto Transportation Commission emergency crews to scare the 'coon from its perch, two Hydro linemen took over.

Street-car and motor traffic was at a standstill and the streets were jammed with pedestrians as the linemen went into action. They scared the 'coon into a 40-foot slide down the pole into a box held by a Humane Society attendant.

Long after the animal was on its way to Riverdale Zoo, police still were untangling the traffic.

MEASLES IN LONDON

London, Ont., June 3 (CP) — Measles still were at near epidemic proportions in London, officials said today, but they hoped that warmer weather would ease the situation.

London had 1,040 cases in May and a total of 1,377 for the year.

Barbara Ann Scott Good At Cutting Monetary Figures, Leaves Her Skates Behind

Philadelphia, June 3 (CP) — Barbara Ann Scott didn't bring along her skates, but she still managed today to cut a few figures — on Canada's shortage of United States dollars.

Canada's world figure-skating champion had just added another crown to her many achievements — Queen of the United States Junior Chambers of Commerce, now in convention here.

In a speech prepared for delivery the newly-turned professional skating star of Ottawa admitted she hadn't packed her skates; she felt "terribly" out of her element without them.

But there were more than school figures and free figures of the skating world. There were other figures that also were "pretty important."

"It's because Canada spent two dollars in this country for every dollar you spent in Canada that we are finding ourselves short of American dollars," Barbara Ann told the convention.

"It's because this situation exists that the Junior Chambers of Commerce of Canada has taken on the big task of trying to get more American visitors to come to our country and of showing Canadians how important it is that they handle their American dollars properly."

Explaining to Americans why there are import controls in Canada and restrictions on holiday travel was the kind of "figure-skating" she now wanted to do.

The world champion, who turned professional Monday by signing a contract with Music Corporation of America Artists, concluded on a note of thanks. The American people "were wonderful to me while I was skating in the world and Olympic tournaments over in Europe last winter."

"Some of your national magazines even reproduced the exact figures I was going to skate to show how they were both simple and intricate at the same time," she said.

"I am sure that if your great organization can stimulate the same interest in these other figures . . . then your country and mine can go on to another and much more important world championship."

DREW CLAIMS ONT. LABOR LAWS FAR AHEAD OF SASK.

Election Campaign Enters Last Stages With All Party Leaders in Action

Toronto, June 3 (CP) — The pounding of general election guns continued in Ontario last night as the leaders of the three major political parties approached the end of their campaign tours.

Premier Drew, whose Progressive Conservative government seeks re-election June 7, in a Kitchener speech compared Ontario's labor laws with those under the C.C.F. government in Saskatchewan. He declared Ontario's laws are "far ahead."

Farquhar Oliver, Ontario Liberal leader, at Chatham criticized operation of the Ontario Planning and Development Department. In a Simcoe speech he said the Drew government had lost two cabinet ministers because they expressed "progressive ideas."

Ontario C.C.F. leader E. B. Jolliffe in a Toronto broadcast said the Saskatchewan C.C.F. government had accomplished many things which are part of the Ontario C.C.F. program. In a speech later he urged united action by federal, provincial and municipal governments to ease the housing shortage.

In a Kitchener speech M. J. Coldwell, National C.C.F. leader, asserted that a vote for a C.C.F. candidate in Ontario June 7 will be a protest against high prices and exorbitant profits.

Takes Personal Charge

Lands Minister Scott interrupted his campaign for re-election to fly to Northern Ontario to take personal charge of firefighting operations in the Mississagi area.

Premier Drew criticized C.C.F. handling of a labor dispute last year at the provincially-operated box factory at Prince Albert, Sask. He said the Saskatchewan government discharged 70 employees who went on strike in protest against dismissal of two fellow workers. Then as a result of public outcry it reinstated the 70 and instituted arbitration in the case of the two who had originally been fired.

The Premier claimed Saskatchewan Resources Minister Phelps told the box factory workers the plant would be closed after three months' trial operation if the workers did not implement a program to increase production and to decrease unit cost so as to bring the factory out of the red.

WINS SIX SCHOLARSHIPS

Toronto, June 3 — (CP) — Officials at the University of Toronto thumbed busily through the record books Wednesday to see whether Donald Mutton, 20-year-old engineering student, set a record in the spring examinations by copping six scholarships. Mutton, a native of suburban New Toronto, will have to be content with only three of the awards, however. Under University rules, he may accept only three scholarships in one year.

LEVELS OF RIVERS DROPPING SLOWLY IN FRASER VALLEY

9,000 Persons Homeless and Nearly 60,000 Acres Under Water

Vancouver, June 3 (CP)—Flood-weary residents of sections of British Columbia today were cheered by reports that the levels of swollen river were dropping slowly.

The one big question in the minds of 1,000,000-odd citizens was: "Is the worst over?"

With nearly 60,000 acres a watery waste, 9,000 persons homeless and $30,000,000 of devastation, "valley - of - misery" residents hopefully eyed the slow drop of the Fraser River at Mission, 40 miles east of here, from 24.41 to 24.09 early today.

At Kamloops in the north Okanagan the Thompson River showed a similar fractional fall from 20.2 to 20.07. Reports from the north Thompson watershed also indicated the river was dropping slowly in the mountains.

At Prince Rupert, 500 miles north, the Skeena had receded four feet from the crest and now was at 20 feet. Men of the hard-hit village of Usk were returning to their water-ravaged homes.

But while flood fronts in the Kootenays reported relief in most areas, the smelter city of Trail, 230 miles from Vancouver, said grimly its situation was "unchanged" as the Columbia River overflowed into low-lying homes.

Village Isolated

The nearby village of Castlegar which received its last shipment of food two weeks ago, was isolated at midnight when the ferry service over the rising Columbia was cut off.

Major concern in the Fraser Valley was centred in the Chilliwack area. The once-thriving city in the heart of the rich farming district was "practically isolated," the navy reported early today.

Logs were jamming up on the nearby Rosedale ferry bridge and army engineers were prepared to dynamite it if the pile-up continued to threaten the dyke above the bridge.

Army officer cadets from Chilliwack and civilians worked feverishly through the night heaping sandbags along the Rosedale dyke. But the continually slapping Fraser waters were seeping through.

Death Toll Now Five

Meantime the B. C. flood death toll rose to five with the finding of the body of Easter Young Hicks, 76-year-old prospector, in a log jam at Feffley Creek north of Kamloops.

Clarifying the financial responsibilities of the province in his "state of emergency" order calling out all troops, Premier Byron Johnson notified the Dominion government that B. C. would underwrite all expenses incurred by the flood-fighting army.

Routine expenses, covered by the Militia Act, however, would still be taken care of by the Federal government. Thus B. C. will assume full financial responsibility for fighting the province's damaging floods.

HOUSE APPROVES BUDGET CHANGES IN SHORT TIME

Penalty on Income Tax Arrears 6 Per Cent

Ottawa, June 3 (CP)—The Commons did itself proud yesterday. It approved the budget resolutions after only two days of consideration, the shortest period in the memory of veteran political observers.

Five enabling bills, containing the backbone of the May 18 budget speech, were introduced and given first reading. They will amend the income war tax act, the Dominion succession duty act, the excise tax act, the excise act and the customs tariff.

The discussion brought the chamber to two votes arising from opposition amendments, one a formal division and the second a standing vote in committee stage.

The first contest came when D. King Hazen (PC-St. John Albert) moved to nullify a proposal that the penalty on income tax arrears be increased from four to six per cent.

Deputy Speaker Ross Macdonald ruled the attempt out of order on the ground it would upset the balance of government revenues. The opposition challenged the ruling and Mr. Macdonald was sustained by a vote of 85 to 48.

Mr. Hazen moved a second amendment providing that the increased rate would apply only from the date the assessment is mailed to the tax payer by the Revenue Department. It, too, was ruled out of order but this decision was not challenged.

"Hollow Tree" Search Being Made For Stolen Money

London, Ont., June 3 — (CP) — A "hollow tree" search was under way in the Watford area today for the $3,400 in cash stolen in last Thursday's holdup of the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Thedford. Watford is about 30 miles east of Sarnia.

Provincial Police aided by farmers have started to scour some 72 square miles of bushland for the missing money. The two men charged with the holdup were caught in the bush. They are William Thomas Short, 39, of Parkhill, Ont., and James Shane, 40, no home.

The bush territory has been blocked out, surveyors' style, for purposes of the search.

Farmers said there are many "hollow trees" in the district where the money might be secreted.

The only strike today was a family of foxes in one tree.

Grim Revelation Of Two Tragedies By Drowning

Altoona, Pa., June 3 (AP) — Mrs. Louis Goodfellow answered the phone last night.

It was a neighbor calling.

"My son says your little boy Louis, is in a pool somewhere."

Frantically, Mrs. Goodfellow phoned police. She was told a boy had been drowned in Ivyside swimming pool.

Hurrying there, she found the boy was James Sico, 15, rather than her own seven-year-old son Louis. James had dived, struck something and failed to come up.

Mrs. Goodfellow returned home. Louis still had not returned. She hurried to the neighbor's home and talked to Louis' playmate.

He led her to the "pool" he meant — an 18-foot deep city reservoir. In its water police found her son, drowned three hours before.

SUMMER HOME BURNS

Port Stanley, June 3 — (CP)—The summer home of Mrs. William Probyn, of London, Ont., on heights at Port Stanley overlooking Lake Erie was destroyed by fire early today. The fire was discovered by Mrs. Probyn, sleeping in an adjoining cottage. Origin is unknown. Loss is between $3,000 and $4,000.

Light Winds Ease Labor of Crews; New Fires Raging

Two Woodsmen Reported Missing Near Timmins

(By The Canadian Press)

More than 2,000 men, 30 government aircraft, some commercial planes and all the Ontario Lands Department's equipment today battled the biggest forest fires in Ontario's history. A forecast of rain failed to materialize and firefighting crews faced steadily-rising temperatures.

An unconfirmed report from Blind River said arrests are expected in connection with the official announcement that two careless trappers started the Mississagi blazes.

One fire which consumed 200 acres near mileage 154 on the Algoma Central Railway is threatening the tiny village of Limer, directly in the path of the flames, it was reported. Arthur Leman, district forester at Sault Ste. Marie, said 64 men and three pumps have been rushed to the new outbreak in an effort to stem the flames before they reach Limer.

Jack Dillon, Lands Department official at Sudbury, said three fires started in the Sudbury district Wednesday. Although only about 40 acres each in extent, they are not yet under control, he said today.

There were a few thundershowers reported but as flames rolled over thousands of acres of rich timberland, forestry men anticipated a "hot and dry" day today, with thermometer readings as high as 90 degrees.

T.E. Mackey, chief of the forest protection division of the Ontario Lands Department, announced in Toronto that reports indicated generally the situation seemed slightly better than Wednesday. Major fires were not "running" as fiercely as during the last two days.

High winds which fanned disastrous fires roaring through 117,000 the last 48 hours, were 17,000 acres of timber land in the Mississagi and Chapleau district during the last 48 hours were missing today. But in the Sault Ste. Marie district three new fires were blamed on carelessness.

Two men battling a blaze in Godfrey township near Timmins were reported missing last night but Mr. Mackey said they are experienced woodsmen and may turn up safely today.

A ban on all but essential travel in a 50,000,000 acre stretch in the north country continued in effect. The ban was intended not only to reduce possibility of new outbreaks but also to keep unwary travelers from becoming trapped in the fire areas.

In the Port Arthur area a fire sweeping through 7,000 acres of cutover timberland at Helen Lake gained slightly. Forestry men said it would take a soaking rain to quench the district fires which involved a total of 12,000 acres.

Bruce Hutton, 20, Bloomfield, Drowns in Lake

Railroad employee in the Kingston district, 20-year-old Bruce Hutton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hutton of Bloomfield, was drowned in L Ontario Wed. evening at Millhaven west Kingston. The body was recovered an hour later but efforts at artificial respiration failed to revive the young man.

The young man had gone to Kingston some weeks ago where he expected to gain employment at the Aluminum plant and failing that had accepted work with railroad. He is reported to have gone in swimming after he quit work Wednesday afternoon.

BOY'S INJURIES FATAL

Sarnia, June 3 — (CP)—Herbert Smith, 11-year-old Oil Springs boy, died in nearby Petrolia Hospital last night following an accident in which the bicycle he was riding crashed into a car one mile north of Edy's Mills.

Rev. C. R. Bell New Moderator Of Presbyterians

Toronto, June 3 — (CP)—The Presbyterian Church in Canada today has a new Moderator — 43-year-old Rev. C. Ritchie Bell of Montreal.

He was elected Wednesday night at opening sessions of the church's 74th General Assembly as successor to Rev. Dr. Charles H. MacDonald of Lucknow, Ont.

The 220 delegates, who expect to sit in assembly here more than a week, today were scheduled to hear petitions from Presbyterial delegates. These will include one urging closer censorship of motion pictures and another calling for higher stipends for ministers.

In the election for Moderator, Rev. G. Rupert Stewart of Toronto was the only other nominee.

The new Moderatos, Minister of Montreal's MacVicar Memorial Church, is a native of Sherbrooke, Que. He took his Bachelor of Arts Degree at Bishop's University in Lennoxville, Que., and completed his theological training at Presbyterian College in Montreal.

Former Moderator

He is a former Moderator of Montreal Presbytery. Last year he was chosen Moderator of the Synod of Montreal and Ottawa.

Before his election to the highest office in his church, he had been slated to represent the Presbyterian Church at meetings next August of the Allegiance of Reformed Churches in Geneva and of the World Council of Churches in Amsterdam.

In an address Wednesday night, the retiring Moderator, Dr. MacDonald, said:

"There is still nothing that will bring so many people together week after week as the worship of God."

Critics claimed the church had failed and said congregations at services were small while crowds at political rallies were large.

"The political orator does gather a crowd just now," Dr. MacDonald said. "But if you tried to hold political meetings in every city, two or three times a week, year in and year out, it wouldn't be long until you couldn't gather a corporal's guard."

Proposes Fund For Flood Relief

Windsor, June 3— (CP)—Mayor Arthur J. Reaume asked the Ontario government to consider establishment of a British Columbia flood relief fund, it was announced here today.

The mayor sent a wire to Premier Drew and dispatched one to T. P. McCannon, mayor of Chilliwack, B. C., offering assistance.

A wire from Austin C. Taylor, chairman of the British Columbia Flood Emergency Fund said at least 1,000 families are homeless and the fund has set $1,000,000 as its objective.

Mayor Reaume said British Columbia sent "a great deal" of money to aid Windsor during the disastrous tornado of 1945 and it was "only proper" that this city should remember.

Canadian Cancer Society Needs Funds, Help by Joining as Member

Cancer may strike today, tomorrow, or anytime. No one is safe from this dread disease but knowledge of cancer danger signals may save thousands each year.

That is why the Ontario branch of the Canadian Cancer Society is currently conducting a campaign for membership. It costs you but one dollar. It is money well spent or rather invested.

In the launching of the provincial campaign in April, Belleville was postponed through the illness of executives, and consequently was not organized.

However, it is felt by those interested, that the residents of this city, cognizant of the ravages of the dread disease, will rally to the call for aid.

The present campaign in Belleville is sponsored by the Canadian Cancer Society and its purpose is to spread information to the public in regard to the detection of cancer and to the work of the cancer clinic.

Membership Campaign

The campaign is primarily membership, rather than financial. Membership fees will be used to educate the public in regard to cancer and its treatment. In the meantime, eight cancer clinics have been established throughout the province of Ontario and two to serve the Belleville area, being Kingston and Toronto.

Services of cancer clinics are free to those unable to pay and those able to pay are expected to contribute according to their financial ability. There is provision for free transportation from the home to the clinic and from the clinic to the home if necessary.

The membership is one dollar—or more. A fifty-dollar contribution carries with it a life membership in the society,

Will Canvass City

Mr. Oscar E. Wagar of this city is the chairman of the campaign. Canvassers are now calling on householders in the city, but more canvassers are needed. You can help by calling on your neighbors. Remember it is only one dollar. A small amount to the individual but a tremendous factor in combating cancer.

Cancer is curable in a large proportion of cases, provided of course, that it is discovered early enough. The Canadian Cancer Society advises, and in fact strongly urges, every person who suspects cancer or is suffering from the anxiety of the fear of it to visit the family physician immediately, and secure his advice.

Mr. Wagar points out that the job of the Canadian Cancer Society is to enable people to detect the real symptoms of cancer. The personal physician will give people such medical information and treatment as may be necessary and where further treatment is necessary, may arrange for visits to the cancer clinics.

Service For Everyone

This treatment is absolutely free if patients are not able to pay the costs. Mr. Wagar strongly advises people" Do not hesitate to seek advice because of the fear that it may cost more than you can afford."

The campaign of the Canadian Cancer Society is now in effect. Canvassers will call on you. It costs only one dollar for membership. Fifty will get you a life membership. Remember, it may be you or your family. Guard your own health and that of those you love by joining the Ontario Cancer Society today, or mail contributions to Mr. Oscar E. Wagar, Income Tax Office, Belleville.

Minister Uses Prayer to Still Booing and Hissing

Toronto, June 3 — (CP)—Rev. Charles Mustard used prayer last night to break up the booing and hissing at a political meeting in east-side St. David's United Church Hall.

Mr. Mustard, chairman of a Young People's meeting, restored order when a question-and-answer period ended in a noisy disturbance.

On the platform at the time were William Duckworth, Progressive Conservative Member of the Ontario Legislature for Toronto Dovercourt and a candidate in the June 7 election; Eamon Park, C. C. F. candidate, and Vernon Singer, president of the Ontario Young Liberal Association.

200-Pound Bear Shot Northeast Of Queensboro

It isn't everybody who can shoot a bear 250 yards from the back door but that is what Fred Holmes did Monday night. Mr. Holmes who lives on a farm northeast of Queensboro was retiring when his small daughter noticed that a bear, which had been seen prowling in the vicinity in recent weeks, was outside.

Mr. Holmes who has pure bred Angus cattle, and a few turkeys as well, wanted to preserve the lot intact and accordingly took his gun and went out after the marauder. One shot from a 30-30 rifle downed the bear at 200 yards. The bullet broke three ribs and pierced the bear's heart.

It has been estimated that the bear would have weighed 450 pounds last fall with its winter accumulation of fat but even today the dressed carcass weighs about 200 pounds.

Mr. Holmes brought the skin and carcass to the city Tuesday morning and stored it in the Spencer Lockers. He gave the skin to Charlie McKenzie of Belleville who plans to use it as a rug.

Parents, Friends of Pupils Witness Splendid Display At "Open House" of O.S.D.

A large and appreciative audience of Belleville citizens, parents and friends of the students, as well as a delegation of York County teachers, were present, Wednesday afternoon for the annual 'Open House' at the Ontario School for the Deaf, on the Trent Road. From one o'clock p.m. until three, guests were received in the different class rooms, to observe the children 'at work'.

A Pageant of Empire

At three o'clock in the Assembly Hall visitors were welcomed by Mr. W. J. Morrison, principal of the School; and a "Pageant of Empire", directed by Mr. Alec Gordon with assistance of Messrs. C. A. Holmes and J. Chard, was very effectively presented with 'Brittania' seated as the central figure, and three Canadian maidens as her 'ladies-in-waiting'. Other colonies were welcomed in turn, each placing some token of loyalty on the footstool of Brittania. To this "John Bull" replied, and conducted the colonies in a rhythm band arrangement of "There'll Always be an England", with piano accompaniment, followed by a salute to the flag unfurled by "Jack Canuck". The closing tableau pictured Brittania standing under crossed Union Jacks, behind the nations of the Commonwealth, over which there fell a shower of green maple leaves, while the pianist played "The Maple Leaf Forever".

Fashion Show

A Fashion Show was staged by girls of the sewing and beauty culture classes, each girl having made the garment she modelled, during instruction by Miss N. Ketcheson. And the hair styles were also done by the pupils under instruction and guidance from Mrs. C. Lobb. The 'new look' was not wanting in both dress styles and hair-dos, with the whole class assembled on the stage for the picturesque "finale".

In the gymnasium there was a fine display of work done in different departments, including books on school work, which were exceptionally neat in compilation, and showed considerable artistry in the expression of illustration.

Fine Exhibits

Beautiful examples of plastic ornaments, of hobby crafts, of weaving, sewing and knitting done by the girls, were balanced by symmetrical products of the manual training and woodcraft learned by the boys. These included tables, trays, bookends, shelves and a great variety of smaller objects, all made by boys between the ages of ten and 13 years. Real furniture built by senior boys included a really beautiful buffet and china cabinet which would be a very acceptable addition to any home, as well as porch and garden furniture and less artistic but none-the-less useful kitchen gadgets.

Horticulture has a place on the school curriculum, and this exhibit included handmade garden tools, and a truly beautifully wrought-iron railing, necessitating the knowledge of a blacksmith and a welder.

Afternoon Tea

Afternoon tea was dispensed to the visitors in the Home Economics Department, where senior girls received, and served the delicious food they had previously prepared, with Miss K. B. Daly as instructress.

The cast of characters for the pageont is as follows:

Brittania, Dorothy O'Neill.
Canadians Maidens, Marjorie Swayne, Joyce Bouck, Margaret Cassel.
Newfoundland, Flora Clark

Australia, Delores Henault

Evening Entertainment

In the evening the exhibits in the girls' gymnasium were again open to the public, and in the boys' gymnasium there was a girls' and boys' athletic exhibition, including tumbling, matwork, and pyramids; the girls featuring a Sword Dance, a Dutch Dance, and a Danish Schottische, all of which were performed with a maximum of precision and poise. The whole program was a fine testimonial to the consistent and thorough training received by students of Ontario's School for the Deaf.

FOX—In loving memory of my dear father, James Wesley Fox, who crossed the great divide, June 3rd 1942.
Gone dear father, gone forever,
How I miss your smiling face,
But you left me to remember,
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a loneliness,
The world can never fill.
Ever remembered by son Curtis, and daughter-in-law Grace Fox.

LIGHT WIND

Five thousand acres of pulpwood were ablaze on the west side of Lake Nipigon in rough country on a peninsula which is part of Gull Bay.

A slight rain and dull skies this morning boosted spirits of more than 200 weary fire fighters battling a fast-moving fire raging since Tuesday in the tinder-dry woods of Godfrey township six miles west of Timmins.

Fires Spread Rapidly

The speed at which the flames have been rolling through the scrub timber was evidenced today when Ken Campbell of the Department of Lands and Forests reported that the area now ablaze covers 14,000 acres. Wednesday afternoon 4,000 acres were burning out of control.

A sawmill and camp of the Fellman Timber Company were destroyed in the area as the fire was carried by a light breeze. Dozens of small new outbreaks, spread over a wide area around the main body of the fire, could be seen from the air.

The outside perimeter of the fire area today was reported within three quarters of a mile from the community of Kamiscotia, lightly-populated area of trappers' cabins and summer homes.

Radio appeals for volunteer fighters were broadcast but it was believed that only rain could slow the fire enough to permit the workers to move close enough to the main core and bring it under control. Officials were not alarmed at the report that two men were missing in the area as it was difficult to keep track of personnel.

A 600-acre blaze in Grenfell township in the Kirkland Lake area was reported to be spreading.

Near Maniwaki, Que., 85 miles north of Ottawa, 250 paper mill workers last night were reported to have broken the back of a series of forest fires in that important pulp and paper mill district.

10,000-Mile Journey To Restore Smile

London, June 3 — (CP) — Seventeen-year-old Golda Murray came 10,000 miles from Fremantle, Australia, to get a London surgeon to restore her smile.

Five months before Golda was attacked by a rare glandular disease which affected her face muscles. In time, she was told, the power to swallow and breathe would go too.

An Australian doctor told her a surgeon at St. Bartholmew's Hospital, London, was the only man who could cure her affliction.

She was given a priority passage. The operation proved successful and Golda has since smiled at scores of visitors, reporters and cameramen.

Shut-In's Day

Sunday June 6th. will be observed as Shut-in's Day sponsored by the Shut-in's Day Association of Canada. The purpose as everyone knows is to encourage remembrance of the sick and disabled that it may bring some extra cheer and fellowship into the lives of those who cannot mix in the normal social life of unhandicapped people.

The aim is to have people visit at least two persons who are sick or indisposed. As the association points out Shut-in's Day is a symbol "not that anyone should ever feel that he has discharged his full obligation by such observance one Sunday a year. It is but a token of our recognition and remembrance of the shut-in at all times."

There is a happy fact knit up with such a service as is rendered on this annual observance, that is that those who are visited invariably render a service to those who are their visitors. "There is no greater corrective for our distorted vision and false sense of values than to talk with one who has made and continues to make the skillful adjustment to the restraint and restriction that is the normal life of the shut-in. Anyone who has had the close friendship of one of these has experienced the enlargement of his own life. One comes to realize how feebly he exercises the full measure of health and strength, full powers of body and mind which he possesses as compared with the amazing use that others make of their limited capital of these resources. Truly they live 'a large life in a small room'." So says the announcement of this international day sent out by the association with Canadian headquarters at Goderich, Ont.

It is a happy fact that this day is a recognized institution. But to make it most effective everyone should help in making this day a memorable one.

The Association dreams of a plan of a holiday home for shut-ins where they may enjoy a summer holiday. Such a dream it feels may be nearer than might be expected as people are realizing how badly needed are such places in the Dominion. This summer the Ontario Society for Crippled Children is opening its summer camp near London to twenty adult paralytics, the first occasion, it is believed that such a privilege has been extended to the adult handicapped.

The day is endorsed by all the churches, leaders of state and a great number of organizations. In the statement of the Canadian Association it is emphasized that this is a non-profit organization with the services of its officers and representatives being given gratuitously. No one and no group is backing it financially.

Summing up the spirit of the day is the ideal, "visit at least two invalids on Shut-in's Day, a civilian and a disabled veteran. And then make every Sunday Shut-in's Day." Observed in such a spirit the day can bring immense enrichment of the lives of those who are incapacited or ill and of those who are well.

Flood and Fire

Unprecedented floods on the Pacific Coast have engrossed the news space during this week with the details of havoc and the loss of life. From Northern Ontario come stories of raging fires of catastrophic proportions. Meeting the menace of flood and fire calls for heroism of the highest degree. Out of these disasters come accounts of tireless and unselfish effort to save life and property for individual lives and individual and public property are at stake and during man's long competition against the rampant and wild forces of nature he has learned lessons which have been incorporated into laws and science and manner of living.

In the early days of the human race man faced tremendous obstacles in nature but in spite of them he built mighty civilizations in the Middle East, in Egypt, in Greece, and Rome, and everywhere in the modern world. He had conquered many of the powers of nature but floods and fire still continue to wreak their havoc, wiping out the work of man as well as products of nature. Man has drawn up laws to safeguard against fire and engineering on a vast scale has been undertaken to prevent floods. Yet in this year a tardy spring compounded with a heavy winter's fall of snow to inundate lands on the Pacific coast. Stories written from British Columbia reveal the menace the melting snow created in the foothills of the Rockies. Nature's unleashed forces have enacted scenes of havoc on a vast scale. Likewise northern woodlands have posed a great problem in checking the fires which sweep the northern forests.

Loss in such disasters is great, first where there is so often human tragedy and then precious values of property and timber fall victim to the onrushing flames.

Yet man shows himself the master. His control over fire is one of the great steps of human progress, though as everyone knows there are so many tragic fires in homes when families are wiped out. Yet fire is one of the basic agencies of the development and progress of man.

Man knows the laws of nature whether it be of fire or of water and he has achieved success in the rise of civilization. He is digging deeply into the secrets of nature in the study of the atom and despite the danger of the forces in the atom he has learned much how to control this mysterious and mighty power and plans to harness it for the progress of the race.

Turns Cartoonist

Police officers do not as a rule turn into cartoonists but they do sometimes. And why should they not. They see a great deal more of the run of life than most people can hope to, they see the noble and the less noble and even the sordid. They see the serious and they see the ludicrous and they must have a sense of the comic in their nature to look upon the passing panorama of life as it is funnelled into the duties of a policeman.

The BBC recently brought before the microphone an ex-P.C. Alan Course of Oxford who had become a cartoonist on a local paper. Course told of his metamorphosis and said he 'got a bit fed up with trying door knobs,' so he thought he would change his job—turn over a new leaf and 'go straight,' so to speak.

He had no training in drawing and never went to an art school but said that he 'just sort of picked it up' as he went along, developed it largely for his own amusement and ultimately, so he supposed, must have made the grade, and got his job on the local paper.

Ex-P.C. Course amuses the citizens of Oxford not only by cartooning local, national and sporting celebrities, but by doing a little entertaining in his spare time. This was another odd job that he began when he was a policeman and 'fed up with trying door knobs.' He and his fellows ran concert parties round camps and aerodromes; they did hundreds of shows during the war and he still does an odd turn at an occasional dinner.

A policeman sees life on many levels and his sense of humor can never fail to find an outlet in cartooning if he has a knack for drawing.

Three Years After

Three years after the final collapse of Nazism is too soon for the victors to heed protests about German "misery"—at least while misery as great still grips many of its victims.

Despite divided administration, much has been accomplished toward the restoration of Germany and the people in certain sections are better off than many of their fellow Europeans.

We must not forget that many people believe Germany deserves to perish. The Allies forgive, however, and world economy does not allow them to permit Germany to perish, whatever her past sins.

There must be eventual revival although rigorously guarded revival, with security of the victors ever in mind. — Montreal Herald.

JUST FOLKS

A FATHER'S DISCOVERY

"I had to walk to school," said he,
"Delivered papers afternoons.
To earn at college my degree,
I washed the cups and plates and spoons."
Then to myself I used to say,
Should fortune ever smile on me
And I had sons, I'd see that they Should have a boyhood hardship free.

"I had but little time for play.
Few were the dances and the shows
For which I could afford to pay.
I couldn't buy my girl a rose.
Well, that's all over now, and I
The long and rugged road have turned;
And that diploma framed near by
Is something I can say I earned."

And what about your sons? I said
"They've had it easier," he replied.
"I smoothed for them the path ahead
But kept from them my glow of pride.
They'll have no triumph such as mine,
No hardships conquered to recall,
No memories of achievements fine
When their diplomas deck the wall."

Two Children Burned to Death In Pigeon Loft

Guelph, June 3. (CP) — Two young children were burned to death Wednesday when fire swept through a pigeon loft on the property of H. Annigan. The children had been using the loft as a playhouse.

Dead are Sandra Loreen Robinson, five, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Robinson, and Paul Harris, four, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Harris.

Bonnie Robinson, 1 1-2-year-old daughter of the Robinsons, escaped from the flaming shack and spread the alarm. When she came out of the loft screaming, Mrs. Robinson shouted to her neighbors and ran toward the fire.

Mrs. Robinson, with the help of Mrs. John Harvey, grandmother of Paul Harris, tried in vain to get the children out. Mrs. Harvey was burned about the hands and face an, unable to enter the building, ran to a nearby building and called firemen.

Firemen found the building a mass of flames. Old mats, paper and a handful of matches were found on the floor.

The Packsack of Gregory Clark

Up the Gulf of St. Lawrence now are coming the ships bringing thousands of newcomers to Canada, their home.

Those of you who have never come up the Gulf of St. Lawrence, homeward bound, might like to know just what a strange and moving welcome Canada gives you on this route. It is unforgettable; and has made Canadians out of thousands who came in doubt or even in fear.

You have passed the Grand Banks and then Newfoundland. Out in the west and the grey, you have stood braced, peering at remote shores that come and go across the fog-wet sea. As night falls, you know that there, there is Canada.

In the morning, you come up early to the deck. And it seems as if in the night you had not moved at all. Far and low on the horizon are the shadowy lines that the seamen say is Canada. The long day lags. But before sunset you can see that there is land to the south and land to the north. Both are Canada; but far, far away.

The next morning, you wake to find the ship marching straight towards what appear to be two mighty arms reaching out to enfold it. It is this day on which the miracle occurs.

For, mile after mile, hour after hour, the dark and beautiful shores draw nearer and nearer. You cannot escape the feeling that the arms of Canada are reaching out to dray you in, to welcome you, to embrace you. The dark forests give way to little jewelled villages and steep and shining fields. The arms draw closer, closer. With a mounting sense of drama, Canada takes you into her keeping. The great ship, home from the lonely sea, seems to hold its breath and walk reverently. Up out of the distance rises, like a dream, the citadel of Quebec — surely the loveliest greeting a stranger ever met.

Journey's end with lovers meeting.

So it has been for countless of us in the past: so it will be for others even now on the way.

APPLE SAUCE FOR DIARRHEA AND DYSENTERY

Gastro-enteritis is the $1.98 cent term for inflammation of stomach and intestine or bowel, acute diarrhea, summer complaint, or dysentery, although physicians generally apply the term diarrhea to a morbidly profuse discharge of loose or fluid evacuations (dia meaning through; rhein, to flow) and dysentery to a similar state with discharge of blood (dys meaning difficult, deranged, faulty or painful; enteron, intestine.)

Whatever the cause of nature of the trouble, in infant or child or adult, apple sauce diet is perhaps the most satisfactory first aid or home treatment—provided it is given to the exclusion of every other food. For older children or adults, plain weak tea without milk or cream and sweetened as little as maybe with sugar may be given as freely as the patient likes. From 14 to 48 hours of this treatment is generally enough to bring great improvement.

The term applesauce as I employ it here (and no fooling) embraces regular applesauce sweetened with sugar and flavored with cinnamon or not, as you prefer; applesauce without sugar; applesauce sweetened with saccharin; scraped raw apple pulp; whole grated apple (including the skin); dry apple powder (but please don't ask me where to get it—ask your grocer or maybe your druggist); and in some instances I'd say an intelligent and co-operative patient may well get all the benefit of the apple treatment and without any risk whatever by just eating apples and nothing else for a day or two—of course it is essential that the apple eating be deliberate and leisurely and that each bite be thoroughly masticated.

Any one eating apple at any time should eat skin and all (not the core, but skin and pulp. Preparing apple sauce for young infants with diarrhea or gastro-enteritis the skin and pulp should be grated together, and the baby fed a few spoonsfuls every two hours night and day.

Children who dislike unsweetened apple sauce or grated apple because of its acid flavor may take it eagerly if some ripe mashed banana is mixed with the apple, say half and half.

In any case the exclusive apple diet should not be continued more than 48 hours. By that time, if not before, weak tea, scraped beef, rice soup, cereal gruel, cottage cheese or ripe banana should be added to the diet.

Doctors who discover how effective apple sauce is for gastro-intestinal derangements try, in that knowing way we have, to explain it. The soothing, curative effect is due to the pectin in apple, we say. Well, we have you there, folks, for pectin is the substance in fruit which makes things jell and it is simply astounding what a medical authority can do with a thing like that.

Mr. H. R., with duodenal ulcer, reports he has found that apple sauce eaten two or three times a day with meals and in ordinary portions, or sometimes between meals on bread and butter, is very beneficial or at least it seems to keep him comfortable. He has learned that it is far better to relieve distress by taking applesauce straight or on bread and butter than by taking the usual powders and/or milk. Powders and milk relieve for a short time only and the pain is soon back again and worse. Applesauce seems to bring longer lastng comfort. Mr. H. R. adds that this may be just our old friend A. J. Coincidence, but he hopes people with peptic ulcer will try it out and report their experience—and so do I.

Changes Proposed Criticized By Labor President

Ottawa, June 3 — (CP) — Changes proposed for the Federal Labor Code by the Commons Industrial Relations Committee were criticized Wednesday by Percy Bengough, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

In a statement, Mr. Bengough said the Congress — which supported the bill as drafted by the Labor Department — now had withdrawn that approval from the amended measure.

"In committee," he said, "changes have been made definitely detrimental to the operation of the Act."

These changes were:

1. Broadening the definition of a "confidential" employee excluded from operations of the code.

2. Deletion of a clause that would have barred lawyers from appearing before the Canada Labor Relations Board.

Under the enlarged definition of a confidential employee, President Bengough said, thousands of workers could be put outside the code. It would restrict its "already too limited" scope.

Regarding the lawyer clause, Mr. Bengough declared the legal profession in the past had had "full employment" before government Labor Board.

The code is due to come before the Commons soon for third reading. It can be amended before final passage.

Business Spotlight

By The Canadian Press

Assurance of continued business and industrial activity is given by available statistics, and some doubts which existed in the early months of the year seem to have faded.

The first three months did contain hints of a pause, which was really in the nature of waiting until two or three factors, including the European recovery program, should take shape.

Now virtually all indices in Canada and the United States are upward. Actually the advance has been fairly steady from the first of the year, but its cumulative effect is beginning to be felt in the second quarter.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics in its current monthly review remarks that production has moved forward and that prices, which had shown signs of stabilizing in March, rose again in April.

There are however, some contradictions in present activity. The domestic and ordinary export demand still is high enough to give the appearance of a shortage, but the margin is narrow enough that it could be quickly overcome without the extra demands of E. R. P. and defence.

The question whether conditions are headed for considerably higher prices remains. On one hand scarcities and demand would seem to make higher prices inevitable, but countering forces exist which can provide powerful brakes.

The most powerful is consumer resistance and inability to buy. The consumer is being tempted with a wider range of appealing goods, but individually his buying power is limited and there is no present prospect that it can be substantially increased unless prices are held in check or actually reduced.

Markets Yesterday

Oils continued favorite in New York yesterday, but the market showed little otherwise. Canadian markets also showed little variation.

I.O.D.E. Spends Over $8,000,000 In Eight Years

Halifax, June 3 (CP)—A total of $8,136,733 has been spent by the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire for peace-time war and post-war work during the 1940-48 period.

Mrs. W. R. Walton, Jr., Toronto, national treasurer, announced the record achievement of 933 I. O. D. E. chapters across Canada yesterday during the fifth day of the 48th annual national meeting here.

Of the grand total, $4,030,986 was spent on general or peacetime work, while the remainder was used for the many phases of war and post-war work. Cash disbursements for 1947 were $868,110, an increase of nearly $8,000 over the previous year.

Special mention was made of 51 junior chapters which reported expenditures for the year of $10,885, an increase of $3,933 over the previous year.

It was decided the Order would divide gifts of clothing and bedding equally between Britain and Europe for the coming year.

Previously two-thirds were sent to England, but since the British also send relief shipments to Europe, it was felt this decision would help reduce the burden of the British people.

Members of the Order indicated willingness to continue work for seamen's organizations by passing a recommendation to knit warm woolen comforts. These supplies will be shipped to the British Sailor's Society and the Royal National Mission to deep-sea fishermen.

A new undertaking this year was the adoption of the Queen Elizabeth Hospital for Children in London. Clothing and bedding valued at $5,282 was sent from December 1947, to last Jan. 15.

The Women's Voluntary Services in Great Britain continues to receive the largest proportion of I. O. D. E. overseas shipments. Clothing and bedding valued at $117,377 was sent to this organization during 1947.

250 Paper Mill Workers Break Back of Fires

Maniwaki, Que., June 3 (CP)—Two hundred and fifty paper mill workers were reported Wednesday night to have broken the back of a series of raging forest fires in this pulp and paper district, 85 miles north of Ottawa.

But a mile-square area of valuable timberland, 47 miles to the north of the town, still is out of control. An official of the Canadian International Paper Company said, however, that firefighters are succeeding in their fight and expect to have the blaze under control within 24 hours.

The official estimated the damage so far as $100,000 and said the fires which broke out a few days ago were caused by fishermen, handling campfires in a careless way.

A survey by plane earlier Wednesday showed burned-out areas as Petawagama Lake, Piscotoshin Lake and Tudhope Lake to the north and Lake Cayamant to the southwest of the town.

At Venn Depot where the only remaining serious blaze still raged, the company has thrown 170 men into the fire fight. They were flown to the area in light planes and directed by Owen Milmore, Chief Fire Ranger in the district.

1,800 Tons Prized Paintings, Statues, Church Relics, Sacred Pictures Collected by Britain

By JACK SMYTH

Berlin, June 3 (Reuters) —The British Army of occupation is adding the last item to the array of art treasures which, for the last three years, it has been recovering from German castles, mines, deep air-raid shelters and remote dwellings in the forests.

If art can be measured by the ton, then it is true to say that 1,800 tons of the most prized paintings, statues, church relics and sacred pictures and statues have been tracked down, collected and stored until the museums, art galleries and churches from which they were looted can take delivery of them again.

The job began in 1945 when Maj. H. Murray-Baillie of the Intelligence Corps, Maj. L. G. Perry and Maj. K. E. Steer, all peacetime art experts, were ordered to trace the treasures which the Germans removed "for safety" from almost every large town in Europe.

They immediately got to work sifting masses of information, checking rumors, questioning hundreds of Germans, and maintaining close liaison with the Americans who had also discovered huge dumps of art treasures in Bavaria.

Meanwhile, officials of the monuments, fine arts and archives division of the control commission headed by S. F. Hartley, an expert on German church treasures, were entrusted with the task of establishing exactly "what had come from where."

Invariably they found the hiding places of art treasures well-nigh inaccessible. One convoy of army trucks for example, had to be backed three miles up a steep cart track to reach a castle in which pictures and ancient manuscripts had been stored.

In this castle were housed such famous pictures as Rembrandt's "Self-Portrait" Renoir's "Mr. and Mrs. Sisley" and works by Rubens, Gauguin and Van Gogh.

HOUSE APPROVES

The second vote came when Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre) sought by amendment to prevent the government from taking power to withdraw the temporary suspension being made in the tariff on British cottons and rayons. Put to a standing vote in committee, it was defeated 59 to 21.

Later, the chamber gave brief renewed study to estimates for the Agriculture Department.

In the budget discussion, Mr. Hazen's amendments provoked considerable argument.

Opposition members contended taxpayers should not be penalized because the Revenue Department was slow in making assessments on tax returns, to which Revenue Minister McCann retorted that the backlog of assessments was due to loss of staff during the war year. It would be righted in a year or two.

E. D. Fulton (PC-Kamloops) said efforts should be made to punish those who deliberately underpaid their taxes, but said he felt that "honest" taxpayers should not be penalized.

John Diefenbaker (P C-Lake Centre) said the weight of the increase would fall on farmers who had been unable to pay their back taxes because of expenses and poor farming conditions.

Finance Minister Abbott said statistics showed that a great number of Canadians were underpaying their taxes because penalties were not sufficiently heavy. By this method, they obtained an unsecured loan from the government at an interest rate lower than could be obtained from the banks.

Would Reduce Prices

Dealing with the tariff suspension, Mr. Abbott said he thought it wise for the government to retain power to revoke this concession if it did not work to the benefit of the Canadian people. However, he did not think "for a moment" that the power would have to be used.

The United Kingdom had given assurance that exports of cottons and rayons would be increased, and the suspension was expected to be beneficial. It would reduce the prices of these goods in Canada and ensure greater supplies for Canadian consumers.

Mr. Knowles, moving his amendment, protested against delegating such veto power to the cabinet. The effect was that parliament made laws and then empowered the cabinet to change them.

John T. Hackett (PC-Stanstead) said parliament constantly was "belittling" itself by giving up powers to amend laws. Parliament would "rue the day" when it accepted the veot principle.

John Blackmore (SC-Lethbridge) and Joseph Harris (PC-Toronto Danforth) supported Mr. Abbott in his request for the authority.

John Probe (CCF-Regina City) led western members in urging that the government grant tax concessions to farmers for expenses involved in drilling for water. He noted that oil and gas companies now get special tax credits to encourage them to explore for new sources of supply.

Mr. Abbott said the concessions were a "very special" type of legislation which could not be extended to all kinds of natural resources. Canada had to import oil from the United States but she did not have to import water.

However, he agreed to consider the suggestions.

FIRST USE OF GAS

The use of gas for lighting purposes in Canada was introduced in 1840.

DREW CLAIMS

Premier Drew declared his Ontario government would not tolerate any company threatening its workers with shutdown if they did not raise production to get the company out of a deficit.

Mr. Jolliffe, in his broadcast, said the C.C.F. government in Saskatchewan in its four years in office had kept its promises. What the party had done in Saskatchewan, it could do in Ontario.

Would Set up Commission

If elected it would set up in Ontario a forest resources commission similar to Saskatchewan's Provincial Timber Board. The commission would help provide lumber at reasonable prices for home-building.

"In Saskatchewan the Timber Board, which manages the forests and owns the lumber, has followed a deliberate policy of restricting exports and selling the lumber to Saskatchewan people at less than ceiling prices. Under public ownership, the people's need for lumber to build houses takes first place and profits take second place."

In his Toronto speech Mr. Jolliffe said his party was pledged, if elected, to construction in Ontario of 20,000 low-cost homes. But only through united action by the Federal Provincial and Municipal Governments could the over-all shortages be wiped out.

Mr. Coldwell said the C.C.F. is "against the inflationary price level and against the profiteering in this country today."

"People everywhere in Canada are suffering from inadequate housing and overcrowding. All the Ontario government or the Federal Government propose to do is to protect the lending institutions against loss.

"The home purchasers will have to risk a fall in prices and the constant threat of unemployment with subsequent foreclosure of their mortgaged properties. Only the C.C.F. has plans to prevent this. Already in its Farm Security Act the C.C.F. Government of Saskatchewan has given security to the farmer against foreclosure and eviction from his home farm."

Nothing in Common

Mr. Oliver said the Agriculture Department not the planning Deparment should handle problems of conservation of water on land. He said the Planning Department, which has tackled such projects as flood control, "has nothing in common with farmers or with the problems the farmer meets."

All the Planning Department could do was plan. It had no authority to lend money or to get things done.

A Liberal Government, if elected June 7, would set up under the Agriculture Ministry a conservation board to halt erosion and soil depeltion.

The Drew government recently lost two cabinet ministers, Mr. Oliver said. Health Minister Vivian had resigned two months after expressing "Progressive ideas. Former Lands Minister Thompson "could not be persuaded" to contest the June 7 election. Mr. Oliver said: " STAHNI AMFWY

Mr. Oliver said: "Progressive ideas and the Progressive Conservative party are the two most incompatible things in the Province of Ontario."

British Research in War Medicine Aid in Peacetime

By H. L. JONES

Canadian Press Staff Writer

London (CP)—The story of British medical research during the Second World War has just been published in Britain—a story of the little-heralded behind-the-scenes laboratory and field work of the research scientists.

The research covered a wide field from civilian nutrition to dealing with war wounded and British development of penicillin. And because of this work, the report said, British civilians were better fed nutritionally than ever before in wartime and there were far fewer battle casualties.

In fact, said the 450-page document issued by the Medical Research Council, it would not be unreasonable to claim that until introduction of atomic weapons, "the advance in the saving of life in wartime had been at least as great as the advances in methods of destruction."

Many of these life-saving lessons learned in war are being applied in peace and many research projects are being continued.

Much of the work was carried out in co-operation with research workers in Canada and other Dominions and the United States. The report's section dealing with nerve injuries paid tribute to Lt.-Col. E. H. Botterell of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, among others, for "many valuable contributions."

Of nutrition in war, the report said that "never before had troops been so well fed" and the results of controlled feeding of civilians had been "a triumph for those who have been engaged in nutritional research for the past 30 years."

Beneficial Diet

Wartime changes in diet, such as addition of vitamins "D" and "A" to margarine and calcium to bread, along with more equitable distribution of food through rationing, had probably contributed largely to the continued fall in material and infant mortality and in the still-birth rate.

It also might be possible that these changes had a relation to the downward trend of rheumatic fever deaths in Britain, the report said, adding, however, that this did not mean "that the aesthetic qualities of our present diet, and in some directions its quantity could not be greatly improved and still remain compatible with better health and physique."

Of treatment of battle casualties the report said that in the campaign in Northwest Europe in 1944-45 "if a British soldier wounded on a field of battle came into the hands of medical service, the chance of his survival was about 93 per cent and the chance of his recovery to a degree fitting him for a reasonably wide range of civil employment, was about 84 per cent."

The reasons for this were set out in the report's details on new techniques in blood transfusion, treatment of "shock", research with sulpha drugs and penicillin and general improvements in medical practice.

It said "the greatest practical achievement of medical research in Britain during the recent war was the work of Professor (now Sir) Howard Florey and his colleagues at Oxford (University) which led to introduction of penicillin as a therapeutic agent."

Great advances also had been made in control of infective diseases which were reduced "almost to strategical insignificance," but the battles against the common cold and influenza still had to be won.

TWO SIZES

Finds Dad's Work Highly Accurate

Peterborough, Ont. (CP)—Nineteen years after J. W. Pierce of Peterborough started the Ontario-Manitoba boundary survey, his son John G. Pierce, reached Hudson Bay 15 feet from the cairn built to mark the northern boundary point.

No survey line had ever been computed with such accuracy, in the opinion of surveyors. F. W. Beatty, Ontario's surveyor-general, said earlier he would have been satisfied with a 200-foot error.

Starting point for the group which finished the project was Lac du Bonnet which the elder pierce had reached in 1928. Across stream, river and muskeg the party went, slashing down trees for a distance of 12 feet at the tree line.

Although they were probably the first white men spending much time in the area, they saw little game. Polar bear tracks were seen on the coast of Hudson Bay.

Twenty-four men formed the crew for the operation known as "North Star." Included were surveyors, dog team drivers, pilots, an air engineer and axmen. Three tons of meat and 600 pounds of butter were included in their provisions. Planes, flying 323 hours, covered 34,000 miles in the four-month period.

WHALE-KILLERS ASKED TO PROTECT "ALICE"

Victoria (CP)—Vancouver Island's white killer whale, known to mariners as Alice, is valuable to science and an appeal has been made to fishermen not to harm her.

Recently Alice was reported seen off Courtenay. Since she was first noticed 18 months ago, she has provided a valuable guide to scientists studying the habits of the killer packs.

Dr. Clifford Carl, director of the Provincial Museum, said he believed that the pack to which Alice belongs makes a regular leisurely circuit of the island.

Chinese Medicines Sold in Vancouver

Vancouver (CP)—Tiger balm or dried snake for those rheumatic pains and dried seahorse to keep down the blood pressure are on the market again.

K. H. Lee, pre-war owner of a large Chinese drugstore in Shanghai and his partner, Ko Sing, have returned from a buying trip to China to set up shop here.

Herbal and animal remedies used for thousands of years in the Orient are being dispersed. Deer-horn tonic for the blood, a herb called "ma juang" juice-of-a-lion wafers and dried turtles are in stock.

"Chinese medicines are mostly herbs," said Mr. Lee. "Many date from the time of Emperor Hsuan Nung 5,000 years before the birth of Christ."

Most are sold in bulk, and are leaves, bark or dried stems sliced crosswise. Animal preparations are neatly tied in papers.

Mr. Lee attributes China's freedom from the influenza epidemic in 1918 to these medicines, and points with pride to the long lives of his relatives who have been in the business for three generations.

His mother is 81, his uncles 89 and 85, and two of his grandparents lived to be 93 and 94.

U. K. POST OFFICES

There are approximately 24,200 post offices in the United Kingdom.

Traffic Snarled, Cop Sells Ticket

Montreal (CP)—You turn pale, your legs become weak, you wonder what the devil you did and then, with a weak smile of relief, you dig down and fork over your dough to the cop for the tickets he is selling.

After the transaction you have a feeling of being gyped and you have no assurance the deal will pay off the next time you go through a red light.

Folks, you now have a friend in Pierre DesMarais, leader of Montreal's city council.

In a letter to the city's director of departments, Mr. DesMarais singled out the annual police games. They are fine, deserve support and encouragement and all that, said Mr. DesMarais.

But when cops cause traffic tie-ups by peddling tickets, it's time something was done and furthermore "such a practice looks to me like a form of blackmail."

Mr. DesMarais mentioned specifically "the case of Harbor Bridge where a constable practically stopped all traffic and created a bottleneck while offering his tickets for sale."

PREHISTORIC PICTS

The Picts, a race of obscure origin, inhabited Scotland and part of Northern Ireland in prehistoric and early historic times.

Students Stage Strauss Opera

Toronto (CP)—Vienna in the days before the First World War—the city of beautiful women, romance and intrigue in three-quarter time—is the setting for the amusing opera "Rosalinda," presented by a mainly Canadian cast May 31-June 13 by the Royal Conservatory of Music here.

"Rosalinda", the English adaptation of "Die Fledermaus" (The Bat), which brings to life the melodious, intoxicating music of Johann Strauss, has been successfully staged on Broadway and in service shows.

A company of nearly 100 Royal Conservatory of Music students in the chorus and orchestra will take part in the production, with the title role sung by Jeanne Merrill of New York City who took the part in the Broadway production.

Dr. Nicholas Goldschmidt, musical director and conductor, will work hand in hand with Felix Brentano, New York director who staged the original production on Broadway. The frothy plot is built around the ever-popular device of a masked ball and disguised personalities.

COAL EXPORTS UP

Cardiff, Wales (CP) — South Wales ports handled 448,899 tons of coal in April this year, an increase of 112,656 tons over April, 1947.

Man Who Can't Read Knows Thing or Two

Liverpool, England (CP) —Because a man cannot read or write, he is not necessarily ignorant, says Justice Cassels.

"Two hundred years ago," he said, "most people could neither read nor write; but they knew a thing or two.

"Many would say they managed things a little better than we do now, and we can all read and write."

BUZZING WIRES

The total number of effective telephone calls made in Britain during 1947 was 2,714,000,000.

Two Policemen Are Absolved Of All Blame

Toronto, June 3 — (CP) — Two policemen who fatally shot William Poole in a florists' warehouse ambush Easter Monday were absolved Wednesday night of any blame in the suspected robber's death.

The officers, Constables William Godber and John Herron, surprised three men in the warehouse during the night and opened fire on them.

Poole was killed and Norman Bailey and Stanley Smith were wounded. Smith's arm later had to be amputated. Another man, Edward Blair, was arrested in connection with the case.

Trial of Bailey, Blair and Smith Wednesday was set over to the Fall Assizes. Bail for Blair was reduced to $10,000 from $20,000.

Russians Release U.S. Official Held 16 Hours

Berlin, June 3 (AP) — The Russians today released Dr. Harry L. Frankin, a United States military government official whom they had seized in their sector of Berlin last night. They had held him for about 16 hours.

United States authorities said before the release it was a "plain case of kidnapping."

Franklin, deputy chief of the civil administration and political affairs branch of the United States military government for Berlin was arrested by a Russian patrol as he left a photographer's shop in downtown Berlin at about 6 p.m.

Louis Glaser, Franklin's immediate superior, declared:

"The Russians had absolutely no reason for arresting Dr. Franklin. He was not crossing a road block. He was not taking photographs. He was merely within his rights going into their sector of town on a business errand."

Friends said his errand was to get a motion picture camera from the shop where it had been repaired.

"As he was leaving the photographer's shop," Glaser said, "he was seized by a Russian patrol — and, after the fashion of people seized by the Russians, he disappeared. This apparently means that the Russians have extended their practice of kidnapping Germans to abducting Americans. There is no excuse for it.

"When I asked that he be released, they merely said they would investigate the case. It appeared to me they were not investigating at all, but just laughing at us."

Franklin asserted after his release that the Rusisans seized him "entirely without justification." He was kept overnight in one of the local Russian police headquarters and was questioned.

EMIR FEISAL IN LONDON

London, June 2 — (AP) — Saudi Arabia's foreign minister, Emir Feisal, arrived in London from New York. Foreign Secretary Bevin arranged a conference with him for today for a general exchange of views on Palestine and the general Middle East situation.

MANY STRANGE COINS

North Bay, June 3 — (CP) — City council expected parking meters here to collect coins. But it didn't look for coins like these, found in the meters in recent weeks: French centimes, English farthings, an 1858 American cent, pieces of money from Germany, Italy, Eire, Denmark and China.

Merchants Down Flyers 7-6 In Close Struggle

In a free hitting game at the Belleville Fair Grounds last evening the Belleville Merchants downed the Trenton Flyers 7-6 to dump the airmen into last place in the League standings. It was the airmen's third loss in four starts.

Dunning, clean up man for the airmen, led off the second inning with a single and scored on a sacrifice and an error. The Merchants came back in their end of the second with two runs and were never headed. Vern Goyer got on via an error and with one out Fitzpatrick and L. Goyer singled with V. Goyer and Fitz scoring.

V. Goyer tripled with none out in the fourth and scored on an error to give the Merchants another run. Two hits counted for two Merchant run in the fifth.

The dormant Flyers came to life in the sixth getting back two runs on a walk, a fielder's choice and two errors. "Jumbo" Goyer's double in the eighth started the ball rolling for the Merchants and he scored on Fritzpatrick's single.

Tim Williams on the mound for the Merchants, weakened in the ninth as the Flyers came back for three runs to tie up the ball game at six runs apiece. With one down Wade and Stroud singled, Hladun walked, and Reinhart was hit with a pitched ball. Greenough singled to drive in two runs and with the ball game all tied up and two men on Fitzpatrick came in to relieve Williams. Titus popped out to the shortstop to end the inning.

Stroud went in to pitch for the airmen in the bottom of the ninth and with one down Carson and V. Goyer singled. Whitman came up and cracked out a single to wind up the ball game.

Fitzpatrick who threw to one man in the ninth was the winning pitcher while Stroud, who relieved Laing in the ninth for the airmen is discredited with the loss.

Williams on the hill for the Merchants, struck out nine, walked two and give up 7 hits for 6 runs over 8 2-3 innings. The Merchants got twelve safeties from Laing, starting pitcher for the air force and three more from Stroud.

Vern Goyer with a single, double, and triple in five times at bat was the big gun for the Merchants.

Masaka Wins Oaks Stakes By Three Lengths

Epsom, England, June 3 (Reuters) — The Aga Khan's Masaka third favorite in betting, won the Oakes Stakes, 1 1-2 mile classic race for three-year-old fillies here today.

The King's Angelola was second and the French bred Folie II was third.

Masaka started at 7-1, Angelola at 20 to 1 and Folie II at 33 to 1.

Masaka won by three lengths while another three lengths separated the second and third finishers. Tesoro was fourth.

Ariostar and Goblet started joint 4 to 1 favorites in a field of 25 runners.

The King and Queen, Princess Elizabeth, Queen Mary and other members of the Royal family saw the monarch's colt beaten.

The race was run on a course made heavy and slow by rains. The starting field of 25 was the largest in the last 100 years.

Newfoundlanders Troop to Polls To Select Govt.

St. John's, Nfld., June 3 — (CP) — By taxis and streetcars in St. John's and by motorboat and on foot in the outposts, Newfoundlanders today travelled to the polling booths to select their future form of government.

They had three choices: Confederation with Canada, responsible government as it existed in 1933, or retention of the present commission government for another five years. The main fight seemed to be between Union and self-government but commission government appeared a good dark horse.

Of the total of 176,297 eligible voters, 76,091, or more than one-third live in the Avalon Peninsula and the general feeling here is that Avalon will vote responsible.

Confederates will draw most of their strength from fishing hamlets scattered around the west, north and south coasts. The best guess is that about 8,000 of the 36,000 eligible in St. John's will plump for responsible government.

Polls will close at 9 p.m. (7:30 p.m. EDT) and only St. John's and district returns are expected to be counted tonight.

Drop Ballots by Chute

Thus early returns on the referendum probably will show a strong swing in favor of responsible government.

Declaration of a winner is not expected before late Friday and returns from Labrador, where many ballots were dropped by parachute and will be picked up by motorboat, are not expected to arrive here for a week.

Results in many outposts, especially around the desolate northern peninsula, will have to be relayed by radio two or three times before they reach a village where there is a postal telegraph station.

Some 1,200 polls are being used in the referendum. If no party gets 51 per cent of the total vote cast, a second referendum with the top two competing would be held in about two weeks.

Main Issues

The main issues that have appeared in the bitter, long-winded campaign are these:

Confederates say union will bring family allowances, old age pensions and lower taxes because of the abolition of customs and tariffs, Canada is Newfoundland's biggest supplier.

Responsible government supporters say Confederation should not even be on the ballot. Britain had agreed to restore responsible government when Newfoundland again was self-supporting and she had reached that stage, they say.

Proposals made by Canada for union are "niggardly."

The main arm of responsible government — it now overshadows the main body — is a party standing for economic union with the United States.

It feels Newfoundland would get a better financial deal with such a scheme than under Confederation.

"Thank goodness Libby's are extra-easy-to-digest"

Because a baby's digestive system is immature, his first solid foods often cause digestive upsets. Even foods which have been commercially strained contain many irritating coarse fibres and unbroken food cells which baby's digestive juices have a hard time penetrating.

But Libby's Foods; the only foods which are first strained, then homogenized, seldom cause digestive upsets. This is because Libby's exclusive homogenization process explodes the food cells and pulverizes the tough fibres.

The extra fine texture makes Libby's Baby Foods extra-easy-to-digest.

OFFICE NURSE

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

When he heard Janice's voice over the phone, Ben thought, She's calling up to see if I'm sore, to see why I haven't come around since she stood me up and got her kid sister to do a stand-in on our date.

Yet he knew that that was only wishful thinking on his part. He knew Jan better than that. She must have a much better reason for calling him, especially at his job.

She had. Only after she had finished telling him that a friend, a girl who worked in her office, was in trouble and that she wanted Ben to meet them in a tea-room on Third Avenue, did she say, "You're not mad with me, are you, Bengy?"

"I'm not glad," he retorted.

"I'll try to explain—" she began.

Which he cut short with, "Why bother? Isn't it a bit late?"

"I hope it isn't," she answered. "Hurry over, Bengy, there's a dear. This is really important."

It turned out to be. Ben was a softie when it came to kids, and added to that, any man would have felt a tug at his heartstrings seeing how that poor young mother looked. She had a beaten look, as though she dared not hope for hope.

He told Mrs. McRae that he couldn't promise anything, but that he would do his best. "I have a pal," Ben said. "He works on a newspaper. He's really good. He has a faculty of fereting out odd angles. And I promise you, Mrs. McRae, he'll keep it mum."

Eileen McRae seemed to need no more convincing than Ben Archer's word for it. You just knew, looking at him, that Ben played straight and square with everybody.

"All right," Eileen said. "Thank you." Hope had not come back into her eyes, but she could hold up her chin.

"Don't thank me," Ben said gravely, "yet."

"Ben will find Edna Mae if anyone can," Janice said. "It may take time. But I knew you would know how to go about it." She thanked him, too, with her eyes.

• • •

Ben thought. That's it—she doesn't know what she can do to a man by just looking at him like that. Of course, her not knowing was what did it. But he would not take her thanks, either, until he had earned them. He was just a shade pleased, though, and compensated, that Janice, as well as that plump little Irish gal, believed in him.

"Keep your chin up," he told Eileen McRae, with his broad, confident grin that would have put heart into the most desolate. "I'll get in touch with you just as soon as I can."

They all walked to the subway entrance where Eileen would tunnel down to catch an uptown express, then Ben walked Janice home.

In front of the house, Janice said, "I'd ask you to come in, Ben, only I—"

"Haven't time," he interrupted. "It'll take enough to run down Ed. He's an elusive guy."

"That's what I meant," Janice replied.

"I'll get in touch with you as soon as there's anything to get in touch about," Ben told her, as he had Mrs. McRae.

Janice's eyes thanked him again. She seemed to hesitate a moment. Then she said, "I'm sorry, Ben, about the other night. It was Dr. Holbrook's birthday," she explained. "He asked me, at the last minute, to have dinner with him You see, Mrs. Holbrook had just left for France, and well, I suppose he felt rather at loose ends."

• • •

Janice had thought this was a reasonable explanation; it sounded, however, like a lame excuse.

Ben accepted it, however. He gave her his wide grin. "Skip it," he advised. "As I said, it's 'water over the dam' now."

"You didn't mind, then?"

"Why should I?" His grin broadened, but he felt rather woozy inside. So that was who it was—the doctor she worked for, the guy she was with day in, day out, even after working hours, it appeared. And his wife was in France, which made it all just dandy. Ben would have liked to give the doctor a punch in the jaw.

"I'm glad you understand," Janice was saying. Her voice, so warm and vibrant, held relief. Her eyes told him that she had not wanted to hurt him, but that she could not help herself.

Jumping Jupiter! Ben was surprised that that had not come out in a groan, instead of just echoing inside him. She might as well have said, I cannot help it, Bengy, that I love someone else. I'm so sorry, truly I am. But there's nothing I can do about it.

Her eyes said it for her. Janice had that kind of eyes, direct and honest. So Ben could not blame her, either. He had no right to, since he was in the same kind of sea-going vessel. He knew that when you loved someone you could not help yourself. You had to sit tight even if the boat went down.

"You know," Betty Jane said to her boy friend, Bill Larkin, as they came out of the movies, "something's gone haywire in our office. I can't for the life of me, figure out what it's all about. Something's wrong, but definitely."

"It must've been catching," Bill grumbled. Betty Jane had refused to let him hold her hand in the theatre. "What's it to you?" he asked. "What makes you think something's wrong?"

"I feel it in my bones," Betty Jane returned loftily. The idea of Bill asking what it was to her! Anything that went on in Dr. Holbrook's office was Betty Jane's concern. "Nothing's the same," she added, thinking aloud. She wished there were some way she could reason out the change that she felt had taken place during the last few weeks, and talking sometimes helped.

"For instance?" Bill inquired. He knew that Betty Jane, once started on any subject, could not easily be persuaded to drop it.

"For instance," Betty Jane said, "Dr. Holbrook. He's different, somehow. He seems kinda worried about something. 'Course it could be his wife—she's in France, you know. I understand she's got a villa over there in some swell resort. Only I don't think it's the wife. I have a feeling it's someone else."

"Could be."

"It might be Miss Hilary—Aunt Mame thinks it is—and I did give them a start the other day." Betty Jane was thinking aloud again. "It was when I went to the utility room and there they were, the doctor and Janice, and I coulda sworn they were holding hands. Anyhow, he dropped hers quick-like, and they both had the funniest, guiltiest look on their faces."

• • •

"Didn't your Aunt Mame teach you it's polite always to knock?" Bill grinned at catching Betty Jane up for a change.

Betty Jane ignored him with a look. Then she shook her head. "No, it couldn't be that," she decided. "Though they do act funny, almost too polite, as if they were strangers or were sore at each other. But Miss Willows was wrong."

"What's Willows got to do with it?"

"She said there was no young man Janice might marry. But there is." Betty Jane's smile broadened with satisfaction.

"Yeah?" Bill prompted. He had become slightly interested, against his will.

"He came to the office," Betty Jane confided. She rested both elbows on the table, her blue eyes dreamy. "And say, is he a right guy! Tall—must be over six-two—and broad shoulders like a football star. He kinda looks like a cross between Cary Grant and Van Johnson, if you know what I mean."

"Sounds screwy, if you ask me. Those two look nothing alike." Bill was only five feet five and he knew he did not resemble any movie or football star.

"Which proves Miss Willows is all wet," Betty Jane said. "Anyhow, it proves Janice could resign and get married, if she wished."

• • •

"How 'bout us?" Bill felt he had been patient long enough. It was time they got around to themselves.

"What about us?" Her query was as incorrect as her baby-blue stare.

"As if you didn't know. When you gonna name the day? When you gonna chuck your job and settle down and learn how to cook from your Aunt Mame and—"

"I've told you, Bill," she softened this reminder with a little smile, "we can't just get married—like that." A snap of her fingers indicated how quick "that" was.

"Yeah, you been telling me that for almost five years now. Nothing snappy about that, to my way of thinking."

"You know I want to work at my profession at least one full year."

"Oh, rats!" Bill grumbled. "I don't want you to turn into an office nurse; that's the same as an office wife."

"I never heard of such a thing," Betty Jane said with a little air of assumed indignation. Then a look of understanding lighted her face. "Unless that was what Miss Willows meant," she murmured, nodding her head as though she had come to a conclusion, "when she said Janice Hilary would never leave Dr. Holbrook and that it was a pity. She must have meant that Janice has got so she's almost and office wife because she's such a wonderful office nurse."

"Are they that way about each other?" Bill asked. Not that he gave a hang.

"Dr. Holbrook and Janice? A short while back I'd have said no. Now I'm not so sure. They did look that way that day. But I hope they aren't. I hope Janice marries that nice fellow—the one that looks like Cary Grant." She gave a sigh. A big sigh. "I think, like Miss Willows—and especially now that I've seen the other one—it would be an awful pity."

It was love. That much Janice and Eric knew, that much each had confessed, though beyond this amazing discovery they had not ventured. As Eric had said that night when something had drawn them into each other's arms, they would have to talk about it sometime. For the present they were content to postpone the inevitable, to live only in the wonder of the present.

It was enough just to be together; sometimes in silence, as that first night driving through the park, when silence had not seemed a barrier but a bond between them; at other times in talking and laughing and sharing the most inconsequential things. It was enough to sit across a small table and look into each other's eyes.

"I cannot believe, my sweet, that you love me," Eric said, not for the first time, his dark eyes looking into hers across the restaurant table. They tried to spend some portion of each evening together. An evening spent apart was one wasted. The hours in the office did not count.

There had been a time or two, at the beginning—was it possible that they had known about their love now for almost a month?—when they had forgotten that they must maintain a strictly impersonal relationship during office hours. The morning after that first wonderful evening, Eric had broken down a moment to confess that he had not been able to sleep a wink.

"I had to get up, darling," he told her, "and walk the floor. Finally I had to get out and walk the streets. What have you done to me, Janice? I'm not the same man I was. I shan't ever be the same again."

"Is that good or bad?" Her gray eyes smiled back into his.

"Both," he told her, half seriously, half gaily. He wondered if in some ways the change might be for the worse. He knew, for instance, that besides keeping his emotions under check during working hours, it was not wise to try to snatch every possible moment to be with Janice. There were obligations toward other people that must be fulfilled. A man in his position could not simply drop out of sight—from his club and the other places he had frequented for so many years. And there was that talk that could not forever be postponed.

• • •

Without his saying all these things, Janice knew them, too.

Only the other day, when she had gone into the utility room, not knowing Eric was there, something had occurred which had made her realize that this bliss could not go on indefinitely, this sojourn in the heaven they had found on earth. For it was heaven they captured in even the briefest moments together—a look exchanged, an accidental contact such as when, in handing him something that day, her hand had brushed against his.

Turning, Eric had been startled to find her there inside the small enclosure, the swinging door having noiselessly closed them in.

He had taken a step toward her and his strong arms had drawn her against his rapidly beating heart. He had kissed her, much more fiercely than that first time. He had just released her, and was holding her at arms' length with both hands, his eyes drinking in the answering look from hers, when the door had swung in and Betty Jane Coxe had stood staring at them.

Janice did not know how much Betty Jane had seen. But her eyes had been wide, her soft mouth agape. And if her expression had betrayed her, Janice was sure that her own, and no doubt Eric's as well, must have done as much.

Afterwards, Eric had said, "That must never happen again." He had given a short laugh. "The office is not the place, it seems, to remember how we really feel toward each other, Janice."

No, the office was not the place. And some day they must wake up to the realization that such places as the one where they were now would one day not be the place, either.

Indeed, Janice foresaw, with a sudden flash of perception, that the day would come when the question would be whether there was any place at all for them—for her and Eric and their love; strange love, unsought, unanswerable.

"What are you thinking of, my sweet?" he asked her now, as though he knew her thoughts had wandered.

"I can't tell you what I am thinking," Janice said, "because, when I'm with you, Eric, it seems I cannot think. But I know this cannot last, since everything must end."

"Not yet—let's not come to that yet." His eyes were beseeching. "Not—not tonight. Tell me again that you love me, tell me once more when it was that you discovered that you did."

So it went—the foolish conversation of lovers; the repeated phrases, the trivial details that became momentous. And the warm aliveness, the magic, the fresh outlook and awareness that only being in love could bring.

Janice, too, had to take care to guard their secret — hers and Eric's. She wondered, looking into her mirror, why it was not painted on her face for the whole world to see. It was impossible that she should continue to look exactly the same. All that was bottled up inside ought to rise to the surface and break through.

Sometimes she thought certain people—her mother, whose mild blue eyes were remarkably keen, Miss Willows, whose long nose could pick out anything amiss like a bloodhound on a trail, Ben — But she was not going to think of Bengy yet, either. Sometimes she thought these persons did glance at her oddly. Perhaps they sensed a difference in her that they could not see.

As one day, a long idle Sunday when Eric had had to go somewhere on Long Island, her mother had suddenly asked Janice if she were feeling well.

"Why, of course, darling." Janice's answer may have come too hastily, too heartily. "Why shouldn't I be? I never felt better in all my life."

"Yes, I guess that's so." Mrs. Hilary spoke in a guarded tone, and her glance, resting on her daughter's flushed face, was searching, unsatisfied. "You do look well, very well indeed. But you've been working so hard, dear—after hours and even evenings." Janice had not always said she was working when she had called up to say she would not be home until late, but she had given that impression. "You can't keep on, you know, dear." Her mother's tone was as mild as her blue eyes, yet there was an urgency about it. "It will get the best of you in the long run. It will sap your youth, your strength. And, of course, Janice, you won't want to keep on working all your life."

• • •

"W-well, no—hardly!" Janice's laugh was rather forced. She thought, Now what is Mother driving at? What does she think is wrong with me that she must step in and try to remedy?

It was wonderful having a mother like hers, but it could be trying. Janice had never thought that before. She had never had anything to hide from her mother before, either.

"You'll want to be married one of these days." This remark had a casual, innocent sound but there was much that was not casual or innocent behind it.

"What makes you think that?" Janice was glad that she was occupied mending some winter things.

"Why shouldn't I think it?" Mrs. Hilary deposited herself on the edge of Janice's clothing-strewn bed with an air that stated she had no intention of being dismissed because her daughter was so busy. "What girl does not want to be married? I certainly did."

Coming of Another Derby Day Crowds Mind With Memories

Epsom, England, June 3 (CP)—Another derby day dawns Saturday at Epsom Downs, setting imaginations alight and crowding the mind with memories.

As 33 thoroughbreds headed by My Babu and The Cobbler wait restively for the 169th renewal of England's greatest classic race, oldtimers spin tales of epic duels of the past, turf romances with a Damon Runyon twist.

They tell of a romantic Italian trainer who believed in love matches for horses as well as humans, of the 1867 derby and "Chaplin's revenge."

Henry Chaplin was engaged to Lady Florence Paget, the toast of Mayfair and known as "The pocket Venus." She deserted Chaplin, practically at the altar, for a dashing young blade named Lord Hastings.

Chaplin, vowing vengeance, bought a colt named Hermit and persuaded Hastings to lay odds against him winning the derby. Hermit broke a blood vessel and went to the post at long odds but survived snow, hail and storm to win by a neck. Hastings lost £100,000. Later, on his death bed, he said Hermit broke his heart.

The Italian with unorthodox ideas on breeding was Chevalier Ginistrelli. He owned a mare named Signorina which spurned all stallions—except a cheap plater named Chaleureux. Against all advice Ginistrelli insisted on mating the pair.

The union produced a sickly foal named Signorinetta (Little Ognorina). They stopped laughing when the despised Signorinetta won the 1908 derby—at 100-1 odds.

London Majors Earn First Place Tie With Waterloo

By The Canadian Press

Just when Waterloo Tigers appeared to be heading into a neat first-place lead, the second-place London Majors came along last night and defeated the same Waterloo club 3-2 to go into a first-place tie in the Intercounty Senior Baseball League.

Stratford Nationals spoiled Kitchener Legionnaires chances to tie Nationals for second place by shutting out the Kitchener crew 3-0. Meanwhile, the two last-place teams, Guelph Maple Leafs and Galt Terriers battled through nine innings of play before umpires called a halt with the score tied 3-3.

The rest of the senior amateur leagues around Ontario spent a rather quiet night with Coniston Buzzers belting out an 11-5 victory over Garson in the Nickel Belt circuit and St. Catharines nosing out North Tonawanda, N.Y. Dodgers 8-7 in the Niagara District League.

Picton Athletics Swamp Northern Electric 11 to 1

In a dull, uninteresting contest featured by shoddy fielding and a gross ineptness at the plate the Picton Athletics swamped the Northern Electric nine 11-1 a Belleville Baseball League game in Picton last night. Picton scored nine unearned runs and the locals only tally was a gift.

The two-hour long exhibition was about the slowest on record here. Only six-and-a-half innings were played and portions of the Picton supporters began to drift away at the end of the fifth frame. In fairness to the locals though it should be noted that the diamond is a diamond in the rough at best and several of the miscues can be traced directly to the poor playing surface. One player remarked playfully that playing the infield was like running up and down stairs.

The Picton players evidently knew the condition of the field and played every grounder safe by dropping to one knee, to block any bad hops with their bodies.

McDonald, lead off man for Picton hit a double in the first. Moore was on via an error and Drury and Hayden walked, Cork struck out an Shannon forced Drury at third. Whiteland struck out to retire the side.

No hits, two walks and three errors gave the Picton squad 3 more runs in the second. At this point the locals were miscuing everything and they never did get untracked.

Hidden Ball Trick

In the third, lead off man, Whiteland, singled and then was tagged with a new twist to the hidden ball trick. The infield huddled and on returning to their positions shortstop Bohonis threw a high blooper to Robb at first who tagged out a thoroughly bewildered Whiteland. An error put Dyer on and he came home on McDonald's single. A walk, two hits and a wild pitch gave the Athletics two more in the fourth.

With one down in the fifth McDonald hit his third hit of the game. Two more errors and a wild pitch put two runners on base and all three scored.

Green went in to replace Temple with two away in the fifth and one on, and he walked the next two men before retiring the side. Poor base running and a good throw by Cunningham in left field kept the Picton boys off the score sheet in the sixth frame.

Dyer Much Too Good

Dyer, on the mound for the Athletics held the Electric crew well in check for six innings and he was replaced in the seventh by Dobson. The locals scored their lone run when Semark was walked, raced home when the centre fielder dropped Fogarty's easy pop fly. Dobson retired the side on strikeouts.

Temple starting pitcher for the Electric crew deserved some support at least and the whole blame for the loss cannot be laid at his door. Temple pitched for five and two thirds innings and gave up seven hits, and six walks for elevn runs, nine of them unearned. Green relieved Temple and gave up two walks and two hits for no runs for the remainder of the game.

Dyer, winning pitcher for Picton, struck out eight, walked one and gave up three hits for no runs over a six inning course. He was replaced by Dobson who struck out three, walked one and gave up no hits for one run in the remaining inning.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BY GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

The Boston Red Sox's Tom Yawkey is a business man. He has spent over four million dollars in an attempt to convert his team into a world's series winner—and has never turned a hair. But the reputable Mr. Yawkey also knows the value of the press and radio. He is fully aware of the millions, so to speak, dollars worth of publicity that has poured into the printed sheets and over the air—and he has not been backward in investing plenty of coin of the realm to keep this publicity flowing in a consistent stream.

• • •

Not in actual dollars and cents as "honorariums" to the typewriter, millwrights and the tonsilar workmen. Ah no. But in a lavish press room situated at the top of the Sox Fenway Park where the working press and guests can work and relax in an opulent environment with "every thing on the house."

• • •

Nowhere in the big leagues is there a press room of such luxurious appointments. Other big league parks have reasonable or unreasonable facsimiles, but the Yawkey Room is tops insofar as lavishness, opulence, and genuine comfort is concerned. It was opened recently in a blaze of glory, and the scribes and walkie-talkie boys were awed by the splendor. Partly because the whole thing had been hush-hush and no one had had a preview of the "joint". The press lads, some of them actually tip-toed into the place on the opening night so great was the amazement.

• • •

According to reports from the Beantown Park, the opening was a dazzling affair. A uniformed gendarme stood guard at the door and St. Peter himself would have been refused admittance if he did not possess a press card. For once, the press went snooty.

• • •

Wide-eyed sportswriters gazed with something akin to awe at oak panelling, indirect fluorescent lighting, Chinaware inscribed with the Red Sox insignia; beautiful tiled floors and a marble-decorated rest room. A corps of waiters, bartenders, kitchen help and chef stood ready to serve the ticket-holders. Anything in the line of comestibles or libations was, and is, their's for the asking.

• • •

Not only can the poor working scribe refresh himself in any form desired, but when the urge to work comes over him, everything is there for his use. Tables and typewriters are there and telegraph operators can move their "bugs" to specially-placed spots.

• • •

As one Boston baseball writer puts it: "Why the sun pours into the room so that you think you're on the deck of the Queen Mary. And it doesn't take too much imagination to sell yourself on the ocean blue being as handy as we are. There may be better spots. But not this side of Heaven."

• • •

Lovers of softball should not pass up these Belleville Commercial Softball League doubleheaders played on the Alemite Field every Tuesday and Thursday twilighting. The calibre of play has vastly improved over that of last year when the loop was first organized. Close scores have featured all games so far and the class of softball dished up to the fans has been eye-pleasing and satisfying. Some fine hurling has been one of the features of the league thus far with former intermediate veterans such as Connie Harris, Eddie Schreider and others showing brilliant form, reminiscent of the days when the intermediate game was in its heyday here.

• • •

But thus far the attendance at the game has been far from what it should be. The teams and players are giving their best to provide top-flight softball for fandom of the city, and they deserve more moral and financial support than has been forthcoming to date. The lads are in the game strictly for the fun of it, with nothing but a handsome trophy and the honor and glory of winning, at stake. Team rivalry is keen, but friendly. Enthusiasm among the various squads is at a high pitch, and consequently every game is a battle to the finish. It is well worth anybody's while to trek to the Alemite Field any Tuesday or Thursday night, and take in these twin softball bills.

• • •

And there's an excellent opportunity tonight to see four of the Commercial squads in action. In the curtain raiser of the double bill Houstons meet Corbys while the nightcap sees Quinte Dry tangle with the Bankers. First game gets under way at six-thirty.

• • •

And what should be a ring-tail snorter of a tilt takes place at Point Anne tonight when the Canada Cement squad tangles with the Wooler team in a Lakeshore Softball League game. Both teams are undefeated thus far and tonight's joust will settle the first place slot in the league. Big "Buck" Stacey, veteran Wooler ace will likely start against the Cementmen while Frank Sedore will send either Don Boyle, or Marty Halloran to the mound.

• • •

Overheard in the broadcasting (air-conditioned) gondola at the Exhibition Grounds Tuesday floodlighting. The sports announcer together with the press, could not hear the umpires announcement when Oshawa threw a new pitcher in the box. Ses he. "Here comes a new pitcher in the game. Looks like Hill to me" (Mr. Compositor, spell it with an "I" puleeze.)

• • •

What a whale of a difference a few miles make. Up around Frood Mines way, the Nickel Belt mining fans are going into raves over the 1948 edition of their team, the Frood Tigers. Cavorting around first base in a Bengals uniform is none other than Allen (Joe) Kelleher of this city. Quoth the Sudbury Star: "The infield should be a dandy barring unforeseen accidents or possible slumps. Al Kelleher, the noisy, fancy fielder is back at his old position at first. Harry Marchand is on third."

Marchand, it is recalled, is the brilliant young player who performed with the Galt Rockets in Junior "A" hockey last winter. Frood Tigers are being coached by Ralph McCabe former pro of this city.

• • •

The scheduled COBL game between Batawa and Peterborough on Thursday night here has been postponed, it was announced yesterday. Instead, the loop master-minds will go into solemn conclave anent a matter concerning several players and the ironing out of some transfer wrinkles. While the matter is not exactly serious, a knowledge of the Ontario Baseball Association constitution regarding signing of players and residence rules would have eliminated a lot of the alleged dissatisfaction.

Banta Making Great Progress In International

(By The Associated Press)

Jack Banta, whose pitching exploits were the talk of the International League in 1947, is making great progress in his bid to return to the major leagues.

Banta looked good in spring training with Brooklyn Dodgers, but was shipped back to Montreal Royals in the middle of May.

Banta lost his first start for the Royals 3-0 but since then he has won five straight. He scored his fifth victory Wednesday night, stopping the Rochester Red Wings 11-3, on six safeties.

The third-place Royals broke a scoreless tie by scoring six times in the fifth inning with the aid of four errors. They added four more runs in the seventh and another in the eighth on Duke Snider's homer.

The second-place Syracuse Chiefs dropped a 9-0 decision to Jersey City as rookie righthander Sam Webb limited the Chiefs to four hits while his mates hammered Dixie Howell for 11, including Don Mueller's sixth homer of the year.

The defeat prevented the Chiefs from taking over first place from the Newark Bears who were nosed out 2-1 by the Baltimore Orioles.

Blanked for eight innings on three hits by Johnny Maldovan, the Orioles scored twice in the last of the ninth. The Bears are only five percentage points ahead of the Chiefs and a half game in front of both Syracuse and Montreal.

Dangerous to Sit At Rail Seat Judge Declares

(By The Canadian Press)

The judge, two National Hockey League players and a hockey fan agreed in Toronto Wednesday that it is dangerous to sit at a rail seat at a rink. Mrs. Hilda Payne, 38-year-old Toronto housewife, is suing Maple Leaf Gardens, Gaye Stewart, former Leaf player and Johnny Mariucci of the Chicago Black Hawks for $5,000 for injuries received two years ago in a scuffle along the boards. Ernest Payne, her husband, has demanded $237 medical costs.

Mrs. Payne claimed she suffered a broken nose and other injuries when struck by a hockey stick when Stewart and Mariucci were wrestling along the boards.

Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel observed the woman must have known of the risk of a front-row seat. "I wouldn't sit there myself," he said. The case is continuing.

McGill University released Wednesday its home schedule for the 1948 Intercollegiate football season. University of Western Ontario Mustangs play at Molson Stadium Oct. 16, University of Toronto, Oct. 23 and Queen's University, Nov. 13. Coach Vic Obeck of the Redmen also announced that his charges would play two exhibition games, both in Montreal. The first, against Ottawa University, will be staged Sept. 25 with Guelph Agricultural College here one week later, Oct. 2.

Vic Patrick, 133, Australian lightweight champion, outpointed Tommy Stenhouse, 134, of Buffalo, N.Y., in 12 blistering rounds Wednesday night in Sydney. A crowd of 12,000 saw the exciting scrap.

Alf Padgham, former British Open champion, shot a 68 Wednesday on the St. Andrews course in Scotland to take the lead in the opening round of the 72-hole Spalding $6,000 golf tournament. Reg Whitcombe, another former British Open champion, was tied for second spot with Art Clark of Huntington, Va., both carding 71s.

Aldege (Baz) Bastein, star goalkeeper with the Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League, will marry his favorite fan this Saturday in St. Paul's Cathedral, it was announced in Pittsburgh Wednesday. The bride-to-be is Mary Mitchell of nearby Library. The couple plan to honeymoon in Vancouver, B.C.

Jack Kelly of Philadelphia, 1947 winner of the Diamond Sculls at Henley-on-Thames, will not defend his title at the Henley regatta June 30-July 3, it was announced in London Wednesday. Kelly informed officials of the meet that he would stay in the United States for the Olympic rowing trials.

Spectators rushed on the field and attacked British players during a soccer match in Sao Paulo Wednesday night in which Southampton won its first victory of a Brazilian tour. No one was hurt in the fracas as police intervened and made several arrests. Southampton won the game 2-1.

Heavyweight champion Joe Louis told a group of listeners at a luncheon in Paterson, N.J., Wednesday that he did not expect his June 23 fight with challenger Jersey Joe Walcott to go the full 15 rounds and "that I always like to walk out of the ring first." The luncheon was held to help raise funds for underprivileged children.

Had Bad Stomach, Dizzy Spells And Backaches; Praises Syntona

New Eats Food That Used to Cause Gas Pains, Distress and Shortness of Breath; Sleeps Better, and Feels Good All Day.

If you suffer from stomach disorders, sluggish kidneys or liver, constipation or nervousness, you can benefit from the experience of other local men and women by using Syntona Herbal Compound. Many people say Syntona proved just what they needed to overcome a host of distressing symptoms that kept them feeling miserable and sick from day to day. You, too, can obtain these same good results.

For example, Mr. Alfred Hubbard, London, Ontario, said just recently:

"Having suffered with stomach disorders for a number of years I was very rundown; could scarcely eat a meal without having awful gas pains, a heavy bloated feeling in my stomach and chest and shortness of breath. I got dizzy spells and backache and couldn't seem to get my proper sleep at night. I felt tired and everything seemed a great effort to me.

"But all that has changed since I've been taking Syntona. My digestion is so improved I can eat all my meals without any gas or distress afterwards. Shortness of breath and the heavy, full sensation is gone away. I am free of backache, enjoying more sound, restful sleep at night and I have more energy. Even my work seems easier."

Durocher's Pitching Staff Rights Self, Dodgers Start Back Into Thick of Fight

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Slowly but surely, Brooklyn Dodgers are climbing back into the National League pennant race.

The defending circuit champions, after a disastrous start that found them in and out of last place, are in sixth place today, only five games behind the pace-setting New York Giants.

Manager Leo Durocher's pitching staff, which took plenty of beatings in the early going, has suddenly righted itself with big Ralph Branca, Preacher Roe and Joe Hatten leading the way.

Hatten went the route for the second time this season Wednesday night, pitching the Brooks to a 5-3 victory over the fading Cardinals in a night game at St. Louis. The loss was the Cards' sixth straight.

By losing, the Cards dropped 1½ games behind the Giants who trampled the Reds 7-4 in a day game at Cincinnati.

Posts Sixth of Year

Larry Jansen, star Giant right-hander, scattered 11 Red hits in posting his sixth victory of the year. Jansen helped his own cause, driving in three runs on two singles.

The third-place Pittsburgh Pirates also lost ground, falling two games behind the Giants as they bowed 5-1 to Boston Braves in a night game at Pittsburgh.

Johnny Sain held the Pirates to three safeties, one of which was Ralph Kiner's 12th home run of the year in the ninth inning.

In the eighth inning, the Pirates came up with the first National League triple play of the year. With two on, Alvin Dark popped to first sacker Ed Stevens. Stevens stepped on first to double up Phil Masi and then fired the ball to Stan Rojek at second to get Torgeson as he attempted to slide back into the bag.

Indians Drop Decision

In the American League, Cleveland Indians dropped a 2-1 five-hit decision to Rae Scarborough and Washington Senators, but remained seven percentage points ahead of Philadelphia Athletics as the A's also lost 7-3 to Chicago White Sox.

Gil Coan's speed afoot ruined the Indians. Coan singled in the fourth with two out, stole second and scored the first run on Ed Stewart's single.

After the Indians tied the score in the fifth, Coan beat out a bunt in the seventh, moved to second on a sacrifice, to third on an infield out and home with the winning run on Earl Wooten's single.

The last-place White Sox raked Bill Dietrich and Nelson Potter for 11 hits in their night game in Philadelphia while Joe Haynes halted the A's on nine safeties in coasting to his fourth victory.

St. Louis' surprising Browns moved over Detroit Tigers into fourth place as a result of their 3-1 night game triumph over the Red Sox in Boston.

Fred Sanford checked the Sox on seven blows while his mates collected nine off Lefty Mel Parnell.

The Tigers, who now trail the Browns by a game, lost a 1-0 decision to the Yankees in a day game at New York.

Johnny Lindell doubled home pitcher Vic Raschi with the only run of the game in the eighth inning. Raschi yielded just five hits in gaining his sixth straight victory.

Louis Weakening In Determination To Stop Fighting

New York, June 3 — (AP) — Joe Louis is weakening in his determination to retire after the Joe Walcott fight June 23. If he wins and continues, his likely September foe is Gus Lesnevich, the durable light heavyweight king from Cliffside Park, N. J.

The champ isn't looking past Walcott, who came so close to grabbing his heavyweight title last December. However, he is so anxious to dispel reports of his poor condition that he talks of the future.

Writers who watched him weigh in at 216 pounds popped the retirement question.

The answer was evasive, not in the customary Louis fashion.

"I don't know yet whether I'm going to change my mind or not," he said.

That could mean a lot of things but it definitely was a change from his original "This is my last fight" statement.

Lesnevich is in light training for a July 20 bout at London with Freddie Mills. He is scheduled to leave for London June 24, which, by a strange coincidence is the day after the Louis-Walcott go.

If Louis should dump Walcott and announce his retirement had been postponed, many think Gus might miss the boat.

Batting, Gil Hodges, Dodgers—Drove in three of Brooklyn's five runs including the two winning counters with a double as the Dodgers beat St. Louis, 5-3.

Pitching, Vic Raschi, Yankees—Registered his sixth straight victory against one loss as he shut out Detroit, 1-0, on five hits.

N.H.L. Subscribes $30,000 to Build New Hall of Fame

Montreal, June 3 — (CP) — The "Philadelphia Story," or Len Peto's attempt to put a National Hockey League franchise in the Quaker City, held the spotlight at the N.H.L. annual meeting yesterday, and according to word that seeped out of the closed sessions, a definite announcement may be made in a day or two.

The bid of Philadelphia interests, with a claim on the dormant Montreal Maroon's franchise, was made before the governors by Peto.

Wednesday night, President Clarence Campbell only would say: "I have communicated the decision of the governors to Mr. Peto."

Although written confirmation has not been received by Peto of what President Campbell told him, it is understood Peto will immediately consult his associates and decide upon their plans in view of whatever conditions, financial or otherwise, they have been asked to meet.

Little other discussion of major importance was brought up, and the N.H.L. and its six member clubs, set a record by cleaning up business in one day instead of the usual two.

They subscribed $30,000 for construction of an International Hockey Hall of Fame building at Kingston, authorized implementation of a pension plan for retired players and named Chicago as the site of the next all-star game probably the first week in November.

Announcement was made of acceptance of a new trophy — the Art Ross Trophy, presented by Art Ross, vice-president and managing director of the Boston Bruins — to be presented to the leading point scorer of the season.

Brighton Pair High Scorers At Campbellford

Campbellford, June 3 — (CP) —Arthur McConnell and Sam Netley of Brighton, won the men's doubles title in the annual lawn bowling tourney here, with entries from Belleville, Peterborough, Lindsay, Brighton, Madoc and Campbellford competing. McConnell and Netley had 41 plus 4.

Other three games winners were Earl Fox, Stirling and W. Jefferies, Peterborough, tied with 38 each, and Wilfred Price, Belleville, 37, plus 4.

High for two victories were: Walter Wiggins, Campbellford, 41 plus 5, and one victory, H. Freeman of Peterborough, 35 plus 4.

Vancouver, June 3 (CP)—Dollars from the incrative Pacific Coast sport mecca are being tucked into one big billfold to rehabilitate destitute flood victims.

The sportsmen of baseball, softball, golf, lacrosse, boxing and wrestling have agreed enthusiastically to stage a series of benefits in a tremendous fun - raising campaign.

The Vancouver Daily Province says the next few weeks likely will produce the most intensive and colorful panorama of athletic exhibitions in the history of west coast sport.

In fact, it looms as an international demonstration. The Vancouver Sun says British Columbia's golfing Stan Leonard will tramp the fairways with Porky Oliver, U. S. divot - digger, to raise flood dollars.

Problem for Pyle

Here are a few notes for Johnny Greco, king-pin of Canada's boxing welterweights. Don (Vancouver Sun) Carlson writes that unless Greco is a lot worse than the east touts him to be, he need not worry for the present time about Montreal's Joey Pyle.

Pyle decisioned Vancouver's Phil Palmer here recently but had to scrape the bottom of his young bag of tricks, throwing his deficiencies into bold relief.

Carlson said he liked Pyle personally and admired him professionally. He said the ring could use a few more "clean, gentlemanly and wholesome boys like Joey instead of the usual flotsam and jetsom inhabiting the professional rings and ringsides."

Jack (Vancouver Province) Richards was impressed with Pyle. He said the 20-year-old Negro belter "rocked Palmer to his heels every time he landed."

But here's the ironical touch: "If Pyle is not set for Greco, from what Canadian welterweight can he gain the proper experience?"

Louise Suggs Slight Favorite To Beat Donald

St. Anne's-on-the-Sea, Lancs, England, June 3 — (AP)—Louise Suggs of Atlanta, Ga., and Jean Donald of Scotland meet today in the 36-hole final for the British women's golf championship.

They are survivors of three days of gruelling play.

Miss Suggs, 24, United States women's amateur champion, ruled a favorite to retain for her country the trophy won last year by Mrs. Babe Didrikson Zaharias, who later turned professional.

Miss Donald is the 25-year-old twin daughter of a country doctor in North Berwick, Scotland.

Both finalists grooved their shots against icy winds and pouring rain Wednesday to eliminate the final two obstacles barring their paths to the final round.

Miss Suggs had to oust two Americans to advance. She defeated Dorothy Kirby, her hometown rival, on the 20th hole in a quarter-final match and then expelled pretty Dorothy Kielty, Los Angeles, 4 and 2.

Miss Donald defeated two English contenders, Mrs. E. M. Hartley in the quarters and Maureen Buttle in the semi-finals. The margin of both victories was 3 and 2.

South hoisted himself into a small slam contract of six hearts. Opening lead from west was spade queen. With what dummy laid down there did not seem to be a worry of any kind.

Trumps are expected to split two and one in opponent hands. If so, the only loser could be in diamonds. Even this may be saved if a finesse toward the south hand proves successful.

When trick one was taken with spade king, the trump king was laid down. The outlook changed when east played to it. Not a trump was in the east hand. All unseen trumps were in west.

This meant that west had a trump trick. Nothing can be done to prevent it. Consequently a loser in diamonds would wreck the joint hands of the declarer. Can something be done about it?

A careless player would try for the diamond finesse and shrug off his certain defeat. He would resort to the old wheeze about his luck in finding the kings and queens on the wrong side.

The declarer who played this deal did no such thing. He noted that a trick in trumps must be lost. But he also noted that it must be lost to west. From this was planned a cinch play for safety.

Another top trump was cashed. This left west with his lone good trump. Another top spade was cashed. The third south spade was ruffed in dummy. This prepared for a possible spade return.

Then a trump lead forced west into an endplay. A return spade gives dummy a ruff and south a diamond sluff. A return diamond or club is right up the alley to an ace-jack tenace.

In the end, perhaps you know, every endplay pains the foe.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 3 (AP) —Joel McCrea, the California cowhand, is shaping his career as a specialist in movie westerns. And not only because he loves the smell of fresh air and sage brush.

In an expansive mood, he expounded his film theories: 'A solid plot is the essential ingredient of any good movie. It doesn't guarantee success, but without it even the finest treatment can't make a film good.

"That's why I've been doing westerns and will continue to do them. The essence of a western plot. So. I'm sure I've at least got a firm foundation for my films."

Joel cited another reason why he is hewing to horse operas; he has reached a point, he believes where it is not profitable for producers to hire him for comedies or dramas, the success of which is not as certain and surefire as westerns. You must admit the guy is frank.

Senate Approves Many Changes In Racing Bill

Ottawa, June 3 (CP)—The Senate Wednesday approved in principle a bill to increase by two per cent on each race the amount racing associations may retain from Pari-mutuel betting pools.

There was no opposition on second reading. The bill, an amendment to the criminal code, will be referred to the Commons after final reading, expected sometime this week.

Under the bill the percentage deduction which may be retained by racing associations will be nine per cent where the total amount staked or deposited on each race is $20,000 or under. The present allowance is seven per cent.

For each increase of $10,000 up to a total of $50,000 staked or deposited on each race the association may retain eight, seven and six per cent, respectively.

Where the amount staked or deposited is more than $50,000 the percentage deduction will be 9 per cent on the first $20,000; eight per cent on the next $10,000; seven per cent on the next $10,000; six per cent on the next $10,000 and five per cent on the excess. The current allowances are seven, six, five, four and three per cent, respectively.

My Babu Still Favored to Win Derby at Epsom

Epsom, England, June 3 (AP)—Two outsiders, Roaring Forties and Overhead, were scratched yesterday from the Derby, leaving a probable record field of '3 starters for the 169th renewal of Saturday's race.

British, French and American-bred three-year-olds are entered in the 1½-mile race which is acclaimed as the world's greatest. All will carry 126 pounds.

The winner will collect $49,736. This is the largest purse since 1930 when Blenheim won $50,180.

Upwards of half a million persons, including the Royal Family, will spill over the tumbling Epsom Downs and for most it will be a free show. The greater part of the Epsom course is on common ground, and no admission can be charged.

The Derby is listed as a "flat race" but it's anything but that. Epsom Downs rolls uphill and down, a gruelling course that may prove too much for the favorite, My Babu. Last year Pearl Diver, a 40 to 1 French horse, won.

Winner of the two thousand guineas, first of the season's classics, My Babu has been the choice in all pre-race betting.

Second choice is If the Cobbler, mount of the champion jockey Gordon Richards. Although given his selection of horses in recent years, he has yet to seal his fame with a Derby victory.

In addition to My Babu, owned by the Maharaja Gaekwar of Baroda and brought to Britain as a yearling, there are three other French-bred colts in the race. They are My Love, in which the Aga Khan recently bought a half share; Royal Drake, owned by the Paris showman Leon Volterra; and Marcel Boussac's Djeddah.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, June 3 (AP)—Maybe there's no connection, or maybe there's... A minor league baseball manager and a club official were barred for life on charges of gambling and game-throwing ... An item in the Des Moines Register pointed out that Western League players, not on option from a higher-class club, are paid an average of $10 a game... The Eastern College Athletic Conference ruled out playing summer ball in the Vermont Northern League, a resort-hotel circuit, partly because major league clubs were sponsoring some of these teams as "farms."...And Fordham's Jack Coffey commented he had seen a Northern League contract calling for $170 a month, which was "nothing but expenses."

Bernard Deforge, Player-Manager Held by Police

Winston-Salem, N. C., June 3—(AP) — Police Chief John Gold Wednesday night announced arrest of Bernard Deforge, former player - manager in the Carolina Baseball League, on bribery charges.

Gold said the arrest was made after an investigation into game-fixing charges, involving a Winston-Salem - Reidsville game here May 14.

Deforge, former pitcher-manager of the Reidsville Club, was banned from baseball for life Tuesday by the Minor League president, George Trautman. The ban also applied to Ed Weingarten, a club official in the Blue Ridge and Tri-State Leagues.

Gold reported Deforge was released under $1,000 bond.

The banned player came here Wednesday from Reidsville to appear voluntarily before police investigating the gambling and bribery charges.

The banned player was arrested under a 1921 North Carolina law entitled "Protection of the game of baseball."

Wednesday saw the forfeiture of the Leaksville franchise in the class D Blue Ridge circuit. League president Stanley Radke said the action was taken because Weingarten, the owner of the club, had been banned from baseball.

Gold said Wednesday he had evidence which indicated that a gambling syndicate had operated in three North Carolina cities. He said the syndicate had a hand in the throwing of the Reidsville - Winston-Salem game May 14.

Hitler's Blunders Brought Defeat Says Historian

By STUART UNDERHILL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London (CP)—Hitler's famous intuition won some sweeping victories for Germany, but his wrong guesses piled up into defeat, says B. H. Liddell Hart in "The Other Side of the Hill," (Cassell).

Brushing aside the advice of senior generals in the French campaign of 1940, he insisted on the brilliant offensive which tore loose the left wing of the Anglo-French armies. Then he pulled up his troops on the outskirts of Dunkerque, long enough to allow the British Army to make its famous escape.

In Russia, he again ignored the pleas of his generals when they wished to shorten extended lines to meet Russian counter-attacks. No withdrawals were permitted until too late, and the front was crumbling.

Hart's book is based on talks he had with some of Germany's top generals. He reports their views on topics ranging from Russia (they were horrified by the relentless, unemotional Russian form of attack, said the Stalin tank which appeared in 1944 was the best of the war) to Rommel (built up by Hitler as a popular hero, then invited to commit suicide, which he did).

Throughout the book the generals' opposition to Hitler crops up continually. Some of them were brave enough to argue with him, but he was in a position of such overwhelming power most of them swallowed their doubts and dislikes.

Hart gives a lively account of the plotting which led in July, 1944, to an unsuccessful attempt on Hitler's life. Field Marshal von Kluge, in command in the west at the time, is reported as saying "If it had succeeded, his first step would have been to order the discharge of V-1s against England to be stopped, and that his second step would have been to get in touch with the Allied commanders."

Bound by Oath

In explaining their failure to negotiate behind Hitler's back, the generals claimed they were bound by an oath of fealty to him, as well as fear the German people would not support them, and that they would be forever regarded as traitors.

Hart says that in 1943-44 there was considerable disagreement as to where the Allied invasion would come, Hitler eventually guessing correctly that it would be in Normandy. Field Marshal von Rundstedt, who preceded von Kluge, wanted to let the Allies get ashore and then try to sweep them off with a counter-offensive, while Rommel thought efforts should be concentrated on preventing a landing.

"The measure to meet the Allied invasion 'fell between two stools' as the result of the conflict of opinion . . . multiplied by Hitler's tight hands on the reserves," says Hart. "It had more effect in opening the way into France than anything the Allies did to achieve surprise.

In an early chapter entitled "How Hitler Beat France — and Saved Britain," Hart describes the generals' fears over the proposed campaign. It succeeded beyond their most optimistic dreams, hurling huge British and French forces in the Low Countries and permitting a lightning strike through the Ardennes region of France.

"Even while the drive was in progress they were nervous, but gathered heart as it swept ahead. Then, as armored columns were closing in on Dunkerque—ahead of the British—Hitler gave the order to halt. "The German tank commanders had to sit and watch the British slipping away under their very nose."

One general said that Hitler, calling the campaign "a decided miracle," predicted the war would be over in six weeks, and went on to speak admiringly of the British Empire, comparing it with the Roman Catholic church, "saying they were both essential elements of stability in the world." He concluded by saying he wanted to give Britain an honorable peace.

Dieppe Caused Jitters

Some generals told Hart they thought the Dieppe landing by the Canadians in 1942 was merely a raid; others were jittery about it. Lack of air support at Dieppe was said to have encouraged Hitler in his belief that the Allies were not developing airborne forces.

Hitler was curiously indifferent to developing a campaign in the Middle East, says Hart. He adds:

"Cyprus was saved by the price the British made the Germans pay for the capture of Crete. Gibraltar was saved by France's reluctance to let the Germans into Spain. Malta was saved by Hitler's distrust of the Italian navy."

He sums up the Russian campaign, on the basis of the general's evidence, thus:

"Hitler's gamble failed because he was not bold enough. He wobbled for weeks at the critical moment, losing time he could never regain. After that he ruined himself, and Germany, because he could not bring himself to cut his losses."

Field Marshal von Manteuffel, tank expert, gave this opinion of Hitler's final days:

"After the Ardennes failure (in January, 1945), Hitler started a 'corporal's war.' There were no big plans—only a multitude of piecemeal fights. . . .

"Hitler would not hear of (withdrawal). He chose to sacrifice the bulk of his main forces in a hopeless struggle on the west bank of the Rhine."

Viscount Alexander Goes Back to School

Ottawa (CP)—The governor-general is a school-boy. What's more, he's a good one.

Since he arrived in Canada two years ago he has been taking lessons in French twice a week in Ottawa's Joan of Arc Institute, an organization devoted to educational and social services.

His teacher, Rev. Mother St. Thomas, describes him as "one of my best pupils."

His Excellency takes his work seriously. He does whatever home work is assigned and his progress has been exceptional.

Viscountess Alexander also takes French lessons from the Mother Superior.

"She knows the language better than His Excellency but she is not as confident of her ability. He is a real soldier who appreciates his work as he would a tactical problem."

Some time ago Viscount Alexander spoke in French at a convocation exercise at Laval University in Quebec City. Mother St. Thomas listened to him over the radio.

"He spoke clearly and well," she related. "He gave the students much good advice and then told a fable of Lafontaine to illustrate it. I enjoyed that. He had practised it with me during the class. He is interested in Lafontaine and has memorized several of his stories.

Two other members of the governor-general's staff also learn French at the institute. They are Miss Jennifer Bevan, lady-in-waiting, and Flt. Lt. H. W. Keane, an aide-de-camp.

But Mother St. Thomas would rather talk about her star pupil for whom he has an undisguised respect.

"He is a fine man — un bon eleve."

Underground Quake Just Misses Miners

Glace Bay, N.S. (CP)—One of the dangers that beset men who work underground was described by miners from No. 2 colliery here recently.

Gordon Wilkinson and Tom Patrick ran for their lievs when a "severe bump" occurred on the south side of the colliery.

The bump resembled a minor earthquake and was caused by a sudden fracture of the overlying strata. It resulted in a tremendous pressure being exerted on the mine roof and supporting timbers.

The men were thrown violently against the mine wall and a rush of air accompanied by billowing clouds of dust filled the subterranean passageways.

When the two men returned cautiously to the place where they had been working, they found that the two-ton mine car they had been loading was derailed and partly covered with tons of stone.

"We were lucky. You never know when it's going to happen," said Wilkinson.

Army Radio Station Deletes Commercials

Winnipeg (CP)—Life in the extreme north of Canada presents no problem to a person willing to approach socialized changes in an intelligent manner.

This is the view of Lt.-Col. A. J. Tedlie, commandant of Fort Churchill, Man. Col. Tedlie was in Winnipeg recently.

One of the highlights of life in the north, he says, is the absence of commercial plugs on radio programs. He said a new radio station, CHFC, has been opened by the army, which transmits all top-notch programs through transcriptions supplied free by the networks. The commercials are deleted.

"Radio has caught on with the Eskimos in the area. They are almost at the point where every well-furnished igloo has to have one."

N.Z. Incomes Levelling Off

Dunedin, N.Z. (CP)—Figures to show that New Zealand's Labor government has achieved a "levelling off" of incomes in the Dominion since it came into office in 1935 have been given by Finance Minister Walter Nash. Higher-bracket incomes were lower than they were 10 years ago, he declared, and lower incomes were higher.

The number of people receiving between $1,200 and $2,240 a year had more than doubled between 1937 and 1947, he said. Those receiving between $2,240 and $3,200 a year numbered 36 in every 1,000 in 1937, 37 in every 1,000 in 1942 and 46 in every 1,000 in 1947. Of those persons receiving more than $6,400 a year, their average income was $9,890 in 1937, $9,510 in 1942 and $9,190 in 1947.

The people of New Zealand enjoyed the best standard of living in the world, Nash declared. Prices of commodities and essential goods were lower in New Zealand than anywhere else.

Microfilm Record of Early Papers Nears Completion

Ottawa (CP)—Deep in a vault in the Public Archives the Canadian Library Association is moving toward completion of its newspaper microfilming project.

Nor is this job of condensing early Canadian news as easy as some may think.

Since last September Robert Hamilton, chairman of the C.L.A. microfilm committee, and his three-man crew, have been working over editions of 30 representative papers of eastern Canada.

Now they have turned their camera on the western papers, and, running against time, must complete their work inside of a few weeks. The deadline for use of the $15,000 grant, made toward the project by the Rockefeller Foundation ends this spring.

"About 20 more papers remain to be done," said Mr. Hamilton, turning away from a yellowed 1887 edition of the Qu'Appelle Vidette, once published in Qu'Appelle, Sask.

"In many cases, chasing down rare copies of some of these papers has caused us more difficulty than filming them. And often we have found the right edition, but it was too tattered for filming."

Above the whirr of the microfilm machine, he named some of the papers already finished — William Lyon Mackenzie's Colonial Advocate, published in Toronto between 1824 and 1834; the 1811-26 volumes of the Montreal Herald; Louis Riel's Le Metis of St. Boniface, Man., between 1871-1881.

Covers 20 Years.

Then he picked up a spool of film, holding it between thumb and forefinger.

"Three of these are enough to cover 20 years in the life of one of these early newspapers," he said.

In some cases it had been necessary to go outside Canada for missing editions.

At the New York Public Library the committee had come across a volume of the old Upper Canada Gazette.

And in Detroit it discovered the necessary copies of the Voice of the Fugitive, published in 1851-52 at Windsor, Ont., by the escaped negro slaves. As far as Worcester, Mass., it went seeking 1810-18 editions of the Kingston Gazette.

Provincial governments were giving the association valuable assistance in its project, said Mr. Hamilton. In British Columbia, the archives at Victoria was using its own microfilm camera to record early copies of B.C. and Alberta papers.

"I think the results of our work will be of great value to students," he concluded. "It's the first time many of these newspapers have been brought together . . . history students in one part of the country soon will have early papers from another part of the Dominion immediately available whenever needed."

Prices Committee Resumes Study Of Textile Profits

Ottawa, June 3 — (CP)—The Prices Committee returned today to its textile investigation by resuming study of a figure-laden report submitted by chartered accountants who examined cotton companies.

The document, presented by G. S. Knight, is a 13-page report on sales, costs, profits and prices designed to give members an overall picture of the cotton manufacturing industry before they begin public examination of industrial witnesses. It is accompanied by eight lengthy schedules of figures.

The first of the committee's two public sessions on textiles was occupied by introduction of the report; the second by Mr. Knight's explanations of various phases of it. At the end of Wednesday's ession one member left the committee room commenting wryly:

"Well, it's quite an education in chartered accountancy we're getting."

Most committee members so far have appeared content to look at the mass of figures and accept Mr. Knight's explanations.

A marked difference in profits at various times caught the eye of W. R. Thatcher (CCF—Moose Jaw). He pointed out that the report showed five principal companies made profits totalling $56,297,000 in the four years 1940-44 but that in the four following years, when cotton subsidies were paid by the government, their earnings were only $27,986,000. He asked the reason.

"It appears to be because of the profit limitation provisions of the subsidy agreements," Mr. Knight answered.

Women Protest Against Bombing Of Jerusalem

Ottawa, June 3 — (CP) — Protest against the bombing of Jerusalem was made Wednesday night at the annual meeting of the National Council of Women.

It came during discussion of a resolution from the Ontario council urging that the United Nations be asked "to do all in their power" to prevent further destruction of the Holy City.

"I don't know why these sacred things cannot be taken care of," said Mrs. James Roberts of Toronto. "During the war Rome was declared an open city so the religious objects there might be protected."

Employment occupied the attention of the economic group where members learned of the difficulties of older men and women seeking jobs.

Beatrice Brigden of Winnipeg suggested that some of these "over-40" women might have had office experience. At present there was a great demand for office workers.

Mrs. W. R. Lang of Toronto, felt there might be openings for older married women as "temporary housekeepers."

At an earlier meeting on citizenship, it was noted that many of the local councils deplored the failure of Canadians to exercise their municipal franchise. In one large city only 28.87 per cent of the women's vote was polled in the last civic election.

Submitting her report as national convener of child and family welfare, Dr. Phyllis Bradshaw of Windsor, Ont., said the local councils had found that lack of suitable housing was responsible for disrupting many homes.

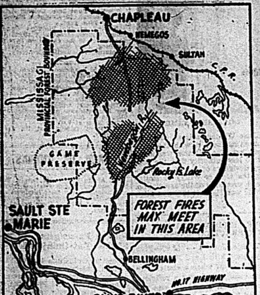
HEAVY RAINS CHECK FIRES IN SOME AREAS



MAP SHOWS FIRE AREAS AND NARROW GAP

Nine great fires are sweeping the tinder-dry north bush of Ontario as well as several smaller ones. The whole country is reported to be "tinder-dry" as 2,000 men battle the flames. Some commercial planes, along with 30 departmental planes, are busily engaged in fighting the flames.

SECOND VOTE WILL BE HELD IN NEWFOUNDLAND

Responsible Government Or Confederation Issue

St. John's, Nfld., June 4 — (CP) — Newfoundland, in its national referendum, tossed out the possibility of any continuance of commission government but as counting of ballots went forward today, it became clear the island people could not make up their minds between instituting responsible government of confederation with Canada.

What will happen now is that a second referendum will be held — the best guess is in two months' time — to give the people a chance to decide between the two top finishers in Thursday's national referendum.

Neither responsible government nor confederation could get the 51 per cent required to win the referendum. Commission government, the third finisher, split the vote three ways so there could be no decisive winner.

Confederate leader Joseph Smallwood said his movement would win the run-off by taking 95 per cent of the commission votes.

At 11.05 a.m. EDT responsible government still was holding a slight edge over confederation forces. Of 146,943 votes counted, 65,991 were for responsible government, 60,147 for confederation and 20,805 for commission government. In percentages this was 44.9 per cent for responsible government, 40.9 for confederation and 14.2 for commission government.

Confederate leader Joseph Smallwood said confederation would take 95 per cent of commission votes in a second poll. He also predicted confederates would win a plurality in the referendum.

One observer said outports wanted confederation and had been denied it by St. John's which voted heavily for responsible government. They would plump even more strongly for confederation in a second referendum. Another observer however said commission government supporters might decide not to vote at all in the next plebiscite.

London — Referendum returns from Newfoundland were read with interest today by government authorities but a spokesman said that no comment is planned on the decision being made by residents of Britain's oldest colony on their future status.

The British government takes the position that whatever Newfoundlanders decide on by ballot will be agreeable to London but it is known that many in the government think that confederation with Canada would be the wisest course.

Fire Destroys 50 Homes In Que. Village, 450 Homeless

St. Victor De Tring, Que., June 4 — (CP) — Fire of unknown origin raced through this village of 450 people at dawn today and destroyed more than two dozen homes before it was brought under control.

By 10.30 a. m. E.D.T. the blaze was under control. Reports said that the fire which broke out in a private home on the main street jumped from one frame house to another.

Without enough fire - fighting equipment to stop it, the people of this village about 70 miles north of Quebec were helpless.

Despite the confusion of evacuation of homes in the path of the fire while fire-fighting crews from neighboring localities raced to the scene, villagers said no lives were lost.

After it had raged for five hours, the blaze finally was halted by crews brought in from the neighboring towns of Beauceville and St. Ephrem De Beauce.

Before they got into action, some 30 houses and stores lining the main street were destroyed, wrecking nearly two-thirds of the village.

COLUMBIA RIVER VALLEY FACES NEW FLOOD CREST

Unbridled Waters Churn Through Newly-Punched-Out Dikes

By WILLIAM PHIPPS

Portland, Ore., June 4 (AP) — Unbridled waters churned today through newly-punched-out dikes on the northwest United States' far-flung flood front.

Reinforcements rushed to soggy dikes along the lower Columbia river's shores in Oregon and Washington as the massive flow of the big river threatened to widen its most destructive 1,200-mile surge to the Pacific.

The fresh flood crest was mounting in the Columbia, far up in the mountains. The Snake river, main Columbia tributary, also was rising.

Estimates from qualified sources soared to $110,000,000 for the Columbia in Idaho and the lower valley in Oregon and Washington; $30,000,000 for the Fraser. The death toll was 21 on the Columbia, two on the Fraser.

On the lower Columbia, more troops and civilians hurried into danger areas to aid weary workers who have spent days strengthening scores of weakening dikes againts the river's savage onslaught.

Only One Dike Good

Army and navy men were helping hundreds of civilians in the 12,000-acre Clatskanie area, which engineers said was in "very critical condition." Only one of the nine dikes in this Oregon area 50 miles from the river's mouth was good.

Across the river in Washington State, the situation in the Longview-Kelso area 65 miles up-river was almost as bad. Nearly 5,000 men, including 100 fresh soldiers labored on soggy dikes each day. Their schedule called for laying 100,000 sandbags each day.

Elsewhere along the lower river, the dikes were holding their own or the situation was improved over Thursday.

The crest of the new flood, expected in the hard-hit Portland area Monday, was beginning to swell both the Columbia and the Snake.

At Grand Coulee Dam, most massive structure yet built by man, the Columbia's rate of flow hit a record late Thursday night —534,650 cubic feet a second.

The Snake rose more than a foot Thursday at Lewiston, Idaho, but veteran Columbia forecasters said they do not expect the new crest to equal the height of the old one.

Dr. A. H. Kennedy of the college staff discussed the salmonella infection in mink, and Dr. E. R. Browness of Toronto told of critical factors in shed construction for mink.

U.S. Flights Between Germany, Middle East for Practice Purposes

By JAMES DEVLIN

Frankfurt, June 4 — (AP) — Flights of American B-29 Superfortresses between Germany and the Arab world are in almost daily occurrence.

Many a person has asked: — What does this mean? Does the United States expect to get involved in warfare in the Middle East? Is it a plan to familiarize United States airmen with that area?

Air force officials say "No." They say the object is nothing more than "navigational flight training." The Germany - African - Middle East route is favored because it offers some of the best "all-terrain, all-weather" practice in the world.

Airmen explain it this way:

A modern airforce, to justify itself, must be able to operate anywhere over the globe. The crews must become proficient in long hops under varied conditions. Bases to accommodate aircraft as large as the B-29s are few and available pracicett available practice routes consequently are limited.

In this situation, the 3,600-mile run from Furstenfeldbruck, Germany, to Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, is virtually ideal.

The fliers first get Transatlantic experience in bringing their craft from the United States. Then, almost immediately after taking off from Furstenfeldbruck for Africa, they are faced with a high-altitude problem in clearing the Alps.

They get more over - water practice in crossing the Mediterranean and, on the run to Dhahran, the last leg is flown over a blazing hot desert.

The runs to Dhahran were suspended May 24 because of "unsettled conditions" — meaning warfare — in the Middle East. The air force did not want either battling faction to get the idea the flights were intended to support or intimidate one side or the other.

The need for giving fliers varied weather and terrain experience was noted during the war. A man who trained over the prairies for instance, four on arriving in Europe that he was up against something new — fog over England, changeable weather, sudden storms and high hills in Germany

It Is Your Duty to Vote

On Monday June 7 the voters of the Province of Ontario will have the opportunity and responsibility of going to the polls and casting their votes in the provincial general election.

This is the great privilege that is given the citizens so that they may have their share in the election of the Government to administer the affairs of this important Province of the Dominion for the next few years. It is a privilege won at great cost by our forefathers and is a privilege which must be exercised by all in the interest of the best possible and most representative government.

Yet in every election, municipal, provincial and federal, there are great numbers who neglect or fail to register their votes. Yet, not to vote is unfair to the voter himself or herself and is unfair to others who do cast their ballots as well as to the Government elected and to the Province.

Accordingly it rests on the individual voter to see that he or she goes to the polling booth and casts the ballot which represents the voter's stand on issues before the public at this time.

This duty of voting is the basic responsibility of the citizen under British democracy. On the total of ballots rests the elected government. After the election those who are elected have the total of votes cast by which to guide them. Voters who have failed to register their franchise therefore leave themselves unheard and those who support the same cause as they do also unsupported. No doubt those who do fail to exercise the great privilige of the franchise by which our freedom expresses itself would be the first to complain if for any reason they did not have the opportunity to vote.

Hence every citizen should vote and have his or her expression of opinion on the matters under discussion and in the administration of public affairs.

The ballot is precious. It has come down from long centuries of progress and development of liberty and is the basis of our freedom.

That the vote should be as nearly complete as possible is admitted by everyone.

A very heavy vote is what is desired so that there may be the full expression of the people's voice in public affairs. A heavy vote means stability and is essential to good government.

The right to vote is the most cherished possession of every citizen. That implies the duty of every citizen to exercise that right.

360 Persons Caught On Flooded Branston Island Are Evacuated

Vancouver, June 4 — (CP) — The navy reported today "most" of the 360 persons caught on flooded Barnston Island, 20 miles east of here, have been evacuated to nearby Port Kells.

The tiny island was practically swallowed up by the surging Fraser River which crumbled saturated dikes Thursday night.

The first contingent to be delivered from the uncurbed waters were 70 women and children. Some concern had been felt for the 290 persons remaining as the saucer-like island was expected to be completely inundated.

The marooned had included 85 army and navy personnel who had been assisting civilians in holding the cracked, water-logged barriers. Col. J. Toogood, commander of the 13th Armored Regiment and of this flood sector, was among the victims.

The evacuation was carried out at the opposite end to the levee break when swirling waters pushed the weary troop of men, women and children to the island's edge.

Persons remaining on the island were believed only navy and army personnel assisting in salvaging some of the islander's possessions.

Late Thursday night, when it was learned that dikes in the northeast corner of the triangular-shaped island had been swept away by the wild Fraser, the navy dispatched a naval tug, a large harbor craft and four civilian vessels to the rescue.

The island— 2 3-4 miles long and 1 1-2 miles wide—had earlier been considered unsafe and many of its residents were taken off.

Red Cross Assists

At New Westminster, B. C., the Red Cross were waiting on the jetty to receive the stricken islanders.

The Barnston Island collapse followed an earlier break at Hatzig Lake, 45 miles east of here, which tore the largest section out of slowly-weakening dikes since the flood's start.

Princess Elizabeth Expecting Birth of Baby in Mid October

London, June 4. (Reuters) — Buckingham Palace officially disposed tonight that Princess Elizabeth, 22-year-old heiress presumptive to the throne, is expecting a baby.

The announcement said the Princess would undertake no further engagements after June —traditional formula for announcing an impending birth in the royal family.

It was expected the child would be born about the middle of October. It will be second in line of succession to the throne of its grandfather, The King.

Today's announcement comes six months and 15 days after the wedding of the princess to the 27-year-old Duke of Edinburgh—an event which brought a brief, exciting day of color to the sombre tones of post-war Britain and stirred world imagination.

Rumored for Months

Strong rumors had been circulating in Britain and overseas for the last three months that the Princess is pregnant.

The position of children born to Princess Elizabeth is not altered by the fact that she is heiress presumptive to the throne, as the law does not exclude the possibility of the birth of a son to the King.

Princesses do not transmit any titles to their children. There is therefore, no title provided for the children of Princess Elizabeth until after her succession to the throne.

When this occurs, if she should have sons, the eldest would automatically become the Duke of Cornwall in the peerage of England and the Duke of Rothesay in the peerage of Scotland.

Her other children would be princes and princesses.

COMMONS CLEARS HEALTHY CHUNK OF BUSINESS

Morning Sittings Will Start on Wednesday

Ottawa June 4 (CP) — The Commons cleared the order paper of a healthy chunk of business Thursday as the drive for a June 30 prorogation spurted ahead.

Acting after Prime Minister Mackenzie King served notice of a motion to sit mornings starting next Wednesday the chamber gave third and final reading to the final following legislation:

1. A bill bringing the set-up of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics up to date.
2. A bill revising the administration of the Excise Act.
3. A bill amending the Canada Evidence Act to make a husband or wife a "competent of compellable" witness in court cases involving juvenile delinquency.
4. A bill amending the Judges Act to eliminate a $500 allowance formerly granted Nova Scotia divorce judges.

In addition, second reading was given a bill amending the Customs Act to conform with undertakings given at a United Nations Conference on trade and employment.

A start was made on consideration of estimates for the post office department.

Highlight of the House opening was an announcement by Mr. King that the government is ready to extend financial aid to British Columbia for her relief, rehabilitation and restoration of the flood stricken areas.

Transport Minister Chevrier announced the railroads have decided to reduce from 75 to 50 cents the minimum express charges on crated egg shipments in western Canada. The rate was boosted from 35 to 75 cents a crate March 30.

Still Studying Report

Justice Minister Ilsley said he does not know whether prosecutions will be launched against alleged combines in Canada's Optical trade. His department still is studying a report from the Combines Investigation Commissioner.

Declares Russia 'Has Nothing In Military Might'

Sydney, Australia, June 4 — (Reuters) — Joseph J. Maloney, Australian minister in Moscow from 1943 to 1946, told the Democratic Freedom Union here Thursday that Russia "has nothing as far as military might is concerned" and "I am convinced that in a showdown with the great powers, the Soviet would not be in the race. With technical and mechanical equipment she is a long way behind us."

RED PRESS FEATURES SLASH

Berlin, June 4 (AP) — Russian controlled newspapers in Berlin gave big front page headlines today to news of a proposed slash in European recovery program funds by the United States Congress.

For the last several months these newspapers have been carrying on a propaganda campaign against the Marshall recovery plans. They have charged the United States will not live up to promises of aid.

Stately London Times Regrets Young Lack Basic Training on Bannisters

London, June 4 — (AP)—The stately Times mused for half a column today on the report that Miss Florence E. Dolph of Dunmore, Pa., slid down a bannister before breakfast on her recent 101st birthday.

"It is difficult to resist the feeling we have been told either too much or too little" about how she spent her birthday, the editorial said.

"We have no vestige of right to assume she spent the rest of the day in a rocking chair; she is far more likely to have been crouched over the controls of a helicopter, and if she was we ought to have been told about it . . .

"We do not even know whether she adopted the forward seat or whether she slid astride or sidesaddle. These points are of more than academic importance to devotees of this exhilarating sport...

"On the whole, bannister-sliding in a lost accomplishment, and it is sad to think of the vast majority of the younger generation of this country growing up with none of that basic early training in the sport which is so essential if you intend to adopt this means of progression on your 101st birthday."

Hazard Still High, Two Major Blazes Out of Control

Heading for Rich Timber Two-to-Three-Mile Gap

(By The Canadian Press)

Heavy overnight rains in some parts of northern Ontario brought a measure of relief to the 2,000 weary men fighting forest fires.

But the hazard still is high and the battle far from won. Heavy rain blanketing the entire danger area is needed to check the flames.

Major blazes in the Mississagi and Chapleau districts — called the biggest and costliest in Ontario history — still are out of control.

In Sault Ste. Marie, however, district forester A.W. Leman relayed from Provincial air service pilots the word that a two-to-three mile gap still exists between the big fires.

For days, because of dense smoke, it has been uncertain whether the two were linked.

High Humidity

Coupled with Thursday night's showers was a generally high humidity. In Toronto, the chief of the forest protection division of the Provincial lands department said the over-all picture is brighter than at any time in the last several days.

Neither of the two big infernos —which have sent a mass of roaring flame and billowing smoke over more than 100,000 acres — "ran" Thursday, said T. E. Mackey. Lightning however, caused some new small outbreaks.

Earlier today, prior to Mr. Leman's report from the Sault, Mr. Mackey had reiterated there was no official confirmation of reports that the Mississagi and Chapleau fires were joined, creating a single giant fire 72 miles long.

The overnight rain was a big help in the Timmins area, where a 5,000-acre fire has wiped out a sawmill and part of a lumber camp. Foresters said they hope to have the flames quenched by tonight, thanks to the rain.

The Timmins-district fire damaged a camp of the Carr Timber Company, Wednesday and raced up the heavily-wooded slopes of Mount Kamiscotia to devastate a rangers' lookout post atop on 85-foot observation tower. Also destroyed was the cottage of Ranger John Hall. At one point the flames were within ten miles of Timmins.

Rain also brought reports that firefighters now are "holding" an 1,800-acre blaze in the Kirkland Lake district. It raced out of control late Wednesday. Two planes—one a government craft, the other a chartered plane—have made some 40 trips during the last 36 hours, shuttling men and equipment to the fire scene. The fire, in the northern corner of Teck township, is believed to have been started by fishermen prior to the ban on non-essential travel in the bushlands.

PARTY LEADERS NEAR TRAIL'S END OF ONT. ELECTION

Federal Speakers Interjected Into the Campaign for First Time

Toronto, June 4 (CP) — The leaders of Ontario's three major political parties today were within sight of the end of the long campaign trail which started nearly seven weeks ago with the calling of an Ontario election June 7.

With only two more days left for campaigning, all three were on the hustings Thursday night. Three prominent men from the Federal field joined in the speech making.

Premier Drew spoke at Toronto and Barrie, Ontario Liberal leader Farquhar Oliver at Windsor and E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario C. C. F. leader, near Toronto.

The Federal speakers were Finance Minister Abbott, who addressed an Oshawa gathering; M. J. Coldwell, National C.C.F. leaderr, spoke at the Jolliffe meeting; and J. M. Macdonnell, head of the National Progressive Conservative Association, made a speech at Bracebridge.

Premier Drew told a gathering that by refusing to accept Federal taxation offers his government saved Ontario from two "burdensome and unfair" taxes.

Why Offer Turned Down

He said the federal government insisted that the provinces agree to two new forms of taxes to provide money for payments for health and welfare measures. One was a flat five-per-cent income tax on all earnings, without exemption or deduction. The other was a $12 poll tax for every person over 16.

A man with two children and earnings $2,000 a year would have had to pay $148 over his regular taxes if the Dominion offer had been accepted, he said.

May Had Slightly More Rain Than In Previous Year

People who complain about the weather have short memories. That is they forget that however bad the weather has been, it might have been equally as bad the year previous.

Take the month of May for instance. A great many people complained about the dull weather and amount of rainfall, but a year ago in May there was more rain.

Statistics kept at the local water filtration plant show that in the month just past there were 3.48 inches of rain while in May, 1947, there were 3.92 inches. Otherwise there was a very definite similarity. The high temperature for last month was 75 degrees with a low of 32, while a year ago the high was 73 and the low 27. Mean temperature for both months was 52 degrees and there was precipitation on 18 days in both periods.

Degree days — the number of degrees the family living room has to be increased in temperature to make it comfortable — were also similar. Last year it was 413 degree days and this year 399.

TWO YOUNGSTERS LOST IN BLAZE

"I could hear Sandra asking me to get her out," said Mrs. Lorne Robinson, shown here with Mr. Robinson and Bonnie. Five-year-old Sandra Robinson was burned to death in a chicken coop in Guelph, Ont., while playing with two other children. Playmate Paul Harris, 4, also lost his life in the blaze. Bonnie Robinson was with Sandra and Paul but was pushed to safety by her playmates. The children had been using the chicken coop as a playhouse.

HAZARD STILL HIGH

The hazard still is "very high" in the North Bay sector, where six new fires have been reported since yesterday, bringing the district total to 12. Ashes from railway locomotives are thought to have caused five small blazes in Commanda and Beaucage townships and one-acre blazes in Apineau and Merris townships.

Small Fires Watched

A 25-acre fire is being patrolled in Falconer Township, South of Lake Nipissing's West Bay. Small fires in Mattawan, Askin, Coleman, Phelps and Gibbons townships also are being watched.

Lands Minister Scott arrived today in Sault Ste. Marie to help direct the desperate battle throughout the northland.

Mr. Leman said Air Service planes are continuing to fly men and equipment into the Mississagi-Chapleau front. Smoke now prevents aircraft from landing on Peshu Lake, 90 miles north of Blind River, where the temporary battle headquarters had been established.

He said the Mississagi blaze has swept east of Kindiogami Lake for the first time.

In the Mississagi area where 350 men are using 20 fire pumps and bulldozer equipment, crews moved in today along the south and east side of the main fire where they have not been able to approach before. Five new fires were reported in the Sault Ste. Marie area but crews are at work on all of them.

Worries Added to Crews

Two new lightning fires added to the worries of crews battling the 50,000 acre blaze in the Chapleau area where the hazard continued high due to insufficient rain. About 100 men fought a 150-acre fire at Panet township but there was no smoke seen coming from an outbreak on Township 11-D Thursday night.

For the first time in several days no fires were reported from The Sudbury district and officials there believed the improved situation might have been brought about due to the closing of the vast northern area to all non-essential travel.

Nine small lightning fires broke out in the Kenora area and details were lacking on six fires burning near Sioux Lookout.

While officials were encouraged by the weather change they agreed that only a soaking, three day rain will check the Blind River fires which sent a tremendous volume of smoke nearly 2 miles upward. A haze hangs over communities along the northern shore of Lake Erie and Ontario more than 200 miles south of the big blaze.

Lewis Ordered To Bargain With Southern Assoc.

Washington, June 4 — (AP) — John L. Lewis today was ordered to bargain with the Southern Coal Producers' Association or possibly face another fine for contempt of court.

Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough, who twice has fined Lewis and his United Mine Workers for contempt, issued the order.

Robert N. Denham, general counsel for the National Labor Relations Board, had asked that Lewis be directed to enter contract talks with the Association, headed by Joseph E. Moody.

The Judge said that it was apparent from the record that Lewis did not want to bargain with the Southern Association because he wanted to "destroy" it.

He suggested that the U. M. W. chief might desire to bring about the destruction of the Southern Association "because it is harder to deal with" a single unit than with representatives of the 14 smaller associations through the south which make up the Association.

Unreasonable Attitude

"Certainly it's unreasonable in this present case for the union to say "we're entitled to one representative for 99 units and the Southern Producers Association is not entitled to one representative for 14 associations," he continued.

"That is not only not logical, but it is not reasonable," the Judge said.

New contract talks between coal operators and Lewis broke down May 18 when Lewis refused to consent to Moody sitting at the conference table as the Association's representative.

The soft coal contract expires June 30, allowing less than a month for the operators and Lewis to make a new agreement.

More than one-third of the United States' soft coal is produced by the groups making up the Southern Association.

Operators Stand By

The coal operators were standing by, ready to resume contract talks.

Lewis now has his choice of including the Southern Association in the bargaining talks or facing another fine for contempt of court.

Goldsborough is the judge who twice already has fined Lewis and the U. M. W. a total of $2,130,000 for contempt of court. Previous contempt charges arose when Lewis and his union ignored court orders requiring them to end coal strikes.

Fittingly enough, her ticket is on a horse named Dramatic. Her ticket number is 25605.

Miss Pearson has another "big event" on her mind. She will be married to John Jeffries of Stratford June 26.

CHINESE REDS REACH CONFUCIUS BIRTH PLACE

Nanking, June 4 (AP)— Advance units of Chinese Communists pushing into Shantung Province have reached the birth place of Confucius at Chufou, a government military spokesman reported today.

Government planes sought to disperse Communists gathering around Tsinan for a possible assault on the Shantung capital city.

Many Tsinan residents were reported fleeing by air, the only safe outlet. Word reaching here said plane tickets to Tsingtao were being sold on the black market for almost 100 times the official cost.

Challenges Claim On Labor Laws

Regina, June 4 (CP)—Labor Minister Williams of Saskatchewan today challenged Premier George Drew's claim that Ontario labor laws were far ahead of those in Saskatchewan.

Mr. Williams said in a prepared statemnet that the medium wage in Saskatchewan cities was higher than that in Ontario and most of Saskatchewan workers had a 44-hour week with no reduction in take-home pay while the Ontario work week was 48 hours.

"In Saskatchewan the law provides for two weeks holidays with pay for all except agricultural workers and pay for eight statutory holidays," he said. "Ontario legislation calls for only one week's holidays with pay and nothing for statutory holidays.

Workmen's compensation in Saskatchewan is 75 per cent of earnings together with payment for the three-day waiting period if the injured workman is off more than three days. In Ontario it is 67 per cent of earnings and the workman loses entirely the first three days of injury."

Premier Drew's statement was made in a campaign speech at Kitchener.

Value of Odor In Boosting Sales

Chicago, June 4 (AP)—Smells sell — so a Chicago mail order house is considering odorizing its merchandise to boost sales.

Robert D. Stecker, vice-president and merchandise manager of Spiegel, the mail order house, puts it this way:

"Smell is a natural selling aid. Recent tests have shown that women will pick up one pair of hose rather than another when one has a pleasant scent. Questioned, they do not realize why they made the choice.

"Bread wrapped in wax paper smelling of fresh baking sent sales soaring in another case."

MOTHER NEGLECTED BABY

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., June 4 — (CP) — Gino Pezzuto was sentenced Thursday to six months and his wife Roxy to six months suspended sentence on charges of neglect arising out of the death of their child Rena. Medical witnesses said the child had died from violent vomiting and serious infection arising from a brain injury, and that her condition indicated she had been neglected for 10 days.

Presbyterian Ch. Expansion Seen In West Canada

By KEN BOTWRIGHT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, June 4 — (CP)—Progress in Presbyterian Church mission work in Canada was reported at Thursday night's session of the church's 74th General Assembly.

Third-day sittings of the Assembly today will consider reports from the treasurer and auditor. Some 220 delegates from all parts of the Dominion are attending the conference, which started June 2, and will continue until June 20.

Expansion of the church throughout Western Canada has been "very encouraging," said Rev. J. Alan Munro of Saskatoon, superintendent of Western Missions.

Mr. Munro said new churches were either built or being built in Edmonton and Calgary, Saskatoon and Yorkton, Sask., and in several Manitoba centres.

He stressed that the western church needs more ministers and more financial assistance.

Growth of a Presbyterian-Hungarian-Canadian parish at Delhi, near Woodstock, was described by Rev. Laszlo Borsay.

He came to Southwest Ontario's tobacco district from Hungary last year to minister to his fellow countrymen.

When he first arrived, Hungarian-Canadians had no Presbyterian Church and no services. He rented churches at Delhi and at Tillsonburg, some 20 miles southwest of Woodstock.

Today the Delhi congregation is the biggest protestant congregation in that town. It still worships in a rented Baptist church, hoping for a new one "with a Hungarian spire, with bells in it." Some members drive 60 miles to attend Sunday services.

But under Mr. Borsay, parishioners have remodelled a garage into a parish hall, purchased a $10,000 manse and organized a Young People's Club.

"My people have their roots in Canada and feel they are Canadians," he said.

Business Man Plays Cupid To Young Couple

New York, June 4. (AP)—A fortyish Cupid smoothed the way from Ellis Island to the altar for a pretty French woman yesterday.

The woman, 41-year-old Georgette Bertaud, a war widow, late today married her fiance, Private Graydon Moffitt, 34.

The bride arrived last Thursday on the Queen Elizabeth.

Moffitt did not arrive from his post at Fort Jackson, S.C., in time to meet her, and she was sent to Ellis Island.

He was told he would have to post a $500 bond for her release, but he couldn't raise the money.

Then James Mont, 44, a widowed furniture designer, read about their plight. He put up the $500 bond for the bride-to-be. Bought a Tiffany wedding ring, a gown, and orchids for the bride, a carnation for the groom and a bottle of champagne. Arranged for the couple's licence and arranged for a minister.

Later this afternoon, Mont became best man. He is turning the apartment over to the Moffitts for a two-day honeymoon. His only instructions: "Just be happy".

Child is Rescued From Canal Lock

Peterborough, June 4 (CP)—Five-year-old Marlene Good had a narrow escape from drowning Wednesday night when she fell into the 10-foot deep water of lock 19 on the Trent Canal.

Captain William Copperthewaite, 64, skipper of the tug Katchiwano happened to be passing nearby. When he heard the screams of the child's mother he ran to the side of the lock and dived in and rescued her as she was going down for the third time.

NEW KIND OF HEARING AID

Transmits
2 TO 6 TIMES MORE SOUND INTENSITY

Look again at the picture! Here is a hearing aid complete in one unit so small it fits the tiny watch pocket of a man's trousers! A new Beltone record!

Made possible by a new kind of "silver circuit," combining 45 parts and connections into one moistureproof, trouble-free unit.

Yet, the receiver transmits 2 to 6 times more sound intensity than any of 12 other hearing aids tested. Twice as much as even the former Beltone model! This is far more sound intensity than you probably need—or even can stand!

But note this: it means almost unbelievable clarity with the power turned way down. This means glorious hearing comfort. And cuts operation cost to a new low—less than a penny an hour.

"C"-DAY

JOIN THE CRUSADE AGAINST CANCER

"C" DAY represents the day when man has finally conquered Cancer. No one knows just when that blessed day will come — but, come it will. Everything and anything that is done, individually and collectively to bring "C" DAY one precious second nearer means millions of lives will be saved.

You can play a part in bringing "C" DAY nearer. Join the Crusade against Cancer. Become a member of the Canadian Cancer Society. A donation of 1.00 or more makes you a member which entitles you to be placed on the mailing list to receive all pamphlets and literature sent out. Be ready when your Volunteer Canvasser calls. The funds derived will be used for distribution of literature, films and educational material designed to help conquer the fear of cancer, and bring to people the need of knowing how to detect the symptoms of Cancer. Statistics prove that three out of ten of those doomed to die of cancer can be saved, if their symptoms are recognized and treated in the earlier stages.

Your friends and neighbors are giving their valuable time in canvassing and working to put this drive over. Help them — Help Yourself — Help to Conquer Cancer. EVERY DOLLAR AND EVERY MEMBERSHIP BRINGS US ONE STEP NEARER TO OUR GOAL — "C" DAY.

Britons' View

The question of the abolition of the death penalty is not settled yet in Britain for the House of Lords has opened up the question by rejecting the Criminal Justice Bill. It is recalled that the Commons on a free vote in which [illegible] abstained and in which there were no party lines the bill was carried by 23 majority out of 407 votes cast. Among the opponents of the bill in the House of Commons had been the Prime Minister and the former Prime Minister Mr. Churchill. In the interim the question has [illegible] much [illegible], the opposition to removal of the penalty of hanging upon conviction of murder being very marked in letters to the press and in polls of public opinion. The bill now goes back to the Commons from the Lords without the clause removing the penalty of death. The expressed opinion of the people so far as heard is considered as opposed to so radical a change as the lifting of the penalty of death in cases of murder convictions.

Forest Fires

Great potential and actual national wealth has been threatened by the greatest fires in the history of the forest areas of the northern part of the Province of Ontario. Unless one has known of fire on such a scale from actual experience. One is of course unable to grasp how disastrous such a conflagration can be in the possible risk of life and destruction of a national heritage.

It takes such figures as were revealed yesterday to the people, 2,000 men actively fighting the fires and 30 planes at work in the struggle to conquer the fires threatening a vast area, to bring home to the public the nature of the menace.

The ban on all but essential travel in the vast forest area in which the outbreaks have been reported serves a double purpose, it offsets possibility of new outbreaks starting and removes the danger of travellers unaccustomed to the forest lands being trapped.

Unemployment Insurance

During the past fiscal year from April 1, 1947 to March 31, 1984, employers and workers contributed to the National Unemployment Insurance Fund $83,870,834. the Government's contribution being $16,366,040, says a statement of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, Ottawa. At the end of the year, the number of employers with workers insured was 189,799 and the number of insurance books issued to workers stood at 3,407,737.

Paid out during the month of March alone was the sum of $6,629,826, the beneficiaries numbering nearly 155,000. In the year 722,484 placements were made by the National Employment Service. There were 14,139 handicapped persons placed and the number of veterans placed in employment during the year 1974-1948 numbered 169,802.

Movement of farm workers, in the harvesting successfully of crops last year involved approximately 12,000 persons. People were moved across the international border to assist in potato picking, pulpwood cutting and tobacco picking.

In the last calendar year, 3,750 persons were placed in employment by the Executive and Professional Division of the N.E.S. and summer employment was found for about 30,000 students.

New Industries for Uganda

The prospect for cheap power afforded by the Juga Dam project, has led to plans for a wide variety of new industries in Uganda. Chief among these are textiles, fertilizers, and cement, and there is also talk of increased development of copper and bauxite deposits, and tobacco growing and curing.

Negotiations at present under way between the Uganda Electricity Board, the contracting engineers, and the Egyptian authorities are proceeding so satisfactorily that it is expected the Juga scheme will be in operation by 1952. The cost of the new scheme will be in the neighborhood of £6,000,000 ($24,000,000) at present prices. Power will be cheap, the estimated cost being 4 cents a unit for plants working a 12-hour day, and 1½ cents a unit in the case of continuous process plants. This is made possible by the stable flow of water of the Victoria Nile at Juga, just above the Owen Falls. The present cost of electricity in Uganda is between 17 and 20 cents a unit. Output of the project is expected to provide for a demand of 120,000 kilowatts.

Apart from the increase in industrial activity made possible by the scheme, Uganda would also benefit from raised economic and social standards. The provision of electricity over an area 300 miles square might revolutionize African living conditions, says United Kingdom Information Service.

A Bulge Next to the Heart

A news item tells of a young convict about to be released from prison the other day. A suspicious bulge in his new civilian clothes caused four guards, whom he resisted desperately, to try to search him. After a stiff struggle, they found concealed on him — a sheaf of poems he had written in prison, says Christian Science Monitor.

It is our opinion that many a burly bosom will feel a secret pang of sympathy with the young struggler. Is there a man, be he ever so crude, be he ever so clever, who has not at one time in his life moved by some strange, irresistible flood of emotion, forsaken his better judgment and written a "poem."

We know of bankers and teamsters who would rather mount the scaffold than admit that somewhere among their possessions, almost forgotten but secretely cherished, is a bit of limping rhyme, liberally studded with thee's and thou's, with faded cliches and marvelously mixed metaphors. Only to the most intimate friend or sympathetic stranger in a moment of sudden weakness will the treasure be revealed, perhaps after half a lifetime, with the shamefaced question, "Is it any good?"

And knowing that to the writer these are the most beautiful words ever written, that they are music and fire and the beating of wings, that they reach toward that inexpressible wonder which even the greatest poets have only been able to suggest, what can one say but "Yes, it is good?"

Pageantry

A stately procession which emerged from the Tower of London recently and marched in a circle around it left in its wake a trail of bewildered spectators.

Naturally, they were curious when they saw about 40 photographers pursuing the Chief Warder of the Tower leading two lines including young choristers, gold-gartered Yeoman Warders, the Yeoman Gaoler with axe of office, the Governor, and the Chaplain of the Tower. But interest turned to astonishment when the Chief Warder was suddenly heard to cry, "Whack it, boys, whack it" — and, delightedly obedient, the choristers began belaboring the ground with the white willow-wands they carried.

A party of wide-eyed Frenchmen quickly gave up the unequal struggle to understand, but the more persistent discovered that they were beating the bounds of the Tower Liberty.

This disconcerting ceremony, first recorded in 1555, is now held every three years. Thirty-one times the Chief Warder gave his "Whack it" order; the Tower Chaplain repeated "Cursed be he that removes his neighbor's landmark"; and the children, their enthusiasm (like their wands) dwindling towards the end, set about the numbered stones.

Seated followers who did not last the course missed the most picturesque boundary stone of all. No. 31, immediately under Tower Bridge, is lapped by the Thames, and the boys — surplices and all — would have stayed to fish, given half a chance.—Manchester Guardian.

WHY THE CURTAIN?

When a counterfeiter works,
Dark the room in which he lurks.
'Gainst discovery care he takes;
It is spurious coin he makes.

When a better thing is made,
Its inventor, unafraid,
Brings it out in public view,
Saying: "See what it will do."

"Come and try it and behold
This improvement on the old.
I am showing it with pride.
Test it first and then decide."

If a tyrant's way be clean,
Why the curtain and the screen?
If it's better than our own,
Why afraid to have it shown?

Washington Spotlight:

Seventh Time in U.S. History Vice-Pres. Putinto WhiteHouse

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, June 4 (AP) — A little more than three years ago the United States was tragically reminded that the man elected for the comparatively insignificant job of vice-president is the head of the nation when a president dies.

It was the seventh time in the nation's history that death thrust a vice-president into the top White House job. Leaving out Harry Truman on whom history has still to pass judgment, only one of the seven entered into that select group of "great" presidents —Theodore Roosevelt.

But, traditionally, the vice-presidential candidate has been picked with little apparent thought that, if elected, he would be only a heart-beat away from the presidency.

So it is this presidential election year. All interest is concentrated on selection of a presidential candidate, in both the Republican and Democratic parties.

It is not true in the third party organized by Henry Wallace. He is the presidential candidate and Senator Glen Taylor of Idaho (Dem.) is his chosen running mate.

This week a poll was being taken of Washington correspondents seeking their forecast of the man who would be chosen to run on the Democratic ticket with President Truman.

Some veteran correspondents confessed they could not hazard an intelligent guess but could name only the man they would like to see nominated.

The Republican party, which must make up its mind at the convention opening June 21 in Philadelphia, is litle better off. There are plenty of candidates for presidential nomination but few if any of them are willing to accept second place.

This lack of interest arises from a number of reasons. Probably most important is the tradition that the man nominated to run for president should be allowed to indicate to the convention managers whom he wants for running mate.

Another reason is that, in spite of the fact that seven presidents moved to that office from the vice-presidency because of death or assassination, the job is looked upon as purely ornamental.

The practice is to pick a man who is in a position to help deliver the vote for his party. Also he must come from a state somewhat removed from that of the presidential candidate. Lastly, he must be technically qualified to hold office of president if that should become necessary.

Chief Justice Provisional Pres. For10-WeekTerm

Asuncion, Paraguay, June 4 — (AP)—Chief Justice Juan Manuel Frutos began a 10-week term as Paraguay's Provisional President today, replacing deposed President Higinio Morinigo.

Morinigo, "strong-man" president since 1940, was forced out Thursday in a bloodless coup effected by the army. His cabinet resigned with him.

Frutos will hold office until Aug. 15, when president-elect Juan Natalicio Gonzalez is to be inaugurated. The army said it acted to insure Gonzalez' inauguration.

First news of the deposing of Morinigo came Thursday morning when the government announced hs resignation at the request of "the armed forces and the people."

Asuncion residents, long used to wars and revolutions, got a hint of trouble the evening before, when strong police patrols and troops appeared on the streets. Telephone service was cut.

The army communique said the action was started when Morinigo tried to remove Capt. Rodriguez Liberato, Asuncion police chief. A few hours earlier tne Chamber of Representatives had adopted a bill prohibiting the dismissal, without legal justification, of public employees loyal to the government.

Morinigo outlawed all other political parties at the elections last February, leaving Gonzalez the only candidate.

Recently, political observers said, Gonzalez heard unconfirmed rumors that Morinigo wanted to retain the presidency.

RedCross Workers Bring Comfort To Flood Victims

Vancouver, June 4 — (CP) — Today-battalions of sleepless dike workers in the flood-destructed Fraser Valley will get new energy and incentive from just a sandwich and a cup of aromatic coffee.

Day and night thousands of British Columbia women, including young girls and bobby-soxers, are serving the flood army with hundreds of gallons of coffee, thousands of sandwiches, cookies and cakes, cigarets and "just treats."

The women are marshalling under one popular banner — the familiar arm-band of the Canadian Red Cross. They are working as a compact army, objective "comfort."

1. The Red Cross already has accommodated 4,000 flood evacuees. It has readied adequate accommodation for 7,000 more.

2. The women are feeding 3,000 homeless every day. Many of these homeless are women over 50, or children under seven years of age.

3. In Mission City alone, nerve centre of valley evacuations, 15 relief hostels are operating. Five canteens hum with activity. Soup kitchens dot the entire valley.

Every flood sector into which hundreds of bedraggled evacuees trudge with their soakened hand-luggage, platoons of smiling Red Cross women immediately organizes and competently meets the emergency.

The feeding of dike-workers is a tremendous task, food is being handed to thousands upon thousands of soldiers, sailors, airmen and civilians who eagerly volunteered for flood duty. Likewise, around the clock relief work during the emergency is being done by the Salvation Army.

360 PERSONS

The swirling Fraser, roaring through at about 15 miles an hour, blasted a breach in the main dike, carrying a C. P. R. pump station and the station-keeper's house with it.

Houses were torn from their foundations and floated miles downstream. A double bed of C. P. R. railroad tracks was snapped and the rails were left twisting grotesquely in the air.

About 6,000 additional acres were added to the 60,000 of the rich Fraser Valley under water and more thousands of dollars were added to the estimated $30,000,000 damage caused by ramPaging "Old Muddy."

9,000 Virtual Waifs

The number of new homeless was not immediately known but, before the new outbreaks, 9,000 persons were virtual waifs. Flood deaths still stood at five.

Meanwhile from other sections of B. C. the tragic recitation of disaster and destruction continued.

Trail in the West Kootenays was preparing to evacuate today all residents from their waterfront Riverside Street as the Columbia River's fury still pounded the smelter city.

Kamloops in the North Okanagan was isolated except by amphibious aircraft. Experienced pilots who have been flying over the Fraser Valley all week were giving odds the strategic Rosedale dike at Chilliwack would go out by nightfall.

At New Westminster, the parks board cancelled all sports events in the city effective Sunday.

SORRY, GRAMP, YOU ARE WRONG

I am accused of feeding too much (a pleasant carbonated sweetened flavored beverage) to my four grandchildren. Their parents say carbonated beverages are bad for kids, as well as for grown-ups. Grown-ups get too fat from the sugar in the drinks and the youngsters too easily satisfy the immediate need for energy with the quickly utilized sugar and therefore do not have the right appetite for more essential foods. If you will give me the facts about this I'll show your answer to the parents even if it is against me.

(H. M. W.)

The term carbonated means the liquid contains carbon dioxide, carbonic acid gas, CO2, the gas that is produced by burning coal, oil, gasoline, wood or any organic substance, the gas that puts out fire, the gas produced by combustion of organic material in the body and given off in the expired air, the gas that sometimes accumulates in a silo (produced by oxidation or fermentation of vegetable matter) and may suffocate one who enters the silo without testing the air by seeing first whether a match, candle or lamp will burn or be quenched in it. Other names for water containing carbon dioxide in solution are soda water, sparkling water, seltzer water or just "fizz", "bubbles" or "soda". Carbon dioxide gas produced by the reaction between sodium bicarbonate (saleratus, baking soda) and an acid, such as the hydrochloric acid of the gastric juice or the citric acid of lemon or other fruit juice or tartaric acid accounts for the effervesence of bottle solution of magnesium citrate (the pleasant brisk saline cathartic) and of the mixture of the two parts of a Seidlitz powder.

There's nothing harmful or objectional in the occasional use of a carbonated beverage, but, in my judgment, the regular, frequent or habitual use of carbonated beverages is injurious in itself, especially for growing children. The excessive stimulation of the lining of the stomach by the carbonic acid gas is as harmful to the appetite and digestion of the child as the excessive stimulation of the nerve and cerebral centres by the caffeine in coffee and some carbonated beverages is for children under sixteen, in my opinion. Just for instance, the bed-wetting habit is more persistent in youngsters who are allowed to indulge in these stimulants without restraint, in my observation.

Over and above all this you are wrong, Gramp, on another count, which outweighs all other objections to permitting growing children to cultivate the craving for these sweetened, carbonated, drinks. As you so clearly put it in your query, Gramp, "the immediate need for energy with the quickly utilized sugar, and therefore do not have the right appetite for the more essential foods." How can you repeat those words, knowing what they mean, yet still require my advice or the advice of any one else to assure you that your grandchildren's parents have — though how in the modern world they came by it I don't know—some good sense about nutrition and you, apparently, are badly confused about what constitutes good nutrition.

I have already said that on special occasions, such as a birthday party, an annual picnic, a visit to the fair or circus, indulgence in whatever carbonated beverage the youngster prefers is harmless enough. But for regular, frequent or habitual use as refreshment or treat, the beverages which are not only uninjurious but beneficial to the growing child are milk, fresh fruit juices or tomato juice or canned fruit or tomato juice, preferably unsweetened.

Talbot's Solution

As a pharmacist I want to serve the public as well as I can. When you readers bring me a clipping from your column to show me that you say Talbot's Solution is official I am embarassed.

(—— Ph. G.)

Answer—Thank you for your friendly letter. I didn't mean to say Talbot's solution is in the Pharmacopoeia, only that Glycerine of Iodine and Zinc Iodide, N.F., is otherwise known as Diluted Talbot's Solution. I recommend the cautious use of this solution as an application to teeth and gums in the chapter of pyorrhea in the booklet Save Your Teeth, available on written request if you inclose twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope—and no clipping.

Action Will Be Taken to Curb Sex Offenders

Ottawa, June 4. (CP)—Justice Minister Ilsley indicated in the Commons Thursday, action will be taken to curb mentally-deranged sex offenders.

During study of amendments to the Canada Evidence Act, he said he will make a statement "on the question of psychopaths" when proposed changes in the criminal code are introduced shortly.

Conceding that it may not go as far as opposition members had suggested, he said it would be an "attempt" to deal with sex offenders.

He spoke after John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) urged the government to amend the code to provide that offenders might be sent to provincial mental hospitals or to reformatories for treatment, rather than to prison.

Experience in the United States had shown that sterilization and brain operations failed to curb sex offenders and that the best treatment was that given in psychopathic institutions. Of those given mental treatment, only nine per cent continued to commit sex crimes.

Prison did not effect a cure. Upon release, the offenders would report that they still had an "impulse" which they could not resist. Many of them were well-educated and above the average in intelligence.

The Evidence Act Amendment, which received second reading would make a husband or a wife a "competent and compellable" witness against the other in cases involving juvenile delinquency. As a general rule, they cannot testify against each other in criminal cases, except those involving danger to the sanctity of the home.

Southerndown, Wales (AP) — Ghosts are "guaranteed" at Dunraven Castle, once a smugglers' lair on the Glamorgan coast.

Now operated as a holiday home for 100 workers weekly, the castle once echoed to the walls of a spirit known to local legend as "The Blue Lady."

But the blue lady hasn't been seen since First World War days, So that guests will not be disappointed, the Travel Association which runs the holiday home will provide its own ghosts — feature attraction of weekly "spirit hunts."

Detroit — (AP)—Police Chief Ralph B. Guy of suburban Dearborn has decreed that all future policemen must be at least six feet tall, with "commensurate weight" and have at least two years of college.

Guy, who stands five-feet-eight, said the Dearborn force has "too many undersized men, both mentally and physically."

Houston, Tex. (AP) — If you're a bank president out of a job, turn to the classified ad section of Wednesday's Houston Chronicle.

"Bank president wanted," says an ad by an unidentified bank with $2,225,000 arsets. The insertion in the "male help wanted" section added:

"Opening for president of 2¼ million dollar bank located within 50 miles of Houston . . . rare opportunity for young man between 35 and 45 . . . we want a community leader as well as a sound banker."

Rome, N. Y. (AP) — A city detective was involved in one of the strangest plays in baseball history at Colonel's Park, home of Rome's Canadian - American League team.

Unassisted, Bernard O. Basenfelder caught three boys stealing home plate.

They said they had planned to use the wooden plate on their home-made diamond.

Bloomington, Ill. (AP) — Three stubborn old hens went on a 130-mile joyride Wednesday.

They roost regularly at night on the axles and the spare tire underneath a truck owned by farmer Howard Johnson.

He got into his truck before daylight and drove to Bloomington, about 130 miles. When he arrived, he found the three hens still perched underneath, on the spare tire.

He put them in the cab for the return trip.

Connersville, Ind. (AP) — No one was surprised when Mrs. Wayne Murray gave birth to twin boys here. Mrs. Murray is a twin and her mother is a twin. But, it was a coincidence that each of the two nurses caring for the babies is a twin.

ARCHDEACON SAVARY DIES

Jury Decides Abortion Caused Woman's Death

Toronto, June 4. (CP)—An inquest jury decided that an abortion caused the death of attractive 28-year-old Mrs. Jane Gordon. But it fixed no responsibility for the illegal operation.

The verdict, reached after 55 minutes' deliberation Thursday night at the resumed hearing, confirmed autopsy findings that an air bubble was introduced into the woman's blood stream during a bungled attempt to free her from a pregnancy, and that this led to her death.

A Toronto doctor whose name had been mentioned in connection with the case insisted he had nothing to do with the alleged abortion and said he had never met Mrs. Gordon.

The jury in its verdict criticized the conduct of John S. Glover, a real estate agent, who said at the Tuesday night inquest sitting that he had an affair last Winter with Mrs. Gordon, the estranged wife of a Toronto doctor. Glover denied responsibility for the girl's pregnancy but said he loaned her $500.

The jury said it was satisfied that when Glover knew she intended to go through with an abortion he knew where it was to be performed.

Summarizing the evidence, Chief Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson noted Glover "told one story to police and another story here under oath".

Principal witness at Thursday night's concluding hearing was Dr. George A. Watson, who described himself as a "semi-retired physician". He denied knowing Mrs. Gordon and disclaimed any connection with the abortion.

The hearing was comparatively uneventful compared with that of Tuesday night when interruptions were common, rulings frequent and the jury foreman was led to complain about the attitude of witnesses.

Mrs. Gordon's body was found early in the morning of April 9, lying beside a road north of the city, her clothes in disarray, her shoes and purse lying near her head. The purse contained 10 $50 bills and other smaller amounts of money.

Albert Dorland Given 4 Years On Drug Charge

Toronto, June 4 — (CP)—Albert Dorland, 43, central figure in two sensational "frame" investigations in the early 1930s, was sentenced Thursday to four years and fined $1,000 or an extra eight months for illegal possession of narcotics.

He will go back to Kingston penitentiary, where he first served three years and five months in connection with the attempted holdup of a Toronto bank. He had pleaded guilty to having dangerous weapons and was sentenced to five years.

Dorland was released in August, 1933, after two exhaustive inquiries into charges that he was "framed" by Toronto police. Three policemen, including an inspector of detectives, were asked for their resignations after Dorland's release.

He went to prison a short time later for a bank robbery and was again released in 1938.

The narcotics charge on which he was sentenced Thursday resulted from the pick-up of 20 drug capsules in an east-end lane last Dec. 29. Three morality-squad officers testified Dorland was the driver of an automobile at which they fired six shots as it sped from the lane.

A general sessions jury deliberated for one hour, apparently discounting the testimony of Johnny Hill, a confessed drug addict, who swore he was the driver. Dorland claimed he was at home at the time of the lane incident and that he went to Montreal the next day.

Elaine Peltier, 19, .. Will be Returned

Windsor, June 4 (CP)—Elaine Peltier, attractive 19-year-old Windsor girl now held by United States immigration authorities will be returned to Canadian officials through Windsor, Detroit immigration officials said Thursday.

The girl was arrested at Cincinnati, O., two days ago after her boy friend, Harold Jamieson, of Hamilton, was shot and killed in their rooming-house by a Cincinnati detective.

Wanted in Hamilton on a narcotics charge and for skipping $10,000 bail, Elaine said in a telephone interview Wednesday she was forced over the border, by Jamieson.

MEN NOT MISSING

Timmins, June 4 — (CP)—Reports that two men were missing in the bush fire in the Timmins area were groundless, a public relations officer of the Department of Lands and Forests said today. The two men had become separated from their fire - fighting crew and had joined another. They were reported missing by the original crew but turned up later.

Federal Govt. Extends Helping Hand to B.C.

Ottawa, June 4. (CP)— The federal government extended a helping hand to flood-devastated British Columbia Thursday, offering to contribute financially to relief, rehabilitation and restoration.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the Commons that the amount of the contribution remains to be decided.

It is clear, he said, that the damage caused by the floods has already reached such proportions that federal assistances will be necessary not only for relief, but also for rehabilitating and restoring the devastated areas.

He added:

"To help in allaying anxiety in the minds of thousands of Canadians who art homeless and who have lost so much in this terrible disaster, I have, with the approval of my colleagues, informed the premier (of British Columbia) that the federal government is prepared to assist the province financially not only in meeting the expenditures required for immediate relief, but also in meeting the cost of rehabilitation and restoration."

His announcement was applauded by all members of the House.

The Federal and British Columbia governments are in consultation "on the extent of the financial needs, their equitable apportionment, and the supervision of expenditures," said Mr. King.

A commission, which may be known as the Eraser River Relief and Rehabilitation Commission, likely will be established. It will be composed of a federal representative at Victoria and a provincial representative there.

COMMONS CLEARS

He said requests for disallowances of a new Prince Edward Island labor law will be studied by the Federal Government. The legislation bars P.E.I. workers from joining unions with jurisdiction outside the province.

The Senate gave second reading to a bill providing for the reclamation of 80,000 acres of Maritime marshlands.

Postmaster-General Bertrand said during study of his estimates that postmasters now are obliged to pay reasonable salaries to their employees.

Frank Lennard (PC—Wentworth) called for a reduction in postage on food parcels sent overseas, but Mr. Bertrand said Canada could not reduce her rates in view of the charges made by Britain.

The bill revising the Dominion Bureau of Statistics met general approval, although several Maritime members urged that the bureau be directed to compile figures on inter-provincial trade.

George McIlraith, parliamentary assistant to Trade Minister Howe, said this would be difficult because goods in transit did not always originate in the provinces from which they were shipped.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) suggested the bureau's cost-of-living index be reported on a dollar basis rather than the percentage basis now being used, but Mr. McIlraith said this would be almost impossible.

During study of the Evidence Act Bill, Mr. Ilsley indicated the government plans to take action to curb sex offenders.

He said he would have a statement later "on the question of psychopaths."

John Diefenbaker (PC — Lake Centre) suggested the Criminal Code be amended to provide that offenders may be sent to provincial mental hospitals or to reformatories for treatment.

The Customs Act amendments brought from Mr. Diefenbaker a warning against dropping empire agreements in favor of trade with the rest of the world. He opposed a clause which he said would empower the government to eliminate British preferences without reference to parliament.

External Affairs Minister St. Laurent agreed to let the clause stand for later consideration.

Mr. Isnor, Mr. Hazen and Percy Black (PC — Cumberland) expressed fear that Canadian ports might be jeopardized by a provision giving imports coming into Canada through a third country the same rate of duty as those which came directly from the exporting country.

This clause also was left standing pending further inquiry.

WEDDINGS

PACK—McGARVEY

Marmora. (Special.) A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Paul's Anglican Church at 1 p.m. on Wednesday when Oneta Vivian McGarvey, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Allen McGarvey, became the bride of Orville Arthur Pack, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pack, both contracting parties being of Marmora. The church was decorated with spirea, lilacs and iris. Rev. J. M. Brownlie performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street length dress of white jersey and a white hat. She was attended by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Victor Neal, relaxing before she goes to party, she does just the opposite. That is, she thinks and do things that will, as she says, ma her "mind and heart thrill wi vitality."

Sometimes, to put her in th mood for a party, she fills h ears. . . and spirit. . . wi good music, really good musi Or she wakes up her brain wi reading or re-reading a though stimulating essay or poem, or chapter or two in a favorite boo an especially thoughtful book Or, instead of spending the tim in selfishly "letting down", sh spends that precious time "pullin up" her mind and heart by doin something pleasant and helpfu for somebody who needs her hel . . . . sends a check to the Re Cross or to some other good work or goes to call on a shut-in, o writes a tenderly understandin note to a distant friend in mourning for a loved one, or goes t her garden, or to the florist t choose flowers to take to a frienc in the hospital, or makes rich broth to take to a sick friend or takes care of a neighbor's littl daughter for an hour or tw while the tired and perhaps not too-well mother rests.

Having filled her mind and heart with this kind of refreshin and inspiring thought, she takes this vitality to the party with her. Result: she looks and act thrillingly alive, eager, keenly "idea'd".

and Bill Finkie.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Dutch Mill Inn, east of Trenton, where the bride's mother received the guests in a suit of brown gabardine, with green accessories, and wearing a corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted by the mother of the groom, wearing pearl grey silk jersey with wine colored accessories, and a corsage of roses.

The groom's gift to the bride was a double strand of pearls, to the groomsman a leather wallet, and to the ushers, ties. The bride's gift to her attendant was a gold and turquoise pendant.

Mr. and Mrs. Bremner left for a wedding journey by motor to New York City, and after their return will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were from Montreal, Que., Hamilton, Toronto, Napanee, Ont, and from Flint, Mich.

18 Members of Nurses' Graduating Class Receive Diplomas, Awards

Eighteen graduating nurses of the school of nursing at the Belleville General Hospital received their pins and diplomas at graduation exercises held in the auditorium of the Belleville Collegiate on Thursday evening. The graduation address was given by His Honor Judge J. C. Anderson, county judge for Hastings.

The auditorium of the Collegiate was filled almost to capacity as parents of the graduating nurses, together with friends were in attendance to see the girls receive the diplomas and to see the various prizes distributed.

His Honor, Judge Anderson, in addressing the graduating class, congratulated the hospital, the parents for their encouragement and sacrifice and members of the graduating class for their long hours of work and study in training for the profession of their choice.

Time of Good Wishes

"It would be easy for me to make my remarks all congratulations," stated Judge Anderson, "for this is as it should be—largely a time of good wishes and celebration."

To the teaching staff of the hospital and to the Board of Governors the speaker referred to the urgent need for trained nurses. The Belleville hospital with its staff and fine equipment, must do its share to meet the challenge for more and better nurses.

"Unresting fidelity to the high ideals of service, keen humanitarian impulses and love of scientific truth are no less the obligation of the Board of Governors and the staff of the hospital than they are the obligations of the nurses. Great changes are now pending in our hospitals, and these changes bring new responsibilities and new opportunities for service."

Conditions Compared

Comparison of present working conditions and hours of student nurses with those existent in the first Florence Nightingale School of Nursing was made by the speaker which showed daily duties commencing at six a.m. and concluding at nine in the evening. "But nursing today is as challenging a profession as it was 90 years ago and the influence of the nurse is present everywhere."

"To the nurses I point out that while the Board of Governors and public funds may supply fine buildings and the latest in scientific equipment, there is something which you alone as nurses can supply.

"The stricken human being lying on a sick bed in hospital relies upon the soul and spirt of the place to strengthen and sustain him, but it is the nurse that exhibits a thoughtful solicitude for her patients, beyond the routine of duty, that raises the standard of any hospital."

Must be Versatile

"It has been said that nursing is part of an international health movement best calculated to wipe out the differences of race, creed and color. A good nurse must be technically expert, scientifically informed and socially experienced. She must speak with the language of science and also the language of people."

Perhaps the future does not seem as certain as it did in the dormitory a few months ago but now that the doors are swinging open and you are almost there, you will not falter. Your training will help you have courage to meet the demands of your profession.

"Today is the end — it is for you also the beginning of your entry upon that happy, joyous and noble profession — that of a registered nurse."

J. H. Legate Chairman

As chairman of the Board of Governors Mr. J. H. Legate acted as chairman for the graduation exercises program. The processional music was played by William Navin while invocation was by Rev. F. R. Harback.

Alderman Mark Vanner, acting for Mayor D. L. Storey, extended official greetings to members of graduating class while Dr. J. B. McKay, as president of the medical staff, also extended greetings. Members of the graduating class carried bouquets of red roses.

Miss Laura M. Johnston, Reg. N., director of nursing, gave the school of nursing report, following which the Florence Nightingale pledge was given by Rev. F. R. Harback.

Mrs. W. C. Mikel and Mrs. O. A. Marshall presented pins and diplomas to the graduates following which medals and prizes were awarded.

Winner of the Gold Medal for general proficiency awarded by the Board of Governors, was Miss Lois Peacock, of Windsor, who also won the prize for the highest standing in medical nursing. The gold medal was presented by Mrs. J. W. Imlah. Winner of the silver medal for proficiency was Miss Helma Rutherford of Colborne. Miss Rutherford also received the prize for highest standing in surgical nursing. Dr. McKay made the presentation of the silver medal.

The prizes for highest standing in medical, surgical and obstetrical nursing were awarded by the medical staff and presented by Dr. R. W. Tennent, Dr. G. S. Cronk, and Dr. M.E. Branscombe. Winner of the obstetrical nursing prize was Miss Erma Chambers of Ancroid, Sask, and for highest in gynecology, Miss Doris Platt of Norham.

Valedictorian Address

Miss Lorena Sine of Foxboro was valedictorian for the graduating class. She reviewed the work of the class since they started training for their career in September in 1945. She referred to study required during the probationary term and to the constant re-adjustment to new and unexpected situations and adaptation to a new and different way of life.

"But our graduation is only a milestone in our training," stated Miss Sine as she asked how the best use could be made of the hours of training received.

"We have before us a wide field from which to choose a place to expand our practice and to make use of the knowledge and experience our training school has striven to give us. We will never be satisfied with that which we know but will pursue knowledge to the end. We are endeavoring to achieve an attitude of mind that will give us the understanding necessary for the beginning of a well-integrated and ever-growing personality."

Added Responsibilities

"With graduation we have entered into membership with vast groups of professional women. From today we will be looked upon as women of trained minds in contrast to those who have not had the opportunity of training. To possess a trained mind means responsibilities.

In conclusion Miss Sine expressed appreciation to instructors, supervisors and graduate nurses "who have been very understanding when we made mistakes and who put forth great effort to teach us."

The medical staff had spent many hours lecturing while Miss Johnston as director of nursing, had striven to make their training a joy and success.

Of special interest during the graduation exercises was the presentation of a university scholarship to Miss Jewell Bailey, graduate of the 1947 nursing class. This presentation was made by Mrs. Gilbert Scott and was awarded by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary.

Following the graduation members of the graduating class were entertained at the nurses' residence by the Board of Governors.

How to "Dress up" the knife for the Bride's Cake . . . How to Cut the Cake

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Does the bridegroom help me, the bride, as I cut the first slice of the bride's cake at our wedding reception?

2. Should the knife with which the cake is cut be decorated? If so, how?

Bride-to-be

The handle may be "all dressed up" with a bow of satin or tulle, or it may be decorated with real flowers or wax orange blossoms, and a shower of narrow white satin ribbons to which are tied small white flowers. Yes, it is permissible for the bride's parents and the groom's parents to have separate tables, and occasionally this is the plan.

One Woman's Solution of How-To-Be-Glamorous

One of the most gracious women I know. . . a woman who always looks so alive and glamorous at a party . . . says that instead of taking all the usual advice about "relaxing" before she goes to a party, she does just the opposite. That is, she thinks and does things that will, as she says, make her "mind and heart thrill with vitality."

Sometimes, to put her in the mood for a party, she fills her ears. . . and spirit. . . .with good music, really good music. Or she wakes up her brain with reading or re-reading a thought-stimulating essay or poem, or a chapter or two in a favorite book, an especially thoughtful book. Or, instead of spending the time in selfishly "letting down", she spends that precious time "pulling up" her mind and heart by doing something pleasant and helpful for somebody who needs her help . . . . sends a check to the Red Cross or to some other good work, or goes to call on a shut-in, or writes a tenderly understanding note to a distant friend in mourning for a loved one, or goes to her garden, or to the florist to choose flowers to take to a friend in the hospital, or makes rich broth to take to a sick friend, or takes care of a neighbor's little daughter for an hour or two while the tired and perhaps not-too-well mother rests.

Having filled her mind and heart with this kind of refreshing and inspiring thought, she takes this vitality to the party with her. Result: she looks and acts thrillingly alive, eager, keenly "idea'd".

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Conforming to Fashion

During that terrific to-do last Autumn—when the "New Look" was the popular subject of conversation, and the prevailing slogan was "Pull in your waistline"—the heavyweight indulged in hollow laughter. She asked "What if you haven't any waistline?" She lost hers years ago. But it did inspire her to make an effort to do a little figure remodelling. She gave more thought to the selection of a foundation garment that would help conceal the bumps, or at least distribute them to a certain extent. A good corset can do that little thing. Outlines that do not qualify can be controlled..

Possibly she made the discovery that a corsetiere will take careful measurements, make a garment to order. This is not as extravagant as it sounds. A foundation that provides excellent support for the abdomen, that holds the hips neatly, will in time create certain changes in the figure. Why? Because it tends to help a woman to maintain correct posture. There is a natural tendency to pull herself up from the waistline; this tendency causes the muscles to contract, to stay where they belong.

It is when muscles are relaxed that they weaken. Not only that, but they issue a cordial invitation to fat cells to come and establish themselves permanently.

If a garment is to mold the figure into better lines, it must be correctly cut and correctly fitted. One cannot be too fussy about this matter, especially if one has a crush on the bathroom scales. The fabric of the garment may have to be reinforced where it exerts the most control; for this purpose bones are being used. Also, there must be absolute comfort.

There may be an inclination to pack and squeeze oneself into a size that is a bit too small. A grave mistake. Bad effects invariably follow. The garment stretches out of shape, is of no use whatever as a support—the purpose for which it is intended.

The right length is important. If the garment is not long enough to sit on at the back, it will ride up. The rule is "up in front, down at the back." To pull the garment down too far in front is to accentuate the bulge—if there is any —below the waistline.

If the hose supporters at the sides are quite tight, the front and back ones can have a little slack, allowing for freedom of motion.

"What if you haven't any waistline?"

New all-in-one models are supple and smoothly fitted. Many women prefer them to the combination of garment and bra. Those inner belts accomplish wonders for the over-developed figure. They restrain the flesh firmly but gently. Some of them seem to slice off inches from the corpulent customer who yearns for well-groomed slimness.

Choosing the Right Powder

Movie Star Evelyn Keyes is careful to choose just the right shade of powder for her complexion

By HELEN FOLLETT

MILLIONS and millions of boxes of complexion powder are sold in the United States every year. It costs a heap of money for Uncle Sam's girls to powder their noses. They don't want their faces to shine like a good deed in a naughty world. Complexion glimmer puts them out of beauty form. It is something that even the bravest woman cannot endure.

Despite the violent interest in the rouge pad and the lipstick, powder is the basic element of complexion decorating. The study of the various colors of these fragrant cosmetic calcimines is interesting and fascinating. Chemists have produced tints to match every skin, that of the blonde, the brunette, the red head, the betwixt-and-betweens.

All blondes are not the same type. The Nordic goldie-head needs a creamy powder, the Anglo blonde with ash hair, brown eyes and gardenia skin can use rachelle with satisfactory results. The Celtic blonde, who has brown eyes, will choose a dark rachelle. She will finish her facial tinting with a coral rouge, cardinal lipstick, brown eye shadow.

Old Standby

Rachelle is the good old standby for blondes and brunettes; it comes in varying tints and one must find the right one. The average brunette with brown hair and brown eyes needs a tone somewhat stronger, so she will select ochre that blends beautifully with rouge of medium red and lipstick of a rich wine color. The exotic beautiy who is ever ready to put out the eye of the other woman can find a powder that is flecked with gold. It is wonderful for the Titian haired lovely, adds a charming touch of the unusual.

Green powder sounds terrible, but rally isn't; it is of a most delicate shade. If the fair haired darling uses it when she wears a black formal it will make her skin even more transparently clear.

For the white haired lady with delicate complexion mauve powder is a happy thought. A touch of mauve eye shadows; lips tinted with dull, rich red and the effect is stunning .

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Don't Let Your Relatives Run You

A few weeks ago, I discussed in this column the letter of a young wife whose husband's relatives made her life miserable with their constant criticism. When they couldn't criticize, they sneered, particularly when they saw, by the tender relationship between the husband and his wife, that after two years of marriage the two were as much in love as in the early days of their courtship.

My advice to this wife at that time was to make an effort to laugh the whole thing off, in the hope that when these nagging in-laws saw how unimportant she considered their attitude, they would cease to find, satisfaction in trying to upset her.

A letter from a man who saw this column is a perfect and tragic illustration of what disastrous things can happen when a wife hasn't the character and the will power to handle such a situation in this way.

"My wife and I were very much in love for three years," writes this reader, "but our case was similar to that of the other couple you wrote about. My father could not see two people being happy together and was constantly nagging about our relationship. I passed it off as envy on my father's part, or perhaps his old-fashioned ways. But my wife couldn't take it. We couldn't move away because of the housing shortage which made it impossible for me to even get rooms.

"Well, finally my wife packed her clothes and took our little boy, and we have now been divorced nine months, all because of my nagging parent, and my having overlooked it. I still love my wife, and she has promised me that some day when the future looks brighter, we may be together again.

"My advice to the husband of the young woman who wrote you is: stick to the woman you married ,no matter what anyone has to say. Remember that love is more important than nagging in-laws."

This is excellent advice, and I am very glad to pass it on. Evidently the man who wrote this letter only woke up to the harm nagging relatives can do after it was too late. On the other hand, I wonder if perhaps the marriage might not have been saved, if the wife had been able to take a different attitude toward the matter.

The point is, of course, that the relationship between any married couple is definitely endangered the minute they allow the relatives of either to run their lives, or even to persistently attempt to do so.

As this particular husband now realizes, it is up to the man to side with his wife in any such situation. No one, of course, wants to alienate members of their own family, but if it comes to a show down, and a man must choose between standing on the side of his relatives or side by side with his wife, there should be no hesitation in his mind over what to do. Presumably, when a man takes a wife, he does so because his desire to be with one certain girl is greater than his desire to remain with his family. Once having made that decision, he should support it through every crisis that may arise between the in-laws and the woman he married.

Fashion Flashes

THE BEAUTY of fine handwork distinguishes much of the lingerie coming in from abroad. Silk crepe is used for a princess slip that has cleverly-placed satin sections to shape bust and midriff. At the hem, tiny inset triangles edged with narrow Val lace, real lace, too. Similar lace edging for the satin insets and for the neckline. We bet that there'll soon be copies, if not quite so grand.

COOL AND EASY, and certainly very smart, is a hostess robe of cotton striped in blue and silver. Cut on shirtwaist lines, it has a deep-set collar with points and a plunging V neckline. Rhinestone buttons and cufflinks, a silver kid belt, full skirt, two pointed flap pockets, one on the bodice, the other opposite, on the skirt, all add up to a striking job.

IT'S REMARKABLE to note how the little fur wrap has become a major fashion, once reserved for the silver fox jacket.. Nosing out the long-haired pelts, are the flats such as broadtail or the far less expensive but very good looking South American processed broadtail. Stoles, cape stoles and flare-back jackets in black, white, silver gray and gray-blue broadtail are seen everywhere, seemingly on the job except during the quite warm weather. So summer furs have really arrived!

A MAJOR FASHION with smart women is the afternoon frock of chiffon that relies on tucking or shirring for effect. Navy blue silk chiffon makes a handsome frock that is entirely tucked on horizontal lines from the deep square necklines, which is banded with the plain fabric, through the slim bodice, very slim waist, to the skirt that flares towards the hemline.

THE MAUVE DECADE is here again, certainly from a fashion viewpoint. One major dress showing featured nothing but all shades of mauve in cotton and silk, for sports, casual and dress-silk, for sports, casual and dress-wear.

A Treat for the Sweet Tooth

Sugar was known and used in ancient China. It was brought to England from China centuries ago and was a precious commodity. Its popularity increased rapidly but for years the price was prohibitive for the average family. A hundred years ago sugar, which came in large lumps, was about $2.75 a pound, granulated sugar as known today is a comparatively recent production.

Sweets are enjoyed by all ages from the child who jumps with joy at sight of an "all day sucker" to a grandfather who slyly slips a peppermint into his mouth from the supply in his vest pocket. To top off a meal, a sweet seems to be exactly right and nearly everyone looks forward to dessert.

The following sweet desserts come from the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Maple Spanish Cream

1 tablespoon gelatine
¼ cup cold water
1 cup milk
3 egg yolks
1 cup maple syrup
⅛ teaspoon salt
3 egg whites

Soak gelatine in cold water. Heat milk in double boiler. Beat egg yolks until light. Pour hot milk over egg yolks, stirring constantly, and return to double boiler. Add maple syrup and salt. Stir until the custard coats the spoon. Add soaked gelatine. Stir until dissolved. Cool. Fold into stiffly-beaten egg whites. Pour into a greased mould. Chill thoroughly. Yield: six servings.

Caramel Pudding

1/3 cup brown sugar
1/3 cup boiling water
4 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup brown sugar
¾ cup cold milk
2¼ cups scalded milk
2 eggs
¾ teaspoon vanilla

Melt the 1/3 cup brown sugar in a heavy saucepan, stirring constantly until it turns a rich caramel shade. Slowly stir in the boiling water and simmer 3 minutes. Mix cornstarch, salt and the ¼ cup sugar with the cold milk and add slowly to hot milk. Stir in the caramel mixture and cook in a double boiler 30 minutes. Add to well-beaten egg yolks, return to double boiler and cook 3 minutes longer. Remove from heat and add flavoring. Cool slightly before folding in stiffly-beaten egg whites. Pour into moulds, chill and serve with cream. Yield: six servings.

Mint Bavarian

4 teaspoons gelatine
¼ cup cold water
2 cups milk
½ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1—2 drops oil of peppermint
Few drops green vegetable coloring
½ cup whipping cream

Soak gelatine in cold water for 5 minutes. Scald milk, add sugar and salt. Add soaked gelatine and stir until dissolved. Cool slightly, add flavoring and green vegetable coloring. Chill mixture until partially set, then fold in cream, which has been whipped until stiff. Line slightly-greased mould with chocolate cookies or thinly sliced chocolate cake and pour in pudding mixture. Chill until firm. Yield: six servings.

New Prints

By ALICE ALDEN

MANY AND beautiful are the designs of this season's prints. We are indebted to the designers who have used indigenous sources such as the Northwest Passage series which inspired this allur-acel crepe printed in an Alaskan theme. This shirtwaist frock is cut full for comfort, with front buttoning from neck to hem. The long pointed collar is convertible. It is one of those live-in-all-day dresses that are nice for general city or country wear, and good travellers. Dramatic prints offer a change from the pretty florals and more conventional themes.

Liberals Lead In Nominations For N.B. Election

Fredericton, June 4 (CP) — The Liberal party which held a clear 3-1 majority in the New Brunswick legislature that dissolved May 18, has made the greatest number of nominations for the June 28 Provincial election. Nominations Day is June 14.

Figures compiled by The Canadian Press show the Liberals with 33 candidates nominated, the Progressive Conservatives with 17 and the C.C.F. with eight.

The Liberal party of Premier John B. McNair held 36 seats in the last 48-seat legislature with the Conservatives holding 11 and an Independent one. The Independent entered the House following the 1944 election with a by-election victory, taking a seat from the Conservatives.

The legislature to be elected June 28, however, will have four additional seats. The new seats giving existing constituencies — three counties and one city — additional representation and do not create new ridings.

STALEMATE

This emphasized the close battle and showed it would be a tough and almost impossible fight for Confederation to get the required 51 per cent of the total vote.

The commission government, which took over following the oldcolony's financial debacle in 1933, will make recommendations to the British government after a 51 per cent majority is accorded one choice.

Any Ottawa action subsequent to a possible victory for Confederation would come only after the British Home Office had considered the matter.

The intense interest of the people in the referendum was indicated by the polling, which was extremely heavy. In St. John's itself — which favored responsible government — 32,552 voters of 35,899 eligible had voted and the count is still not final.

All districts had been heard from except Labrador — expected to vote heavily for Confederation. It might hold the key to the outcome.

Canadians Watch Vote

Ottawa — Canadian government officials are watching with keen interest the returns in the Newfoundland referendum. They are withholding comment until the final returns are known.

Returns Thursday night gave responsible government the lead, with Confederation running a close second and retention of commission government a poor third.

One of the three must get 51 per cent of the total vote to win. If there is no clean-cut margin a run-off between the two top-finishers will be held in about two months.

Indications are that a run-off will be necessary between the Confederation and a responsible government. Should that materialize, the Canadian government likely will not make any official comment or take any action which could be interpreted as an effort to influence the Newfoundland vote.

The government has strictly adhere to a policy of non-interference.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King said last fall that it was up to the Newfoundland people to decide whether or not they wished to enter Confederation.

He indicated that the Canadian government would not be prepared to sanction union of the colony with Canada unless the Newfoundland people made it unmistakably clear that they desired union.

Uniformity in Assessment Urged by Reeves and Mayors

Windsor, Ont., June 4. (CP)—Consideration of compulsory equalized assessments for all Ontario municipalities was urged Thursday by the Association of Ontario mayors and reeves now holding a four-day conference in Windsor.

The convention endorsed a resolution asking the proposed new committee on municipal-provincial relations to study equalized assessments on a mandatory basis "and if after such consideration such a method is proposed" the Municipal Heads Association be advised before legislation is finally passed.

The resolution was proposed by Reeve Ann Shipley of Teck Township. After an address on uniformity in assessment given by Mayor E. C. Sargent, of Owen Sound.

Citing his own city where a "high" mill rate (67) is levied on assessments based on 1890 figures, Mayor Sargent said some of the city's most valuable business land was assessed at $100 to $150 a foot with the current sale price $550 a foot.

He said small home owners on the back streets were paying on a heavy assessment and directly subsidizing downtown business and industrial properties.

This inequality of taxation, Mayor Sargent said, "could only be relieved by uniformity in assessment. It is just and reasonable to expect a ratepayer to pay porportionately for the municipal services he receives and as long as we have our present system of taxation it can only be done by uniformity of assessment.

Mayor Sargent said taxpayers are demanding increased services "and unless municipal governments can collectively insist that the centralized governments cooperate, the real estate basis for municipal taxation and revenue will not be able to carry the load.

Definite plans should be laid to obtain from the provincial government, legislation allowing the municipalities leeway to set up taxes to handle their special problems."

High Commissioner Hopes Europe Has Turned the Corner

Ottawa, June 4 (CP)—A number of Canadian women want the government and other organizations to make sure there is "no apportunity in Canada for communistic propaganda to root and grow."

National Council of Women, meeting in convention here, Thursday also protested against the lack of subsized low-rental housing.

One of several resolutions passed asked that the government "explain the reason why it has not adopted a policy of subsidized low-rental housing."

Of communism, a resolution said that knowing how the minds of loyal citizens have been deliberately confused by proponents of a political philosophy alien to the Canadian way of life, leaders of government should make every effort to counteract these tactics "with zeal exceeding that of those who use them."

Later, in the evening, Sir Alexander Clutterbuck expressed hope that Europe has turned "the most dangerous corner" on its road to recovery.

The United Kingdom high commissioner paid tribute to the European recovery plan. It has had a "tonic" effect throughout Europe.

He described the world as in a state of "transition." The world was going through a spiritual crisis.

Woman Killed Not Wife Of Cmdr. MacDonald

Victoria, June 4 (CP) — Mrs. Maureen MacDonald, beaten to death in Halifax Wednesday, was not at the time of her death the wife of Lt. Commander Harry H. MacDonald of Victoria, it was learned here Thursday night. Cmdr. MacDonald divorced Mrs. MacDonald here March 13.

A Canadian Press dispatch from Halifax Wednesday erroneously referred to Maureen MacDonald as the naval man's wife.

Victor Robart, 32-year-old Negro fireman, is being held on a charge of murder in connection with the slaying.

19,812 V.I.A. Policies Have Beer Taken Out

Ottawa, June 4 (CP)—The Commons Committee on Veterans Affairs was informed that 19,812 persons have taken out policies valued at nearly $57,000,000 under the Veterans Insurance Act.

Its members gave approval to a bill that would extend for another three years the period in which policies may be taken out. It provides that the widow of a serviceman who died in service comes under the act.

However, parents or others who are receiving pensions' allowances as dependents of men who were killed or died in service will no longer be eligible. Some 30 policies already granted to such people will continue.

The committee completed study of the War Veterans allowances Act and will report it back to the Commons. It would add $10 a month to present allowance ceilings.

Ewell Blackwell Returns To Form Which is Bad News For Other National Loop Clubs

By BEN PHLEGAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Cincinnati Reds have come up with a lot of bad news for the seven other National League Clubs. Ewell Blackwell's back in form.

The stringbean righthander, sidelined for a month with a sore shoulder ,Thursday night won his first game since April 23. Although wild, he held the slugging New York Giants to two hits and a pair of runs in seven innings, one of which was Mickey Livingston's home run.

Blackwell, who walked six, retired after the seventh and the Reds quelled a ninth inning rally to win 6-4. Blackwell retired after he complained he was having difficulty breathing as the result of a heavy head cold.

Hank Sauer hit his 14th home run with nobody on in the seventh for the Reds.

The loss cut the Giants' first place margin to half a game over St. Louis Cardinals, who broke a six-game losing streak. The red birds tripped Brooklyn 4-1 at St. Louis behind the brilliant four-hit pitching of Harry (The Cat) Brecheen.

Stan Musial's 11th home run with Red Schoendienst aboard in the first inning sent the Cards into the lead and they stayed there. Enos Slaughter's circuit clout in the seventh made things certain.

Pittsburgh Pirates pulled to within a game of the top by outlasting Boston 5-3. The Braves had the bases loaded with none out in the ninth when Elmer Singleton came to Kirby Higbe's rescue. The former Boston righthander shut off the hitting immediately although a final tally came across on a force play.

Young Richie Ashburn connected in his 20th consecutive game as the Philadelphia Phils downed Chicago Cubs 4-3. Ashburn, the League's fourth hitter, smashed two singles and a triple as rookie Curt Simmons recorded his third triumph.

In the American League, Detroit spurted for four runs in the 11th inning to defeat New York 6-2 and Boston turned back St. Louis 3-2.

Hal Newhouser held the Yanks to six hits in winning his fourth straight game. Two singles, a pair of bunts, a wild throw by Lopat and Eddie Mayo's double produced the cluster in the second extra frame for the Tigers.

Jack Kramer tumbled his former St. Louis mates out of the first division with his eight-hit effort for the Red Sox. Whitey Platt, Rookie Brownie left fielder, homered with one aboard for the St. Louis runs in the seventh inning.

Cleveland Trades Two for One With Chicago WhiteSox

(By The Canadian Press)

The pace-setting Cleveland Indians of the American League Thursday traded outfielder, Pat Seerey and pitcher Al Gettel to the Chicago White Sox for outfielder Bob Kennedy. No cash was involved in the deal.

Seerey, who could hit a ball a mile but not often enough had a batting average of .171 for the Indians last year. For three straight years, 1944-46 he led the American loop in strikeouts.

Gettel won 11 games for the Tribe last season while Kennedy a 28-yeat-old third baseman turned outfielder, chalked up a batting mark of .262 with the pale hose last year.

At St. Andrews, Scotland, four golfers, including two former British Open champions, were tied Thursday for first place in the $6,000 Spalding Professional Golfers tournament at the second round. Alf Padgham and Reg Whitcome, the ex-champions, Norman Van Nida of Australia and John Burton, each had 144 totals for 36 holes.

Dr. W. A. Matthews of Toronto will head the Royal Canadian Golf Association's Committee for the Canadian Amateur Golf championship July 12-17 it was announced in Toronto Thursday. The tournament will be held at the Hamilton Golf and Country club. Frank Stranahan of Toledo O., 1947 Canadian Amateur champion and 1948 British Amateur title holder will be on hand to defend his Canadian laurels.

Liverpool Reds, undefeated on their North American soccer tour added another victory to their string in Montreal Thursday night with a 4-2 win over Montreal All-Stars before a crowd of 5,000. It was the Red's seventh straight victory in their tour.

Two boxers, Phil Roderique of Lewistone, Me., and Alvin Upshaw of Halifax, who failed to put on a good boxing show, were barred by the the Halifax Boxing Commission Thursday from giving further exhibitions here for the next six months. The two fighters managers were also barred from operations in Halifax for six months. The two welterweights were both fined $100.

Pitching Staff Syracuse Chiefs Best in League

(By The Associated Press)

The pitching staff of Syracuse Chiefs is shaping up as one of the best in the International League.

Manager Jewel Ens has six starting pitchers in righthanders Bub Bebber, Dixie Howell, Ed Erautt, Johnny Hetki and southpaws Jim Wallace and Frank Fanovich — something few other clubs in the loop can boast.

Fanovich hurled the Chiefs into first place Thursday night, shutting out Jersey City Giants 14-0 on two hits. It was his second victory of the year as against one setback.

By winning the Chiefs moved over Newark Bears into the lead by seven percentage points.

The third place Montreal Royals climbed to within 13 points of the Bears as a result of their 6-2 victory over the tail-end Toronto Maple Leafs.

Hank Behrman went the route for the Royals, scattering 11 hits to gain his sixth victory of the year. Oscar Judd went the distance for Toronto and suffered his first loss in four decisions.

Rochester Red Wings nosed out the Buffalo Bisons 3-2 in the other game.

Max Surkont received credit for the victory although Bill Reeder had to finish. Reeder relieved Surkont in the ninth with the bases loaded and one out and retired the side with only one run crossing the plate.

CONNIE MACK HONORED

Philadelphia, June 4 — (AP)— Connie Mack was honored last night by the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce in recognition of his 65th season in organized baseball and 48th consecutive year as manager of the Athletics.

A big dinner was held under the west stands of Shibe Park and some 200 Philadelphians from all walks of life paid their respects to the venerable Mack often referred to as "Mr. Baseball."

One of Two Indian Princes Expected To Win the Derby

Epsom Downs, Surrey Eng. June 4 (CP) — The shadow of two Indian Princes who make horse racing a million-dollar pastime cast gloom over English turf prospects today on the eve of the 169th running of the Epsom Derby.

As capricious weather alternatively bathed the rolling Surrey Downs in brilliant sunshine and driving rain Thursday, Aga Khan's Maska finished "Streets Ahead" in the £10,000 ($40,000) Oaks Stakes. Six lengths behind in the field of 25 contesting the classic race for three-year-old fillies came the King's Angelola.

Sweeping scythes wielded by the eastern invaders carved up four other events of the six card race. Aga Khan won the next race with the filly Hounyra, a 10-1 shot and the Maharajah Gaekwar of Baroda, picked up blue chips with his only starters —Darbari Bai E L'Air and Diesel.

It might be the year of the "My, My!" derby. The Maharajah owns My Babu, lightly-framed colt bred in the Calvados country of France. Aga Khan has a half-interest in My Love, which he purchased from the Parisian showman Leon Volterra for a reported £12,000.

My Babu purchased in Normandy as a yearling, is a 4-1 favorite for tomorrow's big race. My Love is a third choice at 10-1 odds. If the latter fails Aga Khan has a second string in his bow in Noor, a 50-1 outsider.

There are other foreign challengers. William Woodward, '72 year old New York banker has a double barrelled entry in the favored Black Tarquin and the longshot Senator II, both American bred; Solar Slipper is owned by an Irishman, J. McGrath; and the French-owned Djeddah and Royal Drake are given better than a fighting chance.

The best chance for native breds appears to lie with Cobbler 5-1 shot owned by the Sussex Sportsman, Lt.-Col. Giles Loder. Others favored at Valognes and Tormie.

TO SCRAP BATTLESHIP

Devonport, England — (CP) — The 29,000-ton battleship Resolution is to be broken up. Less than a year ago £200,000 ($800,000) was spent converting Resolution and her sister ship, Revenge, into floating schools.

Houston Lumber And Bankers Win Softball Tilts

In a rousing Commercial Softball League double header at the Alemite Field Thursday night, the Houston Lumber Company team pounded out a 17-5 victory over the highly rated Corby squad in the opener, while the Bankers, playing superlative ball upset the favored Quinte Dry team 4-3 in the nightcap.

The unheralded Houston crew, packing plenty of power in every department and playing good defensive ball copped their first win with a twelve hit barrage that netted them seventeen runs. The brash and noisy "youngsters" jumped into an early lead and were never headed, scoring in every inning but the fourth.

With one down in the first Culkin hit a fly to right field which rolled away as the fielder slipped on the grass. Culkin raced home before the ball was retrieved.

Corby's got that one back in their half of the first with a single by Mills and a double by K. Baldwin. Houston's scored another run in the second on a walk and two singles. The lumber lads opened up in the third, getting five runs on four singles, a walk, a sacrifice, and an error.

Count Two in Third

Corby's counted two in their end of the third on a walk, a single and two errors. Three walks and a single gave the Houstons three runs in the fifth and they added two more in the sixth on a walk, a sacrifice and two singles. A walk, two singles and two errors counted five more runs in the seventh giving the lumber boys a total of seventeen runs.

J. Adams and M. Storms doubled for Corby's in the bottom half of the seventh to score their last two runs.

Burshaw, on the mound for the Lumber Company walked two, struck out ten, and gave up six hits for five runs over the seven-inning course. K. Baldwin, losing pitcher for the Corby's tolled the distance, walking eight, striking out four, and giving up twelve hits for seventeen runs. Corby's, who were woefully weak afield contributed greatly to the one-sided score by their miscues.

Bankers Squeeze Out Win

In the night game the under dog Bankers nine squeezed out a 4-3 victory over the highly touted Quinte Dry squad in the best game seen at the Alemite Field this season, to cop their first win of the current campaign. The three Quinte Dry runs were unearned as the Banker team weakened slightly behind starting pitcher Tummon.

Tummon on the hill for the Bankers was in rare form setting the opposition down with four singles and one walk over the seven inning route, while striking out six:

Bankers opened the scoring in the bottom half of the first inning on singles by Strahan and F. Tummon. Quinte Dry came back in the top of the second to score two runs on a single and two Banker errors. The Bankers got two runs in the bottom of the third on singles by Strahan, Thompson and Shaw, with Shaw's timely blow scoring the other two with two men down.

With two men away in the bottom of the fourth inning T. Tummon got on on an error to the right fielder and advanced to second. Button got on on a shortstop's error and Strahan's third single of the game scored Tummon with what proved to be the winning run.

Doyle scored the Beverage's third run in the top of the fifth going to first on the shortstop's error and then racing around as the catcher and centre fielder threw wild. A neat double play by the Bankers cut off a threatened rally.

"Lum" Carson came in to relieve Young on the Quinte mound in the bottom of the fifth and for two innings kept the Banker's bats well muffled.

Three Whiffs in Frame

The good sized crown was tense as the Quinte crew came to the plate in the top of the seventh but Banker hurler Tummon came through with three strikeouts to retire the side.

Young, starting pitcher for Quinte Dry struck out three, walked one, and gave up six hits for four runs in four innings. Carson, relief chucker for the Beverages walked none, struck out two, and gave up no hits for the remaining two frames.

Best man at the plate for the Bankers was first baseman Strahan with three hits and two runs in three times to the dish.

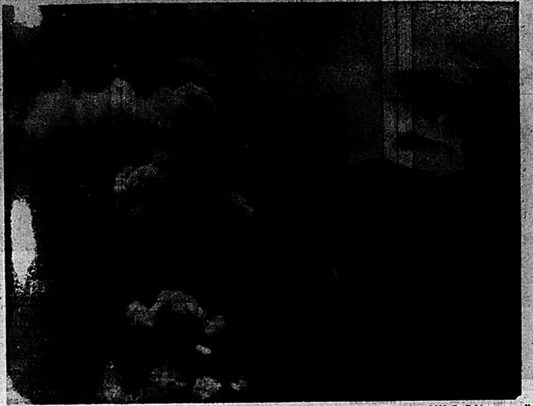
FOOD SHIPMENTS INCREASE

Auckland, N.Z. — (CP) — For the first five months of the present export season official figures revealed that New Zealand's food shipments to Britain are higher than the corresponding period last year. All classes of frozen meats, butter, cheese, tallow and apples are up.



This is an airview of thousands of acres of timber ablaze in the Mississagi area, north of Thessalon. The Mississagi fire joined yesterday with another big one in the Chapleau district. The combined blazes are racing eastward. More than 2,000 firefighters were disappointed when thunderstorms produced no rain but started two more fires by lightning.

Progress Made In Controlling Leduc Oil Well

Leduc, Alta., June 4 — (CP) — Lloyd Stafford nudged his chewing gum a bit and said "I'd say so."

Mr. Stafford, field supervisor in emergency work to control the wild Atlantic No. 3 oil well, was commenting on a reporter's question as to whether prospects are looking better.

Slow, but steady progress is being made in the grim fight to bring the $300,000,000 oil field back to normal production. However, the danger of a disastrous fire still hangs over the area and emergency restrictions remain in effect.

Nearly all crude oil held in earthen pits since the well went out of control nearly three months ago has been drained off. Full facilities of the field's pipeline to the railway was converted to this task forcing shutdown of production from more than 60 other wells.

In Edmonton it was announced the Alberta Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board is considering partial resumption of production by other wells. I. N. McKinnon, chairman of the board which took control of the field in the emergency, said resumption will depend upon ability of the pipeline to handle crude in excess of the uncontrolled production from Atlantic No. 3.

After minimizing the fire hazard by draining off the ground oil which at one time reached an estimated 75,000 barrels, the crews now are concentrating to control No. 3.

Water is being pumped down Imperial No. 48, one-quarter mile from the rogue well, at the rate of 40,000 barrels daily in hopes of blocking off the highly-porous, oil-bearing zone some 5,000 feet under No. 3's wellhead.

Simultaneously, crews are drilling two relief holes intended to slant down and meet No. 3's drill hole in the oil-bearing zone. If the water fails it is considered almost certain that solids forced down these two holes, only a few hundred yards from No. 3 on the surface, will stop the unchecked "cratering" of crude oil and natural gas through the ground fissures.

SMUTS TO VISIT THE HAGUE

Athens, June 4 — (Reuters) — Field Marshal Smuts, who arrived here Thursday on his way to Britain and The Netherlands, has postponed his departure for The Hague until the weekend. Smuts, who was defeated in the South African elections May 26, will visit Cambridge University June 10 to be installed as chancellor.

Export Price For Cotton Higher Than Domestic

Ottawa, June 4 — (CP) — The Prices Committee was told Thursday that United Kingdom cotton manufacturers charge their overseas customers higher prices than they do domestic buyers.

The question arose when Blair Gordon, president of Dominion Textiles, Ltd., the largest Canadian producers, was questioned by committee members about the effect on textile prices of the recent budget's elimination of duties on imports of British cottons.

"We know the British price is very different in the home market to what they're trying to sell at in this market," he said. "We're naturally a little apprehensive."

Questioned about his statement, Mr. Gordon said that the British export price for cotton fabrics was "much higher" than their domestic price.

Earlier, A. G. S. Griffin, former secretary of the Prices Board, said he was optimistic that Britain could achieve its target of cotton exports to Canada of 80,000,000 yards this year.

H. A. Dyde, committee counsel, questioned Mr. Gordon about the Canadian cotton industry's decline in production. Its wartime peak in 1942 was 360,000,000 yards, compared with a pre-war average of about 250,000,000 yards.

Mr. Gordon replied that for a considerable time after 1942 his industry had been rated as "non-essential" in its search for labor.

He said, however, that his own firm's present production was high. Dominion Textile Co. had experienced absenteeism among its workers of 50 per cent on Saturday morning working.

W. R. Thatcher (CCF-Moose Jaw) asked if higher wages might not be the answer.

Mr. Gordon replied that if 50 per cent extra for Saturday work would not attract people he did not know the answer.

Toronto, June 4 — (CP) — The pot is boiling for the Summer Olympics in London and as usual the ingredients going into the Olympic stew are providing some meaty morsels for the sport commentators.

It seems impossible to conduct the Olympics without incidents of one sort or another — humorous or otherwise — cropping up.

Mike (Kingston Whig - Standard) Rodden chuckled over last week's Canadian Olympics boxing trials at Montreal where a beaten boxer attacked a referee and Adam Faul of Regina won the heavyweight title — after earlier being declared the loser in a preliminary bout against Amos Dorsey of St. Catharines.

"The decision against Faul was so ridiculous that it demanded an investigation even on the part of amateur officials," said Mike. "It was then that the amazing discovery was made that Bobby Leitham, former Canadian professional bantamweight champion, had, while acting as a judge, imagined that Faul was Dorsey and vice-versa.

"The boxers were then notified that it was all a mistake and Faul proved that it was a monumental one when he defeated Jimmy Davis of Montreal and then in the final outpointed Andre Sauve of Montreal . . . if this isn't the limit in nonsense, the world must be square and the moon is a myth."

Incidents like these may have been what Andy (Toronto Star) Lytle had in mind when he remarked: 'In international sports encounters Canada occupies a position similar to that of a poor relation . . . why we do, is traceable to lack of organization. It isn't that our athletes lack ability . . . it is more that we are without competent leadership in such games categories as we confront in Davis Cup and in Olympic tilting."

Andy said Olympic talent is discovered in slap-dash fashion.

"Officials are selected on a basis of availability or old friendships. Talent is where they find it conveniently — or they sail without. Those who claim the deadwood is being eliminated in upper A. A. U. brackets, confess the process is so slow a snail's progress is rapid locomotion in comparison."

San Diego, Calif. — (AP) — "An ounce of prevention" was taken Thursday by the principals in a divorce case.

The couple walked into police headquarters and said they would like to leave their respective revolvers for safe-keeping, pending completion of divorce proceedings.

Officers obliged.

Omaha — (AP) — Mrs. Robt. A. Jeffrey, Jr., 25, became a doctor of medicine only a few minutes after she gave birth to a nine-pound, 14-ounce daughter.

Her husband, who received his medical degree last year, stood in for Mrs. Jeffrey at university commencement exercises Thursday after she went to hospital.

Mrs. Jeffrey was scheduled to receive her M.D. last year with her husband, but dropped out of school for the arrival of a son in November, 1946. This year she decided to try again for the medical degree. She completed final examinations before going to hospital.

Waterbury, Conn. — (AP) — John Febriello, 29, drove his car into a telephone pole. He backed up and smashed the pole again. The pole broke off and the front end of the car was demolished. Febriello explained he had just had an argument with his wife.

Hartford, Conn. — (AP) — The Aetna Casualty and Surety Company received Thursday what it termed a strange request.

The company said it had been asked about the availability of its motion picture short "Back to Life" for showing to students of a school in New York city.

The school, the company said, was a school of embalming.

Rough and Ready, Calif. — (AP) This gold-mining town, which once seceded from the United States, gets back on the postal map June 16.

The post office, closed for several years, will be reopened on the basis of a renewed population.

In 1850 Rough and Ready declared itself an independent republic over dissatisfaction with both the United States and California.

The "republic" collapsed July 4 during the camp's patriotic celebrations.

Sixteen Events On Card For School Regatta

St. Catharines, June 4 — (CP) — Sixteen events are on the card for the Canadian School Boy Rowing Association Regatta to be held here Saturday.

Heading the list of entrants is the St. Catharines Collegiate Institute, with an entry in every event.

The St. Catharines Rowing Club, sponsoring the meet in conjunction with the Henley Aquatic Association, in the past has concentrated on fours and eights but this year for the first time is contesting singles and doubles.

The club's Murphy Brothers, Greg and Frank, were the only Canadian entrants in a regatta at Philadelphia May 25. They won the heavy doubles event there, and will compete here Saturday.

St. Catharines has 24 entries, Buffalo Lafayette HS, with 8, Buffalo Tech 2; Toronto Parkdales 3; Toronto Western Tech 2; Hamilton CI 10; Buffalo St. Josephs 1. There are eight events in the 145-lb. (with five pounds allowance) class and another 8 in the heavyweight class, divided into Canadian and open championships.

The year was 1844 . . .

— : : : six days of turmoil—that was election week in Upper Canada! Voters formed in long queues to mount the "hustings" (a rough wooden platform) : : : declaring aloud for all to hear, "I vote for John Smith." Often groups of hard-fisted toughs stood by, armed with cudgels to be used on those who voted the "wrong way."

But men who kept true democracy as their objective finally won the right of a secret ballot—the right to vote as you wish without fear of intimidation:

When YOU cast your secret ballot at every election—municipal, provincial, federal—you exercise a duty and privilege planned, worked and fought for by your forefathers. Your vote protects the future of your children: To fail in this duty is to be less than a good citizen:

You need more of an air on your chestiness. That last argument with your bridge partner got nowhere fast. What you need is a bracer. Take a quickie review of openings. It will do you good.

Aim of opener is to show a set of minimums. Any odd or added values are announced later. Additional values are not shown first at the expense of misinforming about the minnies.

An opening of one in a suit shows a biddable suit. Minimums in such a hand are five tricks, four of which are high cards, of which two are sure tricks. Nothing less in any one of these items.

Openings of more than one are based upon entirely different sets of minimums. Some begin with more tricks. Some start with greater suit length. Or a combination of both.

Decide your opening bid with this hand:

♠K 10 7
♥K 8 3
♦A K 4
♣A Q 7 5

It is not a three bid or a four bid of any kind. Such a bid is sure to promise a very long suit, among other things. Any opening of more than two in a suit stresses suit length as its basis.

It is not an opening of two in a suit. Such an opening shows at least nine tricks. No worry as to how many big cards. Its basis of a minimum of nine tricks assures enough high and sure cards.

It is not an opening of two no-trump. Such an opening promises from seven to eight high cards (aces, kings, queens). This hand has only six; not quite enough.

It is not an opening of one no-trump. No-trump denies a biddable suit. This hand has a biddable club suit. Those who open such a hand with one no-trump are specialists.

Thus do you come to the decision that it is an opening of one club. If partner says it is wrong, he lacks the right basis. Do you try to convince him of this during a bridge game? Silly boy.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 4 — (AP) — Vivian Romance, the torrid French actress, is reported aiming for a Hollywood invasion and hopes to co-star with Glenn Ford.

This news comes from Glenn himself, who happily learned that he is the French star's first choice for a leading man when she makes a picture here. A deal for her services is being cooked up and Glenn is hoping Columbia will let him do the film with her.

Meanwhile, the non-stop actor expects to start another film as soon as he finishes his current one. Next will be "Mr. Miracle," a settlement house yarn which will be partly shot in New York.

Western Jag

Joel McCrea continues his western film jag. He has sifted through 24 scripts and has come up with an untitled outdoor yarn on an epic scale. It will follow "Tennessee's Partner" and he hopes to interest Ginger Rogers as co-star.

Bill Holden is worried. He has had but two pictures before the public in eight years and now four of his films are slated for release in November. He's afraid the public won't want so much Holden. I don't think he need worry.

George Raft faces a big problem with his "Outpost Morocco." He filmed all the location shots in North Africa. He'll finish the film here and now he has to find exact doubles for all the characters in the overseas footage.

Incidental Intelligence

Victor Jory joins the "South of St. Louis" cast and he and Joel McCrea will have one of those tremendous fights that seem utterly necessary in film westerns. Victor recently had a gruelling knife duel with Glenn Ford in "Carmen." In his spare time, he narrates kiddie stories.

Business Spotlight

(By The Canadian Press)

One of the most enthusiastic exhibitors at the Canadian International Trade Fair in Toronto is R.E.G. Windsor, plastics machinery manufacturer of London, England.

He has reasons. With his equipment on display only three days he sold six $11,000 plastic moulding injection machines to Argentina, and others to Norway, Denmark, Columbia and Peru. One day he placed $120,000 in orders in three hours.

He hopes to sell in Canada. He may be prejudiced, inasmuch as selling machinery in his business but he thinks Canada has a golden opportunity in the plastics industry because she has the raw materials at hand.

In this regard he recited one of Britain's vital problems —she can manufacture but she hasn't the raw materials at hand and they are costing more and more to import.

Another British representative Peter M. Wilson leading the leather exhibitors said things did not move so fast in that line in the early days of the fair, but one Canadian order had been placed for $40,000 worth of slippers.

Markets Thursday

The stock markets dipped Thursday, New York taking its worst set-back of the week and The Associated Press 60-stock average declining .2 to 70.9, putting the general level back where it ended Monday. Losses of fractions to more than a point studded the list, but closing quotations were a shade above the lows of the day in many cases.

Toronto was dull with all groups off, and Montreal had about the same picture.

Chicago grains receded on word that a House of Representatives Committee had recommended a 25 per cent cut in the amount of money to be appropriated for European aid on the ground that European crops had improved. In Winnipeg July rye dropped its 10-cent limit, oats was mixed and barley ahead.

TO STAGE MOCK RESCUE

Halifax — (CP) — Main feature of the R.C.A.F.'s "Air Force Day" here June 12 will be the rescue of a "crashed flier" from Halifax harbor by a Lancaster bomber and helicopter.

At a Barrie meeting a persistent campaign of heckling by a woman, Mrs. John Lougheed, resulted in a general uproar at the gathering. The woman was described by the chairman of the meeting as the wife of a C.C.F. candidate.

Mr. Oliver told a Windsor meeting that Labor could be confident its interests would be upheld by the Liberal party. But he advised labor organizations against "swearing allegiance" to any particular political party.

"Labor can obtain from the Liberal party every advance in good social legislation it can get from any other party, regardless of what it professes or what it calls itself."

He said the Liberal platform included a pledge to raise Workmen's Compensation payments from 66 2-3 of a workman's wages to 75 per cent and to shorten the waiting period for payments from one week to three days.

Jolliffe Answers Drew

Mr. Jolliffe charged the Drew government is more interested in denouncing Communism than in promoting a housing program.

"The only real answer to Communism is to go ahead with constructive measures for progress. Better housing, better health services, equality of educational opportunity, fair labor legislation, a fair deal for the consumer and producer are things which will do more to stop Communism than any of the wild speeches of Conservative leaders."

Mr. Coldwell, addressing the same meeting, said Premier Drew "is doing his best to misrepresent" the work of Saskatchewan's C.C.F. government.

"The success and example of the Saskatchewan government is worrying the old party leaders," he said.

Mr. Abbott told the Oshawa gathering he knew in advance his 1948 budget would not be popular in some quarters but it was "sound and sensible."

"When you're working full-time and earning good money is the time to pay your debts," he said.

Mr. Macdonnell criticized C.C.F. policies, which he said would lead to "a muskeg of confusion". He said the C.C.F. theory attracted some well-meaning people who believed business to be successful must be "tough", as well as some persons who took no trouble to advance themselves and envied those who made the effort.

Carmel

Carmel—The farmers are busy planting their potatoes, corn and tomatoes.

Mrs. H. B. Simpson and son, Don of Montreal spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. G. Vandewater and family, and also with Mr. Chas. Simpson.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stienberg, of Brooklyn, N.Y., are spending a few weeks at their cottage.

Mr. Albert Bannister has purchased a new tomato planter.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Latone spent Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. H. Goodfellow.

Mr. Harry Harrison was a caller on Mr. Harry Dafoe on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Alkens, also Mr. and Mrs. Donald Carruthers, Jimmy, and Jean, of Belleville, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. G. Vandewater.

I.O.D.E. Urges Compulsory Military Training for Youth

Halifax, June 4 — (CP)—After going on record for compulsory military training for all Canadian youth, the 48th annual meeting of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire concluded here Thursday.

During the six-day convention, more than 400 delegates, representing 31,000 members of 933 I. O. D. E. chapters across Canada, elected a new national president, passed anti-communist resolutions and heard reports of 16 national officers.

Chief resolution to come under discussion was the universal training recommendation which was favored because "adoption of universal training would foster deeper patriotism and strengthen Canada."

When they turned their attention to radio, they suggested the Order set up "listening committees" throughout each province to determine whether "democracy is being undermined by radio programs."

They also urged the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation to make fuller use of commentators and newscasters who will impress upon the public a greater realization of the communist menace.

The federal government will be requested to set up a committee on information which would supply newspapers with information on the history and activities of subversive groups operating in Canada.

During the day about 300 out-of-town delegates were entertained aboard Canada's new aircraft carrier, Magnificent, which arrived here Tuesday. Commodore H. G. Dewolf announced that the National I. O. D. E. chapter had decided to adopt the Magnificent.

Mrs. F. P. McCurdy, Toronto, was elected national president, succeeding Mrs. Ryland H. New of Oakville, who held that position for the last four years. Mrs. New was made an honorary vice-president.

Seven new post-graduate scholarship winners were announced during the sessions, and six other winners, who were granted $1,600 First War Memorial scholarships last year, have been given an opportunity to continue their studies in a British university.

It was also announced that bursaries of $1,600 would be granted in Canadian universities under the Second War memorial fund. Bursaries are offered to one student in each province and the Yukon Territory who are studying under a three, four or five year course. These will go into effect Sept. 1, 1949.

It was announced by Mrs. W. R. Walton, Jr., of Oakville, Ont., that $8,136,773 has been spent by the I. O. D. E. during the 1940-48 period. Of this total, $4,030,986 was spent on general or peacetime work while the remainder was spent on the various phases of war and post-war work.

OFFICE NURSE

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

Janice smiled. Her mother was so obvious. But why was she worried? Janice did not consider herself resigned to single blessedness at her age. At least she had not, but now—No, that was the kind of thinking she and Eric had forbidden themselves. Who could tell what the future would bring? Who wanted to know, with the present so perfect?

Yet afterwards Janice was to mark the conversation on this particular Sunday as the beginning of the end of that perfection. She had known it could not endure forever. That was why she and Eric had shielded it so carefully.

"We want you to be happy, dear." Her mother's voice was unusually gentle.

"Of course," Janice answered.

I am happy, she told herself. I am terribly, unbelievably happy because I have Eric and his love.

It cannot last. She did not really have him. He did not belong to her. It was inconceivable that he ever would.

I am in love with a married man. There, she had said to to herself. It was a fact. It was such a hard fact it could not be pushed into the background. Janice experienced a deep dismay, an utter wretchedness that had nothing to do with the happiness she had just claimed was hers.

"We rather hoped, your father and I," her mother was saying in a voice that seemed far away, "that you might marry Ben. He is such a nice boy. I know, dear, that it's not supposed to be our business, and we don't want to interfere, but as I said, all we want is your happiness. We want that very much."

"I'm fond of Bengy," Janice heard herself answering, "but I don't love him."

"How can you be so sure?" her mother asked. Her eyes, her tone, added, How do you, my daughter, know so much about love unless you have found it?

Janice hoped her eyes did not give her away. "I'm as sure as anyone could be." She knew her tone was too light, almost frivolous.

Her mother gave a little sigh. She got up from the bed and put an arm around her daughter's straight shoulders. She brushed Janice's cheek with her lips; a fleeting caress, yet it turned Janice's heart over and brought tears to her eyes and a lump to her throat.

And after her mother left the room, Janice sank down on the bed and covered her face with her hands.

Mildred Hilary had given her daughter something. But she had taken something away, too.

No, Janice was no longer happy. The balloon had burst. She had come down to earth, landing with the sort of jolt a paratrooper might get when his chute did not open. In Janice's case it was not her body that had been smashed to fragments; it was her heart.

She thought of insisting upon that talk with Eric at the first opportunity. But he would only beg her for further postponement. And what good was talk? It could get them nowhere, offer no solution.

She thought of resigning her position. But she could not do that at the moment. Eileen McRae needed her. So far neither Ben nor his pal, Ed, had found Edna Mae. Eileen was going on living, somehow; she was trying to follow her everyday pattern of life. Janice could not desert her now. That would be putting her own problem first; it would be cowardly.

But to stay, to be with Eric day in and day out and to know that she could never actually be with him would be worse than unhappiness. It would be misery. Before this realization had settled like a weight upon her heart, there had been the deep intimacy of their shared secret. But now it was no longer a secret that sang within her, but a dull, stilled aching.

Janice knew that it was no longer a secret. She felt certain that her mother suspected strongly that something was amiss. Even Albie acted oddly at times, as when, without reason, Janice would find her younger sister staring at her. One such time when Janice had asked somewhat abruptly why her younger sister was looking at her so intently, Albie had said:

"I wonder if anyone can be happy when it makes someone else unhappy? Was I looking at you, Jan? I didn't know I was. I was just thinking."

• • •

Janice was left with the feeling that Albie, as well as her mother, was anxious about her. Anyone would think, she thought rebelliously, that she was still in her teens.

She seemed to be the concern of others besides the family. Miss Willows asked, one morning, out of a clear sky, why Janice didn't take a vacation.

"Why on earth should I?" Janice returned more sharply than she had intended.

Miss Willows shook her head and set her lips. "Why on earth shouldn't you?" she parried. "You only took a week this summer."

"For heaven's sake!" Janice said, forcing a little laugh, "I don't need a vacation." Was there more behind this suggestion of Miss Willows' than met the eye? Or was Janice becoming oversensitive?

"I just mentioned it," Miss Willows said.

It would not have been so bad, had not Betty Jane Coxe offered Janice an aspirin later that same day. This seemed an innocent enough proceeding in itself, but in Janice's opinion, it, too, was uncalled for.

"Why no, thanks," Janice said, glancing at Betty Jane in surprise. The two girls were standing in front of the mirror in the rest room, putting on the last-minute touches before leaving the office. Janice was lingering, at Eric's suggestion, as he hoped he would get out of an appointment and join her for part of the evening at least. "I don't want an aspirin," she added.

Betty Jane's pretty face flushed and she said hastily, "I was going to take one—I feel as if I'm coming down with a cold—and I just thought you might like one. They're good if you have a headache, too. Don't you really want one?" She proffered the small box taken from her bulky purse. She had not taken any herself; it did not appear that she intended to.

• • •

Janice found that her voice, as with Miss Willows, was sharper than she meant it to be. "I said no, thank you. I haven't a headache, she added, a little less irritably.

"I'm glad you haven't a headache," the other girl returned. "I'm glad, too, that you aren't coming down with a cold, Miss Hilary. Well"—her pretty face was still somewhat flushed, her china blue eyes wide and wistful—"I'll say good night then. Got to be running along. I'm meeting the boy friend tonight and he gets mad as hops when I keep him waiting."

Betty Jane hurried away, and Janice stood looking at herself in the same mirror that had reflected Betty Jane's confident young face. She thought, That's it. That's why Mother and Albie and Miss Willows have been saying the kind of things they have lately, looking at me in that speculative way. The unhappiness in her face showed.

This cannot go on any longer, Janice decided. She could no longer live with that wretched, utter misery inside her. She would rather have complete emptiness in its place. Any finality would be better than this doubt and confusion. You could look that in the face and, with time, adjust yourself to it. But to go on as they were, she and Eric, no, she could not—she would not.

Janice resolved to exercise her common sense that same evening. But, as luck would have it, she was not able to. Eric could not get out of his appointment; he told Janice that if he could break away early enough, he would get in touch with her and they could see each other for an hour, perhaps. But Janice told him that perhaps he had better not try. And as it happened, that was just as well, because when she came out of the office building she found Ben Archer waiting at the entrance for her.

And he brought good news. Or what he said he hoped would turn out to be good news. He had not come upstairs to Dr. Holbrook's offices because he had been afraid Mrs. McRae might still be there. He did not want to give that poor woman any false hopes. But he thought her husband and her little girl had been located. "Thanks to Ed," Ben added, modestly.

"Oh, that's wonderful!" Janice thought it was so wonderful that her own troubles were banished for the moment. "How did your friend ever find them? Where are they now? What are we going to do about it?"

"Not so fast," Ben said, taking her arm and starting to walk.

• • •

He did not have on a hat, and the lights, just beginning to come on in the wintry dusk, made a spot of copper of his sandy head. He looked bigger and broader than usual in his topcoat.

"I don't know just how Ed finally ran him down — this McRae guy," Ben told her, not slackening his pace. "He just got in touch with me and gave me the dope."

"You mean the address?" She became a little breathless keeping up with Ben. He was expert, though, at pushing through the homeward-bound crowds, avoiding tangled traffic. Janice knew from past experience that there was no use in asking him to go slower; he would slow up only for a brief while, and then, forgetting, plunge back into his regular stride.

Eric was more thoughtful; he always matched his step to hers. But Ben pushed through anything, anywhere, dragging Janice along with him. Now he was pushing her down the crowded stairway, through a maze of underground ramps to Grand Central Station, without stopping to enlighten her as to their ultimate destination.

"I mean the address," Ben finally answered. "What I hope will prove to be the right address. Why this guy had to pick such an inconvenient spot, I don't know. Ed's pretty good, I think, to have run him down. Think he said he found him through a personal ad in some paper. Of course, Jan, you must realize that it could be the wrong steer. McRae and the kid may already have taken it on the lamb by the time we get there. Stand right here and I'll be back," he ordered, leaving her by a post while he went to a ticket window.

• • •

"You might enlighten me," Janice said, with just a shade of exasperation, when he came back to grab her by an arm and start moving again. "Are we going there—to this address that you and Ed think may be the right one? And what will we do if we find that it is, or isn't? And—"

"One step at a time," Ben advised. "How can I tell? Certainly, we're going there. What if it does turn out to be the wrong hunch? It's worth following, isn't it? The reason we have to hurry is that, as I just explained, this guy McRae may get scared, thinking it over. From what Ed said, he advertised for someone who was willing to take care of a little girl, for small pay, in pleasant country surroundings. But as I said, one step at a time. How do I know what we'll do until we get there?"

"I hope you'll get a bright idea when we do," Janice murmured, allowing him to push their way through the crowd waiting to get on a train at one of the gates. She was not really exasperated or alarmed. She was pleased, and grateful to Ben and his friend, even if this hunch should turn out wrong. Any hunch was worth following. Eileen McRae would come to the breaking point before long, Janice knew; the point Janice herself had reached such a short while ago in the rest room. Moreover, she was not alarmed because she knew that Ben would be able to cope with whatever this hunch might produce.

Janice felt better. She had actually put aside her own problems. Part of that ache was gone. Common sense was a good steadying rod to lean on. Thinking first about someone else instead of yourself was another. And then, too, it was good to be with Ben, at his side in the old comradely fashion. It just made you feel good somehow, so good that it did not matter that they might be headed for trouble.

Eric Holbrook had never thought it could happen to him. He had always kept his feet on the ground. Even as a youngster he had known the kind of life he wanted.

He had wanted to be someone important, someone people would look up to.

And now that his life was secure in that very niche of professional and social prominence he had so early set his sights on, he did not want to acknowledge this thing that had happened to him. He did not want to make a place for it.

He knew, of course, that the day would come when he would have to do something about it. He knew that that day could not be far distant; it would arrive all too soon.

It arrived the day Janice did not come to the office.

Janice was seldom late. She was seldom absent. When she was either she had always phoned to explain. Therefore Dr. Holbrook—and Miss Willows, Mrs. McRae and Miss Coxe —thought nothing of her absence until the morning had worn on and it became obvious that Miss Hilary was not only not coming in, but she was not phoning in explanation.

Later in the morning, Dr. Holbrook paused before Miss Willows' desk.

"I wonder if we ought to phone Miss Hilary's home and ask if she is ill or anything?" he said anxiously.

Janice had acted queerly the evening before. She had waited as he had asked, but when he had told her that he had not been able to get out of his meeting but would try to get away early, she had said he must not bother. He had not liked the way she said it.

"I did phone," Miss Willows admitted.

"Yes?" The doctor did not try to curb the impatience in his voice.

"Mrs. Hilary said that she had had a message last night from her daughter. From somewhere upstate." Miss Willows told him what she had learned in her usual crisp manner. "Miss Hilary said that she would not be back until today. Her mother said that she had assumed her daughter had gotten back in time to come to the office, or that she had sent a similar message to us. Otherwise she would have let us know. She said she was very sorry if her daughter's absence had inconvenienced us."

• • •

Dr. Holbrook did not enjoy his lunch. His mind was in a turmoil. Janice was not ill; she had sent a message home. But where was she, and why should she go off that way without saying anything to anyone?

He had never thought that this could happen to him. To other men, yes—but not to anyone with his feet so firmly on the ground, his brain so clear, his glands functioning so properly. Other men, especially when they reached that fine line between youth and middle age, floundered a while in a kind of mental or emotional swamp. Some pulled out; some did not. They made complete idiots of themselves, casting to the far winds everything they held dear.

Not that Eric thought of Janice as a swamp of any sort. He thought what he always had, that she was a nice girl, an extremely nice girl. Added to this, he now thought of her as someone apart from everyone else. She was not only a nice girl, and an efficient, invaluable office nurse, she was Janice—his Janice, who had jolted him out of his complacency, awakening him to new horizons, stirring his blood.

It was unthinkable that he should offer anyone as nice as Janice a shoddy back-street romance. Their shared meetings, their love, had never touched anything so ugly as that. Eric respected Janice as much as he loved her. And aside from Elissa, he had never loved anyone else.

He had asked himself before what had happened to his marriage. Now he knew; he and Elissa no longer loved each other. The magic had fled. Nothing except habit and a mutual mild liking had taken its place. Why, they scarcely spent three full months out of the year together!

I am not married to Elissa any more, Eric told himself. Therefore he was free—in a way. Naturally he had to tell Elissa about it. He was sure she would divorce him. Then he would be free, and he could marry Janice.

He had not thought, until this morning when Janice had not appeared and he had become so worried, that it would actually lead to this end. He had deliberately avoided thinking where it was leading. But now that he saw it, it was as clear and as certain to him as his professional goal had been.

EGYPTIAN FORCE CUT OFF WITH YIBNA RECAPTURE

Struggle to Stem Flood Sweeping Into City of Trail

New Danger at W. Kootenay Of Driftwood Ripping Dikes

By ERWIN FRICKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Vancouver, B.C., June 5 (CP)—Army and civilian workers in the Smelter City of Trail, B.C., on the Columbia River, 250 miles east of here, battled furiously today in an attempt to stem the rampaging waters of the flood-swollen river from sweeping into the heart of the city's business section.

Heavy duty pumps and 12,000 sandbags were flown in late Friday by the RCAF to help in the fight. The pumps and sorely-needed bags were greeted with cheers by the exhausted flood workers.

With farmer weather forecast, the higher temperatures were expected to result in increased run-off from mountain snows. The Columbia already had risen 9½ inches in the last 24 hours.

One hundred waterfront residents have been evacuated from their homes.

The public works department warned of a new threat to the defences of the West Kootenay centre. The Columbia, which has already caused the greatest destruction in Oregon history, was debris strewn and the catapulting driftwood could rip wide holes in Trail levees.

Troops as Aid

At nearby Creston, near-prostrate flood-fighters had needed help coming. Four officers and 100 men of the Lord Strathcona Regiment were due to arrive by air from Edmonton to relieve them.

The reinforcements were requested by civic officials who said men in the area "are just done for" from fatigue.

Dikes holding the surging Kootenay River were reported pitted and water-logged. Last Monday the dike of the south side of the river gave way and flooded 8,000 acres of fertile wheatland.

The Edmonton troops will bring to more than 300 the number assigned from Alberta to assist British Columbia in its flood disaster.

Two hundred members of the Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry from Calgary are already engaged in sandbagging operations.

Meanwhile sorely-stricken flood victims received heartening news. Maj.-Gen. B. M. Hoffmeister and Eric W. Hamber, former Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia were appointed to two-man commission to direct the spending of millions of dollars in rehabilitation.

Assistance of Fodder for Livestock.

At a meeting of the B.C. Flood Relief Committee, Friday night, Gen. Hoffmeister, representing the Federal government, assured the committee that it would provide financial assistance to insure sufficient fodder for livestock in the stricken areas.

Some Fraser Valley farmers have been selling their livestock to buyers taking advantage of their predicament at fantastically low prices. To offset this livestock "pirateering" the provincial government also promised assistance.

The rehabilitation was largely directed to the Fraser Valley, which already has suffered more than $30,000,000 damage, 9,000 made homeless and more than 60,000 acres laid a watery waste. But other areas like Prince Rupert, which today reported optimistically "we epect to get our trains moving in three weeks," would also benefit.

PROVINCE VOTES MONDAY, ELECTION CAMPAIGN ENDS

Premier Runs Into Heckling While Speaking in C.C.F. Leader's Riding

Toronto, June 5 — (CP)—The Ontario general election campaign ends tonight and the people of the province vote Monday.

With leaders of the three major parties adding final touches of campaign oratory, the 290 candidates for the 90 legislature seats prepared to complete their arguments and await the verdict.

Polls will be open voting day from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. EDT.

Premier Drew, Liberal leader Farquhar Oliver and C.C.F. leader E. B. Jolliffe spoke Friday night. John Bracken, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, and M. J. Coldwell, national C. C. F. leader, also took part in the speechmaking.

The Progressive Conservatives have 90 candidates in the running, the Liberals 88 plus two Liberal-Labor, the C. C. F. 81 and the Union of Electors, which supports some Social Credit policies, 12. The rest of the field is made up of two Labor-Progressive party candidates and by Independents and miscellaneous groups.

Premier Drew ran into a wave of noisy heckling Friday night when he addressed a campaign meeting in York South, the riding contested by Mr. Jolliffe. A mixture of jeers and cheers greeted the premier as he rose to speak.

"I did not arrange this specifically to show how the communists carry on democracy," he said. "We have the C. C. F. and communists here together. You are hearing the only argument they have got."

Mr. Drew said every communist would vote with the C. C. F. and that the way to make a vote count was to cast it for the party he (Mr. Drew) led.

Explains Housing Plan

The Premier explained his government's housing plan. He said he wanted to remind the audience that the C.C.F. voted for the plan in the legislature although they had since criticized it.

Atty-General Predicts Return Of Drew Govt.

Toronto, June 5 (CP)—Attorney-General Blackwell Frday night predicted the return of the Drew government in Monday's Ontario general election and said he believed the C.C.F. would be the official opposition in the next legislature.

He told a campaign meeting he expected the Liberal party which held 11 seats in the last House plus two Liberal-Labor, would have fewer seats than that in the next legislature.

Accompanied by Lady Alexander and his daughter, the Hon. Rose Alexander, the Governor-General will fly in a transport command Dakota to Rio de Janeiro.

STAID AND SOBER COMMONS GETS A BIT RISQUE

Members Want Inflow Sex Literature Stopped

Ottawa, June 5 (CP)— The staid and sober House of Commons got a bit risque Friday. It talked sex.

It was all in the line of duty, on as prosaic an item as the post office department estimates.

John Diefenbaker, the long, lean Progressive Conservative member from the Saskatchewan riding of Lake Centre, injected the spicy subject into the proceedings. He wanted to know what the department was doing to stop the inflow of salacious and pornographic literature into the country through the mails.

Postmaster-General Bertrand said he was going to do something about it personally. He was going to read "The Sex Behavior of the human male," the non-fiction book by Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey.

Just as a safeguard he was going to have someone else read it too so he wouldn't be the only one to pass judgment.

Quipped Mr. Diefenbaker, with tongue in check:

"I am interested in the fact that the minister is going to look over this book and that he is justifying his doing so on the ground that it is in the interests of Canadian morals."

Plans Clarification

Mr. Bertrand said he planned to seek clarification from the justice department on the post office edpartment's powers to deny the use of the mails to indecent literature.

The chamber approved the postal estimates and turned to more serious subjects, Canada's trade relations as embodied in the trade department estimates.

Ninety-four divorce bills were given second reading—approval in principle—over the protest of Quebec members.

P. E. Gagnon (Ind.-Chicoutimi) and Dr. Pierre Gauthier (L-Portneuf) suggested parliament refuse to handle the divorce bills while Stanley Knowles (CCF Winnipeg North Centre) proposed that the exchequer court rather than parliament handle divorces from Quebec.

40 Buildings Destroyed In $500,000 Fire

St. Victor de Tring, Que., June 5 — (CP) — Almost half of St. Victor's population today occupied army tents in the valley below this Beauce county village where 40 buildings were razed Friday in a $500,000 fire.

Fifteen marquee tents, beds, and stoves provided by military headquarters of the Quebec district were installed Friday night for 4 families left homeless in St. Victor's second disastrous fire in 17 years. Twenty homes burned June 5, 1931.

Relief measures were arranged at a meeting attended by the municipal council, representatives of the military and the Red Cross Society. Housing equipment was dispatched immediately from Quebec.

Destroyed in the blaze, started from an oil-heated chicken brooder, were 35 homes, the Convent of Les Servantes du Saint Coeur de Marie, a bank, the post office, telephone exchange and an undertaking parlor. Several other buildings were combination business-shops and dwellings.

Whipped by a high west wind swirling up from the valley to the mountain-top village, the fire swept from house-to-house in little time.

Handicapped by lack of a water system, fire fighters resorted to drastic measures in an attempt to check progress of the flames. One home was dynamited to force a break. Equipment of four brigades from neighboring centres were pooled to draw water from the Le Bras River to save the church.

Roughly half the buildings in the village were levelled.

St. Victor proper has a population of almost 500. But the parish, which was preparing this year to celebrate the 100th anniversary of its founding, has a population of 2,500 mostly farmers.

Madoc Man Knocks Out Hold-Up Man in Local Hotel

Knocked unconscious when felled by a blow from the fist of a Madoc resident as he was in the act of holding up two men in the waiting room of the Crystal Hotel, Bernard M. McNeil, 26, of Cape Breton, N.S., early this morning was taken into custody by local police and charged with robbery with violence.

With his hand in his coat pocket as though holding a revolver, McNeil had confronted Gerald Quinn, Ottawa, in the hotel waiting room and ordered him to hand over his money, saying "this is a stickup." Quinn was relieved of $15 and McNeil was in the act of holding up Chas. Aikens, night clerk, who had entered the room from the rear, when the hold-up man was felled by a blow from the fist of Finley Smith, Madoc, who had entered the room from the street.

Arrested with McNeil was Murray Gray, 21, of Saint John, N.B., who was also charged with robbery with violence, although he protested he had no knowledge of McNeil's actions. The money taken from Quinn was found on McNeil's person. McNeil was released from Dorchester Penitentiary in N.S. on April 4th, after having served time for forgery and attempted theft with violence.

According to the police story, Quinn was confronted by McNeil as the former entered the hotel waiting room at 1.45 this morning. McNeil had relieved Quinn of his money and was attempting to hold up the night clerk when Smith with two other men entered the hotel and saw what was in progress.

Smith was carrying his suit coat over his arm and immediately threw the coat over McNeil's head. He then felled the hold-up man with a blow from his fist. Police were immediately on the scene and had no difficulty in apprehending McNeil who was still unconscious on the floor.

Several Fires Blaze Unchecked Over 200 Square Miles Of North Ontario's Bushland

(By The Canadian Press)

Several big, unchecked forest fires blazed today over 125,000 acres, or almost 200 square miles, of Northern Ontario's vast bushland.

Some 2,000 firefighters hoped for a heavy downpour of rain to help them quell the devastating fires. Light rain and high humidity already had offered some relief and lessened the fire hazard in a few sectors of the flame-scarred north.

No longer "running wild" are the two worst fires in the densely-forested Mississagi and Chapleau districts. Each is still officially estimated at 50,000 acres.

District Forester A. W. Leman said at Sault Ste. Marie that they had not joined and were still several miles apart.

Rain which eased the situation in some regions had not fallen in these two main trouble spots. Except near Kirkland Lake, where showers were "heavy" the rain had not approached the downpour experts said was needed.

In the northwestern Quebec District of Rouyn, a one-inch rainfall Friday helped fire crews put out small blazes. Quebec authorities reported fires in Louvicourt and Joannes Townships near control and termed the situation there "encouraging".

Ontario fires had necessitated the use of Provincial government equipment. They have razed logging camps and at least one house in a havoc-wreaking rampage which sent timber, fish and wildelife losses up into millions of dollars.

Lands Minister Scott, who shelved election-campaign plans early this week to go to the fire front, returned today to Peterborough, the city he represents in the Legislature.

"There is a general feeling of optimism in the conflagration area," he said in an interview. A flight over the Mississaga and Chapleau fires disclosed no sign that the two had joined. Although smoke tends to hamper observation, the fires are believed still several miles apart.

Mr. Scott said the government's ban on non-essential travel in some 75,000 square miles of bushland has been well received by lodge owners, tourists, outfitters, loggers and pulp company officials. The ban will be in effect until the fire danger is past.

Two thousand men are fighting the fires. Their hope lies in a heavy downpour of rain. So far their main help from the elements has been a combination of light rain and high humidity.

Ontario Farms Feel Effects Of Cold, Early Spring

Toronto, June 5 (CP) — Some Ontario farms still are feeling the effects of the cold, wet weather of early Spring, the Provincial Agriculture Department said Friday in its weekly crop report. These are some of the county reports.

Bruce—"Many low, wet spots are killed out and a lot of grain fields look patchy."

Perth—"Many farmers have been obliged to re-seed parts of grain fields where seed rotted."

Simcoe North — "Farmers on low, wet land still have most of their seeding to put in."

Elgin—"Spring grain is badly killed out in many districts."

Lambton—"A very considerable acreage of Spring-sown oats had to be torn up this week owing to poor germination."

Middlesex—"Some fields sown just before the heavy rains have had to be re-seeded."

Welland—"Fields of oats have been damaged considerably by wet weather. Some field have been re-seeded."

Wentworth—"Many fields of oats which were sown have been drowned out."

HIROHITO'S STALLION HAD CANCER

Fort Wayne, Ind., June 5 (AP) —Hatiushimo, white Arabian stallion which had been exhibited as the former steed of Emperor Hirohito of Japan, was put to death Friday because he was suffering from cancer. The horse, whose name was translated as "White Frost", was bought three months ago by Paul Hobrock and Charles McKinley of Fort Wayne.

Say Radioactive Mineral Found Near Wilberforce

Bancroft, June 5. —A new occurrence of radioactive mineral has been reported in Monmouth Township, near Essonville, about half way between the villages of Tory Hill and Wilberforce.

The find was made May 21 by Douglas Weaver, Lakefield geologist; Fred Walsh, a prospector from Tory Hill; and W. G. Pitt, resident engineer for Fission Mines at Wilberforce. They were prospecting on Crown land when the geiger counters indicated radioactive ore. Since that time the area has been staked and recorded.

Mr. Pitt said the find was made four miles west of Wilberforce, in the same area where another find was made last Autumn. The surface outcrop extends over 800 feet along the line of strike, he said today, and the area has shown outcrops over a distance of three miles through properties owned by private individuals and mining companies.

At least six companies have been staking and purchasing claims in the area, which embraces a section between Bancroft and Gooderham, roughly 20 miles long and nine miles wide. Bill Fairbairn, original discoverer of radium ore in the Eldorado area, has negotiated purchase of claims it was learned in Wilberforce.

Three field men from the Atomic Control Commission, Ottawa, headed by Dr. Ellsworth, are reported to have spent three days in the field since the find was first reported, shortly after May 21.

REFERENDUM WILL BE HELD ABOUT MIDDLE OF JULY

Commission Govt. Runs Poor Third in Ballot

St. John's, Nfld., June 5 (CP)—The second referendum on Newfoundland's future form of government will be held about the middle of July, it was announced here today. The exact date has not been decided.

Commission government, which has ruled since the old colony went bankrupt in 1934, ran a bad third in Thursday's referendum polling only an approximate 15 per cent of the votes cast an eligible 176,297.

For the other two it was a neck-and-neck tussle, with responsible government—and the attraction of possible ceonomic union with the United States—pulling out a slight lead.

The last official count issued showed a total of 149,525 votes were counted since the polls closed Thursday night. Of these 67,304 were for responsible government, 60,816 for confederation and 21,405 for commission government.

Neither responsible government with 45 per cent nor confederation with 40 per cent could get the clear majority of 51 per cent of the votes needed to decide the future form of government for the island.

There is still no official anoncement on a second referendum, although close observers expect an announcement in about 10 days and estimate they will go to the polls again within two months.

No matter which future Newfoundlanders faced, they still knew that there would be still another election—to lect their representatives either to responsible government or to sit in the legislature of a 10th Canadian province.

Cecil Merritt And C.D. Howe Have Verbal Spat

Ottawa, June 5 — (CP)—The Commons, which day in and day out gets some of the country's best oratory as well as some of lesser quality, Friday night almost had a 40-minute Rotary Club address foisted on it.

The innovation arose from a couple of verbal spats between Trade Minister Howe and Cecil Merritt, V. C. (PC-Vancouver - Burrard) as the House opened study of Mr. Howe's estimates.

Mr. Merritt pressed Mr. Howe to give the chamber a review of his department's activities and, when Mr. Howe indicated he was prepared only to answer questions, protested against the minister's "disgraceful flouting of this House."

When committee chairman W. H. Golding (L — Huron-Perth) suggested Mr. Merritt's language was verging on the unparliamentary, the Vancouver member said he felt then that Mr. Howe "does not pay the respect to this House which this House deserves."

He wondered, he went on, why Mr. Howe took time out a week or two ago to address the Rotary Club in Montreal, giving its members considerable information about the trade department.

"I wonder what the Rotary Club has got that we haven't got," he remarked tartly.

Mr. Howe jumped to his feet. He said he had his Rotary Club address before him. He could read it to the House. It would only take 40 minutes.

Mr. Merritt said hastily that that wouldn't be necessary. (Whereupon the House membership heaved a collective sigh of relief.)

Mr. Merritt then asked Mr. Howe how much Canada would get from the United States European recovery program.

Mr. Howe said he thought Mr. Merritt should be a "little sensible." Canada didn't get anything under E. R. P. If anything, she was a contributor to the recovery program. Anyway, he was not very good at "guessing."

Iraqis Claim Rout Of 5,000 Jews With 500 Killed

Jews Report Naval Skirmish With Four Egyptian Vessels

Cairo, June 5 — (AP)—Israeli forces have recaptured Yibna, peak of the Egyptian thrust into Jewish territory, and have cut off a "considerable" force of Egyptians who drove up the coast on the road to Tel Aviv, the Jewish high command reported today.

Israeli headquarters said Friday's Egyptian naval sortie into Jewish waters off Tel Aviv may have been an attempt at a "little Dunkerque" to remove the coastal spearhead. The Jews reported their planes and coastal guns routed four Egyptian vessels in the first naval skirmish of the Palestine war.

There were conflicting reports on the battle for Jenin, top of the Arab triangle in northern Palestine. An Iraqi communique in Baghdad Friday night said 5,000 Jews were routed there with a loss of 580 killed and 1,000 wounded but Jewish headquarters in Tel Aviv said Israeli's forces continued to "hold all positions captured in this sector."

Yibna, on the coastal highway to Tel Aviv, is five miles inside territory claimed by the state of Israel and 15 miles south of the Tel Aviv-Jaffa area. It is nine miles north of Isdud, where the Jews said the main force of the Egyptian spearhead now is encircled. Nearby is Ramle, where the Egyptians might have linked up with Arab Legion and Iraqi units.

The Jewish communique said the Egyptians attempted to break out of a trap and suffered losses in armor.

The Cairo newspaper Akhbar El Yom reported the Egyptian army, navy and air force began an offensive at dawn today, but gave no details. There was no word of this from Tel Aviv.

Trucking in Bond Through Ontario Thing of Past

St. Thomas, June 5 — (CP) — Highways Minister Doucett said Friday night that trucking in bond through Ontario is a thing of the past.

In an election campaign speech he said Ontario is "big enough and strong enough to protect its moral and legal rights in this matter in the face of an opposition that may come from any quarter, no matter how highly placed."

He said he concurred with the Ontario Municipal Board's recent rejection of a licence for a United States firm which sought to carry new motor vehicles by highway trailers from Michigan to the Niagara frontier.

"We are spending enormous sums on our highways, $60,000,000 a year or more. We have to consider their maintenance, the damage caused by heavy, fast through traffic, particularly in the spring.

"We have to consider what benefits accrue, if any, to the people along the southern route, from the type of traffic created by trucking in bond. And certainly we have to consider the welfare of our railways and the welfare of our citizens who are directly dependent on our railways for their livelihood."

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, June 5 (CP)—Synopsis: Cool air pushed southward Friday more rapidly than was anticipated, covering all of Ontario by midnight. The increase in the speed of the cold air forced the warm air upwards. This caused the shower activity not only to spread more rapidly southward but also to become much more general. Skies are now clear over the whole province. Clear cool weather is expected throughout Ontario today and Sunday.

COST-OF-LIVING INDEX LEAPS TO ALL-TIME HIGH

Climbs From 151.6 at April 1st to 153.3 on May 1st

Ottawa, June 5. (CP)—Canada's cost-of-living index leaped to historic heights during April, using increases in retail prices of meats and vegetables as spring-boards.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported the index gained 1.7 point climbing from 151.6 at April 1 to 153.3 at May 1.

A year ago the index, calculated on the basis that living costs during 1935-39 equalled 100, stood at 133.1. The rise since the outbreak of war in 1939 has been a marked 52.1 per cent.

Moving up sharply during the Fall months, the index shattered its previous high of 150.6, established in post-war 1920, early this year. The rate of rise then slackened to a fractional pace.

Although the Bureau attributed most of the April advance to substantial increases in the retail prices of meats and vegetables, unofficial quarters said increases reflected the Canada-wide freight rate boosts which became effective during April.

However, apart from meats and vegetables, price changes in the food group were moderate. The food index climbed from 186.8 to 191.2 notwithstanding slightly lower citrus fruit quotations which partially offset scattered advices in other goods subgroups.

Also reflecting the freight rate boosts were increases shown for coal, coke and gas, moving the fuel and light index from 121.3 to 122.7.

The rentals index advanced from 119.9 to 120.9, resulting from action of landlords who just now are taking advantage of the 10-per-cent increase in domestic rentals authorized last year.

The Canadian farm products index also climbed sharply—from 141.7 to 144.3—on increases in grain, potatoes, livestock, hides and wool. This index is up approximately 120 per cent over May 1939.

R. Babbs Named C.N.R. Locomotive Foreman Here

Formerly shop foreman at the Turcot divisional shops of the Canadian National Railways at Montreal, Mr. Richard Babbs, new locomotive foreman at the Belleville shops already has learned to like this city.

"The people of Belleville and especially railway officials here have been very co-operative with me," stated Mr. Babbs, "and the co-operation of the people goes a long way toward a person liking a city."

Still under 30 Mr. Babbs is the youngest man to be named as locomotive foreman at Belleville. He was appointed to the Belleville post following the death of the late Albert Jones. He has been in the city approximately one month. Like his predecessor he is unmarried.

Mr. Babbs started his career with the Canadian National Railways at Montreal and served his time in the St. John shops before going to Turcot. Later he was transferred to Toronto to work in the draughting department and for the past two years had acted as shop foreman at Turcot.

Toronto Chapter OES Entertained By Local Members

Tweed (Special)—Tweed Chapter No. 148 Order of the Eastern Star entertained a number of members of White Heather Chapter 65 of Toronto recently.

The guests who arrived by bus were met at the Odd Fellow's Hall by Mrs. Snare, Mr. Alfred Hounslow, Mrs. F. Bowers and their reception committee. They were then escorted to Kanata Beach, where they were entertained at supper by the "Bramleys". There were thirty eight visitors from Toronto.

Art Snare with his accordian led the singing of Grace and assured the visitors that supper was informal, and invited the guests to use their leizure time to visit the beach and see the scenic lake.

At eight o'clock all returned to the Eastern Star rooms where the regular meeting was held and a hearty welcome extended to the visitors by Mrs. A. J. Snare, Worthy Matron and Mr. Alfred Hounslow, Worthy Patron, on behalf of Tweed members, also by Mrs. E. Jordan, herself a member of White Heather Chapter, but now residing in Tweed. Replying to the welcome were Mrs. M. Smith, W.M. of White Heather, Mrs. S. Roberston, Past Worthy Grand Matron, Mr. Albert Lowers, Assoc. Grand Patron and Mrs. Kirk, Supreme Deputy of the Rainbow of Girls.

At the conclusion of chapter Mrs. Snare, W.M., Tweed, was presented with a gift from White Heather Chapter by Mrs. M. Smith, W.M. A short social singsong filled in the rest of the evening until refreshments were served, and the vestry again boarded the bus for Toronto delighted with the evening and loud in their praise for the reception, the beautiful scenery and the gracious hospitality extended to them by the Tweed members and friends. During the evening the lucky ticket on the radio was drawn by Mrs. Albert Lowery and the winner was Mr. Stanley Courneyea of Sulphide. The receipts from this draw will be used to send food parcels to Britain from the Tweed Chapter.

C.N.R. Enginemen, Firemen At Local Terminal Instructed In Use of Diesel Locomotive

It was "back to school" Friday and today for engineers and firemen running out of the Belleville division of the Canadian National Railways, and for shopmen at the local C.N.R. yards when a course of training was given in the operation and maintenance of the new Diesel locomotives being used on freight service between Toronto and Montreal.

Two "A" or front end units of the Diesel locomotive stopped in the city during the past two days when groups of engineers, firemen and shopmen were given brief instruction on the locomotive of the future.

Differing greatly in mechanics from the conventional steam locomotive seen passing up and down the "main line" the new Diesel engines are just as different in streamlined appearance.

Grease, Smoke Gone

Gone are the grease, smoke and soot attendant with steam and in its place is an engine cab designed for the comfort, safety and convenience of the engine crew. In contrast to the conventional engine, the cab of the Diesel is "up front" the engineer having unobstructed view of both sides of the track where he can see switches with equal ease on either side of the line.

There is ample head room for the tallest engineer while all controls are within easy reach from the upholstered and adjustable seats which are standard equipment. There are seats also for the "fireman" and the brakeman. Windshield wiper controls, heater controls and running lamp controls are at finger tips. Provided also is clean locker space for clothes of the crew members and for lunch boxes.

But so much for the cab appointments and its comforts.

Used Last Year

Last summer Diesel locomotives were seen passing through the city for the first time when the Canadian National Railways had a three-unit Diesel locomotive of 4,500 horsepower on two weeks trial operating both freight and passenger trains.

Since then the C.N.R. has accepted delivery of two three-unit Diesel locomotives which are designated for freight service on the main line. Two two-unit engines are being now used on the freight runs, while two "A" units are being used for instructional purposes. Instructional classes were held at Montreal and Brockville before stopping at Belleville.

"There is no mystery about Diesel locomotives" stated one of the eight instructors accompanying the Diesel units to Belleville. "They are just conventional Diesels hooked up to generators and traction motors to give an electric power unit."

Common in U. S.

"Diesels are quite common now in the United States, both on passenger and freight service. Definitely they are the locomotive of the future."

According to this instructor the advantages of the new type Diesel locomotive over the conventional steam is the low maintenance costs and lower cost of operation. With the Diesel there is no call for the locomotive to be shunted into the roundup for grooming. At the end of her run the engines are merely fueled and oiled and are ready for the return trip. Only running repairs are necessary. The 16-cylinder V-type Diesel motor can be given a complete change of bearings in but a few hours.

Can Couple Fourth Unit

Two or three Diesel units of 1,500 horsepower each are ordinarily used for freight and passenger service, but if the going is exceptionally tough, a fourth unit can be coupled. All are controlled from the one cab, while if two "A" units are used the locomotive need not be turned for the return trip.

The crew simply climb into the cab at the rear of the engine and are ready to go.

As is currently the custom with steam, an engineer and fireman will make up the crew of the Diesel locomotive. But instead of firing the boiler, whether by shovel or stoker, the fireman will act as assistant engineer. He will be responsible for checking equipment while the train is on the road. Instructors will accompany crews on their first runs with the new locomotives.

Basis of the mechanism in each Diesel unit naturally is the 16-cylinder Diesel which provides the power for the generator. This generator is coupled directly with the motor, obviating the necessity of drive belts. From the generator run the power lines to the four traction motors which are coupled directly to the driving wheels.

Every Wheel a Driver

Contrary to the steamer, every wheel under the Diesel unit is a "driver." This, it is stated, gives more traction than is possible with a steamer of the same power rating. With the Diesel it is possible to start a heavier load than can be handled under running conditions.

Engineers, although at first skeptical of the "up front" cab quickly learn to appreciate its added visibility and also the cleanliness of the Diesel engine. Everything is spic and span and according to instructors "must be kept so."

"When will the Diesels be used for passenger service?" the instructor was asked.

"That is still in the future," was the reply.

Apparently Diesels are quite satisfactory for freight service but unfortunately Canadian winters demand that passenger coaches be heated. And so far the heating capacity of the Diesel locomotive, even with specialized equipment, is limited.

IRAQIS CLAIM

port from Amman that he had fixed Monday for the beginning of the truce.

Strong Attack

The Arabs said that the Jewish attack in the Jenin region was strong but that after a fierce battle the Jews fell back.

The Baghdad communique said the Iraqui air force had destroyed most of a big Jewish column in the area.

The Iraqui communique claimed a great many Jews were taken prisoner and large quantities of arms were captured.

Friday night's Israeli communique on the initial naval fight of the war said four Egyptian vessels tried to approach the Jewish capital of Tel Aviv and were attacked by Israeli warplanes. The communique said at least one direct hit was scored on the flotilla and one Jewish plane failed to return to its base.

The Egyptian sea force was listed in the Israeli communique as:

One corvette (a wooden vessel ranking next below a frigate); one armed transport of 2,500 tons (The Amir Fawzia), and two British-type landing craft.

James M. Long, Associated Press correspondent, said the Egyptian ships came within six or seven miles of shore. He said a Jewish corvette engaged them but withdrew when shells flung waterspouts about her.

Long said two Jewish planes, one a fighter type, the other a sport plane dropped bombs. He saw only one plane return.

Jewish headquarters in Tel Aviv could only guess at the reason for the Egyptian seat thrust. The Jews said the use of a transport and landing craft might indicate an attempt to land forces at the edge of Tel Aviv. They said it was equally possible the move was intended as a "little Dunkerque" effort to remove an Egyptian spearhead which the Israelis say is cut off on the coast near Isdud, 22 miles south of Tel Aviv.

Dispatches also reported a Jewish claim of the capture of a British-built military camp and airport north of Jenin in a drive from the Plain of Esdraelon.

The Arabs claim they have heavily bombed Petah Tiqva, six miles northeast of Tel Aviv, causing great destruction, and their artillery has scored direct hits on Kefar Yona four and a half miles east of Natanya, on the coast north of Tel Aviv.

SAILMAKER DIES

New York, June 5 (CP) —Obediah Jones, 82, one of the last surviving sailmakers of the clipper-ship era, died at his Staten Island home Friday. Jones, beginning as an apprentice in the 1880's, had supervised the making of the great sails of the last clipper ships and later helped in making sails for racing sloops and yachts.

Policies of Liberal Party Given by Candidate; Speakers At Meeting at Collegiate

To the interests of the Liberal candidates for the Ridings of Hastings East and West, a public meeting was held in the Belleville Collegiate Auditorium Friday night.

The meeting, chairmanned by Mr. K. Couch, Mayor of Trenton, was well attended. Local musical talent was used throughout the program between speakers.

Short addresses were given by K. Couch, George Jordan, candidate for East Hastings, Mrs. H. McCabe, Vice President of the Liberal Ladies' Association, Mr. McGaughey, President of the West Hastings Liberal Association on the abilities of the candidate, Bernard Hughes. He was considered among the remarks of the speakers to be "cabinet material and worthy of a portfolio."

In a brief address, Mr. Hughes stressed the fact that the approaching election had been called due to the proposed 25-60 cycle hydro question. Although the real reason was not hydro, the election was costing the tax-payers upwards of a million dollars. This is actually a complete Tory shift at the public expense.

Urge Liberal Support

The Liberal party advocates a policy which is neither right nor left, but a sane, sound type of middle-course administration. Under the Liberal policy such improvements as increased old age pensions at 65 years of age; removal of amusement, gas, provincial income taxes; 75% increase in compensation with a reduced three-day waiting period for labor; a national labor code; the Oliver plan for agricultural developments; assumption of municipal taxes for a four-five year period by the government as a step in housing development; University of Northern Ontario, and sufficient colleges in the northern areas and veteran preferences.

Following Mr. Hughes' address, ex-mayor Frank Follwell spoke briefly, terming the election as being called on a "phony issue" and urging strong Liberal support.

Colin Campbell Heard

The principal speaker on behalf of the Liberal party, Brig. Colin Campbell, C.B.E., was introduced by Mr. Couch as a member of the 1934 Liberal government and a former member of the Royal Canadian Engineers. With six and one-half years active service in Gibraltar, Italy and Holland, he attained the rank of Brigadier and won the D.S.O. and the O.B.E.

Mr. Campbell launched a forceful, vindicative address against the Drew government by stressing the prominence of George Drew in the present government, creating either the impression that he considers himself all-important, or else that he feels that his ministers are deficient and incapable of handling their positions. The speaker stated that it was the job of a leader to co-operate with his subordinates. Through the lack of co-ordination between Drew and his government the present administration of government affairs was inadequate for the amounts of money being spent.

Figures Quoted

The speaker quoted figures which showed that in 1939, under Liberal management, $80,000,000 had been expended. Upon attaining power, Drew had spent $108,000,000 in 1943 and had continued the increase until the present expenditure stands at $250,000,000. This threefold amount was being spent without any additional government service to the people, in fact not as much service as was being given before the war. The tax rate has tripled but the wage ratio has not increased to cope with it.

In further quoting administration figures, the speaker showed how present ministers had been allowed to increase their budgets by two, three and more times past amounts. The Liberal program calls for many economic measures to be taken in order to reduce taxes.

Deals with Hydro

The speaker dealt with the Hydro question stating that in 1946 reports showed that it would be possible, providing that no change overs be made, to reduce the cost of Hydro by 30 per cent. The proposed Hydro cycle change-over will cost in the neighborhood of $300,000,000, and will take at least eight years before it can begin operation. The cost is to the municipalities through higher Hydro costs.

Mr. Campbell concluded with a statement that the Liberal team is winning, and urged full support of the candidates at the polls on Monday.

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

Peril of Broadmindedness

By ROY L. SMITH

The word "tolerance" is extremely popular, for it is of the essence of democracy that we shall admit the right of other people to hold a different opinion. But there is a great difference between true tolerance and intellectual indecision, and there is a great peril in broadmindedness.

The Case of Daniel

The youth of 1948 will do very well if they study very carefully the story of Daniel, the Old Testament hero, who had the courage to stand out against a dangerous generation because of a deep conviction.

Honored with a high post in the government and entrusted with heavy responsibilities, the young man had displayed marked qualities of leadership. These had invested him with prestige and some luxury. He was "in on the big money." No one knew where he might land, ultimately, for everyone agreed he was on the way up.

Then the capricious old king under whom Daniel served was misled by some who were jealous of the young man, with the result that he issued a decree that all citizens of the realm should pay tribute to a gilded image as a token of their loyalty to the crown. This Daniel could not do in good conscience, and he ignored the order.

The rest of the story is pretty well known, how he was called upon to compromise or suffer the consequences, and how he held out manfully and was ultimately delivered.

What is Tolerance?

A great many people are under the delusion that they are tolerant for the simple reason that they are not concerned over other people's beliefs. As a matter of fact, they are not even concerned over their own. They have never taken the trouble to think things through. But true tolerance is not a lack of personal conviction. It is, rather, a willingness to allow other people to believe something different and to believe it strongly. It is a willingness to defend another's right to believe in God even when that belief runs counter to one's own opinion.

Religion is Exact

Professor Compton, the famous scientist, declared some years ago that the greatest discovery the scientists ever made was that our's is a universe under the authority of law. There is no space anywhere in the universe in which law does not operate. There are no accidents in life; only the working of laws of which we are ignorant or to which we have been indifferent.

This means, of course, that what we call man's religious life is also subject to exact laws from which men are never able to deviate without paying the price of disobedience. When the preacher insists that one's enemies must be forgiven, it is not his personal whim. Rather, it is the declaration of a law which is written into the very nature of man himself. The unforgiving man pays the price for his unforgiving spirit. When the preacher declares there can be no peace in the soul of the man who is aware of his own guilt, he is only declaring a principle God has laid down.

Broadmindedness and Mental Laziness

It would have been very easy for Daniel to have surrendered his principles and taken the line of least resistance. But that does not lead to life. Jesus said "strait is the way and narrow is the gate." It is the way of discipline, determination, and purpose.

The Sunday School Lesson for June 6: "Men Who Dared to Stand for God," Daniel 3; 6.

This is the way that no man ever takes who is spiritually lazy, religiously superficial, or morally inadequate. There is a right way and a wrong way, and every man must choose between them. There is a difference between them. The man of conviction will take the right way and stick to it in the face of all opposition. The man without convictions will take the easiest way out. Genuine broadmindedness never admits that the wrong way is the right way, but he will admit the right of his fellow man to take the wrong way if he is determined to do so.

True tolerance is a recognition of the right of another man to differ from us, and a readiness to grant him the credit for having been honest even when he is mistaken.

Israel Ships, Guns, Air Force Beat Off Egyptian Ships

Haifa, Israel, June 4 (Reuters)—Ships of the Israel navy, Tel Aviv shore batteries and the Jewish air force in a combined operation today beat off an attack by four Egyptian ships on the coast near Tel Aviv shortly before 2 p.m.

A communique issued in Tel Aviv said that the Egyptian vessels consisted of one corvette, two British-type landing craft and the 2,500-ton Emira Fawzia.

All four ships retired after a three-hour engagement during which a Jewish bomber scored at least one direct hit, the communique said.

Government Rallies New Zealand Writers

Wellington, N.Z. (CP)—Grants under the state literary fund of $6,400 a year to encourage New Zealand writers and publishers have been made by the government.

Among them is a grant to a biographer who is preparing a life of Katherine Mansfield, famous New Zealand novelist, assistance in publishing poems by a talented poet who died prematurely, aid in reprinting a New Zealand novel which was highly praised for its literary merit, and assistance in printing a book of Maori legends put to verse.

The grants are available toward publishing costs or by other means to enable the publication of such writings as historical works of high standard, works of fiction, contemporary creative literature, reprints of New Zealand classics and Maori literature. The fund is also available for grants to New Zealand authors undertaking creative work on approved subjects and to encourage the reading and study of New Zealand literature by grants toward the cost of publication of critical books and studies.

Internal Affairs Minister Parry said that numerous applications had been received from all parts of the country. The quality of the work and the interest shown augured well for the future of literature in New Zealand.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

ENDURANCE TEST

If fortunate enough to be in the back woods in June, you may get a glimpse of a brown bird, fatter, but not quite as long as a Robin, rising from the undergrowth with loose, floppy flight, soon once more to alight on the ground. But the time will be twilight, so that no details can be observed. Sleeping through the day, with its body lying lengthwise along instead of across a branch, the Whip-poor-will begins to get lively when we are thinking of going to bed. Therefore it is rarely seen properly.

Were you to manage a day view, its strong resemblance to the Nighthawk would be evident: coloration, shape, size, weak feet, backward pointing wings, short bill and wide mouth gape. Yet the two are not apt to be confused because of certain distinguishing features and habits. Bristles at the base of the bill, the dark throat separated from the breast by a narrow white band, and a rounded tail are characteristic of the Whip-poor-will; while the V-shaped tail and white spot in each wing of the other bird, seen distinctly as it flies high overhead, pronounce it to be a Nighthawk. The Whip-poor-will stays away from cities, flies low, and lays its artistically mottled eggs on the ground with nothing more under them than some of last autumn's dead leaves.

The male is more conspicuous than the female, with white outer tail feathers. May beetles, June bugs, and other night-flying insects are swept into the enormous mouths as they flit silently through the darkness.

Though so seldom seen, every lover of our Canadian woods knows the Whip-poor-will's voice. On moonlit nights in June, the persistent "song" is sure to be heard as the bird most emphatically, rhythmically, and clearly whistles its name over and over. On and on it goes, speeding up, slowing down again to the ordinary pace; stopping for one beat, then continuing as before. A repetition fifty times is a mere nothing; you may count one hundred "whips" before a single breath is taken. Then the pause may be just long enough for the singer to fly to another station, some yards away. One of the Whip-poor-will's curious habits is to use certain stands, in regular succession, each night, from which to sing. A chosen spot may be a rain barrel or a saw-horse just outside your bedroom window.

Ceylon Applies For U. N. Membership

Lake Success, June 4 — (AP) — Ceylon has applied for membership in the United Nations with hopes of becoming the 8th of the British Commonwealth Dominions to be admitted.

Ceylon would become the 59th member of the U. N. if the bid passes the preliminary tests in the Security Council this summer and then is accepted by majority vote of the General Assembly meeting in Paris next fall.

TALKS NORMALLY AGAIN

Paris, June 4 — (CP) — Mrs. Nina Webb of this city is able to breathe and talk normally for the first time in 23 years.

A tube which had been in her throat since paralysis that followed a thyroid operation 27 years ago, was recently removed from her throat at Toronto by Dr. R. E. King of Seattle, Wash.

Post-War Paris Is Not The Heaven It Was in '20s

By PAUL HENISSART

Paris (Reuters) —Paris' left-bank Bohemia today reflects the striking changes in the French capital's cultural life brought about by the German occupation and the war.

On the pavement terraces of the "Cafe des Deux Magots" and the "Cafe de Flore," celebrated meeting places of the art and literary world for the last 50 years, no one talks seriously these days about another "lost generation."

To begin with, there is an aversion to identify oneself too closely with any previous experience or forms of expression.

But more important still, the situation confronting the youths who make up the new, second post-war generation of artists is by no means identical with that after 1918.

It is generally believed that the remarkable renaissance of the 1920s which saw the fulfilment of outstanding American writers abroad such as Ernest Hemingway, Ezra Pound, Malcolm Cowley and Glenway Westcott and brought recogntion to painters like Picasso, Braque and Modigliani, has only a limited influence on this section of Bohemia.

The writers, painters, sculptors, dramatists and intellectual hangers-on and ne'er-do-wells who inhabit the quarter of St. Germain des Pres today are an incongruous blend of neophyte existentialists, determinedly shedding all vestiges of Anglo-Saxon restraint, and hard-working craftsmen.

New Hunting Grounds

Bohemia of 1948 has even moved from its hunting grounds. From the crossroads of the Boulevard de Montparnasse and Boulevard Raspail, which it used to haunt 20 years ago, it has moved to the pleasant neighborhood of St. Germain, grouped round one of the oldest churches in Paris, dating back to the 10th century.

The migratory instinct of the artistic colony in Paris contrasts with London's Chelsea and New York's Greenwich Village which are relatively stable communities.

By moving to St. Germain, the Bohemians have merely completed a cycle which began before the First World War when artists living there decamped and headed for Montparnasse. St. Germain has regained its former popularity, one observer explained, because it is nearer to the Seine—nearer, that is to say, to the river in which desperate artists can commit suicide.

Very few, it should be stated, actually recah the point at which this becomes necessary. Post-war conditions, however, have almost eliminated the charm which Paris used to have for struggling artists. A Paris where one could eat well for five francs (less than 20 cents) or eight with wine, and where there was no problem about finding experimental revues in which to publish or studios in which to paint, is gone.

Soaring prices, an acute housing shortage, government controls which beset any new printing venture, a shrunken market for canvases due to currency exchange difficulties have all reduced a bygone heyday to a pleasant legend.

To live up to minimum Bohemian standards nowadays requires at least 15,000 francs (about $70) a month—or about the wage of a middle-bracket civil servant in France.

Pesky Skeeters Are Particular

Toronto (CP)—Mosquitoes are very particular about the places where they live.

Authority for this statement is Dr. F. A. Urquhart of the Royal Ontario Museum, who has devoted much of his life to a study of the pests.

Residents of suburban Swansea had complained that a neighborhood pond was not being sprayed this year. Dr. Urquhart backed health officials who assert that the district breeding places were not in the pond but in residents' backyards.

"Mosquitoes," said Dr. Urquhart, "feed on miscroscopic plants growing in certain types of water. The pond is not one of these types. We have, however, taken dozens of bottles of wrigglers (infant mosquitoes) from pools in backyards."

Different kinds of mosquitoes emerge as adults at various times during the summer. The trick is to find these periods. Although more efficient methods of reducing the numbers of pests will be found, it will be impossible to exterminate them completely.

Seven diseases are carried by the mosquito, only one to be found in Ontario. It causes a disease common to pet dogs and often confused with distemper. It has never been proved that the pest is a carrier of the polio virus.

Marking Machine Boon to Teachers

Edmonton, Alt. (CP)—Alberta's school teachers have been spared a large part of the annual chore of marking examination papers by use of a machine that automatically marks papers of a certain type.

The machine has a maximum potential scoring rate of 120,000 questions an hour, or 2,000 a minute.

Some 50 per cent of all final examination papers from the University of Alberta's education faculty are being machine-scored this year. This summer, six school examinations, four in Grade 9 and two in Grade 12, will be partially or wholly to machine-scoring.

Since the machine came into use here it has been used to score many term papers as well as 10,000 special examinations for British Columbia's education department.

Checks Pencil Marks

The machine scores types of examinations known as "multiple choice" and "true and false." Answers are recorded by heavy pencil marks on a special sheet or card. The sheet is fed into the machine and when the pencil marks are in the right place they complete electrical circuits thus operating the scoring system.

Sheets with up to 300 questions can be processed by the machine.

Attachments for the machine are available to increase the complexity of the marking that can be done. The education department is going to rent an item counter which will give the percentage of students who correctly answered any given question, thus ascertaining the validity of exam questions.

Officials of the education department say the machine is especially valuable as a saver of time and effort in this period of high enrolment in universities and high schools.

Weather Compared

Man's reaction to the weather must vary. Records show that he has short memory of what the year or two before brought him. He always is inclined to overstress the present whether the weather be pleasant or unpleasant.

Most people have forgotten the weather of a year ago. It took an official statement from the records locally to show that May 1947 had more rain than May 1948. And man has been holding May of this year up as an awful sample of what weather ought not to be.

May 1947 was slightly warmer than May 1948. Putting it in other words, this is the comparison — the number of degree days in 1947 in May was 399 and in 1948 413. That means it took more heat to raise the temperatures of living rooms to comfortable conditions in May 1947 than it did this year.

Who will remember conditions of May 1948 when May 1949 comes?

So far June has been most benign. Warm weather has come to quiet the murmurs that the present year has been backward. June, however, has lived up to its expectations so far though but a few days have passed.

June has brought the season of the greatest beauty of the entire year.

Poets have held June as the month of the year when nature is in her most appealing mood. To them and to all it is flowery June and the time of nature's loveliest scents — the very essence of the beauty of the natural world.

Animal Rescues

There is a keen interest at all times in animal and bird life and in stories of them, for people are lovers of these creatures of nature. Proof of this was evident a few days ago in a number of stories. One told of two deer dashing into a sanitarium at Brantford, diving through a window, soaring through a corridor and escaping through a window at the far end of the building, to fleet back to the wild woods. Another told of three barnyard fowls, accustomed to roost on a tire at the back of a motor vehicle, getting an early ride one morning to a far distant place, of being discovered and placed for safety in a box to be taken back home.

Perhaps man's interest in life of the animals and birds around him is due to the long association of man with the life of the bird and animal realms. Fairy stories tell of them because men and women, boys and girls like to hear such tales.

How often one hears of the rescue of cats frightened up trees, and of dogs rescued from streams. At the same time are heard the ever-cropping up stories of dogs giving alarms of danger in case of fire and of often losing their lives while saving their owners.

The other day a racoon was the centre of attraction. He had perched himself on a pole of the Hydro system at Bay Street corner in Toronto of all places for an animal to go to. Emergency crews could not coax him down, the sprightly and curious fellow was finally scared into a slide which led down to a bag or box and in no time he was resting in the zoo after his palpitating experiences. But that is not all. What of the crowd of many hundreds of men and women and cars that jammed the intersection so much that it took three hours to untangle the tie-up caused by the innocent creature's antics. The racoon and the curiosity and human interest of the crowd had done it. While that time was lost, what of it! No one wanted to see that coon injured. All wanted to see how he would be safely rescued. That racoon was a sort of figure in a drama.

But there is more to tell. Many hundreds of people had gathered to observe the scene and in a few minutes the intersectioon was jammed with a mass of humans and cars, inextricably tied up so that traffic was jammed. The idiosyncracies of a racoon and the curiosity of men and women had done it. It took the police some hours to untangle the blockade. While the three hours were lost, what of that! Nobody wanted to see that racoon injured, no one wanted to miss seeing everything. They were entertained and the racoon was the hero of the scene.

At that time the coon's life looked as if it were worth precious gold so carefully was he manoeuvred into the net so that not a hair of his body was ruffled. That's human nature.

How often a cat in terror of a dog wildly flies to a tree or pole and climbs to the highest point and then refuses to be coaxed down even if the dog is gone. No one thinks of that cat as useless. The whole thought is recovery of that cat, though it may take firemen or hydro men a good time to get the animal down by endless coaxing and by pushing their way up to the precarious perch of the terrified animal. It may take half an hour to dislodge the kitten but who seems to care. The cat is recovered and all is well.

These stories really have the fairy touch. This is human nature and a happy trait it is that in the spirit of fairyland men and women, boys and girls will take interest in animals and birds and delight to see the animals or birds in danger made safe. People will go to great efforts to rescue an animal from a burning building or rescue a dog struggling with the current of a river.

There is another picture which is rather puzzling and contrasting sharply with these. It is hard to reconcile this kindly spirit with what very often happens when boys with small rifles or air guns or sling shots make targets of a bird or a squirrel in the woods. That many poor creatures, harmless as doves, are victims is the sad fact and a sad commentary on thoughtlessness which prompts destruction of harmless bird and animal life without compensating advantage.

Mankind in the long ages of development has come in contact with wild life. His long associations with the dog and cat have brought about their domestication so that they are inseparable associates in the home. Birds have been domesticated, they have come to build their nests near human habitations, even behind the shutters against windows. Wild life has come to know man through time as a friend. But sometimes this trust by the birds and animals finds it has been misplaced. That should not be and those who exercise this kindliness towards the familiar friends of the animal and bird kingdoms have their own just reward in the satisfaction that they have learned many lessons from these creatures and do not wantonly destroy their confidence.

Vocational Guidance

On reaching school-leaving age the children of Britain are to be given every possible encouragement to follow a career of their own choice. This is one of the main aims of the Employment and Training Bill which was recently given second reading in the House of Commons. One of the provisions is the appointment of local juvenile employment officers who will meet each boy and girl of school-leaving age and offer information and guidance of a vocational nature. Officers will work in close co-operation with teachers and parents and there will be no compulsion for the children to follow the advice given.

Shortage of Elephants

There is a shortage of labor that makes a grave problem for the free state of Burma. It has large teak forests and the export of that very hard wood is its main support. Now a severe shortage of elephants and buffaloes is hampering Burma's vital teak industry. During the war Japanese used up all the accumulated teak wood logs and wrecked the big saw mills in Rangoon and Moulmein, but the magnificent hardwood forests are almost intact. In unmechanized Burma, only well-trained elephants — or at a pinch, buffaloes, can move the huge teak logs out of the forest.—Brandon Sun.

Fortune is like the market, where many times if you stay a little the price will fall; and, again, it is sometimes like a sybil's offer, which at first offereth the commodity at full, then consumeth part and still holdeth up the price.—Bacon.

Music is well said to be the speech of angels. — Carlyle.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

LOVE

When one or the other turns selfish and cold,
Love is a difficult treasure to hold.
When one or the other the burdens won't share,
Love suffers injury hard to repair.

Sorrows are certain and troubles are sure.
These at the altar love vows to endure;
But if should either the trial desert,
Past full recovery love will be hurt.

Love must be cherished through smiles and through tears,
Willing to bear all that comes with the years.
Nourished with tenderness, love will outlive
Blunders and frailties and gladly forgive.

One of the queerest finds recorded in some time was made by Eddie George of this city. He was enjoying a walk along a road near the city when much to his surprise he observed a bag actually walking — was he seeing things? he wondered, but collecting his forces he advanced upon the bag and discovered that the motive power was supplied by a harmless little pig. It had probably fallen from a conveyance of some kind.

The Packsack
of Gregory Clark

A schoolmate of mine learned soldiering in the First World War and liked it so well, he has been a soldier of fortune and a salesman and demonstrator of weapons ever since. All over the world—in South America, China, the Balkans—wherever anybody needed an expert on machine guns, he has made a profitable living.

He is in Alaska now, doing research, on behalf of his grisly industry, in the operation of machine weapons in sub-zero temperatures and arctic weather.

Having thus been, between 1918 and 1948, in a preferred position to watch the world falling apart, his views on freedom and liberty were of intense interest to me on our last meeting.

"In the ordinary dictionaries," he says, "the definitions of freedom and liberty are so identical you can't tell them apart. But there is a difference between freedom and liberty. If you are free, you are out of jail. But if you have liberty, nobody but yourself can put you into jail. No arbitrary, despotic or autocratic power can possess you.

"All over the world, for thirty years, I have seen men fighting and dying for freedom. But all thy got whether they won or lost, in every single instance, was an autocratic and arbitrary party in control of them, which either denied or restricted their liberty. It is the same in London as in Hangkow: in the name of freedom, men surrender their liberty. The freer we get, the more things we can go to jail for.

"When I was a boy," reflected my gun-running boyhood friend, "you could travel anywhere in the world without any restrictions. But travel was difficult and slow. Now we have the motor car, the airplane, the fast ships. Travel is fast and easy But you can't go any place without passports, visas, finger prints, photographs, red tape. And more than half the world is closed to you completely. Modern progress has set us free to travel easily, comfortably, cheaply. But it has abolished our liberty to do so."

Letter to the Editor

Deplores Attitude Against Children

Editor,
The Ontario Intelligencer:

On reading the "To Let" column of June 2, I noticed the fact that in five of the advertisements listed, there was a phrase which read "Adults Only" or "Business Couple Preferred."

I have always been brought up to believe that any marriage was blessed by children, but it seems this not the case if one wishes to have a place to live. On looking at my little girl, I cannot help but wonder just what is so objectionable about her. She is a healthy, active child, but not given to wanton destruction of property, whether mine or someone else's, and would not be allowed to be destructive no matter where we should happen to live. It is not, or rather should not be a crime to have children but this unfair discrimination against prospective tenants with children seems to be entirely unfair and unnecessary. It seems to me that any person who would refuse a home to anyone under present conditions, because of a child, is narrow-minded and selfish to say the least.

Along with many others, I was overseas for some time and on my return wanted to establish a home. Circumstances will not permit me to either build or buy a home at this time, but when I wish to rent a place to live, and know such places are available in this city, the fact that I am denied this privilege because of my little girl, is to me small payment for anything I may have done in my period of service.

I am not sorry that I have a child, my only pity is for those people who have forgotten that they too, were once children, and may not have had a home themselves, if landlords in their parents' days had specified "Adults Only". Let us hope that the children of these would-be landlords are never faced by the same problem in days to come, and that they do not receive the same treatment that I and others meet today.

Assistant to Liberal Whip Keeps Watchful Eye on Periods of Voting

By DOUGLAS HOW
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, June 5 (CP)—Come into a dim and distant corner and meet Patrick Darcy, an Irishman with a lead pencil, a scratch pad and a wealth of stamina.

Mr. Darcy is the right-hand of William Gilbert Weir, the member of parliament for the Manitoba riding of MacDonald and the Liberal whip. It is their responsibility to see that Liberals are where Liberals should be when votes are called.

Since this may happen in numbers of places at numbers of times between 10:30 a.m. and 11 p.m., people have tripped over the racing Mr. Darcy in many parts of the parliament buildings at many times. Being short and fleet, he is hard to detect under a full velocity.

One sees him in the various committee rooms, a quiet figure in a quiet corner. He calculates the strength of friend and the strength of foe. He weighs the issue at stake, the likelihood of vote. His pencil scratches along his pad. Then he scratches behind his ear. His eye grows cool and shrewd.

If crisis is near and Liberal dominance is in jeopardy, Mr. Darcy hurls himself through the door, and away. Shortly after, absentee Liberal members rush into their seats, gasping for breath and information on how to vote.

Meanwhile, Mr. Darcy plunges into another committee room to make a like analysis.

His most significant triumph fell the time he routed three cabinet ministers from their desks and flung them into the breach to save a vote in the veterans committee. On that occasion, his speed and mastery were such that the name of Darcy was briefly heard as a potential successor to Mr. King.

Battle Strategy

For those occasions when the House itself is in committee of the whole and votes may come without warning or division bells, Mr. Weir and Mr. Darcy have developed an acute sense of apprehension. Sometimes they get the members down just in case. In others, Mr. Weir and the cabinet minister in charge must keep someone talking about something until sufficient forces are at hand.

High above the Chamber, Mr. Darcy may be sitting in his office. If Mr. Weir buzzes once, that is for Mr. Darcy alone; twice, for the members; three times, for the members but quick, quick, quick.

Sometimes, in the length of the night when he is home in bed, Mr. Darcy dreams three buzzes. His nerves cry out. His hand gropes for the assurance of his lead pencil. He doesn't, he says, know just how he stands it.

WHITE MAGIC FOR RUN-DOWN HOMES

Right now, your J-M reporter has two pictures which tell a striking "before" and "after" story. They were taken at the home of Mr. P. W. One week it looked old and shabby. The next it looked brand new — a sparkling white home."

You too, will find J-M Cedargrains not only make an old building look new — they protect it from fire, weather and time! Made from asbestos and cement, they are extremely durable — yet their fine grained texture and wavy shadow lines give them all the appearance of beautiful weathered wood.

BEWARE THE GIRL WHO CAN'T COOK

I was saying, this fine book has proved so popular that I have been compelled to buy three new copies in order to keep the book in my library where I can get it when I want it. In fact I now keep a copy, not in the library, but right at my elbow where I can consult it instantly, as I do the dictionary or the thesaurus. My visitors, relatives and friends may feel that it is no sin to pinch a book from my library where I have more than I can hope to read, but by heaven, the so-and-so who lifts one of my working tools is going to regret it, I promise.

The book I'm talking about it, of course

Let's Cook It Right, by Adelle Davis, B.A., M.S., published by Harcourt, Brace and Co., New York, '47. Your Public Library, probably has it.

Like a great many readers who have written me about the benefits they have derived from following the instructions in this book, I learn something from it every day. For instance a while ago I said here that soy bean oil contains no vitamins or minerals. Prior to the publication of Let's Cook it Right I might have gotten by with that, but not now. Promptly a reader pounced on the mistake. "Adelle Davis, in Let's Cook It Right says on p. 267: 'Salad dressings add more nutritive value than mere calories. Most vegetable oils are excellent sources of vitamins B-6 E and K'. What about it?"

Well, I'll tell you, Ma'am. I probably thought only of the essential vitamins or perhaps I should say the most essential vitamins, A, B complex, C and D—none or practically none of which are present in soy bean oil or other vegetable oils.

Adelle Davis has made a great contribution to the vital business of selecting and preparing food for the family. So simple, precise, scientific yet practical—for the author carefully tested every recipe before she put it into print—are the instructions that many brides who could scarcely boil an egg have discovered they can turn out delicious meals by following to the letter Miss Davis's instructions.

Incidentally, Miss Davis is just her professional name. She is really Mrs. ———— last time I saw her, she was hopping out of her car with her latest book under one arm and her baby under the other—and I can tell you the baby is as fine a job as the book.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Poor Girls Are Hypnotized

We are a group of student nurses just completing our first year of training. We do not agree with you. We find that after completing 3 years of training and a year of college we are just about the same as college graduates, so the third year of training is not wasted.

(Group of Student Nurses).

Answer—They have you hypnotized, all right, but even so you should make up your mind whether you are just completing the first year or the third year, or whether you are a student nurse at all. For everyday nursing service, you may assign to me a nurse who has had two years of training. Send the three-year la-di-da girl to some one who can afford fancy frills. I'm sorry, girls, but I can't tell you where you can get two-year training—most of the hosptals are in the three-year racket for the gravy they get out of it—to wit, a full year of service from a trained nurse for less than they pay the lowest grade of worker. arNdo n -aRJcMd Hungrade adl

We Have 'em Rolling in the Aisles

I have got a Mother, 71 years old, interested in your good teachings and now she, too, is somersaulting! She says it is great fun.

(F. M.)

Answer—You betcha it is fun, but let every old stiffneck past thirty roll 'em at his or her own peril. On written request (do not send a clipping of this item if you want a reply) if you inclose stamped envelope bearing your address, I'll send you Invitation to the Somersaultauqua which tells how to roll 'em and why. If you break your neck trying to somersault in the way Webster describes, that's your funeral and I'll thank you to leave my name off the list of mourners.

The Wart Song

Seven warts upon one digit made me fume and fuss and fidget, but, Dr. Brady, thanks to you, the warts are gone—the finger too. If you'll forgive me this platitude, I'm really filled with gratitude—it's just a joke for doubting cranks—the warts are gone and many thanks!

(E. S. C.)

Answer—Which of the half dozen remedies suggested in the booklet did you use? Readers with such problems may find a solution in the booklet Cosmetic Blemishes—for copy send ten cents and stamped self addressed envelope.

Jet Planes Make Successful Tests in Arctic Weather

By CHARLES B. LYNCH

Ottawa (Reuters)—British and Canadian technicians have just concluded the most comprehensive cold-weather tests ever attempted on jet aircraft, and have established that Britain's Vampire and Meteor jet fighters are capable of unusually high performance under Arctic conditions, it was learned here.

Full reports on the British-Canadian tests, conducted at Watson Lake, B.C., and Churchill, Man., have been requested by the United States, and will go forward to Washington this month.

The reports, now being prepared in Ottawa, consist of 16 volumes, and are described by the men who distribute them as "a best-seller of the secret list," so great has been the demand for copies in Ottawa, London and Washington.

The tests, which have been going on in the Canadian sub-Arctic for three years, are a joint effort of the Royal Canadian Air Force, the R.A.F. and the Fleet Air Arms of the Royal Navy and the Royal Canadian Navy.

The bases at Watson Lake and Churchill are the most northerly testing stations in the Empire.

Aircraft tested last winter included Lincoln and Lancaster bombers, the North Star transport (a Canadian adaptation of the DC-4, equipped with Rolls Royce engines), the Dakota, Sea Fury and Sea Hornet fighters, Meteor and Vampire jet fighters, the Firefly, the Mustang, and the Proctor Prentice trainer.

In addition to searching tests on these aircraft under Arctic conditions, general research was carried out on instruments and electrical equipment, ground handling, radio equipment, armament and emergency equipment and clothing.

Fully Equipped

All the aircraft were fully armed and ready for combat, probably the most varied collection of British-built aircraft in the western hemisphere.

The Lincoln, Lancaster, North Star and Dakota tests were made at Churchill, which can only be reached by long-range aircraft. The smaller planes were tested at Watson Lake, which is one of the main airfields on the Northwest Staging Route to Alaska, and can be reached in easy hops from Edmonton via Fort St. John, and Fort Nelson.

I visited the Watson Lake airdrome, which, apart from its claim to being one of the coldest spots in the world, also is one of the most beautiful. The entire station is constructed of logs, peeled and varnished—even to the control tower, which looks like a sort of frontier castle.

Last winter, the temperature at Watson Lake dropped as low as 80 degrees below zero, and, in the words of the men on the station, "everybody stayed well inside except those madmen in wee flight. They hardly ever came indoors."

"Wee flight" is service slang for Winter Experimental Establishment, which conducts the cold weather tests. Its personnel are known throughout the Canadian north as the men who moan when the weather is warm, and cheer when the thermometer drops past the 20-below mark.

They are at their happiest when it is between 40 and 60 below. They scorn heated hangars and leave their aircraft out in the open throughout the Arctic winter. Their greatest delight is that feared northern killer, the sub-zero blizzard. A wind blowing when the temperature is 40 below produces more "chill factor" than a still day at 80 below, and it is the chill factor that affects men and airplanes.

At Churchill, the "chill factor" in mid-winter is estimated to be almost as great as that in the polar regions.

Would Fly at 80 Below

Group Capt. C. W. Crossland, one of the R.C.A.F. officers directing "wee flight," told me: "Nearly every aircraft today is so designed that it will operate efficiently at temperatures down to 20 degrees below zero. We aim to drive that figure down to 80, and each year we make some headway.

"The main problems are maintaining the aircraft on the ground in Arctic conditions, and getting the aircraft started. In this respect we have found the Meteor and Vampire jets easier to work with than any other aircraft. They start beautifully in the coldest weather we have been able to find, even after they have been left out all night, unsheltered."

The idea is to stimulate conditions that would exist if aircraft were dispersed on emergency fields in the Arctic under combat conditions. Ground crews must make engine and air frame repairs in the open, and they have been proven themselves capable of making complete engine changes under these conditions."

Full reports on each aircraft are sent to the manufacturers. Most of the suggested adaptations are minor ones.

"In this business," said Group Capt. Crossland, "we don't expect to make any great discoveries. It is more a process of gradual development."

But during the winter just ended, the Watson Lake experiments proved of tremendous value to the United States Army Air Force. U.S. jet fighters sent to Alaska were grounded in the early weeks of the winter, because of moisture formation in fuel tanks, causing crystallization at extremely low temperatures. This meant the aircraft could not be flown unless they were kept in heated hangars.

When they heard of the American dilemma, "wee flight" officers made available to the Americans details of a British-designed filter that was standard equipment on the Meteor and Vampire, as a result of which these aircraft had no fuel trouble in the north. The device worked equally well on the U.S. planes, being tested at Fort Ladd, Alaska. As a result of this incident, the Americans asked for as many copies of wee flight reports as could be spared to them.

Rough 50-Day Trip Nets 2,700 Pelts

Halifax (CP)—Her 26-man crew sporting heavy beards and with more than 2,700 pelts in her hold, the Halifax sealer Alfred and Emily has arrived back in port after 50 days of a rough-and-tumble voyage.

The three-master won a few first rounds with ice packs in Cabot Strait and was only five miles from the Monica Walters when that ship was rafted on the ice and later sunk.

About the happiest to climb back onto land was cook Basil Hanrahan of Halifax. He admitted his stomach and the sea hadn't been on amicable terms since the vessel cleared port.

As for John Chinn, the bos'un, his wife failed to recognize him, camouflaged by a 50-days' growth of whiskers.

Capt. A. M. Shaw Jr., reported that during the seven weeks at sea the Alfred and Emily had experienced only three days of perfect weather.

For three days on the homeward journey the vessel was locked by ice in Aspy Bay near the northern tip of Cape Breton island.

Twice during the voyage the men had their dunnage packed and some started praying.

"She was hove up four feet at the stern a couple of time," said Reginald Chinn, the bos'un's son and also a member of the crew.

The Alfred and Emily, built as a navy training ship in 1938 and christened the Venture has lived up to her original name.

M.D.'S AGAINST FREE MEDICINE IN AUSTRALIA

By LESLIE BRODIE

Canadian Press Correspondent

Sydney, Australia (CP)—Australian doctors are bitterly opposing the government's free medicine scheme which began to operate June 1.

Under the scheme the government has named 600 drugs from which all medicine will be supplied free to the public.

The doctors are against the plan because they believe that they will be unable in many cases to prescribe correct medicines for their patients from the drugs named in the government formulary. They claim that they would have to surrender the right to use their own judgment on what they believe their patients require.

Dr. J. G. Hunter, New South Wales secretary of the British Medical Association, in a statement said that the B.M.A. was not opposed to free medicine as such and would be prepared to co-operate only on condition that they were allowed to prescribe what they believed was right.

Dr. Hunter said: "The minister (of health) has stated that it will be possible to write thousands of prescriptions from the formulary. If this is so why does the government refuse to go the full distance and allow the doctor to prescribe free of cost what he thinks fit for his patient."

Use Special Form

To get free medicine a patient will have to have a prescription from his doctor on a special government form which must be handed to a government registered chemist for dispensing.

There is no compulsion on the part of the doctors to register with the government for the scheme. Although the B.M.A. has issued no instructions to its members to resist the plan is not expected that many of them will associate themselves with it.

Druggists have expressed their willingness to co-operate under the new act. They will be required to register with the government and will be reimbursed from the federal treasury for drugs and paid 23 cents a prescription. This amount was agreed upon at a meeting between the government and the Federal Pharmaceutical Service Guild.

Should a doctor fail to use the form supplied by the government the druggist cannot supply the medicine free.

The scheme is expected to cost the taxpayer around $6,500,000 a year.

Here is the TRUTH about the CCF

Monday is election day.

In fairness to yourself, before you vote, ask yourself, "What is the real issue in this election?"

It is not, we believe, just an issue between parties. It IS an issue between principles.

We of the CCF believe that the principles to which we are devoted — the policies we will put into operation if you elect us — will make Ontario stronger, happier and a better place to live in. We believe in "PEOPLE FIRST". That means government for ALL the people. It means government that will help the aged, the needy, the handicapped as well as those more fortunate.

Is that the kind of government we have had in Ontario?

What are the conditions we find today?

Thousands of our people, having given their best years to this province, are eking out a bare existence on a miserably inadequate old age pension. Thousands of our people, handicapped by illness, are denied adequate hospital and medical care. Families are crowded into one or two rooms because there are no homes to be had. All this while the Drew government boasts of a $25,000,000 surplus.

Is it not, in truth, time for a change — a new and better way of life?

The CCF says "YES". The CCF says "IT CAN BE DONE".

The CCF says this WILL be done; Ontario has the resources to provide everyone with a good home, good health services, security in old age — a good life for all.

The CCF pledges:

Inexpensive, prepaid hospital care, more hospitals and health centres . . . free treatment for cancer, T.B. and V.D. We'll eliminate all hospital bills!

A provincial Housing Administration will build thousands of homes and rent them at a price you can afford

For all old age and blind pensioners, $40 a month pension plus free health services . . . increased Mothers' Allowances . . . more day nurseries and child welfare services . . . comfortable homes for the aged

Labour security . . . laws that will assure collective bargaining and union security . . . two weeks' vacation with pay . . . a 40-hour week . . . better coverage and higher rates for workmen's compensation

Farm security . . . we'll speed up rural electrification . . . pass the marketing act the farmers have asked for . . . encourage rural community centres . . . give maximum encouragement to co-ops

Local votes on cocktail bars and other outlets

A Bill of Rights to safeguard your freedom of religion, speech and association . . . No discrimination because of race, creed or colour

New power plants . . . new sources of power . . . lower light bills . . . electrical appliances at lower cost

Low-cost Auto-insurance . . . all motorists and pedestrians are protected in case of accident . . . no need to go to court

Protection for small business through control of commercial rents.

This is a program for ALL the people. The small businessman, the office-worker, the farmer, the housewife — all of you contribute to government and society at large, and all of you are entitled to all the aids and benefits that government and society at large can give you.

Naturally the Ontario Federation of Labour supports us. It knows that if we form the next government of Ontario, it will be able to state its views to an administration that is not hopelessly prejudiced against it beforehand.

The CCF is not, and has never been, the bondservant of privileged groups. It can take office and govern, free of any pledges to extend particular favours to any special interests. We shall legislate, not for the good of the few, but for the good of the many. We shall provide government FOR the people — ALL the people.

Ontario has the resources to provide economic security for every section of this province. With co-operation between farmer and worker, racial and religious tolerance, social justice and equal opportunity for everyone, we can advance toward a common goal . . . a united people, democratic, strong and free.

This is the pledge of the CCF to the people of Ontario. We earnestly ask for your vote on Monday.

Albert College Students Present Series of One-Act Plays at Closing Exercises

As part of the closing exercises at Albert College on Friday evening a series of one-act plays was presented by the students of dramatic art under the capable direction of Miss Jessie B. Tuite. Memorial Chapel was comfortably filled with interested parents and friends who gave their sympathetic attention as the young Thespians presented most creditably three plays.

In his address of welcome to the guests, Dr. Bert Howard remarked that the night's performance represented the culmination of a year of tutoring in this course, and the last few days were spent in a special effort to acquire skill in making a public appearance. He asked for the attentive interest of the audience which they gladly gave.

Opening the program was the junior play "The Arm Chair," by Rose Riyeman. The Arm Chair was personified by little Carolyn Franklin, who, although concealed during the whole act, spoke her lines so clearly that every word was audible. Mrs. Modger, played by Jane Slavin, was the old lady who owned the arm chair. She was unaware that concealed in the chair was a fifty dollar bill, but she had a strong sentimental interest in the chair, and when she finds herself in financial difficulties with her demanding landlord (played with efficient brusqueness by Bobby Franklin) she refuses to sell the chair. Meantime a dainty barefooted fairy (Diane Hales) persuades the reluctant chair to reveal the bill to the distressed lady, and all ends happily as the bill pays the rent for a whole year.

Intermediate Presentation

The intermediate presentation was entitled "Charade" by Philip Johnson. The action took place in the servants' quarters of a London house, and required the use of Cockney accents. Marion Nevery as the cook, and Vivien Cannon as the maid performed their parts capably, but the fast-talking film scout, played by Nancy David, gave real scope for histrionic ability. Roberta Allen is the mistress, who is almost overcome by the voluble film scout, and Barbara Fargey is Iris who longs to act in the films. However it is the charwoman, played by Shirley Alyea, who is discovered as the type wanted for the picture, but unfortunately she cannot accept because, as she tells the cook afterwards, she couldn't sign the contract as she "couldn't write her name."

The last and most ambitious play was a tragedy entitled "A Room in a Tower and was performed by the senior group. The story deals with the imprisonment of Lady Jane Grey (Mary Lo Wishart) by Mary, Queen of England (Anne Marie McCullough), and Lady Jane's two ladies-in-waiting, played by Cecelia Maloney and Kae Kerr. All the actresses were word perfect, and the individual parts were performed with sincerity and true dramatic ability. The scene was in Tower of London and the story dealt with the intrigues and politics of that day. The last words spoken by Lady Jane Grey were her actual words as she went to her death.

A delightful addition to the program was the organ and piano duet, Handel's "Largo," performed by Mr. William Connor and Miss Meribeth Holgate.

At the conclusion of the program Miss Jessie Tuite, directress, was presented with a charming bouquet of flowers by Miss Carolyn Franklin.

Recital Presented

The senior pupils of the Conservatory of Music presented their annual recital at Memorial Hall, Albert College, on Thursday evening. The piano students are pupils of Miss Bessie Handley and Mr. William Connor, and they were assisted by Miss Norma Arkles, soprano, a student of Miss Leona Riggs, and vocalist Miss Ruth Palmer, a student of Mr. G. M. Black. A large and appreciative audience was present to enjoy the performance which equalled the high standard of previous recitals. The program was arranged with a variety of classical music designed to express many moods and, was nicely balanced to include sacred, modern and favorite classics.

Mr. Taylor Franklin welcomed the guests and expressed his pleasure that so many had shown their interest in the musical efforts of the performers.

Progress was reported on the renovation of the residence rooms where painting, decorating, sanding of the floors and renewal of the furnishings is underway. This work will be completed early in June and it is hoped to provide temporary accommodation for young men who are arriving in the city. Widow of the famed British Chindit chief who won renown in the Burma campaign before he was killed in an air crash, Mrs. Lorna Wingate is shown with her son, Orde Jonathan, 4, whom she has promised to Israel. Not having them, I decided to send you my son to be educated in Israel and to be a loyal son of both Israel and Britain."

Women's Activities

JUBILEE EVENING AUX.

The perfect weather of June 1st., was very favorable for a picnic, held by members of the Jubilee Evening Auxiliary of Bridge Street United Church, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Clare, Trent Road.

Following a supper served buffet style from tables ready for self-service, Mrs. K. Bird led in a sing-song. The president, Miss Irene Grills, thanked Mr. and Mrs. Clare for their generous hospitality, and welcomed a number of guests. Miss Nancy David contributed two delightful solos.

Rev. D. C. Amos was guest speaker, His message was inspired by a story told by the team sent out to tour world missions. When, by accident, their plane touched down at Damascus, attention was drawn to a road winding over a hill, and they were told it was the road from Jerusalem to Damascus, which meant so much in the life of St. Paul.

"In what situation might we find ourselves today, if St. Paul had taken the road East to India or China, instead of the road West to Rome, and Britain? Would it have meant that China and India might now be sending missionaries to us in our poverty? How grateful we should be that Christianity came first to the West, and that we still retain some of the Christian graces. We are the heirs of all that great effort. There is now an open door through which we may go freely with all the gifts which have been bestowed upon us, to the aid of those others who have waited so long."

Mrs. C. Burr thanked all who had contributed to the success of the program. Miss Nicholl had charge of the devotional period, with Mrs. E. Fairman reading the Scripture.

BLUENOSE STILL QUEEN OF FLEET FOR N.S. FOLK

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Lunenburg, N.S. (CP)— The Bluenose and the Gertrude L. Thebaud have both gone now and the Atlantic seaboard somehow doesn't seem the same without them.

The Thebaud, pride of the Gloucester fishing fleet, was abandoned in a Venezuelan harbor when wrecked last February. Her bitterest rival and frequent conqueror, the Bluenose out of Lunenburg, was smashed to pieces on a reef in Haiti just two years before.

The Bluenose was—and still is in the minds of veteran mariners—the queen of the North Atlantic deep-sea fishing fleet and international fishermen's schooner-racing champion.

Capt. Angus Walters, the fiery Lunenburger, skippered the Bluenose to five championships. In fact, she was never beaten in championship contests although edged out by the Thebaud in an exhibition series in 1930.

Capt. Ben Pine of Gloucester, Mass., who owned the Thebaud and sailed her in some of the races, sold the vessel in 1944. She was being used in the short-haul island trade in the Caribbean when she was rammed at her dock and set adrift in a storm.

The Bluenose was also in the island trade when she foundered. The last voyage of both schooners seemed anti-climatic.

Pictured on Dime

Launched from Lunenburg shipyards in 1921, the fleet, 154-ton Bluenose was honored by having her picture engraved on a Canadian 50-cent stamp issue in 1930-31 and on the Canadian 10-cent piece.

She ended her fishing and racing career just before the Second World War broke out when she sailed south to engage in coastal shipping in 1942.

The Bluenose, designed by a Halifax naval architect, W. J. Roue, and launched from the shipbuilding yards here of Smith and Rhuland, had been studied and copied many times in efforts to construct craft as graceful— but without success. Veteran fishermen were of the opinion that some unfathomed quirk in her construction gave her the added touch in sailing both into and with the wind.

Not a racing champion only, the ship had a tough life. She sailed with the deep-sea fleets to the Grand Banks when she was not racing and made two extended exhibition tours. One of these was across the Atlantic to England and the other took her up the St. Lawrence to Toronto and Chicago.

Designed to make a quick run to the banks off Newfoundland and carry a large cargo of fish to this port in competition with the Gloucester fleet, the Bluenose held the record for the largest single catch ever brought to Lunenburg.

The schooner was equipped with engines in 1936 but they were ripped out two years later for her last international race in the fall of 1938 when she defeated the Thebaud off Boston. The best-of-five series went the limit and in fairly heavy seas Capt. Walters breezed first across the finish line in the fifth and deciding race.

Living Costs Rise With Higher Wages

By LESLIE BRODIE
Canadian Press Correspondent

Sydney, Australia (CP)—Australia's cost of living has risen sharply since the abolition of regulations that pegged wages at a steady level throughout the war.

As soon as the government cancelled wage-pegging last October the unions rushed to the industrial courts with demands for increased pay and as quickly as the judges awarded new rates, retail prices went up to take in the added cost of production.

To absorb an over-all increase of 14 per cent in wages, retail prices have gone up more than 10 per cent since last January, according to figures issued by the Commonwealth statistician.

The federal government is said to be worried at the rising costs and fears that the standard of living in the country will gradually be lowered.

The Canberra correspondent of the Sydney Daily Telegraph says that the government is urging union leaders to call a halt to the scramble to get more wage increases.

"The government's nightmare is that the unionists will impatiently reject its advice while it dare not take any direct exhaustive action, as during the war, to stabilize wages," he adds.

The federal government has kept a tight rein on prices with ceilings and heavy subsidies on all essential foodstuffs, such as meat, tea, sugar, milk, but producers make frequent applications for increased prices and the government, for budget reasons, is forced to pass it on to the public.

German Youths Enforce Rules in Own Camps

By JACK SMYTH

Berlin (Reuters)—Thousands of German youth who "look to the road" following their country's capitulation are today leading useful lives in "Boys' Towns" set up in the British-occupied zone.

One of the most pressing problems facing the British military government in the early days of the occupation was that presented by wandering, disillusioned youths. The country was literally overrun by boys separated from their families and by young men who had served with the armed forces.

Military government officials decided some scheme was necessary whereby the boys could be housed, controlled, and given a chance to rehabilitate themselves.

On Dec. 9, 1945, a camp was opened at Soderstof and the first batch of 20 boys, directed there by the police, was installed. In the first 24 hours, half of the boys disappeared, taking with them the blankets and clothes with which they had been issued.

A code of discipline was then drawn up and each boy was asked to sign it. A lagerrat, or court of honor, was instituted, and the boys, finding that they themselves were to be entrusted with the task of enforcing discipline in the camp, were soon convinced of the sincerity of their sponsors.

No boy has ever run away from the camp since.

Arrive Dirty, Depraved

Most boys arriving at the camp today are found to have sunk to the utmost depths of depravity. Without exception, every new arrival is found to be lousy, sore-infected and caked with dirt.

Their mental state is typified by their attitude towards women. Some, including boys of only 15 years of age, boast openly of the "widow" with whom they lived at one time or another.

The material side is first dealt with, and medical care, DDT powder and extra food soon rectify the physical problem.

The mental side is found to be largely dependent on the physical. As soon as the boys discover that someone is willing to accept them as ordinary members of society they settle down to a normal way of life.

The next problem is to find them employment and make their "Boys' Town" self-supporting.

The local authorities help by supplying a fixed sum for every boy who passes through and by finding employment for him in forestry and farming.

Plans are now under way to open apprenticeship centres, but these are handicapped by a shortage of accommodation, building materials, and teachers.

Although "Boys' Towns' cannot be regarded as a complete solution it is certain that the boys who pass through the camps, though still possibly apathetic and backward, are at least fitted in mind and body again to take their places in the everyday life of the community.

John D's Wealth Has Paid Mankind Lavish Dividends

By SAUL PETT,

New York (AP)—Thirty-five years ago John D. Rockefeller Sr., set out to improve the "well-being of mankind" through the Rockefeller Foundation.

Since then, the Foundation has grown into a global giant with cash in every pocket. It has spent $413,907,068 in every country of the world and in virtually every type of effort to improve human life.

It has spent twice as much as it started with and still has almost as much as Rockefeller put into it. And with what's left, says President Raymond B. Fosdick, the Foundation can go on spending for "perhaps another two generations" before running dry.

Just how much man's well-being has been advanced by this money is incalculable, but the score in lives saved might be measured in millions. The contribution to man's knowledge has also been incalculable. Among its achievements, money or men supplied by the Foundation have:

Developed the vaccine which brought yellow fever under control; sharply reduced deaths caused by malaria and hookworm and acquainted much of the world with methods of fighting these diseases; built the world's first big atom-smasher at the University of California; built 200-inch Mount Palomar telescope, which will project man's sight into the universe two times farther than was possible before; helped improve scores of public health systems around the world as well as start 25 nursing schools in 14 countries; trained more than 9,000 men in all branches of science, including some of the top men now in nuclear physics and the scientists who discovered the medical uses of penicillin.

The Foundation began spending money on May 22, 1913, shortly after Rockefeller told his aides:

"I know what I want to do with my money. I made it all over the world and will spend it there. Get the people interested in their diseases..get knowledge into the minds of the people."

World Wide in Scope

The Foundation is still spending money all over the world and for a breath-taking variety of reasons. Right now, more than 90 different institutions and a half dozen governments are working with Foundation funds appropriated in 1947—a record year when $23,000,000 was allocated.

Medical research and medical education in China are being expanded with a new $10,000,000 grant. Mexico has another $266,000 to try to increase its corn yield.

As a result of Rockefeller money recently appropriated, researchers at the University of Copenhagen are working on the biological uses of isotopes; Columbia University is studying trends in labor union leadership; Uruguay's ministry of public health is installing new equipment for biological research; Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey is polling the nation on its sex habits; Chicago University is studying and training people for race relations work; the University of California is training personnel for Slavic studies; a Dutch institute has $25,000 to hold a conference on German problems; the British Museum, London, has $56,000 to set up a microfilm laboratory.

Over the years, the Foundation has spent more than $23,000,000 on its "investments in men." It has supported approximately 9,000 fellowships in all countries of the world and in practically all fields, from sanitary engineering to Shakespearean studies. The fellows have gone on to teach countless thousand of others.

The next time your child runs a fearfully high temperature you might be better able to appreciate the $11,000 the Foundation invested in one man. In 1935, Howard W. Florey was brought to the United States on a fellowship. Florey, a Co-worker of Sir Alexander Fleming, is credited with discovering the medical uses of penicillin.

Studied Under L. V. Shing

Until 1924, operations on the brain or spinal cord were mostly fatal. Then Dr. Harvey Cushing developed a new technique by which 80 per cent of his patients survived. A London doctor, Hugh Cairns, was sent to Boston by the Foundation to study under Cushing. Two years later, he returned to England a leading authority on the subject, and the percentage of survival among his own patients and those of the surgeons he in turn taught began to rival Cushing's.

The Foundation already has lost track of the number of Nobel Prize winners assisted in the past by Rockefeller money. Florey was one. Two of the 1947 Nobel winners also had been helped by the Foundation. They are Sir Robert Robinson of Oxford, winner in chemistry, and Dr. Bernardo Houssay of Argentina, who shared the award in physiology and medicine.

In all, Rockefeller set aside about a half million dollars for philanthropic work. There now are three separate Rockefeller organizations spending the money—the Foundation, the Institute of Medical Research and the General Education Board, which also helped in the building of the Mount Palomar telescope. The Foundation is the largest.

Profitable investments explain why the Foundation is still worth almost as much as when it started. Old John D. set it up with $100,000,000 and before his death in 1937 added another $100,000,000 with most of its money invested in oil securities, the Foundation has been able to spend almost $296,000,000 from income and more than $118,000,000 from capital.

Its investments now have a market value of more than $198,000,000, making it one of the greatest, if not the greatest single foundation in the world. The investments of the Carnegie Corp. of New York have a market value of $172,000,000. Some reports say the Ford Foundation now is the biggest, but its actual financial strength has not been made public.

FRED VANPORT FLOOD REFUGEES

Flood victims and rescue workers in Vanport, Oregon, are served coffee and sandwiches from a Salvation Army truck after raging flood waters demolished the city. The war-built community of 18,700 was inundated when the Columbia river broke through a dyke. The Pacific northwest still struggles with its greatest disaster and new flood warning brought no hope of a possible let-up for weeks. The new flood is building up from melting snow in the great basin headwaters in the Canadian and United States Rockies.

Canadian Develops Caviar Production

Toronto, June 4 — (CP)—Caviar is Canada's newest industry and apparently going places.

Harry L. Donaldson of North Bay, Ont., (Northern Caviar, Ltd.) gave up 30 years as a mine manager to get into something that would take up his time and give him a modest living.

After four days at the Canadian International Trade Fair, where his jars of caviar line a booth, he thinks he is in a considerable business.

"About every country in the world has shown interest in our product. I have one offer to buy my entire production, which, however, I won't take. If I had four or five times as much, I could sell it right here. It would have taken five or 10 years to do what the fair has done for me in a few days."

Donaldson started his study of caviar two years ago, first with the intention of importing the Russian product in bulk from New York and packing it.

Then he became interested in developing a Canadian caviar. He brought in sturgeon roe from the northern Canadian lakes, from Lake Nipissing in Ontario to Great Slave Lake in the Northwest Territories and experimented. Now he thinks he has a product to rival any, and for the last year it has been on the tables of leading Canadian hotels, while experiments continued.

The sturgeon which produces this black gold is a luxury fish on all counts. Its flesh, aside from the roe, sells for about $1.40 a lb in the New York market where it is smoked. It ranges in size from about 35 or 40 pounds to 78 or 100, and from 20 pounds up of roe may be taken from one fish. No. 1 Canadian caviar produced from it sells for about $15 a pound, or rather more in smaller packagees.

While sturgeon is the source of caviar, Canadian or Russian, Mr. Donaldson says he has been asked to also produce salmon caviar next year.

He chose North Bay for his plant because of its facilities as a rail and air centre to which roe from northern lakes can be flown in.

His production to date has not been large, but he expects to produce about 4½ tons this year, and on the basis of his experience at the fair he doesn't know where he is going from there.

It has been a family affair, himself, his wife, and two daughters, but he thinks he will have to expand his plant to the extent of employing a dozen or more girls for packing.

Argue Merits Of Emigration

London (CP)—Whether or not Britons should emigrate to Commonwealth countries has been the subject of a heated debate in the readers' correspondence column of The Daily Mirror.

One reader described persons wishing to leave Britain for countries "where life is more comfortable" as "softies who don't deserve to be called Englishmen."

Back came an angry reply from Hull: "This is rubbish. It is the softies who stay home. Adventurous people want to see what's on the other side of the world. The British Empire was not built by softies, but by hardy, adventurous pioneers."

A woman reader said she had advised her carpenter son against going to Canada when "England needs strong young men to rebuild her prosperity."

To which a clergyman from Manchester replied: "This is a selfish view. The mother naturally does not want to lose her son. But England is overcrowded and it is time our young people recaptured the pioneering spirit. They are well advised to seek better life in the young virile countries of the Empire."

New York, June 5 — (CP) — If there was nothing else to its credit, the 1947-48 theatre season just closed could claim distinction for the appearance of a major play by Tennessee Williams, "A Streetcar Named Desire."

This sombre, intensely dramatic study of a woman's moral and mental disintegration won both the Pulitzer and the Drama Critics Circle prizes.

But there were ohtre

But there were other commendable things about the season, which ended May 31 as determined by the dating of actors' equity contracts. There were two successful war plays, "Command Decision" and "Mister Roberts." There was a superlative acting performance by Judith Anderson in "Medea."

Activity off Broadway was unusually lively. The experimental theatre during a busy season sent four productions to the commercial stage, including "Skipper Next to God" and "Ballet Ballads." New Stages, Inc., made a hit with Jean-Paul Sartre's "The Respectful Prostitute," which also made the grade to Broadway.

From a statistical standpoint, the season's production volume was almost identical with that of 1946-47. Productions totalled 89 against 87 the previous period. Broken into categories, there were 43 plays, nine musicals, three revues, 30 revivals and four miscellaneous shows.

Most popular author was George Bernard Shaw, who was represented by "Man and Superman," "You Never Can Tell" and "John Bull's Other Island."

Low-cost Entertainment

Three war veterans have written and produced a lively musical review called "Step a Little Closer" at a cost of $1,000. The show opened last week at Greenwich Village's Provincetown Playhouse, the theatre that first displayed the early works of a struggling young playwright named Eugene O'Neill.

Record After All

The Theatre Guild did some rechecking and came up this week with the information that "Oklahoma!" which closed its New York run a week ago broke the world's record for the run of a musical. The Guild previously announced the production fell short by 28 days of the London run of "Chu Chin Chow" during the First World War. Subsequently it reported it had overlooked 44 extra matinee performances given during the war for the armed forces. These brought its total to 2,248.

KNOCKED DOWN EMBANKMENT

Thornbury, June 4 — (CP) — Two brothers from Thornbury, Lloyd and Lester Moore, narrowly escaped serious injury Thursday when their truck was struck by a C. N. R. passenger train at a level crossing in Thornbury.

The truck was knocked down a 10-foot embankment and was a total wreck, but the two boys escaped with a bad shaking up.

BLAME BYSTANDER'S CIGARET AS DRESS CATCHES FIRE

Danville, Ill., June 5 (AP) — A little girl standing in a crowd at a bus station was badly burned Thursday when her dress apparently was set afire by a burning cigaret held by a bystander. Judith and Nixon, five, suffered second degree burns. The smoker was not identified.

YOUR VOTE FOR

IS NEEDED ON JUNE 7 TO

Keep Ontario STRONG

The outcome of this election will determine the future course of this province for many years to come. Quite apart from any political considerations, you have before you two entirely different points of view. The Progressive Conservative Party believes that this province has unequalled opportunities for development provided that our great resources are put to work under plans for the future which will provide the electric power and other requirements for the greatest period of expansion we have ever known. Our opponents do not believe that these opportunities for expansion exist. It is their right and their duty to express their own opinion about our future. They have done so. They do not believe in our great programme of development. They have acted accordingly and will continue to do so.

You know the record of the government and the many things it has done to advance the interests of all our people. You know the tremendous programme of development which we have approved and which will go into effect if we receive your support on June the 7th. We believe that is the way to assure employment in the years ahead. On the other side you have a static point of view which thinks that all this development should be deferred until the threat of unemployment which they are constantly predicting is actually upon us. Developments of this kind take years to complete and the best way to maintain employment in the future is to provide the power and other resources which are needed to keep employment at a high level. That is the point of view we ask you to support.

I do wish to emphasize one unusual feature of this election. The Communists in this province, relatively small in numbers, are highly organized. They are supporting the C.C.F. I recognize that the leaders of the C.C.F. Party have disavowed this support. The fact remains, however, that in every riding except two where there are Communist candidates who were members of the last Legislature, the Communist vote, large or small, is going to the support of C.C.F. candidates. This may be unfortunate for the C.C.F., and may be against the wishes of that Party. It is apparent, however, that the policies of the C.C.F. Party find sufficient acceptance with the Communists to gain their support.

No matter how worthy any individual C.C.F. candidate may be you have only one way of making sure that your vote is not going to be joined with a Communist vote. It should be remembered that in every country where Communism has come to power, including Russia, it came originally through an alignment with the Socialist party in that country. You may think the danger is still far away here in Canada. Only a few years ago they thought it was very far away in those countries which have been brought under Communist slavery within the past three years. The time to end the threat of Communism is while we are still strong and free, not when freedom hangs in the balance and we face one last desperate decision.

This is not just an ordinary election. With democracy threatened all over the world as it is today, this is an opportunity for the people of Ontario to show by their vote that they really believe in the right to vote. Naturally I hope that you will support the candidate of our party in your riding. No matter how you vote, however, may I urge every one of you to exercise your franchise so that we demonstrate to ourselves and to those living in less fortunate lands, that we really know the value of our freedom. Never has this province advanced so greatly as it has under the progressive policies of the present government. Our programme for the future provides for still greater development in the years ahead. With the great opportunities which are before us, I hope you will give us an overwhelming mandate to keep Ontario strong through the years ahead.

Solunar Tables:

Large Wet Flies For Trout

Human beings tend to be creatures of habit. They become accustomed to doing things a certain way and it takes some doing to show them new and better ways to do those very things. This applies not only to behavior but to thinking as well. No doubt this universal characteristic can be attributed to physical and mental laziness. Whatever its cause, the fact remains that habit plays an important part in our lives.

Habit shows up in fishing just as much as it does in other things. A man catches trout with a certain method. So long as he manages to get a few fish with that method, not even Congressional edict or an act of God can change him.

Used Worm on Fly

Some years ago a man told me, in all seriousness, that he had the sure-fire way to catch trout. "I hang a number twelve Royal Coachman fly onto a little 2/0 spinner. Then I hang a nice fat worm on the fly. It never fails."

"Dunno," he replied. "The Royal Coachman works first rate. I'd hesitate to change it."

Wet-fly fishermen follow along the same pattern of behavior. Once they catch trout on certain patterns and on certain sizes, those are the patterns and sizes that they use, day in and day out, come hell or high water.

It must be remembered that there are two kinds of wet-fly fishing. The first, and perhaps the most useful, is the process of matching a drifting hatch of natural insects with its artificial counterpart. During the progress of a hatch, wet flies are most effective during the latter stages when the insects have been washed under, either by wave action or by the riffles, and are drifting submerged. It is then that the trout leave off taking surface insects and feed selectively on those that are drowned and are drifting spent, at or under the surface. The right wet fly at the close of a hatch, if that's the word to express it, is just as valuable as the right nymph while the hatch is developing, or the right dry fly while the live insects are drifting.

Use of Wet Flies

The other sort of wet-fly fishing is the process of "fishing the water," as the British anglers term it, with a cast of wet flies when there is no special hatch drifting and no fish are rising. It is here that habit asserts itself most strongly. Ninety-nine out of a hundred men use small flies for this sort of fishing—twelves and fourteens. I'm talking now, of course, about the men who fish the brown-trout rivers, not the northwoods fishermen in search of square-tail and landlocks. Twelves and fourteens are the sizes that they have taken fish on in the past; all right, that's the size to use, regardless of circumstances.

During recent years, certain groups of anglers, mostly in the Catskills, have deviated sharply from accepted wet-fly methods. Instead of the conventional twelves and fourteens, they use big flies—tens, eights and even sixes. Not only do they find these large flies more productive; also, they take larger fish with them.

Last season we saw a wet-fly fisherman making his way downstream through a stretch of rough "pocket water." It so happened that the warden was with us, so we had a chance to see the contents of the man's creel when the warden checked him over. In the creel were two trout that all but filled it. Wondering, I looked at the man's tackle. He was using a cast of two number-six streamers, evidently home-made, as one was patterned after the Dark [illegible] and the other after the Hen[illegible]. With these he employed [illegible] wet-fly tactics, spotting the flies into the pockets in the [illegible]le, and his method paid off in great shape.

Large Wet Flies

In the wide waters of lower reaches of our big rivers, I have found large wet flies to be most useful. Here the water is far too spacious to attempt to cover with a dry fly unless the fish are rising and thus serve as targets. I use a big rod, a sinking line, and a cast of two large wet flies. The method is to cast directly across-current and down, varying the speed of the flies as they sweep across with the current. In this way a great deal of water can be covered. During the Solunar Periods, even though there is no hatch drifting, the fish are alert and ready to feed and we have found this method surprisingly productive.

And, to return to habits for a moment, get yourself into the habit of keeping track of the daily Solunar Periods. We are perfectly willing to grant that the Solunar Tables are not perfect, but what is, when you come right down to it? You and the rest of us will have blank days and that is as it should be. It takes a blank day now and then to make us appreciate the good ones. But this we can tell you—if you get the habit of putting your Solunar Tables to use every time you go out, you are pretty sure to find the best spot that each day has to offer.

Solunar Period

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best spot that each day has offer.

The Major Periods are shown in boldface type. These begin at the times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The Minor Periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

The times given are for June 6th to the 13th inclusive.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By EDWARD PALMER

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, June 5 — (CP) — Sportswriters, who direct most of their critical literary efforts toward players, occasionally unload their venom on the spectators.

Recently Don (Sudbury Star) Mackintosh used an open letter to chastise the behavior of an onlooker at a Nickel Belt League baseball game.

He said:

"Today Harry Marchand, through your foolish caper, is in the hospital at Copper Cliff. You are permitted some consolation in knowing he spent a more or less comfortable night under the circumstances."

The writer then castigated the unidentified "Mr. Brownshirt" for running out and intercepting a foul fly — an action which caused a collision and cost the player face and leg injuries.

Don concluded on a note of instruction to all tempted to repeat Mr. Brownshirt's mistake. "It is just plain unfair to the athletes on the field to have foolish people like yourself creating hazards."

Pennell the Worry Wart

Nominated by Rex (Guelph Mercury) MacLeod for the position of chief worrier in the Ontario Intercounty Baseball League is Larry Pennell, boss man of the Brantford Red Sox.

Although his team walloped Guelph Maple Leafs 12-2 in a fixture last week, Pennell is quoted as saying: "We blew a lead like this before and we can do it again."

The crucial moment at which this remark was made happened to be at the beginning of the ninth inning.

Expensive Import

A letter from a student in the United States was received in the Galt district offering the lad's services for a tryout with a senior baseball club, writes Laurie (Galt Reporter) Brain. This is all he wanted:

Four hundred dollars for signing; $50 fare; a $40-a-week job in the personnel department of a local firm; his room and board; a percentage of the gate receipts; and a bonus if the team should get into the playoffs."

Four-Game Series Between Cleveland and Philadelphia Will Determine Leadership

The American League lead, which has changed hands in two previous Philadelphia-Cleveland series, goes on the block again in Shibe Park today.

The Indians moved into Philadelphia for four games with Connie Mack's amazing Athletics. Currently Cleveland has an eight-point margin over the Athletics.

Cleveland suddenly exploded for five runs after 14 scoreless innings at Washington Friday night and whipped the Senators 5-0 in a 15-inning thriller.

The Indians put together five hits off Tom Ferrick and Dick Welteroth in the big rally. Mickey Haefner and Bobby Feller matched pitches for 11 innings before Feller retired in favor of Bob Muncrief. Haefner went out for a pinch-hitter in the 12th.

Philadelphia rallied for three runs in the seventh inning to turn back the last-place Chicago White Sox 4-3. Mike Guerra's double brought home the winning run and gave Lou Brissie his fifth victory of the year.

New York Yankees whipped Detroit 7-4, despite Dick Wakefield's pinch-hit home run with two abroad. The Wakefield blast knotted the count at 4-4 in the top of the seventh but Johnny Lindell put the Yanks ahead with a round-tripper in the home half of the same inning.

The Boston Red Sox downed the St. Louis Browns 10-4, and 7-2.

Joe Dobson chalked up his sixth victory in the opening game while Denny Galehouse had his first success in the nightcap. Whitey Platt and Less Moss homered for St. Louis in the first game.

Giants Move Ahead

In the National League New York Giants moved a game and a half ahead of the runner-up St. Louis Cardinals by beating Cincinnati Reds 5-4 in a day game while the Cards dropped a 1-0 decision to Brooklyn Dodgers in a night game at St. Louis.

Buddy Kerry's two-run pinch hit single in the eighth inning off starter Kent Peterson decided the game in favor of the New Yorkers. Hank Sauer kept the Reds in the game with two homers, his 15th and 16th of the season, top output in either league.

Brilliant clutch pitching by Ralph Branca highlighted the Dodgers' victory over the Cards. Branco yielded nine hits but came up with seven strikeouts.

Howie Polliet, after a shaky start, matched Branca pitch for pitch until removed for a pinch-hitter in the seventh.

The third-place Pittsburgh Pirates also lost ground to the Giants, falling two games off the pace as a result of their 10-7 loss to Boston Braves in a night game at Pittsburgh.

Trailing 5-3, the Braves shoved seven runs over the plate in the seventh inning with former Pirate Jim Russell highlighting the rally with a three-run homer. Ralph Kiner of the Pirates smacked his 13th round-tripper in the seventh with the sacks empty.

In a day game at Chicago, the hustling Philadelphia Phillies turned back the Cubs 7-2.

While Walt Dubpel checked the Cubs on eight hits to hoist his third victory, the Phils hammered out 13 safeties including homers by Dick Sisler and Delhennis.

Richie Ashburn, young Philadelphia speedster, extended his batting streak to 21 straight games by collecting two singles.

BY HUGH FULLERTON Jr.

New York, June 5 — (AP) — The "seven millionaires" promoting the Tony Zale — Rocky Graziano fight have gone for a "nut" of about $300,000 and all they've got out of it so far is the guarantee of seven front row seats for themselves . . . They're all fight fans but none ever busted into the front row before. Now they'll only have about 400 members of the working press ahead of them . . . Although Tony and Rocky still won't match Stan Ketchell and Billy Papke's record of meeting four times, Sam Pian, one of Zale's managers, says this will be their last clash . . . "I think three is enough and I think neither of them will want any more after this one," says Sam . . . If Zale should regain the title, he'll likely give Marcel Cerdan the first shot . . . Graziano probably couldn't pronounce Electro-encephalograph if he saw the word, but that's one of the things used during the physical exam they gave him in Newark the other day . . . and there's no truth in the report the machine busted down trying to record what's inside of Rocky's skull.

Slothful Beaver Shivered Outside

The Pas, Man. (CP)— People look on beavers as very busy little animals. Most of them are, but one trapped here recently was an exception—and he payed for his laziness.

Last summer while all good beavers are industriously building homes for the winter one lazy little friend spent his days chewing willows and doing whatever else beavers do when they're not working.

When winter came he had no home, and his companions had no rooms for him. So he lived in the open—nobody seems to know how. He came through this spring with frozen feet and no toes, and the webbing which enables him to swim wast was gone. The final blow came when he stumbled into an Indian's trap.

The games and fisheries branch of the Manitoba government wants the plight of this beaver to be an example to other beaver all over the province. They do not consider building houses as part of their beaver hebalitation program.

Kiwanis Juniors Defeat Northern Electric 13-0

Art Wright, youthful chucker for the Kiwanis Juniors hurled a two-hit masterpiece at the Northern Electric Friday night in a Belleville Baseball League game at the Fair Grounds to shut out the opposition 13-0. Wright racked up sixteen strikeouts as the Juniors captured their third win in as many starts. Semark got a scratch single in the second inning as he beat out a throw to first and Cunningham got the other hit in the ninth.

Errors proved the undoing of the Northern Electric squad up to the eighth inning when the Juniors scored six unearned runs off the delivery of 'Lefty' Noakes. The Junior bats went to work in the eighth though, as twelve men went to the plate, getting six hits for seven runs.

Juniors scored their first two runs in the third inning on a single and two errors. Donovan hit safely and with one down Bush got on as the right fielder slipped going after a high fly and Donovan romped home. Lockyer got on on an error to the shortstop as Bush came home.

Jones scored for the Kiwanis in the fourth frame, getting a walk and stealing his way to third. He came in standing up as the shortstop bobbled Donovan's grounder. An error, a walk and a single gave the Juniors two more counters in the fifth and they added another in the seventh on a walk and an error.

Roof Falls In

The roof fell in on the Electric crew in the eighth as the Juniors batted around for seven runs. Wright got on on an error and was sent to second on Jones' sacrifice. Semark came in to pinch hit for Donovan and he singled. Strahan came to the plate and poked a line drive into right that went for a triple because the Northern outfield had shifted way over to left field leaving a gaping hole. Bush and Lockyer doubled into centre field and Reeves singled to left. Taylor came in to bat for McBride, who had come into the game as a pinch hitter for Galbraith in the fifth, and doubled to deep left field. Finn and Wright got on via errors. Nolan then batted for Jones and popped out to the second baseman and Semark, up for his second try in the eighth struck out.

Used All Players

Cunningham led off the ninth for the Electrics with a single but was forced by Bone at second. Bone stole second but was thrown out by the catcher trying to steal third. Semark walked, stole second and was thrown out at third by the catcher in a repetition of the play that caught Bone.

In the sixth inning Soules, who has caught the two previous games for the Juniors, went in to catch for the Northern squad when Fogarty was unable to continue.

Losing pitcher Noakes went well until the disastrous eighth giving up but three hits and three walks. Over the route Noakes gave up nine hits, walked three, and struck out ten. The Juniors used all their players in the nine inning jamboree.

Television Ban Placed on Fight By Promoters

New York, June 5 — (AP)— The television ban on the Rocky Graziano-Tony Zale fight in Newark Wednesday may be a sign of things to come in the sports business.

Insiders of the fight business are greatly concerned about the effect of television on the sport, particularly in the future when fights may be piped into movie houses.

The recent "strike" by the New York Managers Guild against the Twentieth Century Sporting Club hinged on the television angle. The managers wanted a slice of the video cash for themselves and their fighters. They got what they wanted.

It is understood that the tournament of Champions, Inc., a new seven-man promotional group that is promoting the Graziano - Zale bout turned down the offer for the television rights.

The weather and the fact that the fight is to be held at Ruppert Stadium, some distance from Times Square, make the fight a huge financial gamble. The promoters, refuse to take a chance on empty seats. Privately they figure many would not venture across the river to New Jersey if they could watch by television in a neighborhood bar.

On the contrary the Joe Louis-Joe Walcott heavyweight title scrap June 23 in the Yankee Stadium probably will be televised. All Madison Square Garden fights are screened.

Whether television will hurt sports attendance or draw new fans is still up for debate. It's a question that cannot be decided until television sets are more common outside the larger areas of population.

Bob Porterfield Hurls His Ninth Straight Victory

(By The Associated Press)

Bob Porterfield, outstanding rookie right-hander of Newark Bears, continued to roll along in his quest for top International League pitching honors.

The highly-regarded major league prospect gained his ninth straight victory without a loss Friday night as he pitched the Bears into first place with a 6-0 conquest over Syracuse Chiefs. It was his fourth shutout of the year.

Bud Hestlet, Ted Sepkowski and Ford Garrison sparked the Bears' 11-hit attack by getting 2 hits and driving in two runs apiece with Sepkowski and Garrison including homers among their blows.

Montreal's third-place Royals battled the last - place Toronto Maple Leafs to a 4-4 tie in a game that was called at the end of five innings because of rain. Oscar Grimes and Marv Rackley homered for the Royals.

Rain also halted the game between Rochester Red Wings and Buffalo Bisons with the Wings winning 6-5 in seven innings.

Rookie Frank Oravino's three-run homer in the fifth inning aided the Wings with their margin of victory. Chet Laabs belted hus 12th of the year for Buffalo in the fifth with one on.

Jersey City Giants edged Baltimore Orioles 4-3 in 10 innings with Bobby Blattner singling home Hal Bamberger with the payoff run.

LOCKS FATHER OUT

It seems that when he got home a "little high" from liquor his daughter wouldn't let him in.

Flattering Veiled Hat

By ALICE ALDEN

MILLINERY is going in for veiling this season. Very often a fine straw relies entirely on its weave, its color and well-handled veiling, to achieve a fine degree of wearability. John Frederics covers a fine lemon colored straw with gray accents to achieve an attractive town hat. The sole trimming is grey mesh veiling used to face the brim where it is caught at either side. The ends are loosely tied and fastened on the dress or suit lapel.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Vitalize Your Complexion

To belie the birthdays, to look years younger than one's age, is a satisfaction beyond belief. If a woman tells people that she is sixty years old, it is because she knows that they will exclaim, "You don't look it! I don't believe it!" She enjoys a certain triumph.

The urge for personal loveliness was born in the frail sex, and for that let us be thankful. That we are improving upon nature goes without saying. If you haven't curly hair you can get a permanent and nobody knows that it is not home grown. When blushes vanish, we dip them out of the rouge pot. This sort of thing has been going on for thousands of years; archeologists have proved that fact. Long before the time of Cleopatra, the notorious charmer, girls were anointing their faces, tinting their fingernails, using eye shadows. Men wound the strands of their long beards on little rods, baked them in hot clay—the forerunner of the permanent. Men dyed their hair with henna. When henna was a frenzy a few decades ago, women thought they were up to a new beauty deviltry. Can you beat it?

Nowadays, we do not rely entirely on the cosmetic art. We have learned that health laws and hygienic habits are of cosmetic value.

The greater your respect for the rules of health, the more likely you will be to possess a clear skin of fine texture and pleasing color. It is the circulatory streams that make the flesh bloom, that keep tissues firm. Deep breathing and outdoor exercise stimulate the circulation and strengthen the musculature so that the body retains youthful contour. You can pick good looks out of the air. Think of that, if you the inclined to rest upon soft cushions when you should be out walking in the open, playing golf or tennis or just walking briskly.

Any woman whose thinking machine is working normally must know that there is a close bond between well-being and good appearance. If one loses sleep for a number of nights, one finds shadows under the eyes, fine lines around them. The eyes do not shine. Heels lag. The body loses the erect pose.

When a woman is worried, or when she gives way to emotional binges, her face tells the story. Tissues sag. The skin is grey. The reason: the disturbed mind means that nutrition is not going on normally. Appetite departs. The nervous system is in a state of chaos. After a time, anything can happen. Mental hygiene is important if one is to win the good-looks fight.

There is the important matter of diet. The complexion, as well as every cell of the body, requires energy-creating elements, rebuilding mattrial ,necessary vitamins and mineral salts.

We're learning. Results are apparent. Women stay younger-looking than they did in the past.

THE SUIT with the boxy jacket is gaining in favor and is high-lighted in fashion news throughout the country. It offers a nice alternative to the bolero and the long, nipped-in jacket. Beige gabardine is used for this suit which has a rolled collar and two rows of eliptical pockets. The jacket is lined with black. The skirt is straight and pencil-slim. A black blouse completes the outfit.

Gravy Grave Issue In Halifax Council

Halifax (CP)—When you want gravy you ask for it in a whisper around Halifax these days.

It all began when Ald. John Walker opposed Mayor J. E. (Gee) Ahern's suggestion for creation of an executive committee of city council. Ald. Walker charged that the committee would get "all the gravy" instead of it going to the usual committees.

His change produced angry eruptions in city council and heated editorials in the press before he explained that gravy meant "honor and glory" and not graft.

The sequel came at a meeting several days later when Mayor Ahern asked council to approve a $400 subsidy to support the horse and carriage which takes visitors around Halifax's Point Pleasant Park.

"That's not hay! What are you feeding the horse?" demanded Ald. Walker.

"Gravy," retorted the mayor amid general outburst of laughter.

British Stylists Agree on Hemline Set at Mid-Calf

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

London (CP)—Paris or New York notwithstanding, London has fixed the hemline at mid-calf in fashion's New Look controversy.

That was the unanimous decision reached at a London meeting of 400 representatives of the British fashion trade—from Bond Street to mass production firms—in approving new Autumn styles. To end confusion they said the "London Look" this Autumn would be a little shorter than the "Paris Look"—rather "more moderated than exaggerated".

Trade shows soon to open in London will see the line set by the Apparel and Fashion Industries Association. It will feature suit-jacket lengths tending to be shorter and skirt lengths remaining about mid-calf with swing skirts if anything just a little longer than that.

The trade decided to feature a variety of full skirts along with a classic suit with pleated or slim skirt lines. There will be no marked lines in Autum ncoats—the full or tent swagger coat and a slim-waisted fitted coat "more feminine than ever" with new treatment of the collar.

Softer Shoulders

Lengths of London fashion coats will conform to the lengths of suits. Softer shoulders will continue and there will be a slim waist and full-hip effect without the use of padding. Unpressed pleats will be a feature of both coat styles.

Color trend of town and country clothes will be toward halftones say the British stylists. And there will be a gradual return of checks. Brighter colors will remain popular for sports wear.

Basil Wardman, assistant secretary of the A.F.I.A., said that in coat and costume business "Britain is the acknowledged leader of world fashion.

"There has been talk about knee-length, ankle-length and mid-calf-length skirts, about shoulders and hips and jacket lengths. Women have been afraid to stock their wardrobes until styles were clearly fixed.

"With the Autumn fashions we shall stabilize technical details without interfering with freedom of design."

High Heels Cause Of Leg Strain

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, June 4 (CP)—High heels may be making fashion headlines, but as far as health experts are concerned, they just mean so many more pairs of sore feet.

In a booklet "The Care of the Feet", the health and welfare department recommends a heel 1 1-4 inches high.

Anything more than this height is "excessive", and frustrates the activity of the calf muscles and those in front of the leg in moving the ankle joint.

"Soon these muscles become impaired, those of the calf tend to shorten, and it is not uncommon to meet people who cannot bring the foot to a position at right angles to the leg," says the booklet, which was written by Alexander Gibson of London, England.

Buying shoes that are too small is one method of cramping the feet, but wearing stockings and socks that are too short is another.

Woolen socks should never be rubbed or wrung out, but always should be dried on forms to preserve length and width.

With hot weather approaching, the booklet has a few tips on foot comfort. It urges: daily cleansing and thorough drying; the use of the footwear that permits free action of the muscles; exercises—contrast baths, leg muscles, toe muscles.

For persons who constantly mistreat their feet, the booklet lists a grim series of penalties.

Foot-strain is one of the most common disabilities. Callouses come as a result of pressure, and "usually are derived from badly fitting footwear." Hammer-toe generally affects the second toe and often is traceable to short shoes or stockings. Ingrowing toenails are seen on the great toe and result from wearing a shoe which is too narrow, and too pointed in the front part. Bunions result from the use of improper footwear. When they are well marked nothing short of an operation will bring comfort to their owner.

All work and no play makes for dullness, warn health department officials. They urge equal parts of work and relaxation to give that balance of activity so essential to keep happy and healthy.

Rest is the most beneficial relaxer for some persons. On the other hand others profit most from exercise, recreation, or some sort of change.

Compliance with common-sense health rules is the best means of keeping young while growing old gracefully. Health experts claim that many of the physical problems of aging can be anticipated. The best way to prevent the degenerative diseases is to catch them before they get a good start. A semi-annual check-up by a good physician will ensure that.

Country Girl Dress

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THIS peasant dress is a one-piece affair, not the usual blouse and skirt duo which the country girls of foreign parts wear, and which we have bought, borrowed and stolen, from Latin America to the Alps.

It is a junior dress not expensive, and quite pretty enough for square-dancing nights; not too coy for everyday wear, and tear. The blouse is white cotton, with whipped red edgings on its ruffles; the printed (and pedigreed) cotton skirt is black, with a design of blue, red or yellow roses between rows of scalloped eyelet embroidery. This embroidery effect is also a printed device.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Problem for the Hostess: the Tardy Dinner-Guest

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have no regular maid, but when my husband and I give a dinner for six or eight, I hire a woman who specializes in this kind of service. Together we do the cooking and I plan the menu and its serving so carefully that it will be easy for her to do all the serving. This plan has always worked very smoothly . . until last evening. Our dinner was for eight guests, but one of the men, an important lawyer here who has been a close friend of ours for several years, was so late (he didn't telephone that he would be late) that, after about twenty minutes, I decided we'd have to go on with the service of dinner or it would be ruined. We had finished with the first course (a hot soup) and the meat course was just being served, when he arrived, full of apologies and we completely understood the delay. I saw that the maid was uncertain what to do, so I went to the kitchen and asked her to serve the roast course to the late guest. Everything seemed to proceed all right, and I think I did the proper thing to start the guest's dinner with the course being served when he arrived at the table. But my husband is somewhat disturbed that I did not have the first course served to the guest, as quickly as convenient for him, and then have him "catch up" to the course being served when he arrived. Should I feel uncomfortable about what I did, and should I perhaps apologize to our guest whose feelings we would of course not wish to hurt?

Hostess

Indeed you should not and must not feel uncomfortable about the service-procedure you decided on in this exigency. . . you did absolutely the right thing, the customary way of doing when a guest arrives so late to a dinner, particularly to a dinner that was so carefully planned and with the minimum of service. I am sure that this man who was the tardy guest would have been very uncomfortable if you had insisted on serving him the course that had already been served to the others, thus unnecessarily complicating your so-carefully-made plans for the entire dinner. Your way of doing minimized the circumstance of his late arrival, and kept the dinner-tempo proceeding as evenly as possible.

The Bride's Face-Veil is Lifted After the Ceremony

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1.—At my wedding when is my veil put back from my face . . . after my father kisses me after he has escorted me up the aisle, or after the ceremony is over?

2. Is it correct to send invitations to my attendants?

L. O.

1. If you are planning to wear a face-veil, your maid of honor lifts it back from your face after the ceremony, just after she returns your bridal bouquet to you. (The tradition of the face-veil is that the bride reveals her face to the congregation only when she is a married woman . . . hence the veil is lifted from the bride's face, after the ceremony.)

2. Yes.

Attention, Graduates!

On Commencement Day all details of courtesy have a way of shining forth in beautifully clear outlines. The graduate's graciousness and thoughtfulness to her family and relatives and friends at the graduation exercises. Her sure knowledge of the proper and gracious forms of introductions. Her appealing habit of listening attentively and courteously. Her grace in accepting congratulations, thanking for them. Her manner in greeting guests, in shaking hands, in saying good-by.

At frequent intervals take out the broiler racks, burners and grids of your gas range, put them into a pan of hot soapsuds and scrub with a stiff brush. Rinse and dry.

If you want to slice Brazil nuts thin, cover the shelled nuts with cold water, bring slowly to a boil, and simmer two to three minutes. The nuts can then be sliced thin without breaking.

Women Demand Govt. Remove Margarine Ban

Ottawa, June 5 (CP)—Problems affecting the average Canadian have come into discussion by the National Council of Women which today prepared to close its week-long convention.

Delegates Friday once more urged the government to remove the ban on the manufacture and importation of oleomargarine to Canada.

They also took objection to parliament exempting from income tax the additional $2,000 indemnity voted to members "on the ground it is a dangerous precedent for parliament to approve and enact legislation exempting themselves from a law which they impose on all other citizens."

They urged the government to inaugurate a contributory old-age pension scheme "to provide $50 a month at 60 years of age without a means test."

Provincial councils of women were asked to urge their governments to add a "fair cost-of-living bonus" to the existing federal-provincial old age pension of $30 a month.

The council also reiterated its resolution of 147, asking that the federal government set up a committee to study the section of the criminal code dealing with salacious literature "with a view broadening it and bringing it up to date in order that we may be able to deal more effectively with this menace to the morals of our youth."

In a statement which followed the resolutions, delegates declared their confidence in the democratic constitutional form of goverment and urged the government to maintain at all times the right of the people, through their elected representatives, to be the final authority on all legislation.

Barbara Showered With Many Gifts

Ottawa, June 5 — (CP)—Barbara Ann Scott's first visit to the United States as a professional found her showered lavishly with gifts — something that couldn't have happened until this week.

The world champion figure skater is back at her cottage in the Ottawa district, tired but happy after Thursday's visit to the United States Junior Chambers of Commerce convention at Philadelphia, where she was crowned queen. And the gifts she received would make a radio give-away show green with envy.

What she is going to do with them all is another question. Some she brought back with her, but many of the larger articles are awaiting customs clearince at the border. Junior Chambers of Commerce from every state in the union vied in paying homage to the queen of the show.

One of the larger items — a carload of coal from Kentucky—has already been earmarked for the Toronto Sick Children's Hospital. Some of the others may pose a tougher problem.

NAME ROAD AFTER SHIP

Esquimault, B. C. — (CP) — The municipal council will shortly give final reading to a by-law authorizing a change in the name of Tyee Road. It now will be called Condor Road in memory of H.M.S. Condor, which sailed out of Esquimault one stormy December morning in 1901 and was never heard of again.

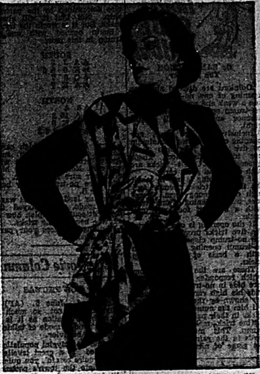
Camisole and Petticoat Combination

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

THE NEW VIEW certainly does right by cotton lingerie, giving it an old-fashioned charm that is ever new and most appealing. Here is a petticoat and camisole all in one. Black baby ribbon is run through eyelet embroidery at the bodice, and the gored petticoat goes in for the popular ruffle.

Toning Up a Plain Dress



By PRUNELLA WOOD

THE scarf is the most popular means currently of adding a personal flare for color, to whatever basic costume is the choice of the moment. Tiny scarfs tuck into high throatlines; stole scarfs blaze around bared shoulders for evening; big squares become gilets, shawls, draped jerkin effects, such as the one shown.

To wear a scarf the way that this huge harlequin patterned square is draped, above: Tie two corners under your collar, behind, passing the scarf edge between the corners over one shoulder, under the other. Then drape the remaining material about your waist, leaving the swag, as pictured.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

If a Wife is Dull, It's Often the Husband's Own Fault

One of the most common reasons why husbands seek the companionship of women other than their wives is because they find their wives dull. Yet, in many cases if a wife is dull, it is largely her husband's fault.

There are, of course, a great many women who have no desire to make the effort necessary to cultivate interests outside the home. There are others so tied down with young children that they have little opportunity to pursue such interests. But when a woman has the initiative and the energy to want to do something besides wash dishes, clean house and get meals, and there is no reason why she has to keep at these routine chores every minute of the day, a smart and intelligent husband would encourage her instead of trying to stop here.

Held within the four walls of her home day after day, any woman loses the incentive, and even the ability, to be interesting. When she sees and hears nothing new, it isn't her fault if her conversation becomes monotonous. So the husband who howls if his wife wants to go out with her friends for an afternoon or evening has only himself to blame if his nightly homecoming bores him instead of being something to which he looks forward.

A husband with any wits at all would have the sense to let his wife work out her own daily schedule and help her, if necessary, to find a place on it at least two or three times a week for a little fun. If her bridge club happened to run into the dinner hour now and then, it certainly would not hurt him to get something to eat out of the refrigerator on such an evening. Ten to one, his wife would be thoughtful enough to leave something ready that would need only a little warming up. Or, for that matter, it might be agreed between them that he should have his night out with the boys when she has hers with the girls.

All this comes up because of a letter just received from a wife who signs herself "Distressed", in which she says that her husband threatens to divorce her for no better reason than that she goes out for an afternoon of recreation twice a week. Apparently, she has no children to tie her down and the only alternative to going out is to sit home alone. But that doesn't matter to her husband. All he's interested in is having her right where he wants her at any moment, so that she will be free to wait on him.

"I still love him but I like to have a little enjoyment too," writes the wife.

If this woman can't get her husband's consent to her having "a little enjoyment", then I think she should assert herself and have it anyhow. It is wonderful what a little persistence can do, and if she can avoid quarreling about the matter, and just quietly go her way, she may have a chance of working things out. She certainly won't have a chance of doing so if she stays under her husband's thumb.

Sumatran Beauty Queen Of Sarong in First Movie

By JAMES FLOOD

Singapore, (AP)—A flashing-eyed Sumatran beauty has become the first movie queen of the South Seas.

She is Kasma Booty, a sharpely 16-year-old who has seen only one or two motion pictures before she starred in one.

The picture was the Malay-language "Chempaka", a jungle epic made on Singapore Island. Her costume was a sarong. Wearing the sarong was just doing what comes naturally out here. It is normal dress for Malay and Indonesian women. Miss Booty didn't pay much attention to the costume.

Audiences did. They lined up outside the first run theatre by the thousands. The picture was held over 13 days, a local record. People who didn't understand a word of Malay went twice to see Booty and sarong.

A South Seas sensation now, Miss Booty has her eyes on Hollywood. She has heard that stars are paid more than the $350 United States money she received for two months emoting under the tropical sun.

"Chempaka" itself cost only about $30,000 U.S., most of which was earned back in its first Singapore run. Since the Malay people or races closely akin to them number about 200,000,000 and are spread from Madagascar to the Philippines, it seems sure to earn tremendous profits.

The South Seas' first big star is only 4 1-2 feet tall. She is so shy she covered her face with a handkerchief during the most of our interview, her first. Her real life story reads like a studio press agent's dream.

Kasma was born in Medan, Sumatra, Dutch East Indies. She had to go to work when her father died during the Japanese invasion. The family was going hungry.

Then just 10 years old, she got a job as a chorus girl in a travelling show. Through the occupation years she toured the East Indies and Malaya. Stranded in Penang, Malaya, when the war ended, she fell in love and two years later she married Booty, a fellow East Indian also in show business. She was 14; he was 28.

When Shaw Brothers Studio decided to make "Chempaka", they sent out a talent scout to find a female lead. "He asked Booty for a recommendation. Booty recommended his wife.

The picture, mostly shot in the open air with primitive equipment, told of a Malayan prince who sought to marry the heroine against her will. The hero, a a Malayan bearing a strange resemblance to Tarzan, saved her.

Padded out with clip shots of stampeding elephants, tigers and crocodiles, the film wasn't much of an artistic triumph. But Kasma was a sensation.

"They should have called it 'Booty and the Beasts,'" sighed one reviewer.

Another picture is in the offing as soon as Kasma Booty's first baby is born in September. Then—well, Hollywood would be nice.

Miss Booty doesn't think anyone there, not even Dorothy Lamour, has had as much experience wearing sarongs as she has.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Opinions are divided about an opening of one no-trump. Some use a weak and some use a strong no-trump opening. Split the difference and you will be just right.

Inclusive of two sure, any opening of one shows a minimum of five tricks. No-trump tricks are high cards (aces, kings, queens) only. Suit tricks are high cards and short cards.

If the opening is one in a suit the five suit tricks promise four high cards among them. Therefore, a suit opening of one starts with a basis of four no-trump tricks.

If the opening is one no-trump the five tricks promise to be in the no-trump class. Therefore, a no-trump opening of one starts with a basis of five no-trump tricks.

These are the basics from which responder builds his future bids in no-trump. He simply adds his high cards to the number shown by the opener. They tell him the number of no-trump tricks in their pair.

Nine tricks make a game a no-trump. This means nine high cards in the pair. In some pairs the game of nine tricks can be made with a total of only eight high cards.

A rule tells when to try for game with only eight high cards. It is when four sure tricks are also determined by the partnership. Not that it will always make. But it is worth the try.

South opened with one no-trump in this pair:

SOUTH
♠A J 3
♥K 9 8 6
♦Q 8 7
♣A K 7

NORTH
♠8 4
♥A 10 2
♦A K 9
♣6 5 4 3 2

North holds three high cards. Among them are two sure. Opener promised five high with two sure. North sees eight high with four sure in the pair. He bids three no-trump. They have a try for it.

Opening lead from west was a small spade. East played the quen. Sit south and plan how to take the needed nine tricks.

Planning enhances your partnership chances.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 5. (AP)—Hollywood is not so much a geographical location as it is a state of mind, a mode of talking, a form of behavior.

Despite its polyglot population, Hollywood is a great leveller. Unless you're careful, you quickly fall into the town's pattern. You, too, can be a Hollywood character. .. If you call all your friends "Sweetheart" and your enemies "Honey" . . . If you are a sun-worshipper and always wear dark glasses indoors and out, as your badge of honor.

If you own a convertible and keep the top down even in a driving rainstorm. . .If you would rather dress colorfully than conservatively . . .

If you have had an ulcer . . . If you talk about getting rid of that paunch but never do anything about it. . . .If you can quote last week's gross at Radio City Music Hall. . . .

If you can quote Walter Pidgeon's latest limerick and Oscar Levant's most recent wisecrack. . . . . If you can't walk half a block on Vine Street without meeting ten other characters you know. . . .

If you know for sure what Clark Gable's next picture will be. . . If you'd rather talk about your most interesting subject—yourself—than anything else. . . If you've had a date with Yvonne DeCarlo or Audrey Totter. . . . If you pick up a newspaper and read the movie columns, racing chart, comics and front page, in that order.

If you condemn a movie by calling it merely "good" . . .If you claim "New York is a great place to visit, but—" . . . If your favorite heavy reading is variety and the Kinsey report.

If you call Humphrey Bogart "Bogie" and Herbert Marshall "Bart" . . . If you say "Hollywood doesn't have to worry about television"—the same thing you said about the talkies. . .If you do all these things, Bub, you are a full-fledged Hollywood character.

Napanee Edges Merchants For 3rd Straight Win

Napanee (Special)—Stan McTaggart was almost a one man show here last night when he pitched and batted in championship form to lead Napanee to a 4-1 win over Belleville Merchants for their third straight meeting and undefeated leadership in the Bay of Quinte Baseball League.

Art Scarlett was also a powerhouse for the winners with three hits in four tries including a long right field triple that sent V. Green over the plate and a moment later the fleet little centrefielder romped in when Carson bobbled Curry's infield bounder too long.

Stan McTaggart had the visitors pretty well tied up with his good assortment and with the bases loaded in the seventh after Fitzpatrick had opened with a single and L. Goyer and Elliott drew walks, the Napanee pitcher struck out Loft and Genereaux skied high to Gerow to end the game.

Sports Shorts from Britain

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London — (CP) — Dissenting cries before, during and after past Olympiads have made controversy a bitter barnacle on the keel of the Olympic ship.

And this year's Olympic Games promises to be no exception.

One of the first in the queue to start a squabble are members of the record-breaking Cambridge boat. They have walked out on Chris Barton, their stroke and captain of the proposed Olympic crew.

Reason for the break is the old controversy of orthodox rowing versus a style known as Fairbairnism. The Blue had been invited to row in Barton's crew, but he insisted on the Fairbairn style, which was not adopted in the Varsity boat race.

They gave it a trial, but "it was absolutely ridiculous to think of changing," said one of the Blues.

"We decided to form a crew of our own, which we hope will challenge his for the honor of representing Britain in the Olympic Games."

Fairbairnism derives its name from Steve Fairbairn, an Australian student at Jesus College, Cambridge, 40 years ago.

Orthodoxy demands that the blade enters the water and shoulders come over before the drive with legs.

Fairbairn argues that the initial impetus must come from the legs. This involves rowing the blade into the water, instead of getting the blade in first and then applying the power.

An injured spine won't keep Reg Harris, 28-year-old king of the sprint cyclists, out of the Olympic Games.

A few months ago he chipped his spine in a car crash and doctors were doubtful if he would ever make the grade again. But six weeks later, after losing 21 pounds in hospital, he cycled off with the Victory Cup 550-yard sprint at Herne Hill.

Harris is probably the nearest approach Britain has for a "certain" Olympic title. Eleven years ago he started spring cycling at Bury, graduated to Manchester Wheelers, and last July won the world title in Paris — first Englishman to do the trick for 25 years.

Five A.T.S. girls who never handled a rifle until a few months ago have been picked to shoot at Bisley for their regiment, which has competed there since 1860. The girls will be the first A.T.S. team to shoot at Bisley.

During the winter they have been trained in marksmanship by Capt. E. B. Hotchkiss and Battery Sgt.-Maj. J. O. Jones, members of an anti-aircraft regiment who have participated in Bisley shoots since 1924.

"They're good," said Captain Hotchkiss. "I've been amazed by them, considering they didn't know one end of a rifle from another until they joined the regiment."

London, June 5. (CP)—Saddest of words man ever quoth, bet two winners and lost on both!

It couldn't happen again at a Canadian race track. But happen it did at Newmarket, headquarters of English racing since the days of Charles II. Here's how the tearful tale developed:

Laurentis and Rococo finished so close in a 1 1-2-mile race at Newmarket's second spring meeting that the judges called for a photo. While it was being developed, some fans who had bet on Laurentis at the odds-on price of 2-5 tried to "insure" their bets by laying 2-1 with course bookmakers that Rococo had won.

But the photo showed a dead heat, second recorded by the camera in England racing history.

That was the rub. Under bookmaking rules, the backer of a horse involved in a dead heat loses half his take. Thus, the equivalent of a $5 win bet on Laurentis was worth only $3.50 ($2.50, or half the stake, plus a 2-5 return on the reduced stake) for a loss of $1.50 .The Rococo return was $1.50 on a $2 stake, for a loss of 50 cents.

Footnote: The bookies' bonanza would have been impossible on a Canadian track. In the parimutuels, the backer would have retrieved his original bet, plus approximately half the odds against the horse.

British hockey teams may send fewer talent scout to Canada this Summer. A sports gossip column in the London Star says it is expected that only one coach—Alex Archer of Wimbley Lions—is likely to make the trans-Atlantic trip. And Archer will be combining business with pleasure—he expects to do most of his talent spotting in his home town of Winnipeg.

The Star's column said most British coaches feel that Summer is a poor time for signing hockey players. The rinks are closed then and scouts have to rely on advice from Canadian spotters. That advice, the story adds, is not always good.

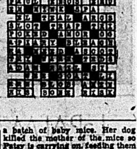
Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



Volunteers Man Parson's Yacht

Vancouver (CP)—Three volunteer crew members will help 82-year-old Rev. John Antle sail his yacht Reverie back to his Vancouver home from Berkeley, Calif.

Skipper Antle left Vancouver two years ago for New York in his 48-foot yawl Reverie with Lucy Varty and Audrey Sherlock as crew members.

Miss Sherlock left the yawl in Cristobal, Canal Zone, after bad weather in the Caribbean forced abandonment of the voyage.

Reverie left Cristobal for Vancouver last July, and Mr. Antle spent the winter in California. He has been ill and felt he could not set out on the last leg of the voyage with one girl as crew. He sought the aid of the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club, which will send three of its members—university students—to man the craft.

In the opening stages, Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced the appointment of Maj.-Gen. B. M. Hoffmeister of Vancouver as federal representative on the Fraser River rehabilitation and relief commission.

Declined Comment

Mr. Howe declined to comment on reports that Canadian cattle shipments to the United States will be resumed this summer.

Mr. Howe and Cecil Merritt, V.C. (PC-Vancouver - Burrard), clashed over Canada's contributions and receipts from America's European Recovery Plan. Mr. Merritt accused him of "disgracefully flouting" parliament and Mr. Howe suggested Mr. Merritt be "a little sensible." He explained it was impossible to know how much money spent here would be from E.R.P.

Mr. Howe disclosed that Sidney Pierce, former Canadian ambassador to Mexico, has been appointed Canadian liaison officer to E.R.P.

He said the program would require all the food staples Canada could produce, such as wheat, but fish and similar products were a "borderline" case.

Mr. Howe said there had been no appreciable drop in exports to the United Kingdom since drawings on the U. K. loan were suspended last month. Exports to Britain in the first three months of this year totalled $175,000,000 against $143,000,000 in the corresponding period of 1947.

Replying to suggestions by western members that the Hudson Bay sea route through the Manitoba port of Churchill be put to greater use, Mr. Howe said a shipping company official has told him that they were expecting more incoming vessels than ever before.

Have No Control

Douglas Harkness — (PC-Calgary East) charged that asbestos companies in Eastern Canada were refusing to supply Calgary firms with adequate supplies of asbestos fibres.

Mr. Howe said he had no control over asbestos since the product was not subject to export control.

During study of the postal estimates, Mr. Bertrand told the chamber the government was not prepared to recommend a reduction in the war-boosted postal rates at this time. Expenses were too high and a rate reduction would create a deficit.

Mr. Bertrand also reported that the government was considering the question of the deficit created by the cheap second-class mail rate which was allowed on newspapers and periodicals. He agreed that the deficit of $7,500,000 reported last year was "too high."

The minister disclosed that a superannuation scheme will be inaugurated for employees in post offices with a revenue of at least $3,000 a year. This plan would apply to 1,385 post offices. At the same time, the question of superannuation for postmasters with less than $3,000 in revenue

Business Spotlight

(By The Canadian Press)

Stock markets this week showed a downward trend as very light trading kept interest low.

What little action there was has been credited by some observers to professional traders. They claim that investors are keeping away until the market consolidates its mid-May upward surge.

Canadian markets took a slightly deeper dip with almost all groupings down. Toronto industrials were down 1.19 in the exchange's index over the five days, golds dropped 1.3 and base metals 1.82. Little interest was shown in the western oils which had the deepest drop of 2.58.

Total Toronto sales were 4,235,000 shares, a daily average of 847,000 shares for five days compared with an average of 1,808,250 shares for the four days last week.

Paper stocks took the deepest decline on Montreal markets, and utilities were the only group holding steady. Changes in averages were: banks down .18, utilities up .1, industrials down .8, commodities down .5, papers down 1.59 and golds 1.56 easier.

Canadian exchanges will be closed Monday, the King's birthday and both Canadian and United States markets are taking Saturday holidays for the summer.

Winnipeg July rye futures declines steeply all week, losing 48 1-4 cents or near their allowable limit in five-days trading. Oats and barley gained slightly.

Chicago wheat weakened both on crop prospects and the possibility that the amount to be spent on European aid may be reduced. Corn and oats about maintained their level.

New all-time Canadian highs were reached by steers at $22.75 and yearlings at $22.50 on livestock markets. Cattle prices continued to advance on slim supply which is likely to last until July.

May Cost More To Carry Papers Through the Mails

Ottawa, June 5 — (CP) — Postmaster - General Bertrand agreed in the Commons Friday that a deficit of $7,500,000 resulting from the cheap rate at which newspapers and periodicals are carried through the mails is "too high."

Answering opposition protests against this "subsidy" Mr. Bertrand said that only $1,500,000 of the deficit results from newspaper mail. The other $6,000,000 is created by the mailing of magazines.

"We are looking into the question," he added. "As a matter of fact, a newspaper representative came to us and made a certain offer which I will not disclose since we are studying it at the moment."

"The question is a delicate one. Of course, people must realize that if newspapers pay $1,500,000 more, the cost of newspapers will be advanced and instead of two cents it will be five cents for most newspapers. That is coming anyhow."

John Probe (CCF-Regina City) said the postmaster - general "must admit that a subsidy of that kind to people who I think could get along quite well without it makes quite a dent in the otherwise excellent service which his department can provide."

He said the newspapers, which "consistently decry subsidies for what I would call humanitarian purposes" received substantial revenues from advertisers, which they were permitted to sell up to 50 per cent of their total space. On top of that, they received a subsidy which amounted to approximately one-tenth of the department's estimated revenue.

J. L. Gibson (Ind-Comox-Alberni) said he agreed with Mr. Probe. There should be a limit to second-class mail.

Newspapers published in Toronto and Montreal were carried all the way to Vancouver. They carried "very little" actual news or factual material and Vancouver could get along "very well without them."

"It is not fair to a good newspaper like the Vancouver Sun or the Vancouver Province, which rarely gets down to this part of the country except in the parliamentary reading room," said Mr. Gibson.

"This is just one more instance of all the people of Canada once again subsidizing the manufacturers of news in Ontario and Quebec.

ANGLICAN CHURCH DEBATES HIRING OWN PRESS AGENT

By RICHARD TOMPKINS

London (AP)—The Church of England Assembly is about to come to grips with the question of whether it needs a professional press agent to combat "public apathy" toward religion.

"Yes," says a special commission on publicity. Dr. J. C. Wand, Bishop of London and a commission member, told the Assembly:

"All we are asking you is to get out of crinolines into the 'new look.' You cannot fight modern wars with bows and arrows and in the modern set-up you must use modern methods."

"No," say the stand-patters. Press agentry is "vulgar". Very Rev. A. S. Duncan-Jones, Dean of Chichester, argued that hiring a "super-publicity person" would not increase publication of church news anyway.

The Assembly will act on the commission's report at its June meeting.

The special commission was appointed by the Archbishop of Canterbury and York in 1943. Its recommendations came out in 1945, but the report based on them has just been formally "received" by the Assembly.

The report said in part:

"We believe evangelism by advertising may prove of incalculable value in the preliminary stage of preparing the soil for the reception of the seed and can bring into touch with the church untold thousands now thirsting for spiritual strength and peace at heart.

Must Restate Faith

"The commission believes that the church must in principle be prepared to utilize all reasonable and generally recognized means of publicity. The meaning of the Christian faith in a secular world must be rediscovered and restated.

"Even if the broadest view is taken of the need for the church as a whole to become publicity-minded, there remain certain services which can only be rendered by a central organization."

The report calls for the establishment of "The Church Information Board" and placing its direction under "a newly appointed officer, thoroughly skilled and competent." He would interpret church activities to the press and other organizations and advise the church on the trend of public and press opinion. His salary would be £2,000 ($8,000) a year. The total cost of the information office is estimated at $53,500.

On press relations the report observes:

"In these days when there is general concern about the direction our civilization is taking, it is difficult to believe that serious questions cannot be made interesting."

The report suggests that a churchman be "discreet and human in his approaches to journalists whose experience in assessing the worth of a man is often considerable." It recommends letters-to-the-editor, "especially if an atheist or agnostic is an invariable contributor and tends to hold the floor for want of challenge."

The report also covers relations with the radio, the use of films, religious drama and other media. It favors press advertising in principle but by-passes this field because of the church's financial stringency."

PROVINCE VOTES

Mr. Oliver, speaking at Sarnia, said that if the Ontario government could not come to a taxation agreement with the Dominion, double income tax would be imposed in the province within a year. He said a Liberal government, if elected, would make "a real, honest effort" to reach an agreement with the Dominion.

Later, in a speech over a CBC Ontario network, he reviewed his party's 10-point platform and described it as "clean-cut and constructive, based on sound planning and sound management."

He urged all eligible persons to vote June 7. In the 1945 Ontario general election three of every 10 persons entitled to vote had not cast ballots.

Mr. Jolliffe in his final Toronto district speech of the campaign said that a C.C.F. government, if elected Monday, would recognize and protect labor's rights and ensure collective bargaining and union security by passing a trade union act similar to that of Saskatchewan.

He said the idea of paternalism in labor relations must be eliminated from the Ontario scene. Workers should be able to stand on their own feet and gain collective bargaining through their unions.

Mr. Coldwell told a Hamilton meeting that the forthcoming Saskatchewan general election up to the present time seems to have been fought in Ontario." He said the record of the Saskatchewan government had been held up as an example by Ontario C.C.F. candidates and criticized by some of their opponents.

Mr. Bracken, speaking in Oshawa, criticized the "hidden" taxes which he said cut the earnings of Canadians. He said that because of those taxes every dollar a Canadian makes is worth only 65 cents.

OFFICE NURSE

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

Elissa had written that she soon would be on her way home.

He was glad. He could tell her his decision right away.

"I can't believe it. I simply can't believe it!" Eileen McRae sobbed, crushing her little girl against her as she knelt beside her.

"I told you," Janice said, her own throat tight at this poignant reunion, "we could count on Ben."

"I don't deserve the credit," Ben disclaimed. "If it hadn't been for Ed tracking your husband down—well, I told you Ed was a pretty good sleuth. But"—he returned Janice's look with a wide, appreciative grin—"Janice, here, had the brightest idea of all."

"There's no way I can thank any of you,' Eileen said. She brushed her tears away with the back of her hand and got to her feet. "Will you tell me what happened?" she said. "Did he try to make trouble?"

"He didn't make any trouble." Ben gave a short laugh. "He doesn't know that when he gets in from his job today Edna Mae won't be there."

"You dont mean you just walked off with her!"

"Well," Ben explained, "we couldn't very well just walk in and take her away from her own father. And we knew that you didn't want any trouble or notoriety. It seemed fair enough for Jan to kidnap Edna Mae, since that was how she got there. As I said, the actual plan was mostly Jan's idea."

"Nothing so bright about it," Janice denied. "When Ben told me about the ad, that seemed the simplest idea to follow through."

"You should have seen her!" Ben laughed. "I told Jim she'd never get away with posing as a girl fresh from the country wanting a job as a nursemaid. But she only needed a few minutes in a filling-station rest room, while I hired a car. I wouldn't leave her there alone until I was sure everything would be okay. I posed as a brother, waiting outside, you see. But to go on, when Jan came out I hardly knew her myself!"

• • •

"We women are expert at fooling you men," Janice said, smiling at Eileen. "You forget all the practice we get with our war paint and the rest. But the point is, I did fool your husband, Eileen, and he hired me on the spot. He even wanted me to stay last night. I explained that my brother had driven me in from our farm and he wouldn't like it if I stayed and I had to get a bag and I'd be back bright and early this morning.

"I got the bag. Ben got me a room in a hotel, and I went back by myself this morning.

"Mr. McRae told me," Janice continued, "that his wife was dead. He said he and the child had stayed with some relatives a while—"

"That would be his sister. She lives in Poughkeepsie," Eileen broke in.

Ben nodded. "That's how Ed tracked your husband down. I told Ed you said that there were relatives upstate."

"He didn't say so," Janice spoke now, "but I gathered that the relatives were not in sympathy with him or that they were not willing to have the care of the child."

"I expect," Ben said, "you're not interested in all these details, Mrs. McRae. You've got your little girl back; that's enough, I know. And I feel pretty sure you won't have to worry any more. You see, Janice left a note saying she was taking the child, and I added a postscript. I told him—in straight language—that if he ever made any trouble again the matter would be put in the hands of the police."

"I agree with Ben," Janice said. "I think you'll find that he will let you alone. After all, he didn't get any help from his relatives. He found it wasn't easy to take care of a small child himself and he said he had had trouble getting anyone to do it for as little as he could pay. So I imagine he has had a lesson."

• • •

Maybe, maybe he has, Eileen thought. But she did not intend to take that chance. She was going away; she was taking her baby with her. She would be gone almost as soon as Janice and Mr. Archer left. She could have told them her plans, but it was better of no one knew.

"I'm not worried," she said. "As I said before, there's no way I can ever thank you. You know how much I wish there were. I can only say God bless you both." The tears sprang to her eyes again.

Janice got up to go over and pat her on the shoulder.

"We were glad to be able to do it—Ben and I," she said. "But I suppose we both ought to be getting along now. You needn't come in to the office for a few days, Eileen," she added. "In fact, you need not come in until you get good and ready."

Eileen thanked her. She said "I'll let you hear from me in a few days." And so she would. She would write, explaining that she was never coming back. She would mail her letter en route.

Yes, it would be better that way, not to let anyone, even such wonderful friends as these, know where she and Edna Mae could be found.

"Do you have to report at your office?" Ben asked after they had taken their leave of Mrs. McRae and the little girl, who had fallen asleep in her mother's arms.

"Surely"—his grin was mocking—"if the doctor has managed this long without you he can struggle along the rest of the day. I think we both deserve a day off. I thought we might even celebrate. We deserve that, too. And I haven't seen much of your 'royal highness' lately.

There was reproach, as well as persuasion, in his blue eyes.

"I think we deserve a celebration, too," Janice agreed. "You name it, Bengy, and we'll do it."

"Well," he considered, "first we'll eat. I could do with a good thick steak. Then we'll get some nice clean fresh air. I could do with that, too, when I think of that guy pulling such a dirty low trick on a fine girl like Eileen McRae. We could take us a hansom cab and drive through the Park—"

"The steak sounds fine," Janice interrupted, "but I don't know about the drive. I mean, I would enjoy the top of a Fifth Avenue bus just as much. I'd love to ride on top of a bus, clear up to the end of Riverside and then clear down to Washington Square."

Not the Park; she had ridden through it in a hansom cab with Eric. She hoped her quick interruption would not make Ben wonder. She hoped he would not mind too much the substitution of a bus ride.

• • •

He did not seem to. He was in high good humor, especially after he had done away with the thick steak. He had insisted that Janice order one, too, saying she looked "anemic" and a good steak would be what the doctor would order.

Janice had wondered, for a moment, if he had meant Dr. Holbrook. But Ben did not know that there was anything personal between her and Eric. It was just that supersensitive streak she had developed lately. She told him, with a show of indignation, that the reason she looked anemic was that she was still minus lipstick.

She put some on and wanted to know if she did not look much better.

Ben shook his head. "You still look all washed out," he said.

She wondered if Ben, too, could read the unhappiness that no amount of lipstick could conceal. But again she decided that that was her sensitive streak; besides, she did not feel quite so miserable sitting here with Bengy. She knew that this came partly from sharing the joy they had given Eileen. But part of it was due to Ben, too. It was so restful to be with him. She was not keyed-up as when she was with Eric. As an example, she really did not mind how she looked when she was with Ben, or what he said about her appearance.

She pretended that she cared. "You're a chivalrous gent!" she said. "You might try being a bit more flattering."

• • •

"Is that the line your doctor friend hands you?" Ben's tone was bantering, but his steady blue eyes, meeting her glance, were not.

Janice said she did not know what he meant.

"Oh, yes, you do."

"If you mean Dr. Holbrook —" she began, then wished she had not. She felt her cheeks growing hot.

"There can't be two, can there?"

"Two what?"

"Two doctors who are special friends of yours."

"I don't know that anyone is." What had started this? Ben did think there was something between her and Eric. His steady regard told her that he did.

"There can't be two," Ben said. "who make you color up like a girl younger than Albie. And incidentally, Albie told me that night—the night you stood me up for your doctor friend—that you were in love with someone."

"How sweet of Albie!" But Janice was angrier with herself because she could feel her cheeks growing hotter. There was no use, however, in being angry with anyone. "Did she tell you with whom?"

Then her happiness that night had given her away. There was no use being untruthful with Ben.

"I don't think Albie knew," he said. He had not meant to bring up this subject now. It would have been better, if it had to be brought up, to have waited until they were on top of the bus. But since it hadn't waited, there seemed no use in pushing it aside. "But I do."

"You're a better sleuth than your friend, Ed." She tried to make her tone mocking to match the one Ben sometimes used. He seemed to be taking well enough to the idea that she was in love with someone.

"It didn't take much sleuthing."

Ben had held out against all his doubts and suspicions, hoping he might be wrong. But Jan had made no denial. Her whole face gave her away.

Jan's eyes would always give her away. Ben did not like all that he saw in them but he would not let her know that, if he could help himself.

He could pretend this did not strike as deeply as it did.

"I won't say, Jan, that I don't think he's a heel. A married man. A man so much older than you." Someone had to say these things to Jan; Ben wished it did not have to be his role.

Her defense was not, perhaps, as quick as it might have been. She had been through a strain.

"He's not too old," she said. "In fact he's not old at all. And he's never denied being married. I knew Eric had a wife; I knew she was away. Yet I walked with my eyes open, into something neither of us expected."

"Would you mind," Ben asked sternly, "telling me what you are going to do about it? Since, as you say, it does concern someone else besides yourself and the doctor."

"I—we—don't know." Her gaze dropped before his direct look. Not from any sense of shame or guilt, although this was almost the first time Janice had faced the fact that a third person would be concerned. She could no longer look at Ben for fear he would see the unhappiness, the confusion and conflict, in her eyes.

"I see." Ben's tone did not sound as though he did. Again he thought how he would like to punch that guy. What kind of girl did he think Jan was? If his intentions were honorable, as the trite saying went, why didn't he tell Jan? He was a heel.

• • •

"I made up my mind just last night," Jan said, as though Ben had the right to take the stand he had, "that we couldn't go on as we have. I made up my mind to tell Eric that."

There was no reason not to talk this over with Ben. He was like a brother to her, even if he did not look upon her as a sister. And Ben was being very kind; although it was obvious that he did not like this mix-up—or Eric, either.

"Good." His voice was still stern. "Stick to that, Jan, please. Don't go on, indefinitely— and such things can go on you know, without either party meaning that they should. You've heard about such cases, a girl carrying a torch for a married man all her life, and maybe the man really thinking some day he'll make things right. But that wouldn't be right for you, Jan." He leaned toward her now, resting his elbows on the table, forcing her to look at him. "Promise me you won't let things slide, running on until tomorrow becomes a lot of other tomorrows and months become years, and life, and all that it could have been, is wasted. Promise me, Jan."

She had let her glance meet his. She knew that what Ben said was true, and that he said it because he loved her. He was trying to make it easy for her by pretending it was not hard for him.

"I promise, Bengy," she said.

Suddenly she thought of what Albie had said: that happiness could not be bought at the price of unhappiness for someone else. And not only Ben would be unhappy over this happiness of Janice's—if that were what it was to be—but there was also Eric's wife. And there were still others—her mother and father.

• • •

"Thanks." Ben placed one of his big hands on her arm a moment. "Will you make me one more promise, Jan? Then we'll take that bus-ride and I won't say anything more about this."

Jan thought, It's always good to be with Ben. I do love him, as I've always told him, but I'm still not in love with him. Aloud, she said she would make the other promise.

"After you get things settled," Ben said with an attempt at casualness, "I want you to tell me what you are going to do. You will, won't you, Jan?"

"Of course." She knew he asked because he had to know—just as she had to know about herself and Eric. Ben could not go on, any more than she could, not knowing any longer. And since Janice knew how miserable this could be, she added, "I'm sorry, Bengy, truly I am."

"It's too late to be sorry," he said. "Just don't let it get too late for you to be happy, Jan. And if you ever find you can't be—well, I'm not putting it very well, but I guess you know I'll be waiting to try to do what I can about your happiness."

STORY GAL THREE (feWm' RH

He could not have said anything that would have touched her more deeply. There was no possible way to thank a person for loving you so unselfishly. Oh, why couldn't she have fallen in love with Ben? Then no one else need have been hurt.

That was a question that only the tomorrows could answer. The tomorrow just ahead. For Janice had made up her mind that that was when she must have that talk and make that final decision with Eric.

She had made up her mind not only for her own sake now, but for the sake of everyone else concerned — her family, Eric's wife and Ben.

Mr. Hilary believed that Janice had been working too long; he thought she had come to the point where she needed a change. At least that was what he told her, after contriving to get her alone with him one evening after dinner.

"My dear, I want to have a little talk with you,' he said, closing the study door to insure privacy. Graham Hilary was not a talkative man; he always found it difficult to discuss anything of a personal nature with any of his children. Besides, Mildred always attended to such matters. In this instance, however, his wife had urged him to be the one to talk with Janice.

"Yes, father," Janice answered obediently, yet with a determined air, as she settled herself in one of the old leather chairs.

How much did her father know? What had her mother told him? Well, she couldn't have told him very much—Except that possibly Janice had been edgy for quite a while now.

Janice had never mentioned Eric to either of them. Not even after her talk with Eric the other day when he had told her for the first time that he was going to ask his wife for a divorce, that he wanted to marry her. I will tell them soon, she thought. But not now—not yet. I have to have a little more time to think things out myself.

"Hummmm .... " Mr. Hilary cleared his throat as he sat down in his chair, propping his feet up on the hassock. Mildred had told him what to say, but she had not told him how to say it. "It's just —er—" He cleared his throat again. "I want you to do something for me—me and your mother."

"I'd like to—if I can."

"It's nothing much—nothing you cannot do." Her father smiled reassuringly. "Your mother and I want you to go away for a little vacation. We feel that you have been working too long, and too conscientiously. We feel that the time has come, without your knowing, when it is imperative that you have a change."

• • •

"I—I'm not sure that I can do that." Janice's gaze faltered; she looked at her hands.

"But you can! Mother and I have talked this over; we want, first of all, to repay you, Janice, for all the help you have given us financially during these past few years when you have done so well and I so poorly."

"Don't say that!" She looked across at him again now. "You know I wanted to help. You know I don't want to be repaid."

"But you must allow us that privilege," Graham Hilary's voice, once he found how to say what he had to, could be firm as well as gentle. "I have decided to sell the house, Janice."

"The house! Our house! Oh, no, you can't, Father! Surely Mother won't let you. And if you are thinking of doing that for me—"

"But we're not." His smile was reassuring. "I know—it was hard for us at first to think of giving up our home. But it is too much for your mother. And since Allen is married and has a home of his own, and Albie has made plans to share an apartment downtown after the first of the year, your mother and I thought that if you'd do this for us—take a little vacation—well, we might go off somewhere ourselves! A sort of second honeymoon."

BATTLE ON FOR ISRAEL COAST

A bombing raid on Amman (1) capital of Trans-Jordan was staged by Jewish planes just as the U.N. Security Council's request for a four-week cease-fire period was being considered by the Arab League. Meanwhile, Arab sources claimed to have cut Israel in two as Iraqui forces, striking from Tulkarm (2) were declared to have reached a coastal point near Natanya (arrow). Other units, moving from Tulkarm. were reported joining the drive to hem in Tel Aviv (3), the provisional Israel capital. Haganah troops were seeking to relieve pressure on the coastal strip as they advanced on Jenin (4) in North Palestine.

Little Benny's Note Book

We had fish for dinner, and ma brawt it in and I said, Aw heck, fish again.

Fish again, but not the same fish, for Peet sake, so take that scowl off your face, pop said, and ma said, Why Benny, fish is delicious.

It is to other fish, maybe, I said, and pop said, You'll eat what's put in frunt of you, young fellow, and you'll like it.

Now William, that may be the wrong approach to the problem, ma said. According to the sycologists, children may have an unknown logical reason when they show an aversion to certain foods and they may grow up with an incurable complex if they're forced to eat things against their better judgement. For instance if they're forced to eat fish they may develop an unresoning fear of the water, she said.

All right, let him give me a logical reason why fish is not as good a food as meat, pop said, and I said, Well jimminy, pop, when you eat meat it makes you injoy your good vegetables, because if you dont eat your vegetables you know you wont fet another helping of meat, but when you have fish you only eat your vegetables so you can wait a little longer before you have to eat your fish, so it's the same thing as taking medecine all through the whole meal.

Is that the only logical reason? pop said, and I said, No sir, another logical reason is that meat makes you strong and helps you to walk and run, but no matter how mutch fish you eat, it dont help you to swim.

Well my dear, has he convinced you? pop said, and ma said, Yes he has. Benny, you eat that nice fish or you won't get a shred of dessert, she said.

Being the best argument yet, and I ate a helping and a half and almost injoyed it.

Borough System Of Municipal Govt. Is Discussed

Windsor, June 5 — (CP) — The borough system of municipal government, where large urban districts are surrounded by smaller municipalities, was outlined Here today to the here Friday to the Association of Ontario Mayors' and Reeves' Conference.

Reeve W. E. Brandon, Swansea, said that the borough system was under consideration by many municipal areas in the province as a result of swift mushrooming of built - up areas caused by wartime home building.

Under such a system essential services would be furnished by the central city government with the municipalities assessed for the cost. They would, however, retain their own identity and councils, he said.

Chief opposition to development of suburban borough areas stemmed from the "fear" by small centres that they will lose their individual identity Reeve Brandon said.

The resolution committee tabled 18 resolutions. They will be discussed at the concluding meeting of the four-day conference today.

Hamilton and Toronto sponsored one asking for taxation of publicly-owned lands. Another seeks exemption from sales tax all goods purchased for municipal purposes.

The conference will consider a resolution asking for a meeting of provincial, federal and municipal authorities to consider low rental housing. This would permit municipalities to co-operate in establishment of subsidized low rental projects.

Brantford delegates asked the Federal government to revise unemployment insurance payments to bring them "into line with increased costs of living" and that the provincial government assume "their lawful 50 per cent of welfare in cases where municipal welfare officers are forced to add to payments to prevent hardship and suffering."

N.Z. Volcano Spouts House-Size Boulders

Auckland, N.Z. (CP)— When New Zealand's volcanoes erupt they make a real job of it. Mount Ngauruhoe, 7,000-foot volcano in the centre of the North Island, has recently been in eruption for the first time in several years.

Geologists calculated that for the first four days it was hurling boulders and volcanic ash skyward at the rate of at least 400 tons a minute or nearly 600,000 tons a day. Red hot boulders as large as cottages were hurled hundreds of feet into the air, but the bulk of the material ejected streamed across country in a huge black cloud about 150 miles long.

Spread over several hundred square miles even this huge quantity of volcanic ash amounted to a deposit of only a fraction of an inch in most places, but at times it was so thick that automobiles travelling along highways many miles distant had to keep their windshield wipers going to maintain visibility.

Bernadotte Hands His Truce Proposal To Six Arab Powers

Cessation of Fighting Seen Unlikely During This Week

By MAX BOYD

Cairo, June 7 (AP)—Count Folk Bernadotte handed to six Arab powers today his proposal for a starting time and conditions of the four-week armistice in Palestine.

Peace appeared unlikely during this week, however. Palace sources in Amman, Trans-Jordan, said the Arab League political committee will not meet before Saturday.

Fighting continued. The Jews claimed successes south of Tel Aviv, and to the northeast around the Arabs' Tulkary-Jenin-Nablus triangle. The Syrian army became active on the north border of Palestine and the Saudi Arabians were said to have placed a considerable force with tanks and armor in Palestine alongside the Egyptians.

Bernadotte, mediator for the United Nations, has been empowered to fix the starting time of the truce, to which both sides have agreed. The Arabs, however, affixed "explanations" and the Jews "assumptions." It was the Count's task to reconcile the differences, particularly over Jewish insistence and Arab objections to unlimited immigration to Israel during the truce and opening of the road to the 90,000 besieged Jews in Jerusalem.

He declined to comment on reports from Amman that negotiations for a truce appeared to be falling apart. Bernadotte returned this morning from flights to Beyrouth, Haifa and Amman.

Issue of Migration

The Israeli cabinet was reported in conflict in Tel Aviv over acceptance of any compromise from Bernadotte. Foreign Minister Moshe Shertok was reported to have told the government the issue revolved around the question of limiting immigration of Jews of military age.

Abden Rahman Azzam Pasha, secretary general of the Arab League, invited Arab diplomats in Cairo to meet late today at League headquarters here to discuss the Bernadotte proposal.

Al Zamane, Arabic newspaper, said Bernadotte in previous notes to Arab governments had said he understood the Arabs would accept 500 Jewish immigrants into

ONTARIO VOTES TODAY TO CHOOSE NEW LEGISLATURE

Good Weather Promised but Voting Expected to be Light

Toronto, June 7 — (CP) — Voting was light today in the early stages of Ontario's third general election in five years.

In most ridings early voters were greeted by grey, overcast skies, although bright, sunny weather was reported in parts of Northern Ontario. Rain was falling in several sections and was forecast in others.

Officials expressed hope, however, that the voting tempo would be speeded up by early afternoon. At mid-morning, returning officers said it was too soon to predict accurately the size of the vote.

In the Ottawa area, most civil servants seemed to be taking advantage of the King's birthday anniversary holiday to sleep late. The first of the factory-worker vote in most parts of the province was not expected until the noon-hour.

King Will Vote

Prime Minister Mackenzie King was expected to vote before noon in Ottawa East. M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. national leader, and John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, will vote in Ottawa South; Social Credit leader Solon Low will vote in Russell.

Heavy voting was reported in Stormont riding at Cornwall with "fairly heavy" early voting at Hamilton and Stratford particularly in the rural section. A "fair" vote was under way in Guelph.

Other reports:

South Cochrane — "Exceptionally light;" St. Thomas, Kingston, Kitchener, Windsor, Brockville, Lincoln, Galt, Woodstock — "light;" Sudbury, where the wea-light;" Sudbury, where the weather was bright and sunny — "very light."

The 290 candidates for the 90 seats ended their campaign efforts Saturday after a seven-week grind which had developed into a three-way contest among the major parties.

Premier Drew wound up his [illegible]000-mile campaign tour in Toronto High Park, where he is the Progressive Conservative candidate. He made no speeches Saturday but visited party workers.

Farquhar Oliver, Ontario Liberal leader, made his final speech of the campaign in his home riding of Grey South. He said Saturday night that plans of the St. Lawrence River electric power development would be economically unsound unless carried out in conjunction with developments of the river as a seaway.

E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario C. C. F. leader, closed his campaign in Windsor with a prediction that that industrial city, where he started his campaign April 20, would go C.C.F. in today's voting.

Trade Minister Howe and M. J. Coldwell, National C.C.F. leader, addressed Oshawa meetings in support of their respective parties' candidates in the Ontario election and in tomorrow's Ontario riding federal by-election.

Drew Held 65 Seats

Polls were scheduled to be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. EDT, and 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. EST. In Rainy River and Kenora ridings, on Central Daylight Time, voting will start and stop an hour later.

The major parties—Progressive Conservative, Liberal and C.C.F.—have 261 candidates altogether. Premier Drew's Progressive Conservative forces, seeking re-election, contested all 90 seats, the Liberals 88 plus two Liberal-Labor, the C.C.F. 81. The Union of Electors entered 13 candidates and Independents rounded out the field.

Call 98 or 99 For Election Results

As is the usual custom of the Ontario Intelligencer at elections, a special telephone service will be inaugurated tonight to facilitate relaying of election returns to the general public.

An augmented editorial staff will be on duty from eight o'clock on to give out returns.

Call 98 or 99 after eight o'clock for up-to-the-minute election results.

Desperate Attempt Made to Hold 100-Mile Front of Columbia River

By WILLIAM PHIPPS

Portland, Ore. June 7. (AP)—The United States Army today threw a fresh engineering field command against the raging Columbia river in a desperate effort to hold the 100mile front from Portland to the Pacific.

Twenty-six officers of the army engineer corps rushed to critical points in the heavily-barricaded lower valley as the great river built up pressure with its second flood wave in a week.

The task was to prevent expansion of the flood toll by the Columbia and Fraser Rivers in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and British Columbia—26 dead, 52 missing, about 60,000 homeless, damage of perhaps $140,000,000.

The new flood crest was deep into the already-hard-hit industrial area around Portland and Vancouver, Wash. It was surging down-river, building up the current that has been grinding away the dikes since the first crest rolled down six days ago.

Thermometers soared to seasonal highs throughout the region Sunday—90 degrees and above in the mountains where the snowpack melted fast and streamed down to add new waters to tributaries of the Columbia.

And this was the day of the season's highest tide—nine feet. It churned up-river this morning and crashed into the flood current in the critical lower river area. The collision sent the water level higher, increased the gnawing on ever-softening levee walls.

The United States Coast Guard started an air patrol and put a flotilla of cutters and auxiliary craft on the turbulent stream.

River forecasters said the Columbia crest was "within a hair" of last week's marks—300.3 feet at Vancouver, Wash., 29.95 at Portland in the Willamette River near its confluence with the Columbia.

FLOOD-SWOLLEN RIVERS BURDENED BY NEW FRESHETS

New Challenge Hurled At Thousands of Workers

Vancouver, June 7 — (CP) — Heat-born mountain freshets today were threatening to swell British Columbia's flood-swollen rivers and hurl a new challenge at thousands of workers who during the weekend appeared to be slowly winning their long and bitter battle.

The unbridled streams raced through mountain gorges to the head-waters of the Fraser, Thompson and Columbia.

The new threat followed Sunday's heat wave when nearly all sections of B. C. recorded the hottest day of the year with some centres racking up four-year highs for June.

Weather officials said snow was melting on the mountains up to 14,00 feet and the huge, thawing reserves of mountain snow would add to the flood menace. They predicted "no break" from temperatures in the 80s and 90s.

Spring tides each night this week moved up Fraser and Columbia river mouths in their highest swells of the year.

Expected to reach a peak of 14.4 feet in the Fraser Thursday night, the tides hold back the river's normal runoff throwing new pressure on unsubstantial barriers.

New Reserves Due

New reserves are due today to relieve weary dikers. About 200 soldiers, coming from Victoria and Nanaimo, will be sent to Pitt Meadows, 25 miles east of here.

More volunteers also are expected from the United States. Mayor Peter Barbeau and 100 men from Blaine, Wash., joined the B.C. battle yesterday.

One of the "actions" during the weekend was the rescue of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Walker and their nine children by Chief Petty Officer H. J. Ward of Victoria.

He found the family, the mother holding a five-month-old child, on a water-surrounded knoll near Harrison Hot Springs, 55 miles east of here. They had been on the flood-made island in the Fraser for three days.

Promise of Relief

A promise of relief soon for flood victims came from External Affairs Minister St. Laurent. After an aerial survey of the afflicted Fraser Valley area, the Federal minister said relief would not be delayed by waiting to determine the damage extent.

East-west railway communication, disrupted by slides and washouts for a week, will be partially resumed today. Transcontinental trains will go as far as Haig and Hope, 100 miles east of here, and then be transported by bus to Vancouver.

Meanwhile at Trail in the West Kootenays, hundreds of volunteer workers were still battling the rising Columbia. Part of the main street is under water but dikes still were above the level of the water.

Cool Weekend Weather Helps Crews Trying to Ring Northland Fires

(By The Canadian Press)

Five lightning fires broke out Sunday in the Chapleau forest area of northern Ontario as firefighters sought to encircle the 60,000 acres ablaze.

Crews reported that, with calm weather, the fires could be held in check.

Early today rain was falling at Nakina, Canadian National Railways division point, and it is expected to move east toward the big Chapleau and Mississagi fires.

The Mississagi blaze, north of Blind River, did not spread appreciably Sunday, said T. C. Mackey, chief of the fire protection division of the Provincial Lands Department. A strong wind was responsible for the outbreaks in the Chapleau area along the southwest side.

Fires are still raging in northwestern Quebec, where crews are waiting for the hot flames to die down and hoping for rain.

Only scattered showers were forecast for today but across the north country men scanned the sky for big thunderheads that could presage a downpour heavy enough to soak the fiery timberlands.

Then the crews could move into the devastated areas and stamp out scattered patches of flame with pumps, shovels and other equipment.

Final stages of the firefighting operation will include "cruising" the burned-over area in an attempt to identify the types of timber destroyed and to estimate the loss.

The biggest fires still were those in the Mississagi and Chapleau areas of northern Ontario. Altogether those two blazes were said to cover more than 200 square miles, including burned-over and burning areas.

The Mississagi, fire, north of Blind River, raged through both cutover areas and in standing timber, mostly pine. The Chapleau blage swept stands of mixed timber, including white pine, jackpine, spruce, birch and poplar.

Spreading more rapidly than the 10-day-old northern Ontario fires were outbreaks in northwestern Quebec. These were reported near Belleterre, 50 miles south of Rouyn; 17 miles south of Clova, 190 miles east of Rouyn; and in the Val d'Or area, 65 miles east of Rouyn.

The Clova area fires led to evacuation of two small settlements in the heart of Quebec pulp and timber districts.

Fresh fires were reported in the Dog Lake and Tremper Lake districts northwest of Port Arthur. The great fire in the Lake Helen district north of Port Arthur continued to burn in spots.

C.S.U. ON STRIKE AGAINST GREAT LAKE COMPANIES

Claims Four Companies Refuse to Sign Working Agreement

Toronto, June 7 (CP)—The Canadian Seamen's Union (T.L.C.) protested today to Prime Minister Mackenzie King against the "strike-breaking" activity of the R.C.M.P. at Cornwall.

Harry Davis, C.S.U. President, said in a telegram that his union looks on the presence of the R. C. M. P. as an attempt to help the five shipping companies against whom the C.S.U. struck during the weekend.

The companies are Canada Steamship Lines Ltd., Colonial Steamships Ltd., Sarnia Steamships Ltd., Northwest Steamships Ltd., and Transit Tankers and Terminals Ltd.

An R.C.M.P. detachment was guarding the Cornwall canal entrance today and shipping moved through the waterway unmolested.

Michael Jackson, the Union's Great Lakes Director, said his men were balked by the presence of police but predicted a "marshalling of forces" and one eventual "big push."

Calling the strike, the C.S.U. charged the companies "violated their agreements" and had "broken every labor law." C.S.U. prosecution of the five firms for alleged violation of federal labor laws is pending in the courts.

But a C.S.L. spokesman predicted in Montreal that the strike will not last long "because police undoubtedly will step in to maintain law and order."

Coupled with the protest to Prime Minister King was a Union request by T. G. McManus, C.S.U. Secretary-Treasurer, that "the government's strike-breaking activity" be condemned by Percy R. Bengough, president of the Trades and Labor Congress.

Mr. McManus said in a telegram to Mr. Bengough:

"First 24 hours of seamen's strike have been successful and peaceful. I have just been informed that, in spite of peaceful manner in which strike has been conducted, the Dominion government have moved 75 RCMP into Cornwall and they are prepared to assist ship-owners in their attempt to break the strike."

The strike is the latest development in a long dispute between the C.S.U. and the Canadian Lake Seamen's Union (Ind.), formed by J. A. (Pat) Sullivan, a former C S.U. president.

Sullivan broke from the C.S.U. charging it is Communist-dominated. Many C.L.S.U. members now are employed on the ships of the five strike-affected companies.

The C.S.L. spokesman said the reason given by Mr. Davis for the strike is "a brazen lie". The contract with the C.S.U. had terminated and the legal six-month notice had been given.

FARMER FACES MURDER CHARGES AFTER TWO SHOT

Seth Linton, 42, Simcoe, Charged With Killing Housekeeper's Husband, Friend

Simcoe, June 7 (CP)—Violent death has struck twice in the last seven years on the farm of Seth Linton and today the 42-year-old farmer stands charged with double murder as a result of the last two killings.

In 1941 Linton's 21-year-old wife and two children were found dead and authorities decided the woman shot the children and committed suicide. Sunday morning Linton allegedly quarreled over a neighbor's wife, then shot the neighbor and another man.

Dead are Louis Stewart, 42, whose wife had been Linton's housekeeper for six years, and John Kipp, 36, Stewart's brother-in-law from nearby Vienna. Linton has been remanded to Thursday.

Police said the double slaying apparently resulted from an attempt by Stewart and Kipp to persuade Stewart's wife to return to him.

Events leading up to the slayings started late Saturday afternoon when Mrs. Stewart, leaving her 13-year-old daughter at the Linton home, came into Simcoe where she met her husband and attended a movie with him.

Police said Linton apparently made several trips into town Saturday evening and on one of his visits here saw Mr. and Mrs. Stewart together.

Investigations said Kipp went to the Linton home about 3:30 a.m. Sunday and demanded entrance. Linton refused to let him into the house. Three hours later Kipp returned with Mr. and Mrs. Stewart.

Little Jo Ann Stewart, Mrs. Stewart's fair-haired daughter, gave this account of what happened then:

"They wanted mother's stuff because she was pulling out. Uncle John (Kipp) and dad pulled the door and there was a scramble.

"Mother and I saw Seth (Linton) shoot my dad in front of the house. We saw Seth chasing uncle John. By the time the ambulance got there, he (Kipp) was dead and the bullet was sticking out of his chest like this."

Here she held her finger and thumb about half an inch apart.

"We started to the Larmours' house (a neighor's place) and, looking back, saw Seth take the gun and hit father on the head three times with the wooden part."

CHILD KILLED BY TRACTOR ACCIDENT

Woodstock, June 7 — (CP) — John Douglas Bruce, two-year-old son of Gordon Bruce of East Zora, was killed today in a tractor accident at his home. It is believed the child released the tractor brake and either jumped or fell from the vehicle.

BENES RESIGNS AS PRESIDENT CZECHOSLOVAKIA

Helped Found Republic As Foreign Minister

Prague, June 7 (AP)—President Benes resigned today.

Premier Klement Gottwald's office announced the resignation was accepted at a special cabinet meeting.

Benes was elected to a seven-year term in 1946.

He resigned once before—in 1938 after the Munich conference brought the German invasion—but reassumed the presidency in London, July 21, 1940. He first became president in December, 1935 after Thomas G. Masaryk resigned because of age and illness. Benes had been Masaryk's foreign minister 17 years and helped him found the Czechoslovak republic.

Three months ago Masaryk's son Jan, Benes' foreign minister, was found dead—a suicide, the Communist government said. That followed the Communist coup in February which sharply reduced Benes' powers. He resigned rather than accept the "Peoples Democracy Constitution" which the Communists put forward. He disagreed with its provisions and disapproved of the single ticket parliamentary elections which the Communist regime held eight days ago.

The first announcement of the resignation said only that a communique would be issued later. There was no promise that the contents of Benes' letter of resignation would be made public.

Last Strong Link

The resignation took out of the government the last strong link that this country had with the west. Benes remained in office, though his powers were shorn, after he bowed to the Communists in February. He permitted the Communists to form their government, Gottwalk acknowledged at the time, to avoid bloodshed and rioting. Benes said the event could have "only evil results."

The constitution which Benes refused to accept was adopted May 9 by a purged, Communist-dominated parliament. Today was the deadline for Benes' signature.

There has been speculation for two weeks that Benes would resign — with ill health given as the reason. He is 64.

London — (Reuters) — Official and political quarters in London, together with exiled Czech statesmen, have been expecting news of the resignation of Dr. Edward Benes from the Czech presidency for some time.

The Foreign Office, however, refused to comment until it had received official confirmation of the resignation, which breaks the last link between the new regime in Czechoslovakia and the state founded in 1918 by Thomas Masaryk.

Dr. Klimek, former general secretary of the Christian Democratic Peoples Party, who fled from Czechoslovakia in March, said: "It is no surprise to hear that Benes has refused to sign the new constitution and has written a letter of resignation."

EARLY DAY NEWSPAPER-WOMAN DIES

Oklahoma City, June 7 — (AP) — Mrs. Harriet Abbott Howe, 83, poet and early day newspaper woman in New York and San Francisco, died at her home here Sunday night. One of the first women to work in editorial rooms, she had been a staff member of the old Pictorial Review in New York.

Reveal New Plans Block Any Future German Aggression

Give Russia Chance to Join In Rebuilding of Germany

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, June 7 (AP)— In the face of certain Russian opposition, the western powers announced today a five-point proposal for creating a separate, federal government in western Germany.

At the same time they revealed new measures to block any future German aggression.

The five steps projected for creating a federal German government are based on the expressed belief that the German people themselves should take maximum responsibility for each step.

The steps include an authorization meeting of the Allied military chiefs and German heads of each western German State, election of delegates to a constituent assembly, drafting of a constitution by the assembly, ratification of the constitution by the German people, and consideration of needed revisions in German state boundaries.

It was to meet French security fears and ease French acceptance of steps to fit western Germany into European reconstruction, reports say, that the three western powers laid down their most comprehensive agreement thus far projected for keeping Germany under control.

Another victory for the French was contained in an agreement for an international control of the Rhur "in which United States, United Kingdom, France, Benelux Countries and Germany would participate, and which does not involve the political separation of the Ruhr area from Germany.

Control of Ruhr

"It does, however, contemplate control of distribution of coal, coke and steel of the Ruhr.

The conference also greed that the military governors of the western zones should create a military security board to assure continued disarmament and demilitarization in Germany.

Russia served notice weeks ago that she would not consider the decisions of the London meeting as legal.

For organization of a western Germany government along federal lines to be set up by the German people themselves, the London conference prescribed the following steps:

(The London agreements are subject to approval of the six governments but the only country in which there is expected to be a real argument over their acceptance is France.)

REVEAL NEW PLANS—Page 3

London, June 7 — (AP) — The western powers gave Russia one more chance today to join in their plan to rebuild Germany, but there seemed little hope of Soviet co-operation.

The text of a six-power agreement on Germany was handed to Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, Soviet military governor for that occupied country, in Berlin, by the United States and British military governments and the French deputy military governor.

United States diplomatic officials had predicted the move here Sunday night. A French cabinet crisis was reported brewing because of the new plan. The project, worked out in a London conference of the United States, Great Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg, aims at Germany's economic and political reconstruction.

The Soviet Union has objected that in drawing up the plan, the western powers have broken the Potsdam agreement for Big-Four decisions on Germany.

The French were understood here to have forced publication of the agreement. They have been uneasy lest Germany be built again into a military threat.

Sunday in Paris, Gen. De Gaulle's chief adviser, Gaston Palewski, said the government has abandoned French security in making the agreement.

Talks in Paris

Britain's ruling labor party announced that two leaders went to Paris Sunday to talk over "party matters." Secretary-general Morgan Phillips flew from Vienna. James Griffiths, minister of national insurance, went from London.

There was speculation that they might be trying to quiet fears of French Socialists on Germany or that Socialist leaders of the Marshall - plan countries might be planning emergency talks on the United States House of Representatives' cut in European recovery program funds.

The Soviet news bureau in Berlin said that Russian sentry was shot in the shoulder with a carbine when attacked Saturday by four U. S. soldiers and an American civilian, who fled when other Russian troops appeared.

The Russian agency said the Soviet chief of staff had sent a letter of protest. United States authorities said this had been received and an investigation was under way.

German minister-presidents of the United States, British and French occupation zones met Sunday in a castle near Duesseldorf to talk over ways to build up the Ruhr's coal output.

In a statement, they demanded German participation in control of Ruhr mines, now under a British-American board, and of all European heavy industry areas.

Moscow newspapers meanwhile published a renewed acquisition that British intelligence agents, with American help, had kidnapped Lt.-Col. J. D. Tassoyev (Tassojew) in the United States zone of Germany.

University of London Will Bestow Honor On Dr. J. B. Collip

London, Ont., June 7. (CP)—Dr. J. B. Collip, dean of the University of Western Ontario Medical School and noted research scientist, will receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from the University of London, Eng., July 17, it was announced here today. He will be overseas at the time attending a University Congress at Oxford.

Dr. Collip, who is a member of the Royal Society, came to Western from McGill University, Montreal, in 1943.

U.K. Cabinet Said to Have Agreed To Keep Hanging for Worst Murderers

London, June 7 — (AP) — A well-informed source reported today the cabinet has agreed to compromise a parliamentary fight over capital punishment by keeping hanging as a penalty for Britain's worst murderers.

Home Secretary Chuter Ede probably will recommend retention of the noose for slayers of policemen and for those who commit premeditated murder.

Ede reprieved all murderers under the death sentence after the Commons voted recently to abolish the death penalty for murder for an experimental period of five years.

The Lords, mindful of a long series of unsolved murders in the last two years and of public opposition to abolishing the rope, defeated the Commons bill last week by a heavy majority.

To mollify labor opponents of hanging and prevent an intraparty fight over the issue, the government may propose to reconsider the "no-hanging" legislation after the current crime wave has abated.

Under present law, still in effect until parliament finishes work on the new hanging bill, all persons convicted of murder must be sentenced to death. Only the home secretary can commute their sentences.

ARTS AND CRAFTS CLUB HOLD FINAL MEETING OF THE SEASON

The members of The Belleville Arts and Crafts Club held their final meeting of the season on Friday evening last.

Instructive entertainment was provided through the kindness of Mr. Fred Simpson, who arranged for the showing at Albert College of two very interesting films, with commentators — one on the famous Canadian landscape artist, A. Y. Jackson, and his work; and the other on Mexican handicrafts.

Miss Helen Keeler added further to this entertainment by offering an interesting description of a recent tour she made of the art studio building in Toronto where she visited the individual studios of many famous artists.

Those present were then invited to the home of Mrs. Fred Simpson on West Bridge Street. Here there was a display of some very fine paintings done by members of the club and a general discussion was held, after which refreshments were served.

The club members are all looking forward with eagerness to the commencement of activities again in the fall.

NINE SCOUTS ENJOY WEEKEND AT LAKE

Spring is here! Answering the call of the wild, nine scouts of the First Belleville Scout Troop under the leadership of Mr. H. Nicholls spent the weekend at Oak Lake, enjoying their own cooking.

The boys had a swell time and they are looking forward to the main camp which is being held from July 10th to the 19th.

Those in attendance were Neal Judge, Lloyd Kelet, Leo Marcus, Howard Mowers, Wray Murray, Bruce Law, Bob Peerce, Gerald Staring and Scout Master Nicholls.

THREE CALLS ANSWERED BY LOCAL DEPARTMENT

A chimney fire alarm was answered to a Frank Street address, while a roast of meat in the oven at 147 George Street which took afire occasioned the other alarm.

Two Are Rescued Hour After Their Craft Overturned

Two local citizens, Robt. A. Pringle, Trent Road, and William Argue, Charles Street, were rescued from their over-turned sailboat in the Bay of Quinte here Sunday evening when their craft overturned in the heavy waves. The two men were rescued an hour after their craft had overturned.

Morley Stork, post office employee, and his daughter Charlotte, fortunately saw the craft overturn in the centre of the bay and immediately notified police and fire departments. Mr. Stork with P. C. Sunderland of the local police force, and Clarence Kaiser and Doug Seames, both of Foster Ave., went to the rescue in two skiffs. The men were rescued sitting atop their overturned craft.

The rescue was delayed when Mr. Stork found that his boat had been stolen from its mooring place and Constable Sunderland shot the locks from two nearby punts to get a boat out to the marooned men.

Mr. Pringle, speaking with the Ontario Intelligencer this morning stated that they felt no ill effects from their ducking but admitted it was getting cold after sitting atop the boat in their wet clothing for an hour before a boat came to their rescue.

Mr. Pringle stated the sailing boat, a gaff-rigged sloop, had been at the home of Robt. McCulloch on the south shore of the bay and he and Mr. Argue were bringing it home when the mishap occurred.

"We shouldn't really have been on the bay," stated Mr. Pringle. "There was a high wind and heavy waves. I was bailing the boat when she went over."

Operating System For City Buses Will be Changed

Painting of new orange colored bus stops at the curbside last week has inaugurated a new operating system for city buses in the downtown section of the city whereby buses now pull into the curb to take on and discharge passengers. Previously, except at terminal points, buses had not turned from the traffic lane to take on passengers in the downtown section.

The new system will permit buses stopping directly at the curb to take on passengers and thus will serve in expediting vehicular traffic in that the traffic flow will be uninterrupted.

Co-operation of local residents using buses was urged today by Police Chief Walter Probert who asked that bus customers remain on the sidewalk while waiting for vehicles. In this way they will be out of danger from passing traffic.

New bus stops have been designated in the downtown area and to permit free passage of the buses in and out from the curb, parking in these areas will be prohibited. Parking meter standards will be removed from these areas.

Painting of traffic lanes for general parking in the downtown areas will commence as soon as bus stop areas have been completed. The areas will be so painted that the right front fender of the parked auto will be opposite the meter. The motoring public are asked to co-operate by staying within the designated parking area.

Quiet Beauty, Dignity Marks Baccalaureate Service For Albert College Students

Marked by quiet beauty and dignity the Baccalaureate service of the Albert College students took place at Bridge Street United Church on Sunday morning. Preceded by the clergymen who took part in the service, the processional was colorful and impressive with the faculty capped and gowned, the student choir in red gowns, the girl graduates in white, the male students and the Board of Governors following. At the front of the church baskets of spring flowers and ferns added color and grace.

The choir sang with fine effect "Mine Eyes Have Seen the Glory" accompanied at the organ by Mr. Alec Gordon, and directed by Miss Leona Riggs; and Miss Muriel Clarke, a member of the College faculty contributed an inspirational solo, "Father Almighty."

Rev. Bert Howard, D.D., read the Scripture lesson from Paul's letter to the Philippians. The minister, Rev. D. C. Amos, B.A., welcomed the students and their friends and loved ones who had joined with them, and invited them to share in the inspiration of the service.

In welcoming the guest speaker, Mr. E. B. Warriner, Chairman of the Board of Governors, stated that Christian people are being seriously charged in these days for want of leadership, and it was encouraging to find some church statesmen who have come forward as real leaders, who never compromise the worship and discipline of the church for mere popularity, and such a man was the Very Rev. Peter Bryce, D.D., LL.D., minister of Metropolitan Church in Toronto, and past Moderator of the General Assembly. When he set out from Scotland to become a minister in Canada he took St. Paul's words as his motto, "To live is Christ."

A Great Privilege

Prefacing his remarks, Dr. Bryce said that he counted it a great privilege to share in this service. He has always been sensible of the friendly spirit in Belleville, and has many gracious memories of the hospitality extended to him.

Dr. Bryce chose as his theme, "Why I hold fast to the Christian faith," basing his remarks on the words of St. Paul, "I know Whom I have believed." There is no doubt and no uncertainty in words like these, and they invigorate us like the strains of martial music.

"I hold fast to the Christian faith because I have experienced the power of Christ, and I have known His saving grace," stated the minister. "For years I have been associated with men and women who have known Christ in their lives, I have enjoyed the friendship of many Christians and I have come to know the transforming power of Christ. It has taken boys and girls from poverty and poor homes and has made them great, and their lives have borne witness to its reality.

"It is the gospel of good news, not dull or drab, but a gladsome thing. It declares that none may be cast aside as hopeless. The selfish may be made unselfish, and the bad made good.

"There is no bond or free in Christianity, no artificial distinction of class, it proclaims the worth of every individual. It gives to life a meaning which is not one of creeds or organizations but the personification of Christ. The highest goal in life is Christ and His Likeness. It is a goal which is always ahead of us, it gives a standard of ethics to life, it gives zest and zeal, and the spirit of adventure, and it gives a glow which grows brighter with time.

Greatness Lies in Service

"Christianity exalts kindness, gentleness and unselfishness in life. Greatness lies in service, not in possessions, and the grace of life is love. The man who is always trying to impress us with his possessions is not great, but the man who is great is the one who is like Christ who went about doing good.

"The Christian faith gives us a message of immortal life after death. There are more elderly people than ever before in the history of the world. To this great number of older people who know that it will not be long before their eyes are closed in sleep, this message of immortal life is a wonderful thing to hold to, because they know it is the dawning of a new and better day.

"Christianity satisfies the highest aspirations of life. It exalts the beautiful and abiding things of life, home, family, love, courage, faith, and peace. We find our lives enriched and ennobled, and we find a Friend and Counsellor in Christ. The skeptics of the world have nothing to offer in place of Christianity, they only become deeper in their own problems. But the man who can say "I know Whom I have believed" has something which the skeptics never have."

For the recessional the organist played "Epilogue."

Gen. Eisenhower Becomes Head Of Columbia Univ.

New York, June 7 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today became Columbia University's 13th president, just four years and one day after leading the mighty allied invasion of Europe. He will be formally installed in office next Fall.

The General indicated to reporters he considered his civilian post an adventure.

"This time four years ago," he said, "I was visiting (Gen. Omar) Bradley, (Field Marshal Viscount) Montgomery and people along the beaches."

"After 35 years in one profession," he said, referring to his army career, "it has been a little adjustment."

Asked if he had "anything to say politically?" he replied:

"I don't know of anything as unlikely to answer. I think I've said all I should."

Gen. Eisenhower succeeds Dr. Frank Fackenthal, who has been acting president of 194-year old Columbia since Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler retired Oct. 1, 1945, after 43 years as president. Dr. Butler died Dec. 7, 1947.

Pleads Guilty To Stopping Train

Winsford, Chesh., England, June 7 (AP)—Harry Bishop, 19-year-old British army gunner, pleaded guilty today to stopping an express train April 17, an act which resulted in the deaths of 24 persons.

He was fined £5 ($20) and costs.

Bishop said he pulled a communication cord to stop the train near his home to save time in reaching the bedside of his ill wife. While the train, the night express from Glasgow to London, was halted, a mail train following crashed into its rear.

Records Frescoes In Vatican In Direct Color

London, June 7 — (Reuters) —David Waddington, 40-year-old London photographer, leaves for Rome next week on the world's biggest photographic assignment — to record in direct color the famous frescoes in the Vatican.

His major task on the £40,000 ($160,000) job will be photographing Michel Angelo's work in the Sistine Chapel which will alone take several weeks and cost £500 for each exposure.

"My six technicians and nine assistants will require more scaffolding than Michel Angelo himself needed when he was painting the chapel," said Waddington. "He took seven years to do it and it made him a cripple. We foresee only a few headaches."

Waddington, a non-Catholic, says is a naturist.

Van Nuys, Calif., June 7 (AP)—Police said Mrs. Coleen Berry, 21-year-old mother, walked into the station Sunday and signed a statement that she and not her husband, now in San Quentin prison serving a life term, killed her brother-in-law in 1947. She was booked on suspicion of murder after making a statement that her husband took the blame for the shooting because she had an infant child to care for.

Princess Elizabeth and her husband will travel from Buckingham Palace to the Guildhall in a semi-state landau with an escort of household cavalry.

Truck Drivers' Strike Looms at Montreal

Montreal, June 7 — (CP) — Threat of a truck drivers strike Tuesday which would cancel all pick-up service in the Montreal area, loomed larger today when union officials of the Transport Drivers and Warehousemen ((A.F.L.) said the Tuesday deadline will stick."

The transport drivers and warehousemen, representing 5,000 workers, asked for an increase several months ago.

An arbitration board awarded the workers a 10 to 15-cent-an-hour increase. The increase, however, was made conditional on the minimum or "basic" tariff rate being established in the province.

Applaud Macdonald's Singapore Speech Against Communism

Singapore, June 7 (AP)—Singapore newspapers applauded Sunday night's anti-Communist speech by Malcolm MacDonald, British Commissioner-General, and called for strong government public action against Communist infiltration into Malaya's labor union movement.

A Singapore Free Press editorial advocated banishment of the "politically undesirable" as the first step to meet "Malaya's gravest problem—the open legal attempt to the Communist party to capture the trade unions so later labor may be mobilized for the Communist revolution."

Dispute Benefits And Pensions Cloud Coal Talks

Washington, June 7 (AP) — A hot dispute over miners' death and injury benefits, as well as pensions, clouded the start of new contract talks today between John L. Lewis and American soft coal operators.

Lewis declared the benefits issue will "inflame the mining population with white anger" unless it is settled by July 1.

Prodded by a court order, union negotiators were set to resume contract discussions at a late morning session. The operators scheduled a strategy meeting two hours earlier.

Lewis and the mine owners had tried to begin negotiations May 18, but the talks quickly stalled over seating Joseph E. Moody, President of the Southern Coal Producers Association.

It took an injunction signed by Justice T. Alan Goldsborough to clear that hurdle. Lewis was ordered to bargain with Moody at any meeting held for the purpose of making a contract. The present agreement expires June 30.

Goldsborough twice has fined Lewis and the United Mine Workers (Ind.) for contempt—in 1946 and again in the pension strike of March and April of this year.

The pension fight still is unresolved, although the 400,000 soft coal miners are back in the pits. Goldsborough still holds an injunction over their heads to keep them from resuming the walkout.

Mother Leaves Child in Taxi

Detroit, June 7 (AP)—Curly-haired, brown-eyed little "Miss Gadget" was in virtual command of Receiving Hospital today.

This was true despite the fact she is only about two years old and small enough to walk under tables.

The only trouble was that Mama was missing.

"Miss Gadget" got her name from a bewildered young taxicab driver in whose car the mother left her Saturday and never reappeared.

Charles Kaseta, 22, the driver, a single man, fell for the baby's charms and named her "Gadget" —for a reason he couldn't quite explain—in turning her over to police.

Police called it "very unusual" since abandoned babies as a rule are reclaimed within two days.

Headquarters ordered a search for the mother.

Ex-King Michael And Princess Anne To Wed Thursday

Athens, June 7 — (AP) — Ex-King Michael of Romania and Princess Anne of Bourbon-Parma arrived in Athens today and an announcement from the royal palace said they will be married here Thursday.

The Greek air force band played the Romanian national anthem as Michael and his bride-to-be stepped off a plane from Geneva into the embraces of King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece and of Queen Helen, Michael's mother.

Premier Themistokles Sophoulis and Foreign Minister Constantin Tsaldaris also were members of the reception party, with Princess Alice of Greece.

One member of King Paul's entourage said the wedding would be held Thursday.

A high diplomatic source said the ex-king's presence in Greece was strictly a family affair and had no political significance. Michael is a nephew of King Paul.

Dutch Author Says Germany 'Ruined Nation'

London, Ont., June 7 (CP) — Miss Corrie ten Boom Dutch teacher, Christian leader and a war time prisoner in a Nazi concentration camp, Sunday night told a church audience here that she had watched a guard beat her sister and felt no hatred in her heart.

"God has forgiven my sins," she said "and so I forgive theirs."

Miss ten Boom spent last winter working in Germany at displaced persons' camps.

On her imprisonment in Ravensbruck, she said that despite what she had undergone she could not help but forgive the German people. She said her father, sister, brother and brother's son had all been killed by the Nazis and that the demon of hatred had tried to enter her heart but added "Christ is in my heart and there is no room for hatred."

The Dutch author said that Germany is a ruined nation with only two kinds of people living there.. those who say that they did not support Hitler and those that proclaim their own personal guilt and the guilt of their nation.

Heavy Polling Is Forecast, Many Vote Early

With a considerably greater number of people having cast their ballots up to noon today than is ordinarily the case, scrutineers at the various polling booths in the city predicted a heavy vote in today's balloting. In almost every polling subdivision contacted the number of votes cast up to noon was ahead of the number ordinarily cast up to that time.

In one polling booth the number of residents who had cast their ballots up to early afternoon had been about three times greater than is customary. This was true at another polling centre on the East Hill.

But the heaviest of the voting was still expected in the evening after factory workers quit their benches at five o'clock. Polling booths are remaining open until seven o'clock in order that factory employees working until six o'clock may have an opportunity of casting their ballots.

REVEAL NEW PLANS

1. The military governors of the western zones should meet jointly with the ministers president of Westean Germany at a date yet to be disclosed.

2. The ministers president should be authorized at the meeting to convene a German constituent assembly to prepare a constitution for the approval of the German states concerned.

3. The legislative bodies of the various states will determine rules and procedures for selecting their delegates to the assembly.

4. The military governors (United States, Britain, France) will determine whether the assembly's constitution draft is in line with the principle of a federal form of government with "adequate central authority" and guarantees of individual freedoms. If they approve, the draft will be submitted to ratification by the people of the German States.

5. The military governors also should authorize, at their projected meeting, studies of proposed boundary changes among the German States.

BERNADOTTE

Palestine during the four - week armistice but insisted on continuing their siege of modern Jerusalem. The paper quoted the mediator as saying the Jews insisted on immigration and an opening of the blocked supply road from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem.

Arab - Jewish fighting in the Holy Land continued. Action was reported Sunday in Jerusalem, in Northern Gallilee and on two approaches to Israel's leading city, Tel Aviv.

To Get Agreement on Details

Count Bernadotte is charged with getting agreement on details of the truce, proposed by the security council and already accepted with some reservations by both sides.

He talked Sunday with the Israeli foreign minister Moshe Shertok in Haifa and later with King Abdullah and the Trans-Jordon foreign minister, Fawzi Pasha Malki, in Amman.

Joseph C. Goodwin of the Associated Press reported from Amman Sunday night that the Arab-Jewish agreement on the truce principle seemed to be breaking up.

A high Arab authority there said the Jews have made these demands that may "kill any truce":

1. That they be allowed to carry on free immigration to Israel during the cease-fire.

2. That the Tel Aviv-Jerusalem road be opened. This has supplied 80,000 to 90,000 Jews now under fire in Jerusalem.

The Arabs have opposed both these demands. They are blocking the highway into Jerusalem.

Abdullah said he did not discuss the truce in his meeting with the Count, since that was a problem for the Arab League Political Committee, which probably will meet in Cairo in a few days.

Jewish Communiques and Damascus radio reports indicated Sunday night the Syrian army was making a two-pronged attack in an effort to seal off Palestine's northern most thumb, earmarked for the Jews in the U.N. Partition plan.

Syrians Strike From North ....

A Tel Aviv communique said the Syrians, striking from the north, had driven the Jews from Malikya, less than a mile below the Lebanese border, and, pushing from east, were attacking Mishmar Hay Yarden below Lake Hule near the Syrian frontier.

On the northeastern approaches to Tel Aviv, an Israeli communique said, the Jews hammered out a half circle around the Arabs' triangle anchored on Tulkarm, Jenin and Nablus.

The communique reported Jewish successes around Tulkarm, 24 miles northeast of Tel Aviv. It said the Israelis had raided the city from the air, setting big fires in a nearby military camp, and captured Qaqun village, 3 1-2 miles to the northwest, inside Jewish-claimed territory. It reported the Arabs left nearly 200 dead at Qaqun.

Twenty-three miles south of Tel Aviv, the Jews claim to have trapped one-fifth of an Egyptian force of 5,000 at Isdud. The Israeli high command said Sunday its infantry destroyed a number of Egyptian fortified positions in that region.

In Jerusalem, the Trans-Jordan Arab Legion fired about 100 shells into Jewish-held parts of the city. Israeli troops earlier spent three hours in a vain try for the capture of Zion Gate of the Arab-held old walled city.

No Danger of S.A. Leaving Empire Smuts Declares

London, June 7 — (Reuters) Field Marshal Smuts, former South African premier, arriving at London airport today, declared there is no danger of South Africa leaving the British Commonwealth as a result of the Nationalist victory in the Union's recent elections.

S. A. Social Service Head

Brigadier V. Pearl Payton has succeeded Lieut.-Colonel Hilda Aldridge as head of the Salvation Army Social Work in Canada, Newfoundland and Bermuda. Brigadier Payton, R.N., has been for fifteen years superintendent of the Winnipeg Grace Hospital. She has been a S. A. officer since 1915, having came from Peterborough, and after a period of field work joined the women's social service side of the activities of the Salvation Army. She received her R.N. in London, Ont. After service in Salvation Army Hospitals in Saint John, N.B., and Windsor, she was for five years superintendent of the Salvation Army's hospital in St. John's, Newfoundland, during which time she established a nurses' training school through which has passed a stream of graduates now carrying on the nursing profession in all parts of the Island Dominion.

She will now have charge of 38 women's social service organizations, including not only general and maternity hospitals, but also homes for children, unmarried mothers, receiving homes for destitute and remand cases and homes for aged women.

They Serve Humanity

Many thousands of men and women labor tirelessly in the interests of public health. To them are due the praises of the peoples of the world for discoveries in health science are of interest not to one land but to all lands and immediately become public property.

"Health News" is running a series of stories of great men and women and in its May number tells the story of Louis Pasteur, one of the immortals whose name will forever be known as a benefactor of humanity. At the dedication of a memorial plate in Dole, France, in 1883 the mayor of the town called Pasteur "one of the greatest scientists of the century so great in science and who has, by his admirable labor, increased the glory of France and deserved well the whole of humanity."

His was a tireless life. His studies led to the advancement of the germ theory in medicine and surgery. Today everyone knows the stress that is laid on germs as the cause of diseases.

So laboriously did Pasteur work that he suffered a paralysis of the left side which made him helpless for six months but he continued his study of problems of the diseases which were destroying several major industries in France, wine ferment, silk worm diseases, anthrax in sheep, horses and cattle and chicken cholera. He solved the wine ferment by heating the wines to such a temperature as would kill the fermentation-causing bacteria without injuring the flavor of the wine. This process is known as pasteurization, a name created after the name of the great scientist.

Toward the close of his life he was still at work and his last achievement was the conquest of that dread disease, hydrophobia.

Such are the benefactions which the unselfish service of great public-spirited men and women bring to humanity. Many problems have been conquered but many remain to be explained and to be lifted off the shoulders of suffering human beings by many persons whom the world may not know intimately. Fortunately the story of Pasteur is known and it has become an inspiration to men and women in every sphere of life to serve the best interests of humanity.

While the world jogs on, these scientists add to the number of conquests over maladies which distress mankind. In the field of cancer investigation, not a few but thousands of experts are now engaged on many service fronts in one great army of knowledge fighting to bring the light of science upon the dark recesses of this disease. What has been achieved lends hope and courage that greater knowledge will come out of the study and there is also the hope that the dark secret of this mysterious disease will be at last exposed.

Sings of Canada

Our neighbors in the United States call the White-Throated Sparrow the Peabody bird, because its song, rendered into English, has an imaginary resemblance to "Old Sam Peabody, Peabody, Peabody."

Royal Ontario Museum News says that what the bird does sing, as any careful listener will confirm, is "Sweet, sweet, Canada, Canada, Canada!" Listen for this briefest, most musical of national anthems when you are out in the June woods and waysides. And that's a good time too, to get acquainted with the music of other sparrows, the song sparrow, the vesper sparrow's evensong, and other pleasing calls. Visitors to the Royal Ontario Museum of Zoology, who in increasing numbers study the countless birds displayed there, often express wonder that there are so many kinds of sparrows in Ontario; and that they are so attractive in plumage as well as song. "Sparrow" all too often means the English sparrow exclusively with folk who are unaware of the thrills of bird-watching. Strictly speaking, that imported specimen is not a sparrow at all, but a weaver bird. Native sparrows in their pleasing plumage and song of such variety, are well worth knowing.

Comfort in Church

Most of our churches, from year to year, carry out extensive redecoration programs. The greater number of them are beautifully pointed in restful colors. Most have long since taken action to modernize their lighting, eliminating uncomfortable glare. Some, in fact, have adopted lighting methods which not only help overcome eyestrain, but also concentrate attention on the pulpit. Much thought and money have been spent on the organs, in not a few cases, and many other moves have been made to make the churches attractive, at the same time retaining the atmosphere of reverence.

But, for the most part, the seats, or pews, remain unchanged. Probably in no other type of auditoriums are there to be found such uncomfortable benches as in some of our largest and finest churches. Here there has been no progress. While theatres provide their patrons with soft, leather cushioned chesterfield-like seats, and other gathering places keep pace, the church seats remain as they were perhaps 50 years ago — hard, straight backed, and, quite frequently, with no sufficient knee room for the average tall man. — Owen Sound Sun-Times.

Good Listeners Rare

Those who complain that we have lost the art of conversation are sadly mistaken if they think people cannot talk intelligently.

It is the art of listening that we have lost, and it is undoubtedly because of the fact that in this day everybody takes newspapers and magazines, and each citizen is so well informed that he wishes to do a great deal of talking. Even when others in the company have the floor he is not listening, but is turning over in his mind the things he will say when it is his turn to talk.

Good-listeners are so rare today that when you meet one and notice that he is paying strict attention you are embarrassed, says Chatham News.

Accompanying Look

At a men's fashion show the other day the "Accompanying Look" to the "New Look" made its appearance. Nothing startling, mind you. Just longer coats, blue hues to match the women's, and a general sense that men should "dress for the occasion."

So the male is to be a mere accompaniment to the virtuoso performance of his female companion. Few men will object to such sartorial subordination. but to "dress for the occasion" . . . Consider the plight of the man who, absorbed by the problems of world Communism, domestic inflation, politics, militarism, and atomic energy, forgets to slip out of his tweeds into something double-breasted and blue before he joins the little woman at tea. — Christian Science Monitor.

Remorse is the consciousness of doing wrong with no sense of love; penitence the same consciousness with the feeling of sorrow and tenderness added. — Robertson.

None but God can satisfy the longings of the immortal soul; as the heart was made for Him He only can fill it. — Trench.

AFTER-DINNER SPEECH

The after-dinner speaker stands
And clears his throat and rubs his hands
Gives thanks for all the praise profuse
With which the chairman turned him loose,
Then sets the patient guests a-roar
With jokes they've often heard before.

"It is a privilege," says he,
"This happy night with you to be.
Outside there blows a chilling storm,
But here for all is welcome warm.
God bless the ladies! May they be Always as beautiful to see.

"I wish the cooks were in the hall,
For I should like to thank them all.
I'd stouter be if my wife could
Prepare a dinner half so good.
Stand up, committee members, now,
And for your labors take a bow!"

My son, I've written this to teach
You how to make a banquet speech.

Heavy Fire Loss In Duluth

Duluth, Minn., June 5 (AP) — Fire swept through sections of two retail business sections of the heart of Duluth early today causing damage estimated by polaice at "several million dollars."

A four-storey retail furniture store and the nine-storey Duluth Board of Trade building housing the grain exchange and grain commission offices, were swept by the blaze. Nearly a score of small retail stores burned.

The wind-fanned flames threatened the northwestern Bell Telephone Company's building, the Wolvin building housing the Duluth, Mesabi and Iron Range Railway offices and those of the Oliver Mining Company before it was brought under control.

Both long distance and local telephone services were disrupted. More than 150 Duluth firemen manned every available piece of Duluth fire apparatus. Other apparatus came from nearby Superior, Wis. One fireman was slightly injured.

Study Skeleton 62,000 Years Old

New York, June 5 — (AP) — "Egbert", who met an untimely death about 62,000 years ago in what now is Lebanon, is in New York City.

During his stay, he may provide information on man's development.

Egbert, the skeleton of a boy about eight years old, arrived Friday aboard the Marine Carp, along with 140 cases of other specimens dug up by archeologists at Ksar, Akil, in the Antelias Valley north of Beyrouth.

Scientists hope the skeleton will give them information about mankind's development from Homo Neanderthalis, with his sloping forehead and jutting brows, to Homo Sapiens, modern man.

The skeleton is embedded in a concrete-like mixture of clay, rock and other rubble. It will be shipped to Harvard University.

Fire Threatens Small Village In North Quebec

Rouyn, Que., June 7 — (CP) — Forest fires continued on the rampage in northwestern Quebec today with one 50 miles from here threatening the small village of Belleterre.

Three other fires of major proportions were burning fiercely in the Val d'Or area, 65 miles east of Rouyn but all other blazes were under control.

The fire at Belleterre, near Moffette, has creeped to a point four miles from the village and Oscar Desjardins of the lands and forest department described the fire as "out of control."

Although the village, site of an important gold mine, is considered in no immediate danger, Desjardins warned that fire-fighters are having a difficult time getting at the blaze.

In the Val d'Or region, a fire covering more than 380 acres is "out of control" between the towns of Val d'Or and Bourlamaque. Fifty men are fighting the blaze, which has been burning for three days.

Smoke blanketed Val d'Or Saturday night but Police Chief G. Giroud of Val D'or said neither Val d'Or nor Bourlamaque are in danger.

About 12 miles north of Val d'Or near Seneville, a blaze is reported burning strongly. Flames can be seen shooting into the air from Val d'Or and the 200 families living in Seneville will be in danger, an official said, if rain does not fall shortly.

Rain has not fallen in this district for more than two weeks.

The third blaze near Val d'Or is between the Sullivan and Siscoe mines but extent of it is unknown.

Charles W. Nash, U.S. Industrialist, Dies at Age of 84

Beverly Hills, Calif., June 7 — (AP) — One of the United States leading industrialists, Charles Warren Nash, who rose from an orphan farm boy to president of General Motors, died at his home after a long illness. He had been a victim of heart disease for the last two years but remained active in the affairs of the Nash Motor Company, which he founded, until about six months ago. He was 84.

Born in Illinois, Nash was an orphan at six and was bound out under a guardianship court order to a farmer near Flushing, Mich., to work for his board and keep.

Six years later he ran away, going from farm to farm and cramming a meagre education as best he could. He quit farming in 1890 and went to work for a carriage works that William C. Durant built into an automobile manufacturing concern in Flint.

When Durant purchased the Buick Motor Company, he made Nash president and general manager. Two years later Nash was president of General Motors and a power in the industry, but he stepped out and formed his own company, building the first Nash in 1917.

C.S.U. ON STRIKE

C.S.U. members were chased off the C.S.L. passenger steamer Cayuga at Niagara-on-the-Lake by crew members who used fire hose. One C.S.U. member landed in the river and was fished out by police.

Mr. Davis said in his statement that an issue in the strike is a C.S.U. demand for abolition of the 56-hour week in favor of the 44-hour week on tankers and the 48-hour week on freighters.

"We are striking against those lake companies who have violated their agreement with the union, who have broken every labor law, who have defiantly rejected the recommendations of the government-appointed Brockington-McNish Commission . . . and who are attempting to force a company union on the backs of the seamen," he said.

Union sources Sunday night gave this picture of the strike situation:

HERPES TREATMENT

One modern "authoritative" textbook states that herpes zoster occurs most frequently in individuals whose "nerve resistance has been lowered by overwork" and that the "disease occurs most frequently during cold, damp weather" and that "the patient should be very careful to avoid draughts and sudden extremes of temperature."

Tell me confidentially, folks, are you really as dumb as we medical authorities think you are? If any considerable portion of the public ever advanced beyond the fifth grade in school, then how in Sam Hill do we get away with it?

Only a "leading physician", "well known specialist" or an "eminent medical authority" (have a cigarette—have a carton) can understand what "nerve resistance" may be. Who under heaven knows what "nerve resistance" or other "resistance" is (if a state other than immunity, as against smallpox,(diphtheria or measles can be conceived as "resistance")? And who can draw the line between good honest, healthful work and overwork? Overwork my astragulus!

In several cases of recurring herpes, particularly cases in which the eye is involved, remarkably good results have been obtained from vaccination—the standard vaccination as against smallpox—not just once, but every ten to fourteen days for half a dozen times if necessary. No matter whether the patient has ever been successfully vaccinated or not, and no matter whether the vaccination "takes" or not. In one atrocious case the victim had suffered three recurrences of facial herpes with involvement of the eye and corneal ulcer following each occurrence—which totally disabled the victim for months each time, in the course of five years. Finally he was vaccinated, and the vaccination was repeated at ten-day intervals for four times. The first, third and fourth vaccinations were takes. Two weeks after the first vaccination the herpetic skin lesions were almost completely healed. For the first time the herpes in this instance was not followed by corneal ulcer.

Some physicians have found that vaccination with regular smallpox vaccine every four to seven days for four to six times, is the preferable course in all cases of recurring herpes, severe and prolonged herpes involving eyelids or the eye itself and some cases of herpes zoster.

A method of treatment developed by De. S. Rosenak of Budapest in the thirties has been used by some physicians in this country who report instantaneous relief from pain and rapid healing of herpes zoster lesions, from infiltration of the appropriate sympathetic ganglia with one per cent procaine hydrochloride solution — procaine is a synthetic local anesthetic, safer than cocaine, and its solution may be sterilized by boiling. This treatment takes a tolerable degree of skill on the part of the physician in putting the needle precisely into the ganglion to be infiltrated. This method, by the way, that is, infiltration with pracaine is the most efficacious treatment I know for many acute disabilities, such as sprain, sacro-iliac and similar strains, acute lumbago, acute shoulder bursitis (infiltration of the bursa should be tried before any general medication or treatment is resorted to, for relief of pain) and sciatia.

When I was flat on my back and afraid to move with a sacroiliac strain or something of the kind, I was attended by a physician whose skill and success in the injection treatment of varicose veins, hernia and hemorrhoids won my envy and admiration years ago. By dint of considerable wheedling and gentle assistance he got me turned over, and infiltrated deeply in the vicinity of the sacro-iliac junction. Then he spent a few minutes telling me what a plague I am to the profession etc., yet, by golly, if it were not for my teachings some of these modern methods would have been howled down by the old fuddy-duddies and the "scientific" charlatans in the profession long ago. Finally the doctor told me to get up and walk. Go on, you're crazy, I assured him. And I thought he was. But he meant it, and by the most cautious, timid movements I got up and walked, and that was the last of the trouble. I would not have believed this story if it hadn't happened to me.

Two U.S. Flying Tourists Killed In Plane Crash

Barrie, June 7 — (CP) — Two United States flying tourists were killed Saturday when their light airplane crashed and burned at the local airport as the pilot attempted a landing.

Dead are: Thomas Richards of Toledo, O., a construction worker and pilot of the plane, and Kenneth Pleiss, also of Toledo, a police constable.

The victims were identified by other members of the six - plane fishing party, who flew back to Barrie after landing at Gravenhurst, 40 miles north of here.

"We ran out to the plane, but it was just a mass of flames and twisted metal, with the two men trapped inside," said Mrs. Norman Copping, wife of the airport manager.

Recently, the National Council of Schoolhouse Construction published a list of recommendations for up-to-date school buildings. One paragraph says: "A schoolroom should have flexibility; so it can be made larger or smaller economically to meet each year's needs."

Unit Construction, a system recently developed by Johns-Manville, is especially designed to give this type of structural flexibility. It builds the complete interior — walls, ceilings, floors. The J-M Transite Walls are movable .. can be taken down and used again. The J-M Acoustical Ceilings are demountable, and J-M Asphalt Tile permits easy extension of the floor pattern.

John L. Lewis Ready to Reopen Negotiations

Washington, June 7 — (AP) — Prompted by Friday's sharp prod from Justice T. Alan Goldsborough, John L. Lewis is ready to reopen contract negotiations with the soft coal operators Monday.

The order to negotiate does not necessarily mean an early agreement will be reached. Along with the expected United Mine Workers Union demand for wage increases, there is the stumbling block of pension funds.

Only four weeks remain to sign a contract before the present agreement expires June 30.

Goldsborough, who twice before has cracked down on Lewis, signed an injunction Friday directing the Independent Union and its president to bargain with the Southern Coal Producers Association.

It was Lewis' refusal to do business with President Joseph E. Moody of the S. C. P. A. that led to collapse of talks May 19.

In a statement read to reporters by Welly K. Hopkins, the miners' general counsel, Lewis said the union would match the operators with "equal representation" at the bargaining conference.

That was seen as a sign he might not attend the talks himself, insisting instead that the United States Steel Corporation president, Benjamin F. Fairless and other industrial leaders step into negotiations before he enters them.

Fairless and George M. Humphrey, chairman of the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company — largest commercial coal mining company — met privately with Lewis last summer and quickly agreed on a contract.

Goldsborough fined Lewis and the union $710,000 for disobeying a back to work order in the strike of November-December 1946. Again in April, during the long pension strike, Goldsborough slapped a $1,400,000 fine on the U. M. W. and $20,000 on Lewis for not obeying a court order to end that walkout.

Presbyterians Given Outline Of Mission Work

Toronto, June 7 — (CP) — Mission work in British Guiana and in Moslem countries was described Friday night at the 47th general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Laura Pelton, formerly of Westmount, Que., executive secretary for foreign missions of the Women's Missionary Society, spoke. She recently visited that South American country.

Thousands of former East Indians living in British Guiana are "profoundly grateful for education they received from Canadian Presbyterian missionaries," she said.

Miss Pelton asked for more co-operation from Canadian church members.

Rev. Dr. J. M. MacGillivray of Sarnia, chairman of the general board of missions, convened the session.

Improvement of Christian teaching methods and youth leadership training was urged in a committee report read by Rev. Wilfred F. Butcher of Toronto.

"There is lack of trained Sunday school teachers," said James Dutton of Peterborough, in resulting discussion. "I would like to see teacher-training classes where teachers could be taught how to teach and what to teach."

Minimum salary for ministers should be raised above $2,000 a year, a committee under Rev. A. N. Miller of Brampton, announced.

Rev. John McNab of Kitchener was unanimously appointed editor of the church's official publication, The Record. He had been acting editor for the last two years.

The Record's monthly circulation has increased 4,000 to 28,000 in the last few years, Rev. W. J. Walker of Galt reported.

The assembly approved a report given by Col. Charles K. Nicoll of Oakville that all church publishing boards be co-ordinated by a single committee.

Eleven Traffic Deaths Top List Of 28 Fatalities

By The Canadian Press

Eleven traffic deaths, including four in an automobile-tram collision near Montreal, topped a list of 28 weekend fatalities in Eastern Canada.

A Canadian Press survey also showed two men dead in what police described as a shooting affray and two flying tourists killed in an Ontario plane crash.

Six drownings were reported, falls were blamed for four deaths, a shooting accident for one, and a schoolboy died from head injuries suffered in a playground collision with a companion. Louis Sigal, Toronto, was believed drowned after a canoe he rented was found overturned.

The four collision victims were riding in an automobile which was struck by a Southern Counties tramway car in St. Lambert, across the river from Montreal. Fatally injured were Arthur Custo, 25, and his mother, Mrs. Arthur Custo, both of Lewiston, Me., and Jean Louis Bouquet, 25, and his 23-year-old wife of St. Hyacinthe, Que.

Killed when their light plane crashed and burned at Barrie were two United States tourists, Thomas Ricahrds and Kenneth Pleiss, both of Toledo, O.

A Simcoe farmer, 42-year-old Seth Linton, was charged with murder after the Sunday morning shooting of Louis Stewart, 43, of Simcoe, and John Kipp, 36, Stewart's brother-in-law, from Vienna, Ont. Police said the slaying apparently resulted from an attempt by Stewart and Kipp to persuade Stewart's wife to return to him. She had been Linton's housekeeper for some time.

Fatally Wounded

The one other shooting fatality was at Saint Martyrs, Que., where Emilien Roy, 14, was fatally wounded Sunday when a shotgun with which he was playing accidentally discharged.

Other traffic victims were Leo Goguen, 8, who died in hospital at Chatham Head, N. B., after being struck by a car as he dashed from a baseball file; Marcel Robichaud, 30, of Granby, Que., killed when a car overturned near Mansonville, Que.; George Roy, 40, of Toronto, when his truck overturned just west of Toronto; Horace Kennedy, Mount Albert, whose wife suffered injuries when a truck struck their parked car; Mrs. Annie Pearson, 61, Hamilton; Margaret Whitsell, 11, Niagara Falls, Ont.; and Dale Allen, three, Kingston were fatally injured in a separate motor car accident.

Twelve-year-old Lee Skerton suffered fatal head injuries in a playground collision with a playmate at Dayton, some 50 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. Harry E. Quick, 54, of St. Williams, died at Simcoe as result of head injuries received in a fall in a hotel corridor two weeks ago.

Two falls into water were included in the six drownings. At Sydney, N.S., Lawrence J. Beaudry, 51-year-old steel worker, fell from a trestle into Wentworth Park Creek and drowned Saturday. Fred Baldwin, 39, of Toronto, was drowned in the Trent River at Hastings when he slipped on a wet walk and fell into the water while fishing.

Bodies Recovered

The other drowning victims were Irwin Brubacher, 19, of Hawkesville, near Kitchener, whose home-made boat capsized in a dam; and William Adam, 10, of St. David's, who fell into a quarry pool in the Niagara Falls district.

In addition two bodies of drowned persons were recovered. The body of Mrs. Rollande Meerte, drowned last Tuesday in Lake Marois in Quebec, was found Saturday. She was the wife of orchestra leader Armand Meerte. The body of an unidentified man of about 40 was found in the St. Lawrence River Sunday.

Nine-year-old Kenneth Brownrigg of Montreal died of injuries suffered when he fell from the second-storey window of a house under construction. Another Montreal man, William Lynch, 78, died in hospital Sunday from injuries when he fell to a sidewalk last March 9.

Injuries suffered in a fall from the second storey of a restaurant in Toronto's Chinatown proved fatal to Eileen Hartley, 38.

Short Term Fish Derbies Frowned On by Federation

Peterborough, June 7 (CP)—Fish derbies offering prizes came under fire during the weekend when 20 directors of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters held their second quarterly meeting of the year.

Three members—Jack Hambleton of Toronto, Walter Wilson of Kitchener and Dr. Norman Douglas of Owen Sound—led the attack on the derbies. The federation decided to send a resolution to the Ontario Lands Department urging that "the department ban all short-term game fishing contests with prizes, better known as derbies and held in public waters, and of less than an open season duration."

Members claimed the derbies are only publicity stunts and are a detriment to sustained fishing, because they attract big crowds on opening day and results in rapid depletion of fish.

"The worst harm is done when some one catches a large fish, then many others are encouraged to fish more heavily in the hopes that they can also catch a large one." Dr. Douglas said. "In short, such catches lead others to believe that fishing is good when it isn't."

"Why up at Owen Sound, one man was paying anglers a $1 prize for every fish over a pound taken," Mr. Wilson said. "I know people who slept in cars and fished steadily during the period of the contest, considering that they would make a good day's pay out of it."

"I'm opposed to fish derbies," Mr. Hambleton added. "Actually I haven't too much sympathy for the Owen Sound people. Their chickens are now coming home to roost. There is undue depletion because of contests."

Only Short Term Derbies

"Am I to understand that the objection is only to short term derbies, or does the meeting also oppose fishing contests that last all year?" Peter McGillen of Peterborough, asked.

"There is no objection to the usual seasonal contests that bring prizes to anglers catching the biggest fish—but only to the short term jam-packed derbies," Vivian Sutton of Windsor, President of the Federation, replied.

Laxity in law enforcement on fish and game regulations came in for criticism from several delegates. A resolution submitted by Walter Wilson of Kitchener asked that the federation recommend to the department that they issue explicit instructions to law enforcement officers to make more vigorous efforts to apprehend violators of fish and game regulations.

Mr. Sutton complained there are so many hunters in the Essex Kent area that restrictions will have to be imposed very shortly.

Reports on progress in zoning Ontario were given by Austin Peters, Kingston; Walter Wilson, Kitchener; and Blake Uren, Orillia.

September meeting of the federation is to be held at Owen Sound and the annual meeting will be Feb. 5 and 8 at Toronto.

Secretary Reg. Hannam, Hamilton, reported membership now exceeds 100,000 and his financial report showed a balance of $2,542.

Main Campaign Points Announced By Duplessis

Three Rivers, Que., June 7 — (CP) — Provincial autonomy and anti-Communism shape up today as the main campaign points of Premier Duplessis' Union Nationale government due to seek re-election shortly.

The Quebec premier described them as "predominant questions" Sunday when his party staged its customary election-eve rally in the government-leader's hometown.

The premier called on his compatriots to join in a campaign for the "recuperation and safeguard of our rights."

Though many had expected it, there was no announcement from the premier about the long-awaited election date.

Premier Duplessis said his administration would not extend beyond four years its terms which began Aug. 8, 1944. If he meant four years exactly, the election date will be July 28 or Aug. 4, the only Wednesdays that will meet the prescribed 46-day delay between dissolution of the legislature and voting.

The premier said his government asked Quebec for a "clear mandate to continue the fight" for provincial rights and against Communism.

Refused Agreement

His government had refused during federal - provincial conferences in 1944 and 1945 a taxation agreement by which Quebec would have abandoned its "principal sources of revenue" in return for a $65,000,000 federal subsidy, he said.

Since its election in 1944, the Union Nationale government had regained corporation tax and succession duties rights which now bring the province more than $50,000,000, Premier Duplessis said.

The income tax field was barred to Quebec, he added, by the extent of federal income taxation "already too heavy."

He noted the recent C.C.F. by-election victory in Yale and asked:

"Where would we go with a C.C.F. government in Ottawa? With our provincial rights we are independent of any C.C.F. government in Ottawa which would be led by bureaucrats."

The premier said the government wanted the right to "protect you against Communism."

"Where would we be in Quebec without our churches, without our religion, without our clergy?"

WEDDINGS

BAKER—STARK

The Rev. E. H. McLellan conducted the marital rites in Holy Trinity Church, Oshawa, last Saturday when Frances Alberta Stark, daughter of Mrs. John Stark and the late Mr. Stark, became the bride of William Frederick Barker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Barker, all of Oshawa, before a floral background of carnations and snapdragons. Mr. Albert Rowden played wedding music, and Miss Louise Pearce, of Bowmanville, sang "Ave Maria" before the ceremony and "O Promise Me" during the signing of the register.

Mr. Andrew Stark gave his sister in marriage. She wore a gown of the traditional white satin, fashioned with bustle effect. A coronet of seed pearls in scroll design held her fingertip veil in place, and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses and white carnations.

Miss Helen Smith, in a gown of silver satin, designed on lines similar to those of the bride's gown, was the bride's only attendant. She wore a matching braided headdress with fuchsia flowers, and carried a cascade of pink carnations and snapdragons.

Mr. Ernest Barker, was his brother's groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. Sam Stark, a brother of the bride, and Mr. John Bathe.

For a reception in the Blue Room of the Hotel Genosha, Mrs. Stark received her guests in a street length dress of aqua flowered net, with fuchsia trimming. The groom's mother, who assisted, wore a street length dress of poudre blue crepe, with a black hat trimmed with blue. Both ladies wore corsages of red roses and sweetpeas.

Bouquets of mixed flowers added to the attractive arrangement of the room, and the bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake. Rev. E. H. McLellan proposed the toast to the bride, and Mr. Ernest Barker that to the bridesmaid.

For travelling to Montreal, Que., and Belleville, the bride chose a blue checked suit with matching topcoat. Her hat was of natural straw with navy trimming.

Following their return, Mr. and Mrs. Barker will reside in Oshawa.

FRIESEN—CARSCALLEN

Charming in its simplicity was the marriage, Saturday afternoon, of Miss Helen-Marie Carscallen, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mather Carscallen, Bleecker Avenue, to Mr. Erdman Friesen of Port Hope, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Friesen, of Herbert, Sask.

Lighted tapers in tall candelabra, with a profusion of spirea, shaded iris, tulips, phlox and other Summer flowers in variety, made an exquisite setting for the bridal party. Rev. D. C. Amos officiated at the ceremony in Bridge Street United Church, with Mr. Alec Gordon at the organ console.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Mrs. Norman Manchester, of Toronto, as matron of honor and by Miss Mary-Louise Kinnear, as bridesmaid.

Mr. Stuart Thom, of Toronto, was the groomsman, and Mr. Trever Hamill and Mr. W. Robson, both of Toronto, were the ushers.

The distinctive jacket-dress worn by the bride was fashioned of soft pink morocaine faille, the bouffant skirt styled with tiers of fagotting, and the jacket finished with identical unique fagotting at neckline and wrists. Her hat was styled in pink opal felt with a trimming of pastel maline and roses in the same shade. A cascade bouquet of pink roses complemented her costume.

The bride's attendants wore afternoon gowns in contrasting aquamarine shades, styled with "bertha" collars, displaying an ingenious design of fagotting. A diagonal flounce of matching crepe trimmed the pencil-slim skirts, and smartly styled flowered hats in cascade design completed their ensembles, with small bouquets of white lilacs.

Mrs. Carscallen, mother of the bride, was wearing a distinctive gown of Plymouth grey crepe romaine, accented with deep bands of dove grey satin, and a wide brimmed hat of matching grey felt, with satin trim. A corsage of gardenias and sweetpeas in a deep lilac shade effectively complemented the costume.

Immediately following a reception at Lanthorn Inn, Mr. and Mrs. Friesen left for Montreal, Que., from where they will sail on the Saguenay cruise. For travelling the bride chose a smartly styled two-piece costume in shades of skipper blue and soft pink, with matching blue hat, handbag and shoes.

Mr. and Mrs. Friesen will reside in Port Hope.

ANNIVERSARY MARKED

London, June 7 — (AP)—The fourth anniversary of D-Day was marked Sunday on both sides of the channel which British, Canadian and United States forces crossed four years ago.

At Portsmouth, Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery unveiled a memorial which faces the sea at a spot from which many units of the armada sailed with troops and equipment for the Normandy beaches. The memorial is a simple stone.

At Utach Beach, in Normandy, Jefferson Caffety, United States Ambassador, and President Vincent Auriol of France toured the invasion beaches.

Canada's Housing, Cost-of-Living To be Discussed

Hamilton, June 7 (CP)—Canada's housing and cost-of-living problems now may be political issues, but they will also face the critical eye of welfare experts at the Canadian Welfare Council annual meeting opening today.

Thrashed out a year ago at the last C.W.C. convention, these two bugbears of family life will rear their heads again when 200 delegates go into a huddle to devise a solution.

R. E. G. Davis, council director, said in an interview that neither of the problems has improved. If anything, housing conditions were worse. Cost of living was higher.

In his report he will present a brief urging publicly subsidized housing for low income groups.

Further attention will be given housing problems when the Canadian Conference on Social Work gets under way Wednesday at the close of the C.W.C. meeting. At least 800 social workers will attend the conference to continue the remainder of the week.

The delegates will discuss everything from juvenile delinquency and its treatment, to immigration and placement of the newcomers.

Delegates to both meetings will include representatives from the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, the Canadian Association for Adult Education, the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, the Catholic Women's League, Canadian Arts Councils, Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, as well as public welfare departments, and Child and Family Welfare agents.

Czechs Campaign Against New Look

Prague, June 7 — (AP)—Those long, wide skirts use too much material, the ministry of internal trade says. Besides, they "express the unsocial western mode."

So the new look was on the way out today in Czechoslovakia. It was slow in arriving, but some ankle-length fashions had appeared in fashionable gathering places and along the promenades.

One of the leading women members of parliament, Bozena Machacova-Dostolova, in the forefront of the campaign against them.

"Our women certainly will understand the importance of the elegant," she told the conference, "but certainly not very long and wide skirts. We can save a lot of cloth, and help for better distribution of textiles."

There was no mention of any new policy about peasant clothes. Peasant women wear skirts that come just balow the knee. They also wear four to six petticoats, all of which uses up a huge lot of material.

Balancing that, however, was the general custom of city women of wearing no petticoats at all, it was reported reliably.

Kiwanis Ladies Hold Final Meet Until Fall Term

The June meeting of the Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary was held at the centre with 35 members registering. As this was the last meeting of the season the ladies met early for a most delicious pot luck supper, convened by Mildred Stanton and her committee, when there was definitely no shortage of food. Before leaving the table, Beryl Bateman and Irene Ogilvie gave each lady a slip of paper and each in turn was asked to explain fully what was written on her paper—such remarks as "What are your husband's faults?" "Do you prefer the old or the new look?", "Why does not a lady like to tell her correct age?", etc. Winners were Grace Vanner, Janet Rattray, Kathleen Bottum and Carm Mott. The door prize was won by Janet Rattray.

The general meeting opened in the usual manner with the president, Vi Kuntze, in the chair. The Committee chairmen gave their reports and it was decided to hold the annual bazaar at the end of October with Flossie Smith as convener.

The June birthday draw was won by Janet Rattray, (a real Janet Rattray night), and the winner for July was Hazel Baragar.

At the close of the meeting a very interesting film entitled "Princess Elizabeth's Private and Married Life" was enjoyed by everyone. Thanks to Kiwanian Wally Warner and his assistants from the Film Board for this entertainment.

INSECT WARFARE

Capetown, South Africa—(CP) — A plague of weevils from Argentine grain in the harbor elevator here is making life miserable for workers. Unlike local weevils, the Argentine variety, like mosquitoes, can fly and bite. Dusting with insect powder has failed to get rid of the pests.

V.O.N. NEWS

Ella was frankly puzzled, and there was a tone of envy in her voice as she spoke to her sister:

"I know it's tricky, taking off and putting on the bandages of little Jane's fractured arm, but just the same, I don't see how you can have a nurse come in and look after it. I wish I had someone like that to help me look after father. He represents a great deal of care".

"Why Ella," said Mary, "I am surprised you didn't know that the nurse who comes in, is a V.O.N. Anyone may have her service."

"I never knew that."

"Don't you ever read the paper? There's always some V.O.N. News".

"I tell you with all I have to do, I haven't time to do much reading."

"Well, naturally the V.O.N. can't come to you, unless you let them know you have nursing or health problems and need their care. You have to call them."

"Do you mean to say that a V.O.N. would come in and help me look after father?"

"Most certainly. Why a V.O.N. comes weekly to bathe and care for old Mr. Blain, who lives down the street here with his daughter. She says the care he gets is simply wonderful. And across the street, young Mrs. Kane is having V.O.N. pre-natal care. Lots and lots of people all around this part of our neighborhood need and have the care the V.O.N. give so willingly and certainly most cheaply. None of us would do without it now."

"I wish I had known about it long ago. It's almost too good to be true. I shall phone just as soon as I reach home. Thanks for the information".

You, too, will find your health problems and nursing cares made much easier, by letting the V.O.N. in your community know about them. She can help you. Call 175 or 1125 on Saturdays, Sundays or holidays.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Eyebrows and Lashes

When playing with the items of the make-up box, have a strong light on your mirror and take your time. If you jump too fast through the beauty hopper, you're going to come out looking messy—cosmetically speaking, of course. We're all on the gallop these days. Nobody seems to have time to breathe. We're seeking the kind of coiffure that will do with three sweeps of the comb. But when you make yourself a new face, you just can't hurry.

When powdering, make a neat job of it. Don't just slap the pad here and there. Start on the throat, work upward; put the dull finish on your nose last. Use a powder brush to remove the surplus. If you use commercial blushes, blend them with the powder, keeping a special pad for the purpose. When you ply the lipstick, do a broad garin; have clear-cut edges; don't let the pigment pass over the white flesh. Tint to the very lip-ends Use the lipstick brush so the ruby glow will be pressed into the creases.

Make a neat job powdering

At that point you are ready to dress up your eyebrows and lashes. Despite careful powdering, a bit of the fluff stuff will get into them. Of course, you have a tiny brush for the purpose of grooming. You should also have a bottle of mineral oil. Apply the oil to the bristles of the brush. It will impart lustre to the silky shafts.

Groom the lashes upward. Lubricating and brushing will stimulate the growth, and what girl doesn't love long, curly winkers? At bedtime, after the face-washing, apply the oil freely, passing it along the roots of the lashes with the finger. The longer it stays on the better. No need of enduring a scanty, short growth; it will respond quickly to a little attention.

When it is necessary to darken the lashes, use the mascara brush with an upward stroke. Select a dark brown; black is too violent a contrast to the skin, is a dead give-away that one is resorting to artifice. Not that artifice isn't all right these days. But there is no sense in giving accent to it, thrusting it in the public eye.

Trimming the lashes—a diversion of teen-age girls—is a mistake. The shafts emerge from the flesh in overlapping scales, do not grow at the terminals.

When darkening the eyebrows, you have a choice—the crayon or mascara. If you wish to extend them slightly, the crayon is the proper medium ;for coloring, mascara is more convenient. Have the light touch so that the underlying flesh will not be smeared. As is the case with the lashes, dark brown is softer, more becoming than black.

If you will observe the lovelies of the silver screen, you will notice that the attenuated eyebrow is no more. Natural patterns displaced it; go thou and do likewise.

LITTLE VICTIM OF FLOOD GETS TREATED

Evacuated from flood-ravaged Vanport, Oregon, a child is cared for in Portland Red Cross headquarters. Built during the war on a flood plain, the city of Vanport was completely demolished when rampaging waters of the Columbia river broke through a dyke. Meanwhile, a new flood was reported building up in the head-waters of the mighty river, bringing a threat of further inundation and destruction.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

No . . . Not Dinner Jackets, White or Black, For Afternoon Weddings

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I would like to know if it would be proper for the men in the wedding party to wear white dinner jackets and tuxedo trousers at a June wedding which will take place in the afternoon at three o'clock and at which the bride will wear a wedding gown with a short train of a few feet. In every book and pamphlet I've read about correct wedding attire cutaway coats and striped trousers are mentioned for the men to wear when the bride wears this type of gown, but white dinner jackets are never mentioned. If the white dinner jackets are not correct for the men to wear, would a black tuxedo or black coat and white flannels be correct? If possible we would prefer not to have the men wear cutaways unless, of course, they are the only correct attire.

P. S.

The reason why white dinner jackets are not mentioned in the books as correct attire for the men to wear at an afternoon wedding is that dinner jackets (tuxedos), either white or black, are for evening wear. Not for a wedding or for any other occasion in the daytime is it correct for a man to wear a dinner jacket. . .a dinner jacket is not correctly worn before six o'clock in the evening at the earliest.

If this afternoon wedding is to be a really formal one, the correct attire for the men in the wedding party is formal daytime attire: cutaway coats, dark striped trousers, and appropriate accessories (if the men haven't this formal attired, they may be able to rent the cutaways and striped trousers). If the wedding is to be semi-formal in type, the men may wear Oxford gray or black jackets (instead of cutaways) and striped trousers. Or for a semi-formal wedding in Summer, the men may wear white linen suits or dark coats and light flannel trousers.

Proper For Them to Give This Dinner

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister and I have a very dear friend who is to be a June bride. We have already given a shower for her, and now would like to give a dinner in honor of her and the groom and their attendants. Would this be a proper thing for us to do? We have been told that this is the "social duty" of a close relative of either family. If you say it would be proper for us to give the dinner, would it be all right to give it the Sunday before the wedding?

R. M.

Regardless of what plans any of the relatives may have for giving a party in honor of the couple, you and your sister may plan to give this dinner . .If you consult with the girl and her fiance before you really make your plans, to find out if this plan would be convenient and if the date you have in mind would be agreeable for all concerned. If their pre-wedding days and evenings are already too heavily-scheduled with parties, it might be a better plan for you and your sister to plan to give a dinner or some other kind of party for them after they have returned from their wedding trip.

What Flowers Does Groom Provide?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman::

What wedding flowers does the bridegroom provide?

Bill M.

The bride's bouquet and her going-away corsage. A corsage for the bride's mother and a corsage for his own mother. The boutonnieres for the best man, ushers, bride's father and his own father. (Sometimes too the bridegroom provides the flowers for the bridal attendants. . . if he wishes to do this, he asks the bride to select them, but he pays for them.)

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

What to do about a "Boy Crazy" Daughter

There is no more thankless task a mother can take on than trying to reason a teen-age girl out of being "boy crazy". For that matter, it is just as futile to lecture her about her everyday behavior, her duty toward her parents, the way she dresses, or how she makes up her face. Right or wrong, young people resent being told by their elders what they should should not do on all these points. Methods of trying to influence them must be more subtle than the mere use of admonitions, warnings or reproaches.

I rather suspect that one, of the mothers who writes me about her problem daughter is making just this mistake of talking too much. She is distressed because her 15-year-old girl is boy crazy; because she "answers back" when she is reproved; because cosmetics are very important in her scheme of things; because her whole attitude towards her parents is not what her mother thinks it should be.

"I feel I must take her in hand and advise her," this worried mother writes. "I do not want to fail her. I love her with my whole heart and want to be so close to her. I must make her feel that I am her mother. Lipstick and powder are not beauty. A girl's beauty is to be kind, considerate, and gentle to respect, honor and obey her parents."

Possibly one of the reasons why this daughter has such an antagonistic attitude toward her mother is because she is always being compared, and unfavorably, to her brothers.

"My boys have always been kid and considerate," the mother says, "and I could always reason with them. If I felt they were slipping a little, I'd talk to them, and while they didn't always see it my way at first, in the end we could always agree. They are really wonderful."

From what the mother says, these brothers not infrequently take it upon themselves to tell their sister what to do, which she naturally resents.

I suggest to this mother that she try the experiment of having the entire family change their attitude toward this girl from one of criticism to one of affection and true interest in what she does. I don't mean, either, that such an interest would make the munduly inquisitive about her affairs so that they ask prying questions, but merely that they let her know they like to hear about her activities. Only very incorrigible young people fail to respond to sincere family affection, and if these four brothers, as well as her father and mother, would try to find things about her that they could praise and commend, I believe she would increasingly want to win their approval. Such a course is not only worth trying but is probably the only one that can really influence a girl in her teens.

The mother asks if there is any book she might get that would help her be wise about her relationship with her daughter. I might suggest a little pamphlet called "Keeping Up With Teen-Agers" by Evelyn Millis Dunall, which can be obtained for a very small sum by writing to the Public Affairs Committee, 22 East 38th Street, New York 16, N.Y. This pamphlet not only gives a great many suggestions that should be helpful to parents in dealing with their young people but adds a list of other books which might also have many useful suggestions.

Wedding Stopped By Son After Visiting Police

Dudley, Worcestershire, England, June 7. (CP)—Thirty-two-year-old Charles Thomas went to his father's wedding Saturday—and had it stopped.

Thomas said:

"On Friday I had a letter from a woman who said she was my mother—my father's first wife.

"The letter was from Mrs. Olive Thomas of Toronto.

"I immediately decided to stop the ceremony and did so on the advice of police who came with me to the church."

Charles' father, George Thomas, 52, Dudley chauffeur, said he last saw his first wife alive in 1920 in Canada adding: "I have not heard from her since and thought she was dead. In 1926 I married again—Rose was my second wife's name.

"When Rose died last year I thought myself to be a widower. I have made a long statement to police and I hope the matter will be cleared up."

At the wedding Saturday, when the clergyman said: "If any of you know cause . . .", Charles said "I object. I am his son."

The ceremony was stopped and the bride, Alice Finch, 22, collapsed and George Thomas and the clergyman assisted her into the vestry.

At Toronto, Mrs. Olive Thomas, 55, said Sunday night that she was married at Toronto in 1913 to George Thomas and believes he is the man whose marriage was stopped in Dudley, Worcestershire, Saturday, by his son, Charles. She had never obtained a divorce.

She had heard nothing from him since 1920 when he left Toronto with Charles and another child. She had no word of her children until she received a letter Saturday from Charles saying his father planned a marriage and he would stop it. She did not know how Charles had learned her whereabouts.

A third child was born soon after her husband left here in 1920, Mrs. Thomas said. He is a son who lives in Toronto.

THIS LITTLE FROCK incorporates many of the new fashion features and so is worth more than a cursory glance. It is of navy blue light weight woollen, a most popular Spring choice this year. The underskirt, another fashion feature, is of plaid taffeta. A little gilet of the taffeta fills in the neckline, cut in a deep U line. The snug bodice is buttoned to the waist and the sleeves are gathered to give a push-up effect. Unpressed pleats give the skirt its fullness.

DEFINITELY for dressy late afternoon-into-evening wear is the two-piecer of taffeta. Black silk taffeta of tissue weight, is used for a charming suit, the skirt quite full, the top, a basque bodice with tiny self-covered buttons closing the snug basque-line bodice which has a flared peplum at the hips and around the back.

Indians Take Clear Lead In American League As Hurlers Come Thru in Style

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

From a "good hit-no-pitch" team of a few weeks ago, the American League-leading Cleveland Indians have suddenly burst forth with one of the finest mound corps in the majors.

Remember when the Tribe's pitching staff was described as "Bob Feller, Bob Lemon and rain?" Then, because of several postponements due to rain, manager Lou Boudreau was able to pitch Feller and Lemon almost exclusively during the first two weeks of the season. But now Boudreau has two additional starters in rookie Gene Bearden, who to date has won five games and lost only one, and Steve Gromek who twirled a six-hitter in his first start of the season Sunday.

Gromek teamed up with Lemon in pitching the Indians to a pair of victories over Philadelphia Athletics 5-3 and 11-1. The double triumph increased the Indians' first-place margin over the Athletics to 2½ games.

Lemon, who gave up nine hits and fanned four, helped win his own game by collecting two of his team's eight hits and driving in two runs.

Tipton Leads Hitters

The Indians banged out 16 hits off Toronto-born Dick Fowler and Bob Savage in the nightcap. Joe Tipton, Ken Keltner and Dale Mitchell led the assault. Tipton smacked out five hits including two doubles. Keltner's three safeties included his 14th home run of the season. Mitchell got four hits in six times at bat and knocked in five runs.

The world champion New York Yankees whipped St. Louis Browns 4-3 and 3-0 to climb within half a game of the second-place A's.

Bobby Brown's single in the ninth inning scored Gus Niarhos with the winning run in the first game. Vic Raschi made it seven victories in a row and his third shutout in the second game.

Cards Regain Lead

St. Louis Cardinals regained the lead in the National League pennant race by defeating Philadelphia Phillies twice in St. Louis 11-1 and 2-0. Jim Hearn and Alpha Brazle were responsible for the finely pitched games. Red Schoendienst led the attack for the Cards with five doubles and a home run. The Cards teed off for 14 hits in the opener. They clubbed four home runs in the sixth inning — by Enos Slaughter, Erv Dusak, Schoendienst and Nippy Jones.

New York Giants fell out of first place, a half game behind the Cardinals when they were held to a split in their doubleheader with the Pirates in Pittsburgh. The Giants manhandled the Pirates 16-4 in the opener as Ray Poat racked up his fifth triumph against one loss. Sid Gordon hammered a grand slam home run for the winners. Ralph Kiner's 14th home run in the last half of the ninth broke a 3-3 tie and gave the Bucs a 4-3 victory in the second game.

Sain Beats Chicago

Johnny Sain pitched and batted Boston Braves in a 1-0 victory over the Cubs in Chicago. The righthander blanked the Cubs on four hits and topped it off by singling to score Jim Russell with the lone run.

The rebounding Red Sox vaulted from seventh place into a triple tie for fourth in the American League by sweeping a doubleheader from Detroit Tigers in Boston 5-4 and 12-4. Ted Williams, Stan Spence and Vern Stephens homered in succession in the sixth inning of the second game to equal a record. Stephens, whose eighth inning homer tied the first game score, won the game with a run-producing single in the ninth.

Chicago's cellar-shackled White Sox handed the Senators a double licking in Washington 10-4 and 11-4 for their first victories over the Nats in seven games.

Jim Demaret Wins Tourney And $2,000

Albuquerque, N.M., June 7. (AP)—Crooning Jim Demaret pocketed $2,000 as winner of the Albuquerque Open Gold tournament and led the pro brigade farther west today. Next stop is the National Open this week in Los Angeles.

Demaret blew in with a 67 Sunday his average for four 18-hole rounds, to cop first money in the par-battering local tournament. Regulation figures for the 6,813 yards are 35-37—72.

Although his tee shots found traps or rough as often as the fairways, jaunty Jim's sensational recoveries left little work for his putter throughout. He put together rounds of 65, 69, 67 and 67 for a 72-hole aggregate of 268.

Four strokes behind Demaret came Stewart (Skip) Alexander, Lexington, N.C., shooter who posted a 207-65 for $1,400 second money.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BY GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

There is plenty of baseball and softball on the sports calendar this week despite the fact that the Drews, the Jolliffes and the Olivers settle their bout at the polls today. Tonight there's a floodlight diamond tangle between the Belleville Merchants and the Trenton town team with the game starting so 'tis reported at 8.30 p.m. On Wednesday the potent Napanee crew visits its former diamond enemies in Picton and that should be a tilt worthwhile. The Picton squad is showing plenty of punch and the old baseball feud will blaze anew when the former rivals clash in the Picton Fair Grounds. Its a twilight affair with the umps shouting "Play Ball" about 6.30 of the clock.

• • •

The other half of a Wednesday twin bill sees the Trenton team clash with Dick Holdershaw's Trenton Flyers in a night tilt at the Fair Grounds here. The Picton squad pays its first visit here on Friday of this week clashing with the Northern Electric in a floodlight game.

• • •

Teams of the Lakeshore Softball League swing into action on four nights out of the coming seven. Trenton entertains Wooler in Trenton on Monday night with Cobourg paying a visit to the Point Anne diamond on Tuesday evening. Wednesday gloaming sees the Trenton Flyers at Trenton and Wooler at Cobourg while on Friday Frank Sedore's Canada Cementers will be the guests of the RCAF in Trenton.

• • •

Two double-headers are featured in the week's program in the Commercial Softball League this week with Belle Glass and Stewart Warner and Bourgeau's Garage and Optical battling it out on Tuesday while on Thursday evening the Moose meets Corby's and Bell Telephone meets up with Houstons.

• • •

The boys of the typewriters and air waves are beginning to creep out on the well-known limb again and calling the winner of the Louis-Walcott fracas scheduled for the 23rd day of the current month. Paul Gallico, well-known N'Yawk sportswriter and author figures that Mounseer Joseph will knock M'sieu Joisey Joe into a mass of quivering sepia flesh before the gong dings to end the first round. Other prominent writers are not so sure. In fact some of them think history will be knocked into a cocked hat and the tradition of "they never come back" will go aglimmering with a Walcott victory.

• • •

Jack Sharkey former world champion was talking to Bill Westwick of the Ottawa Journal the other day, and remarked that Wolcott looked good enough to win the first fight and wouldn't be surprised if Jersey Joe put Mr. Joseph Louis Barrow on the canvas again, only this time for ten.

• • •

"There's nothing like a good counter puncher to make a fighter like Louis look bad," said Jack. "Walcott's a counter puncher, but don't let them kid you that he runs away all the time. What's it matter what you're doing as long as you're punching the other guy? Anyone who had a bet on Louis the last time was yelling his head off about Walcott running away. They forget he was throwing punches, too, and that he was sidestepping, throwing out that left and then fading back to cork Louis with his right and make him look like a sucker at times.

• • •

"Since when did they start taking away fights from a guy because he did a little running? Tunney did plenty of running in his day, didn't he? What about that night in Chicago when Dempsey had Gene on the floor—did you ever see anyone running any faster than Tunney when he got up? It was the same in Philadelphia. Tunney did the counter punching, backing up on Dempsey and then letting go a flurry and then grabbing him. What's the difference if Walcott does the same thing? That's his way of fighting."

• • •

All of the training camp talk about Louis changing his style and training against fighters who used Walcott's ring methods doesn't register on Sharkey.

"Louis isn't going to change his style, because he can't. A lot of that changing stuff is baloney to me. You adjust yourself to the other fellow's style when you're in there, or else you get into trouble.

"I remember once trying something like that. It was before my first fight with Schmeling. I'd only seen the German fight once. I watched him against Paulino Uscudun, but I didn't stay very long. But they all had him down as a dead ringer for Dempsey, who came out in that bob and weave and might tear you apart. Well, I boxed 107 rounds in training and concentrated on getting used to that type of fighter.

• • •

Louis' reaction to Walcott's punches in the first fight had Sharkey frankly puzzled.

"I've seen some heavyweights get hit and watched them reel or their legs wobble. But I never saw anyone go down the way Louis did when Walcott clipped him.

"The only way I can describe it is this way," said Jack reaching for a handkerchief, holding it by one corner and then dropping it on a table.

"So help me, he folds up and goes down on the floor like a bowl of jelly. He doesn't stagger or fight away or shake himself and try to recover—he just goes plump. And you can't tell me Walcott can hit that hard. He hits hard enough but he's more of a stinging puncher, and I still can't figure Louis going down the way he did."

• • •

If there is any changing of styles to be done, Sharkey won't be surprised if Walcott changed his for a moment or two.

"If I were in Walcott's boots and had that last one under my belt like him, I think I'd come right out at the start and let fly and try to end it right then and there. Don't be surprised if he does that, either. He's had Louis down a couple of times and he might just do that. However, if it goes a piece he'll do better than the last time."

• • •

So far as Louis goes, Sharkey thinks he had better be in there in good shape and go after his man in a lot more purposeful manner than the last time.

"Louis better go in and search him out and get to him fast if he wants to retire an undefeated champion. The last time he looked awful. Every time Walcott feinted you'd think Louis was going through an army drill to change direction. He took no less than three direct steps to shift before aiming at Walcott, and even then Walcott wasn't there half the time. Walcott will be in his worst trouble when he's on the ropes. That's where Louis is most dangerous. He's apt to blast you there, and he's a pretty good finisher too."

Manager of Team Apologizes To C.A.H.A. Pres.

(By The Canadian Press)

It was learned in Regina on Sunday that President Al Pickard of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has received an apology from manager Ed Bruchet of Lethbridge Native Sons for remarks made about the refereeing of the western junior hockey playoffs this year.

"While I was and still am displeased with the officiating," Bruchet said, "I realize I was indiscreet in using terms which imputed the honesty of C. A. H. A. officials and do now retract those statements and apologize for having made them."

Bruchet had said the officiating was responsible for his team's defeat by Port Arthur Bruins in the western junior final.

Stan Horne, steady - playing Montreal Islemere professional, fired a 73 Sunday to capture top honors in the Quebec Spring Golf Open in a special playoff over the wind-swept Marlborough course. Horne bested Bill Kerr, a fellow Montreal pro, by four strokes after the two tied for top honors last Friday at Laval-Sur-Le-Lac.

Herb McKenley clipped 3/10th seconds off his listed world record in the 400-yard run in the annual Pacific Association track and field championships at Berkeley, Calif., Saturday. The swift Jamaica-born sprinter ran the distance in 46 seconds flat. He set his former record one year ago. Another Jamaica-born star, Lloyd La Beach, hit the 100-yard dash finish tape in 9.4 seconds to tie the official world record already held by six others.

58-Man Squad Montreal H.S. Wins Track Meet

Montreal, June 7 — (CP) — Montreal High School's powerful 58-man squad romped off with major honors at the Dominion interscholastic track and field meet at Molson Stadium Saturday. Twenty-two records were set.

The Montreal high tracksters piled up 164 points in all five classes, to top Montreal West Hill High School with 156. Ottawa Glebe Collegiate took third spot with 79, but won aggregate honors in class five, or senior, to capture the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Trophy.

Ottawa Technical with 15 entries came fourth with 48 points; Lower Canada College of Montreal came next with 46; and a handful of youngsters from Oakville, led by Bill Sutton and John Ross, amassed 30 points to wind up sixth.

Harry Stiwka of Ottawa Glebe was an outstanding performer. He pole vaulted 11 feet 6 5/8 inches to set a meet record in class five and Dominion junior open mark as well.

Don Scott McEwan of Ottawa Glebe turned in a smashing race in the class five mile. He ran the four laps in 4 minutes, 26.5 seconds to clip five seconds off his provincial record and only 2 ½ seconds more than the Dominion record set in 1933.

Jack Ryan of Montreal Loyola came second and J. McCarthy of Sudbury finished third.

Cracks Three Records

Jack Victor of Montreal West Hill cracked three records in class three while Dick Ferguson of Oakville knocked off two in class four.

In one of three open events, George Lunch of North Toronto Track Club ran the 1,500 metres in 4:17.5 to finish a few steps in front of Ron Hockey of McGill University.

Ray Skecrett, Montreal High Negro speedster, won both the class five 100 yards event and the 100-metre open race. His times were 10.4 and 11 seconds respectively.

Among the others scoring firsts were two Sudbury entries, B. O'-Hara and M. Pella, and Gerald Bracey of Whitby. O'Hara took the running broad jump class five event for Sudbury High School with a jump of 19 feet, 11½ inches and Pella equalled a meet record in the class five discus competition. Pella placed second in the 12-pound shotput class five event.

Bracey, lone representative from Whitby High School, won his specialty, the 880-yard run in class five. He covered the distance in 2:05.2.

J. Chisholm of Coniston, Ont., placed second in the 200 - yard dash class tthree event and third in the 100-yard dash class three competition.

Competition was divided into five classes. From class one, for youngsters still under 14 next Sept. 1, the classes moved up a year to class five, for boys under 20 the day of the meet.

Newark Bears Able to Defeat Chiefs Anytime

(By The Associated Press)

The ability of Newark Bears to beat Syracuse Chiefs is one of the reasons the Bears top the International League standings today.

Manager Bill Skiff's Bears have clashed with the Chiefs six times so far and on each occasion the Bears romped off with the decision.

Sunday the Bears bagged 3-2 and 11-0 triumphs. Dick Starr gained the nod over Syracuse's Johnny Hetki in the first game although he yielded 10 hits.

Clarence Marshall allowed only five hits in the second game, coasting home behind a nine-hit attack that included a three-run homer by Jerry Coleman.

Montreal Royals moved over the Chiefs into second place, a game behind the Bears by pulverizing Toronto Maple Leafs twice, 23-3 and 8-0.

Chuck Connors, Duke Snider, Al Gionfriddo, Oscar Grimes and Cliff Dapper each hit homers in the first game with Connor's blow coming with the sacks jammed.

Connors, Grimes and Gionfriddo also homered in the second game while Johnny Van Cuyk held the hapless Leafs to three hits.

Jersey City Giants and Rochester Red Wings also swept twin bills. The Giants turned back Baltimore Orioles, 6-5 and 3-0 and the Wings clipped Buffalo Bisons, 9-3 and 5-4.

Syl Yvars' three-run eight-inning homer enabled the Giants to take the first game. The Giants also won the second tilt by scoring three times in eighth frame of a scheduled seven-inning contest.

Ray Yochim and Ken Johnson turned in a pair of five-hitters as the Wings made it five in a row over Buffalo.

Gus Lesnevich And Freddie Mills Meet in London

London, June 7 — (AP) — A new edition of Fearless Freddie Mills will fight champion Gus Lesnevich for the world light heavyweight title at White City Stadium here July 26.

A once rough and ready product of carnival rings, Mills has polished his tactics since he lost to Lesnevich two years ago.

If the reformation pays off with a world crown Mills will reach the Eldorado of a career that started with his winning a novice competition in his teens.

Today, a 28-year-old bachelor, light heavyweight champion of Great Britain, the Empire and Europe, Mills is the national ring idol. Currently the highest paid slugger in the land, he lives in a modest home in middle class Denmark Hill suburb.

There are none prouder of the new Mills than his trainer, Nat Seller.

"Freddie has that little bit of extra experience that can win now," said Seller, fishing out a card that unblushingly advertises him as "England's premier boxing trainer."

The world championship is the biggest but not the only title target for Mills. He's shooting for 3 more. After Lesnevich, he is scheduled to fight Bruce Woodcock for the latter's British, Empire and European heavyweight titles.

Batawa Shoemen And Peterborough Win COBL Tilts

(By The Canadian Press)

The see-saw battle for first place in the Intercounty Baseball League again highlighted weekend baseball play as senior teams swung into action not only in the intercounty loop but in all corners of the province.

Waterloo Tigers took over sole possession of first-place in the intercounty circuit standing by shading Guelph Maple Leafs 9-8 Saturday night. Kitchener Panthers were in a hitting mood Saturday night as they hammered 3 London Majors hurlers for 14 safeties and a 13-2 victory. Brantford Red Sox, the only intercounty team to play two games, garnered a double victory. They blanked Stratford Nationals 7-0 behind the two-hit twirling of Harrison Fisher and then eked out a 2-1, 11-inning win over Galt Terriers.

In the Central Ontario Baseball League, Peterborough Petes took a firmer grip on top spot by trouncing Kingston Locos 10-3. In the only other C. O. B. A. tilt, Batawa Shoemen consolidated their hold on second place with an 8-6 win over Oshawa Merchants.

Kingston's loss to Petes in the Central Ontario League was their third straight defeat. Petes hammered Tony Conner and Jack Stone for 13 hits, six of them extra bases, to roll up a comfortable lead. Jack Knight was the big threat for Locos with a double and two singles in five tries, while Petes' Howie Dalton drove in five runs with a homer, double and single in five attempts.

A grand slam four-bagger by Mac Watson in the eighth inning proved the winning margin in Batawa's win over Oshawa. The victory left the shoemen one notch behind the undefeated Peterborough club. Peacock and Gordie Muffit combined to hold the Merchants to eight safeties while their team mates rapped out 11 hits off Michael and Hill who hurled for the losers.

Kennedy, Aquino and Muffit shared batting honors for Batawa, each with two hits, while Red Jubenville was the big gun for Oshawa with three safeties.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

New York, June 7 — (AP) — The odds should be about 1,000 to 1, though we don't know any bookie who'd give that price, that Muscles Stranahan won't duplicate Bobby Jones' celebrated golfing grand slam . . . His chances of even adding the United States open title to his British amateur championship this week aren't what you'd call bright . . . The difference is that a lot more people play better golf now than they did 20 years ago and scoring in general is much lower . . . Stranahan, who makes a career of golf as much as any professional, has to be good to stick up with the pro hotshots week after week, yet he doesn't always outclass his amateur rivals . . . if you have to pick a winner for the 1948 open, string along with Ben Hogan. He shot 275 to win the Los Angeles open over the Riviera course winter before last and they say he plans that layout as if he owned it.

When Notre Dame's Frank Leahy visited a football clinic at the University of Mississippi recently, a cute little co-ed accosted him in the hotel lobby and asked for his autograph — genial Frank signed willingly and for good measure tossed in his brightest smile — the gal peeked at the paper and plaintively asked: "But aren't you going to sign it "Admiral?" — A.W.O.L. —

Harry Mendel reports from Joe Louis' training camp that the heavyweight champ spends hours watching films of his first fight with Jersey Joe Walcott. First he studies Walcott's moves, then runs the film again to observe his own mistakes . . . Louis' comment, says Mendel, is: "When I see the openings I missed, I guess I was the man who wasn't there."

Pacific Coast Hockey League Now Professional

Montreal, June 7 — (CP) — The Pacific Coast Hockey League is no longer "amateur."

This was made known here Sunday by President Al Leader of the P. C. H. L. who met with Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League and representatives of the American and United States leagues to draw up an affiliation agreement.

Thus the P. C. H. L. took its place alongside the N. H. L., U. S. H. L. and A. H. L. as a full-fledged pro league.

Preliminary plans for the change to professional ranks were drawn up in Pittsburgh when representatives from the three pro loops met with representatives o. the P. C. H. L.

The 10-club P. C. H. L. had its greatest year last season, said Leader, and "we felt the fans would get a better brand of hockey by going outright professional."

"Most of the clubs already have working agreement with teams in the other professional leagues and it is expected that before the 1948-49 season starts every club in the league will have a National or American League contract," he added.

Clubs in the P. C. H. L. are:— Vancouver, New Westminster, Seattle, Tacoma and Portland from the northern division, with Oakland, San Francisco, Fresno, Los Angeles and San Diego in the southern division.

thers attending the meeting were:

How food protection makes jobs for Canadians

From gardens, farms, orchards, lakes and seas come vast quantities of food of every variety for use on Canadian tables. Food processors have constantly been seeking new ways to protect the purity of food. International Nickel has cooperated in this work, and has carried on a great deal of research aimed at developing better and better equipment.

So today the equipment used to handle, cook and process fruits, vegetables and soup; meat, fowl and fish, is largely made of Nickel or Nickel alloys. These metals resist the action of food acids, do not rust or corrode, do not discolor or contaminate foods.

As a result of scientific research, processed foods are safe, pure and tasty. More and more Nickel and Nickel alloys are used for utensils, cooking vessels and other food processing equipment. The production of this Nickel provides jobs for scores of Canadians.

Thus does research develop better products, increase the use of Canadian Nickel and create more employment.

COMMUNIST DIRECTOR'S ARREST " A SURPRISE"

Jack Stachel (2nd from left) is pictured with reporters after his release on $3,500 bail. Stachel, 49, U.S. national educational director of the Communist party in the United States, was arrested by the F.B.I. and immigration authorities on charges of entering the U.S. illegally. Stachel said his arrest was "quite a surprise."

Of several evils a bridge player sometimes has a choice. As a rule his choice should be the one that may produce the most tricks. In many cases, however, he should settle for less if safer.

South is declarer at three notrump in this deal:

NORTH
♠8 4
♥A 10 2
♦A K 9
♣6 5 4 3 2

WEST
♠K 9 6 5 2
♥J 5 3
♦10 4 3
♣10 8

EAST
♠Q 10 7
♥7 4
♦J 6 5 2
♣Q J 9

SOUTH
♠A J 3
♥K 9 8 6
♦Q 8 7
♣A K 7

For the nine needed tricks only eight high cards are in the pair.

Usually this forecasts the need for a close play. Maybe a coup. Maybe a wise decision. Maybe a ruse. Maybe a lucky lead or break.

Opponents may be weak defenders. Or they may get their signals crossed. Or they may not be able to decide on their best attack. Otherwise, declarer must be a trick better in his play.

Opening lead from west is a small spade. East goes up with the queen. If south refuses this trick, east will continue spades. This promptly throws the spade suit wide open for trouble.

So the south ace wins trick one. The spade suit is still guarded as long as east is kept out of the lead. This with seven tops in the other three suits makes one more trick necessary.

The temptation is to develop clubs. More than nine tricks would come in if the third club round was lost to west. In such an attempt, however, east is likely to get in. Too dangerous.

On the other hand, developing hearts may produce the one tight trick. A finesse in hearts toward south may keep east out. If it does the ninth trick comes in from there.

Dummy wins a diamond and comes back a small heart. East ducks and the eightspot in south is finessed. West wins with the jack. He may refuse to return a spade to make the south ninth trick.

If he shoots back a diamond, dummy wins. Heart ace is cashed. The heart ten through east makes it free from worries for declarer.

The most good luck seems to go with the best plans.

Six Thousand Will Compete At Olympics

London, June 7. (CP)—Six thousand well-muscled sons and daughters of 49 countries will pile into Britain in the next two months and for 17 days, July 29-Aug. 14, will divert attention from the world's woes to the sports arena.

This cavalcade of sport will be unfolded at Wembley, Harringgay and Earl's Court Stadiums in London, and at Bisley, Aldershot, Windsor, Henley and Torquay. There are 17 sports and 136 events, from fencing to wrestling, and the Olympic "must"—an art exhibition.

For all of this, more than 2,000,000 ticket-holders from all parts of the world, will scramble squeeze, shove, jostle and push their way into stadiums. Chubby London is sprucing itself for the arrival of visitors speaking a hundred different dialects and languages.

No country is declared winner of the games, although standings will be compiled by writers to show that this country or that obtained more first places than any other.

Because of post-war scars and the accompanying shortages of food, homes, labor and material, some newspapers have bleated that Britain led with her chin in accepting the games.

Other newspapers differed, saying it was about time austerity Britain "let her hair down and had some fun."

Russia Adamant

Olympic organizing committee officials laboriously have gone ahead with the job. Lord Burghley, committee chairman, agreed there would be "some incidents" but appealed to newspaper men not to "balloon" them to fantastic proportions.

But while Britain was divided on the question of staging the games, the rest of the world—except Russia, so far—was eager to send their athletic "goodwill ambassadors". Canada was the first country to accept the invitation and now 59—a record—will show up with a total of 6,000 or more athletes—another record.

Here are past modern Olympic entries:

Athens, 1896, 484 athletes; Paris, 1900, 427; St. Louis, 1904, 595; London, 1908, 2,082; Stockholm, 1912; 3,282; Antwerp, 1920, 2,741; Paris, 1924, 3,385; Amsterdam, 1928, 3,905; Los Angeles, 1932, 1,700; Berlin ,1936, 3,959.

All is set for the King, surrounded by other members of the Royal Family, and international Olympic Committee brass hats, officially to proclaim the games open at 4 p.m., July 29.

Almost simultaneously with the King's words—"I proclaim open the Olympic games of 1948, celebrating the 14th Olympiad of the modern era"—a well-built athlete will stride into Wembley Stadium holding the Olympic torch at arm's length. Five thousand pigeons will be released and the massed athletes on the rich, green turf will swear to take part "in the true spirit of sportsmanship for the honor of our country and for the glory of sport."

Business Spotlight

(By The Canadian Press)

Worries about an imminent recession again appear to have receded, the current monthly report of the Bank of Nova Scotia states.

The review notes, however, a nearer balance within Canada between goods produced and the demand for them. This makes the business structure more dependent on high capital investment and exports, and thus more vulnerable to any unfavorable turn in events.

"But on the whole the picture remains favorable— it is (in Canada) one of an economy operating at capacity with a cost structure that compares well with other countries. It is, moreover, a picture of a nation adding substantially to its capacity to produce — its real wealth."

In this comment the review seeks to sum up what many feel to be both the promise and the problem of the Canadian situation. The country has the raw materials, it is enormously increasing its facilities to make finished goods, and so has a lot at stake in present efforts to restore world - wide trade on a sound basis.

At present, the review comments, the Canadian economy is operating close to capacity and unless there is basic change there is reason to believe that the number of persons employed will exceed 5,000,000 for the second successive summer.

"At the same time there is considerable evidence to suggest a 'settling' in the employment situation. There now are a good many industries where production has caught up with demand and some which have encountered considerable buying resistance at current prices. In these circumstances labor turnover has decreased notably. Though shortages of many types of skilled workers have persisted, some instances of labor surplus developed during the winter."

The amount of money being spent continues to increase, but people are getting less goods because of higher prices. Since the increase in prices has been most marked in food and clothing these have tended to absorb a larger proportion of income.

Little Benny's Note Book

We were eating supper, being liver and onions in pop's honor, and ma said, Really, William, I mean really, you dont deserve liver and onions. I mean I'm sure you haven't the slightest glimmer of a faint idea what day this is, have you? she said.

Of course I have, my dear, pop said. It's not our wedding anniversary and it's not your berthday, he said, and ma said, I mite of known. Oh well, why should I expect a mere man to be romantic enough to remember the anniversary of the day he became engaged to a mere woman, even me? she said.

But I'm not a mere man, my dear, and you're not a mere woman, and I wont tease you any longer, pop said. If I had no idea what day this is, why did I bring home that box that's been reposing on the hall table all during this intristing conservation? he said, and ma said, Why William, how exciting. I'm going to rush rite out and open it, she said.

And she quick went out in the hall, and I said, G, pop, what's in it?

Cigars, just cigars, and now I am in wrong, unless I can think awful fast in the next minute, he said.

And he made faces like somebody trying to think fast, and ma came back looking mad, saying, Cigars, cigars, is that your idea of a joke on an occasion like of? Music, pop said. And what this?

Take it easy, my dear, pop said. Those cigars are simbolic. Did you notice that every one of them has a band on it? he said, and ma said, Oh, I didn't even bother to open the lid, and what's a diference how many bands they've got on them?

But what do bands remind you does music remind you of, The symfunny concert at Synfonnic Hall tonight. And that's where we're going, my dear, to celebrate a symfonnic occasion, he said.

Proving he had thawt fast, and ma didn't even dry the dishes en account of being in sutch a hurry to get started.

AT THE CAPITOL—Fresh from her success in "Honeymoon," Shirley Temple co-stars with Cary Grant and Myrna Loy in RKO Radio's riotous comedy, "The Bachelor and the Bobby-Soxer," opening tonight at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program "Wild Bill Hickok Rides Again," starring Bruce Cabot, Warren William and Constance Bennett.

AT THE CAPITOL — Cary Grant romances with Myrna Loy, disillusioning their co-star Shirley Temple as a hero-worshipping teen-ager in RKO Radio's comedy, "The Bachelor and the Bobby Soxer," opening tonight at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program "Wild Bill Hickok Rides Again" with Bruce Cabot and Warren William.

Jerusalem, June 5 (Reuters) — The International Red Cross headquarters in the Y.M.C.A. building in Jerusalem has received a virtual ultimatum from the Stern Gang threatening their "neutrality" unless all Arabs, including armed Arabs and Arab employees, are immediately evacuated from the building.

The ultimatum, brought in a letter by a Stern Gang messenger, followed the wounding Thursday of three Stern Gang men by an Arab sniper lodged somewhere in the vicinity of the Y.M.C.A.

Neighbors of Seth Linton, who is now being held as a result of the shooting early yesterday morning of Louis Stewart and John Kipp, are seen entering the court house at Simcoe for interrogation. At left is Dave Larmour and at right Len Maylin. In foreground is Provincial Constable Clarence E. Parmentar.

ARABS CAPTURE HAGANAH SNIPER

This picture was taken on the Mount of Olives overlooking Jerusalem as Arabs brought in the body of a Jewish sniper killed by Arab patrol during the battle for Jerusalem. The old city of Jerusalem has been captured by the Arab Legion and they are preparing for an assault on the maze of streets and stone buildings in the new areas of Jerusalem.

AUSTRALIAN AGRICULTURISTS INSPECT CANADIAN CATTLE

Holstein-Friesian dairy cattle at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, Ont., are admired by W. A. Meares and M. R. Buttsworth, leading Australian agriculturists, during a tour of Canadian farming institutions and farm areas from Winnipeg to Montreal. The Australians are members of a three-man team which won the "Progressive Farm Competition" sponsored by the Rural Bank of New South Wales, and their six-month all-expense tour takes them to the United States and England as well as Canada. Left to right, M. R. Buttsworth, Hannam Vale, N.S.W.; Dr. P. O. Ripley, Central Experimental Farm, and W. A. Meares, Forbes, N.S.W.

CHIEF RABBI

Dr. Israel Brodie, 53-year-old senior Jewish chaplain to Britain's armed forces, is shown at his desk in Woburn House, London, after he was elected chief rabbi of the United Hebrew congregations of the British Commonwealth and Empire at a delegate meeting of the United Synagogue in London. He succeeds Dr. Hertz, who died in January, 1946. The office of chief rabbi has been vacant since.

SYRIAN COMMANDER IN BATTLE OF LIFELINE

Mahoud Bey Nadhi, Syrian commander of the central zone, Arab Liberation Army, is shown studying a map while inspecting progress of Arab forces in the Bab El Wad area, three miles from Latrun, key point on the Jewish lifeline between Tel Aviv and Jerusalem. Both Arab and Jewish forces are locked in fierce battle here. The Jews trying to break through to aid their brethren in Jerusalem; the Arabs determined to prevent such a breakthrough.

GREETS CUBA'S PRESIDENT-ELECT

The newly-elected president of Cuba, Carlos Prio Socarras, is embraced by Chief of Staff Gen. Perez, shown wearing his pistol at the meeting in the Presidential Palace, Havana. At left is the incumbent President Ramon Grau San Martin, who backed Socarras. Right, wearing glasses, is Vice-President-elect Dr. Alonso Pujol.

GUARDS CROWN JEWELS

Field Marshal Lord Wavell, one of England's great soldiers, became constable of the Tower of London, in a colorful ceremony held in London. An office created by William the Conqueror, the constable of the Tower, is responsible for the safe custody of the crown jewels, but doesn't get paid for the job. In the picture, Lord Wavell is holding the cushion bearing the gold key, after receiving it from the Earl of Clarendon, the King's representative as lord chamberlain.

OFFICE NURSE

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

Janice saw, looking at him as he leaned forward to say this last, that his eyes were bright, even twinkling. That would be nice, she thought, a second honeymoon. She could not recall when her mother and father had been away together. It must have been years. Nothing must stop them from going. She smiled at him across the table, the lamplight dancing in her hair.

"I'll do what you ask, Father. I give you my word. I'll go away."

Having promised, she felt a wave of immense relief sweep over her. It would be good to get away from everything and everyone; by herself—all by herself—that was what she wanted.

"I thought," her father said, "that you might want to go with us. But your mother seemed to think—"

"Mother is right!" Wasn't she always! Mildred Hilary must have known before Janice had that what her daughter needed was to go away by herself. "As though I'd spoil that second honeymoon!"

Graham Hilary cleared his throat; relief invaded him, too; he could tell Mildred that he had done what she asked.

"I'll tell Mother it's all settled, then. Run along, my dear. I'm expecting Thad Taylor this evening to draw up the final papers. We may have to vacate by the first of next month. So if you can make plans for your vacation that soon—"

"They're as good as made." Janice came around behind his chair and dropped a light kiss on the high forehead. "I'll give notice in the office tomorrow and I'll see about my reservations. I think I'll fly—I'd love to fly. And I think I'll go to Mexico."

"Good!" Her father reached for his newspaper. The ordeal was over, and he still did not know why Mildred had considered it imperative that Janice go away.

Betty Jane and Bill had had their first serious quarrel. At the time, Betty Jane did not think of it as serious—not too serious, anyway since Bill always came around in the end to her way of thinking.

The quarrel had taken place on one of their usual Saturday night dates. A whole week—and another Saturday night—passed, and still Bill had not come around to say he was sorry.

"I didn't know," Betty Jane admitted to her Aunt Mame, "that a man, especially Bill, could be so stubborn. You'd think if Bill really was so crazy about me he'd see it isn't my fault and give in."

Aunt Mame said that most men were as stubborn as mules.

"I told him," Betty Jane said, "that we'd get married in June. And now just because he's got a chance to go into partnership with that fellow he met in the war who's got the dough to put up if Bill's put up his experience as a mechanic, Bill thinks I ought to change my mind and marry him right away. Imagine Bill owning a garage!" she added, with a long sigh.

Her aunt told her that the course of true love never ran all the way downhill. As a matter of fact, most of it was uphill work.

"Just the same," Betty Jane said, "Bill doesn't have to be so unreasonable."

That was what she had kept telling him at the time of the quarrel. "You're being unreasonable, Bill," she had said. His retort had been that she was the one who was unreasonable. He couldn't see why she always had to put that old office before him.

• • •

"I'm not putting it before you." She had endeavored to be patient. "It's just like I told you, I've already told Miss Hilary that I'm staying the full year, so when she said she was depending on me staying, what could I do? The office is upset enough as it is, what with Mrs. McRae just walking out one noon and never showing up again. You ought to be reasonable, Bill, and see that this is no time for me to quit without any reason."

"Without any reason!" Bill's good-natured face had grown a deep purp'ish color.

"Well, I didn't mean that exactly." Betty Jane had attempted to mollify him. "Things will get better soon—or something will happen, then maybe I can let them know I'm thinking of having to leave."

"Skip it!" Bill's tone had been bitter. 'Don't bother thinking about it. I can't wait while you do; I gotta let this fellow know if I'll go in with him. I gotta leave for Pennsy as soon as he sends word he's taken over the garage and needs me. Course, I kinda hoped you'd go with me. But I guess I can go alone."

Betty Jane had said that that was better. But she had not liked the way Bill had spoken. It would be better — common sense — she told him, for him to go and get things humming and then, later on, she could join him.

"That's reasonable, now, isn't it, Bill?" she had pleaded.

Bill had said, still in that grim way she hadn't liked, that he guessed it was.

So Betty Jane had supposed that he had agreed with her and had given in. However, when he did not show up all that next week, and, especially, on Saturday night, she had begun to believe that she had been mistaken. He was, of course, just being stubborn, as she had told Aunt Mame. He would come around in time.

• • •

She thought Bill was waiting too long, though. Sunday was a long day. On Monday evening she decided she would give him a ring.

Bill's married sister, with whom he had lived since coming back from overseas, seemed surprised when Betty Jane asked for Bill.

"I supposed, naturally," his sister said, "you knew that Bill left for Pensylvania a week ago Sunday. He's going into business for himself, you know. Ain't that grand? I always said all Bill needed was a chance—and the right girl to help him. It's about time he settled down. And he'd already kept dear Charlotte waiting long enough—she's my husband's youngest sister, you know, and she's always been head-over-heels in love with Bill. Poor girl, she almost died while Bill was overseas. And she—"

"What's Charlotte got to do with it?" Betty Jane asked. She knew all about Charlotte; Bill had told her how his sister and brother-in-law were always throwing Charlotte at his head.

(To Be Continued.)

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking to himself in his private chair, and ma said, After all, William, I mean after all, some of the most important men play golf in their breething spells, I mean serious thinkers like sycologists and filosophers and statesmen, and nobody dreems of criticizing them, so why should anybody make sturning remarkes at us women for playing bridge? The only difference is, it's a different game, and we're a different sex, she said.

Who dares to say otherwise? pop said, and ma said, Docter Luella Blockwood, the president of the Larribee College for Geris. She gave a lecture here at Symfunny Hall on the subject of what she snootingly calls time-waisting women, and yesterday's papers were full of it, and so was our conversation at this afternoon's bridge game.

I'll bet Docter Blockwood's big ears were berning, pop said, and ma said, Well I hope so. , The ladies all agreed that just because a few intelligent women happen to be engaged in playing a fair game of bridge, even though 9 tents of the werld's population is underprivilidged at the time, it's no indication that our minds are not just as bizzily engaged on ways and means as though we were delivering a lecture at Symfunny Hall that we probably stole bodily from some obscure book. And ferthermore we decided to do something definite about it, ma said.

Sutch as what? pop said, We're going to raise money for the under privilidged.

Sutch as how? pop said, and ma said, By donating half the winnings and losings of our next 10 bridge sessions to forrin relief.

It's a woman's werld and I get a great kick out of it, pop said.

Being the end of the subject.

I was taking a walk with pop for the good of his figure and his appetite, and I had a short stick and I was hitting trees with it when I went past, and pop said, Don't you think you could throw that stick away now, or is that tree-smacking a moral obligation on your part?

Well, kind of, I said. I'm only hitting every 3rd tree, I said, and pop said. I suppose that shows a certain amount of consideration for the other trees, but why do you have to hit any?

All us fellows have been doing it, I said. Lucky Leroy Shooster hits every 3rd tree with a stick and he's the werld's luckiest guy, so maybe that's a way to get lucky, I said, and pop said, I'm serprised at you. That kind of mumbo jumbo belongs to the days of witch craft, he said.

Didn't people have fun in those days? I said, and pop said, They were ignorant and backwerds and they bowed down to painted wooden idols and hit every 3rd tree with a stick because they did not have the advantages of education. In other werds they weren't sivilized, like you. Don't you feel grateful that you're a product of 20th century culture? he said.

Sure, pop, G, I said, and pop said. Then why the dooce are you still cracking those confounded trees with that blasted stick? ?

Because I want to show I'm too sivilized to believe in witch craft, I said. I want to prove it won't have any effect on my luck even if I do hit every 3rd tree, and the only way I can prove it is by hitting them, I said.

Proving if you have enough advantages of education you can talk yourself into feeling you're sivilized no matter how you act.

CYCLONE STRIKES WESTERN CITY, DAMAGE IS HEAVY

Number of Small Buildings Flattened by Wind, No Reports of Injuries

Portage La Prairie, Man., June 7 (CP)—Heavy damage was left today in the wake of a gale of cyclonic proportions that struck this town 55 miles west of Winnipeg at the Sunday supper hour.

The wind and rain flattened a number of small buildings, disrupted telephone and power circuits, tore off a portion of the tin roof of the collegiate, and ripped up big trees by the roots.

The west end of Portage was most seriously affected. A number of streets in the district were closed to traffic when trees spilled across them. The wind, approaching from the northwest, reached a velocity of about 75 miles per hour.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police said that there had been no reports of persons being injured in the near-tornado. The storm lasted about 15 minutes with the full fury of it being condensed into a stretch of six or seven minutes.

The Manitoba telephone system reported a number of lines out of order from falling trees while some telephone poles were blown down. Minor troubles were reported by the Manitoba Power Commission.

The Canadian Pacific Railway disclosed that four freight cars had their tops blown off. The cars were part of a westbound freight which was about five miles from Portage when the storm struck.

A number of grain fields in the district are expected to be flooded out from the storm.

Bellflower, Calif., (AP)—When a mother rabbit with 12 young died three weeks ago Mrs. Juanita Siegle took over a 24-hour chore of feeding the youngsters.

With a tiny bottle, equipped with a nipple, she fed the entire brook through the critical period. Today they're fast growing, sturdy and able to forage for themselves.

"Well, yes, I guess you might say I saved them," admits Mrs. Siegle, "but now I'm up to my ankles in rabbits."

Hollywood — (AP) — The motion picture capital observes today as the 52nd anniversary of the first screen kiss.

Back in 1896 the first pursed lips and smothered sighs were recorded on celluloid by May Irwin and John C. Rice. It was in a peep show called "The Widow Jones."

Actually, it wasn't a kiss, judged by today's standards. Today it would be classified as a near miss. Still, it created a stir and a demand for censorship. The clergy denounced it as a "Lyric of the stockyards."

It set attendance records, and paved the way for the more advanced techniques of Theda Bara, Greta Garbo, John Gilbert, Clark Gable, et al.

And, judging from the recent film output, observers agree it's here to stay.

Chicago — (AP) — Most new bridegrooms are pretty proud, but Ray Schilf was more puffed up than most today.

He was in hospital with the mumps.

When Schilf became ill, he and his bride declined to postpone their wedding plans.

Instead, the entire bridal party moved in on Schilf in his hospital room. The ceremony was performed at his bedside. The maid of honor, best man, bridesmaid, usher and flower girl were on hand. There was even an audience — of nurses.

After the ceremony, Mrs. Schilf went alone to the reception where she greeted 100 guests.

Doctors said it will be another week before the bridegroom will be able to leave on a honeymoon.

Manila — (AP) — Someone stole the personal jeep of Col. Alberto Ramos, chief of the national police.

The jeep, stripped of radio equipment and repainted, was found in a garage in a town near Manila. The garage owner said he bought the jeep from the town's chief of police.

The national police chief has ordered the town police chief to make a command appearance.

GRAVE FOR 29 HAG ANAH FIGHTING MEN

This common grave, topped by a pile of rocks and marked with the Star of David, holds the bodies of 29 Haganah fighters who were killed in the first Jewish attack on the Arab fortress of Nebi Yusha. When the fortress eventually fell to Haganah shock troops, the bodies were found decapitated and unburied, in the courtyard. The men, who gave their lives for Israel, were buried where they fell.

Five Thousand View Horse Race At Picton Grounds

Picton, June 7—A field of thirty five horses, a perfect summer day, a crowd of some five thousand fans, a colorful horse show and stirring music by the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders Band of Hamilton were features of the race meet and horse show presented by Prince Edward Riding and Driving Club in Picton, Saturday afternoon. So numerous were the entries in the three races that the free-for-all had to be run in two sections with eight in each division. In the 2.28 class there were twelve starters and in the 2.22 class, seven starters. Several local horses did not start as weather conditions for training have not been good. The event was run off in splendid style by members of the club who will take charge of a similar event at Picton Fair, Sept. 28 and 29.

In the horse show, there were twelve splendid saddle horses entered by local owners. Mrs. Keith VanDusen donated a silver trophy for the champion, judged on performance, manners and conformation. This was awarded to Miss Kathryn Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Anderson. Judge was Charles Mavety of Kleinburg.

Splendid Band

The Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders Band of Hamilton gave a program of inspiration music. Included was a march which had been dedicated to Princess Elizabeth on the occasion of her marriage.

A popular feature was the exhibit of palominos from Circle M. Ranch at Kleinburg, shown through the kindness of Mr. Mavety. These beautiful horses were ridden by riders in colorful costumes and took part in several clever demonstrations. One of them and also a pinto pony did some amazing stunts.

A feature of the races was the appearance here of a Bloomfield native, Alex Williams, now of Beamsville. The 75-year-old driver was thrown from his sulky in the back stretch when he was forced by another driver to the side of the rack. His horse, Mildred Richards, completed the race without accident. Mr. Williams was severely bruised, but he returned to drive in the second and third heats and won both. Mr. Williams now has a stable of several good horses which he trains on the Beamsville track near his home.

Crowd Welcomed

The crowd was welcomed by F. L. Ward, K.C., president of the Club. Vincent Pierce handled the saddle classes. Herb Hatch, Toronto, of the Canadian Trotting Association, brother of the late Harry Hatch, stated he had seen his first horse races at Picton and praised the show. The Climie-Whitsall starting gate was used and eliminated false starts. Jack Climie of Tillsonburg was starter.

There were plenty of close finishes that had the crowd standing and cheering. In the final heat of the 2.22, Herb Payne drove Anita P. C. Grattan to victory by a head over Jimmie Brewer. Pacey drove Vivian McKinley which had the fastest time, this being in the second heat of the first division of the free-for-all when she nosed out Jack Sunday who took the other two heats. Bernard Kingsley donated a wool blanket in memory of his father, the late George Kingsley, who was a keen horse race fan, for the fastest heat of the day. This was won by the Blewett-owned and Pacey-driven Vivian McKinley, in the time of 2.14, which was four-fifths of a second faster than the best by Jack Sunday. Master Charles Kingsley made the presentation to Mr. Pacey.

The Rotary Club operated the refreshment booth and also exhibited the handsome horse on which they are selling tickets, to be given away as a door prize at a street dance, July 9.

Truman Likely To Get First-Vote Nomination

By JACK BELL

Washington, June 7 (AP)— Despite an anti-Truman flare-up in Nebraska, balking southerners have about given up hope of keeping President Truman from getting the Democratic nomination. They may bring out a post-convention presidential candidate of their own.

Senators Walter George and Richard Russell of Georgia are being mentioned as among those most likely to carry the banner of a new southern Democratic party if one can be formed.

Just now the southerners are all mixed up on where they stand in their fight against Truman's civil rights program.

Some States, like Alabama, have directed their electors not to vote for the President. Others, like Texas, have instructed their delegations to fight Truman's program but to stick with the convention nominee. The program is regarded as an infringement of state rights.

If the party nominates Truman and adopts a platform that backs up his proposals for anti-lynching, anti-poll tax, anti segregation and anti-job discrimination laws, several States may be looking elsewhere for a man to support.

Truman, himself, meanwhile, was trying to make hay among convention delegates as he travelled westward on a political barnstorming tour.

His efforts in Nebraska boomeranged. But lacking only 20-odd pledged or undisputed votes to reach the 618 he needs, he seemed likely to sew up a first-ballot nomination early this week.

Among delegates already picked, Truman lost at least one but picked up another over the weekend.

William Ritchie, Nebraska State Democratic chairman and a delegate to the convention opening July 12, announced in Omaha Sunday that "after what happened Sunday" he will cast his vote "for some Jeffersonian Democrat."

Ritchie declared that Nebraska and Iowa Democrats were "given the bum's rush" during the President's visit to Omaha on Saturday.

The State chairman said arrangements for the visit were "in the hands of Republicans" and that as a result only 2,000 persons turned out to hear the President in a stadium which seats 10,000.

DREW GOVT. RETURNED BUT PREMIER DEFEATED

Drew to Continue As P-C Leader States Report

Two Elected Members Offer Seats to Premier

Continues as Leader

Premier George Drew, although defeated in his home riding, will again lead the P.C. party says a Toronto report. His government was re-elected on Monday. A by-election will be needed to provide him with a seat.

Toronto, June 8 (CP)— Premier Drew, defeated in his home riding despite the re-election of his government, will continue to lead the Progressive Conservative Party in Ontario, it was reported today.

A by-election will be necessary to provide him with a seat in the legislature. Two Progressive Conservatives have offered to step aside for the Premier.

Rev. M. C. Davies made that offer Monday night shortly after he was re-elected in Windsor-Walkerville. Agriculture Minister Kennedy, swept back into office by Peel voters with a 4,720 plurality, also has offered to step down.

Premier Drew was defeated largely on the strength of a lively cocktail-lounge issue in traditionally-dry Toronto High Park.

William H. Temple, 50-year-old manufacturers' agent, defeated the premier by 1,015 votes to take the West Toronto riding for the C. C. F. Mr. Temple, an Air Force veteran of two wars who has two children, had lost out to the premier in 1943 by a few hundred votes.

Speculation on another seat for Mr. Drew was raised soon after he conceded defeat. The premier said, however, it was "too early" to decide where or when he would seek another seat. Agriculture Minister Tom Kennedy who won handily in Peel county said he would be glad to vacate his seat for Mr. Drew.

It was Mr. Temple who established liquor as the chief issue in High Park early in the six-week campaign. He declared time after time that if the Drew government were re-elected there would be a licence issued for a cocktail lounge at the corner of Keele and Dundas Streets in High Park.

Premier Drew, who spoke in his own riding formally only three times, denied this. He further accused the C. C. F. and Liberals of being vague about their liquor policies. It was under Premier Drew's government that licensed cocktail bars were established in Ontario in 1947.

Wider Representation

A few hours after conceding defeat in his own riding, Premier Drew said in a broadcast over a CBC provincial network that he believes his party won "wider representation" despite the number of seats it lost to the C.C.F.

DID NOT MAKE STOP

Brockville, June 8 — (CP) — The Canada Steamships Line passenger vessel Kingston did not make a scheduled stop at Prescott today because trouble was expected from a Canadian Seamen's Union (T.L.C.) picket line there.

Instead the ship docked at Brockville. The crew of the Kingston are members of the rival seamen's union, the Canadian Lake Seamen's Union.

Bad Crop Outlook In Wide Areas Of Soviet Reported

London, June 8 — (AP) — The Moscow radio broadcast today an Izvestia article reporting bad crop conditions in widespread areas of the Soviet Union.

"It can be said about the present spring that the weather was exceptionally capricious," a member of the Lenin All-union Agricultural Academy wrote in the official government organ.

"This is shown by the late spring in the south, the strong frosts at the end of April, the dryness of the first week of May in the central belt and of the whole of May in several southern regions, the constant April rains in Central Asia and the dust storms in the Northern Caucasus in April."

Serves Summons To Man on Tank, 140 Feet in Air

Sarnia, June 8 — (CP) — Nothing seems to be beyond the call of duty for Constable Ernest Dunfield. He set out to serve a summons and found the man he was looking for was working on a water tank, 140 feet above the ground. He called to the man to come down. The man replied, "Oh no, you come up."

The constable climbed to the top and handed the summons to the amazed workman.

Bridal Couple Dies of Fumes

Seaside Heights, N. J., June 8 (AP)—Police today listed carbon monoxide poisoning as the cause of the death of William H. Treyz and his bride, found clasped in each others arms Sunday several hours after they had started their honeymoon in a seashore cabin.

The discovery was made by the owner of the two-room cabin when he became alarmed after not seeing the couple since their arrival on Saturday.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, June 8 (CP)—Synopsis: Intermittend rain is falling over Southern Ontario. Over the remainder of the province cloudy and mild weather prevails. The rain is associated with a disturbance over Lake Ontario. As the storm moves eastward towards the Maritimes slightly cooler air will flow down over the province from the Hudson Bay region. Scattered showers are expected over southern and eastern sections of the province today and Wednesday... Temperatures over Ontario will be slightly below normal.

TWO KINGSTON CONVICTS CHARGED WITH MURDER

Prison Messenger Slain April 26th

Kingston, June 8 — (CP) — Two convicts who shot their way out of Kingston penitentiary last April 26 and killed a prison messenger were formally charged today with murder.

They are Howard Urquhart, 21, of Toronto and Austin Craft, 46, of Brantford. The slain messenger was John D. Kennedy, 58.

Urquhart and Craft, long-term prisoners, will be arranged June 18 for preliminary hearing. Urquhart is serving 20 years for manslaughter in the slaying of Meyer Tobias, a Toronto shopkeeper, Dec. 27, 1945. Craft is serving 10 years for armed robbery of a Hamilton branch of the Bank of Toronto.

Urquhart was reported to have hidden in the rear trunk of an automobile Kennedy was driving from the prison yard when Craft begged a lift.

Reports at the time of the break were that Craft got out of the car as it approached the inner main gate and then followed it through into the courtyard. As Kennedy left the car to walk toward a storeroom, Craft is alleged to have fired twice at the messenger's back. One bullet pierced Kennedy's heart. He staggered into the storeroom, collapsed and died.

As the shots were fired, Urquhart jumped out of the trunk and into the driver's seat. Two more shots were fired by Craft at guards who rushed towards the car. When they took cover, Craft opened the outer main gate with a home-made key, it was reported. He jumped in beside Urquhart as the car was driven through the gate.

Both men were recaptured without a struggle in a swampy area near Sydenham, 15 miles northeast of here, later that day.

Accused German Says He Joined Anti-Nazi Force

Nuernberg, June 8 (AP)—Ernst von Weizsaecker, accused German diplomat, testified today that he joined the anti-Nazi resistance because he became convinced that "we could not keep the peace with Hitler in power."

Weizsacker was testifying in his own defence against charges that he helped plot aggressive war as State Secretary in Hitler's Foreign Ministry.

He called the Munich pact of 1938 "a great success." He was proud of his part in bringing it about.

"I still remember the disappointed faces of Ribbentrop and Himmler when the Munich conference ended with peace," Weizsaecker related. "But those days of the Munich conference were the last happy days of my life."

Argentine Ambassador Challenged To Duel by Dominican Representative

Ottawa, June 8 — (CP) — The Argentine embassy, a persistent hot spot along Ottawa's tranquil diplomatic row, today is back in the news . . . the ambassador, Dr. Juan-Carlos Rodriguez, has been challenged to a duel.

Julio Ricart, consul-general of the Dominican Republic, said he had been publicly insulted by the ambassador and the ambassador's wife at an embassy reception.

He wanted Dr. Rodriguez either to apologize or face a duel on "the field of honor." He later explained it would have to be in the Argentine embassy, "technically outside Canada." The ambassador, he added, could choose the weapons.

To that, a spokesman for Dr. Rodriguez replied Monday night he had no words for Mr. Ricart and reply to Mr. Ricart's challenge would be sent to the Dominican capital, San Domingo. A direct reply was out of the question since Mr. Ricart was of lower diplomatic status.

At first Mr. Ricart declined to discuss details of the "insult" but later he explained that Mrs. Rodriguez had been the cause of some of the trouble.

At a reception, Mr. Ricart made some pleasantry about dogs. (The embassy had been visited by Humane Society officers after it was reported two dogs at the Argentine residence had been beaten to death.)

The issue was raised a few days afterwards when "the Argentine ambassador did not invite me to his party," continued Mr. Ricart. He referred to the annual celebration in honor of the Argentine revolution. "It meant then a double offence, one to me personally and one to my country."

Meanwhile an official of the External Affairs Department was quoted by Ottawa's French language newspaper, Le Droit, as saying the Canadian government was anxious to have Dr. Rodriguez recalled because of recent incidents.

The embassy had entered the news only a few weeks ago when police arrested an embassy employee, 26-year-old Enrique Ledesma and fined him for possessing an unregistered machine gun and revolver.

ELMER SANDERCOCK
Hastings West

Superintendent of Hastings County Home made strong run in first attempt defeating Bernard Hughes, Liberal, and Clare Ridley, C.C.F.

ROSCOE ROBSON
Hastings East

Member in the last legislature, Mr. Robson defeated George Jordan, a former warden, and Ed. Schlievert, C.C.F., by substantial plurality.

E. Sandercock and R. Robson Progressive-Conservatives In West, East Hastings Win

Traditional Conservative ridings, Hastings East and Hastings West returned Progressive Conservative candidates at the provincial elections held yesterday.

Elmer Sandercock, Hastings West, and Roscoe Robson, Hastings East, were swept into office by substantial majorities over Liberal and C.C.F. candidates.

Unofficial returns this morning gave Sandercock, 8558, Bernard Hughes (Liberal), 5280 and Clare Ridley (C.C.F.) 2750. Sandercock's plurality was 3278.

In Hastings East, Robson, re-elected member of the Drew Government polled 4941 votes; George Jordan, (Liberal) 3053, and Edward Schlievert (C. C. F.) 1400. Robson's plurality was 1858.

Prince Edward County, another Conservative stronghold turned back the bid of Hon. Jas deC. Hepburn, Speaker of the House in the Drew Government for re-election and returned Liberal Don Baxter by a majority of 41 over Mr. Hepburn. Thomas Creighton who entered the election lists as an Independent Conservative finished in third place.

Issues Never in Doubt

The issue in the Hastings County election battles was never in doubt. Both Conservative candidates raced through to early gains and were never headed. As returns trickled in from the far-flung polls of the county, Conservative majorities gradually mounted and the election was predicted early in the fight.

Although the different party headquarters were the scenes of much activity, the election generally was quiet, with the majority of voters content to sit by radios or telephones and receive election results through this media.

There was plenty of humor in the calls. One gentleman who waited till 1:30 a.m. today to file his call, demanded to know the results — and then inquired who was running.

Returns Exceptionally Good

Centres of election interest were the headquarters of the various chief returning officers. Garnet Dobbs, R.O. for Hastings West was quartered in the County Buildings while Barton Haggerty, Hastings East, R.O. received returns from the riding in his farm home in West Huntingdon.

Election Highlights

By The Canadian Press

Among the non-voters in the Ontario general election were C.C.F. leader E. B. Jolliffe and his wife. They live in Rockwood, Ont., which is in Wellington North, a constituency without a C.C.F. candidate The Jolliffe's left for Toronto before the polls opened and stayed all day in or near York South, the riding contested by the C.C.F. leader.

• • •

Progressive Conservative election workers in Kirkland Lake ran up against housewife voters who telephoned to ask for baby sitters to take over while they went to vote. The usual automobiles were provided but no baby sitters.

• • •

A C.C.F. sound truck touring the streets of London was held by police for 15 minutes before it was released on a decision of Returning Officer Morris B. Percival. It was found there is nothing in the election act to prohibit the use of sound trucks on election day. A similar truck was used by the Progressive Conservatives.

• • •

Two of Canada's outstanding athletes of past years — both running on the Liberal ticket—were defeated in the election. Lionel Conacher, the big train of Canadian football and a former National Hockey League defenceman with Montreal Maroons, failed in his bid for the seat in Toronto St. Patrick. The Progressive Conservative candidate, Charles Rea, was elected in Lambton West, Dave Harding, another football star and R.C.A.F. hero, went down to defeat before Bryan Cathcart, Progressive Conservative, who was reelected.

• • •

The retirement of Aurelien Belanger. scholarly Liberal representative in the legislature almost steadily since 1923, showed its effect in the Eastern Ontario riding of Prescott. The traditionally Liberal constituency went to the Conservatives and Louis P. Cecile in a four-man race.

• • •

Hundreds of persons found themselves unable to vote in the unorganized areas of Port Arthur. P. A. Legrow, chief returning officer there, said they had been under the impression they could have their names placed on the voting list after being vouched for and sworn in Monday. However, a check with Toronto disclosed that this procedure did not apply to unorganized districts.

PERMIT U.S. FORCES TO BUY MARGARINE FOR TABLE USE

..Washington, June 8 (AP)—The House of Representatives Armed Services Committee Monday approved a bill to permit the United States army, navy and air force to buy oleomargarine for table use. Use of the butter substitute by government institutions has been illegal, as is sale of the product in Canada.

HOUSE APPROVES MAIN PORTIONS OF TAXATION POLICIES

Several Ask For More Income Tax Relief

Ottawa, June 8 (CP)— Main portions of the government's 1948-49 taxation policies were approved by the Commons Monday, despite renewed criticism of Canadian tax rates.

The Chamber disposed of the bill providing for budget amendments to the income war tax act, without making any changes. Several members argued that more income tax relief should have been provided in the budget.

John Blackmore (SC-Lethbridge) called for the establishment of a Royal Commission to investigate how Canada's needs could be financed without taxation or the accumulation of debt. However, he withdrew a motion for amendment before a vote could be taken.

Mr. Blackmore said adoption of the Social Credit party's platform would solve Canada's financial problems. The platform calls for the issuance of debt-free money by the State Bank to meet main financial needs.

Other speakers in the debate included John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre), John T. Hackett (PC-Standstead), T. J. Bentley (CCF—Swift Current), Gordon Isnor (L-Halifax), and J. M. Macdonnell (PC-Muskoka-Ontario).

In addition to passing the income tax changes, members adopted amendments to the dominion succession duties act and the excise tax act. A measure providing for the suspension of tariffs on British cotton and rayon goods was passed through all stages except final reading.

Reviews Conditions

At the House opening, Transport Minister Chevrier reviewed the condition of British Columbia railway lines washed out by floods and said it was hoped to have a rail-highway service operating between Calgary and Vancouver early this week.

39 'New Faces' In Legislature

Toronto, June 8— (CP)—There will be 39 "new faces" in the 23rd Ontario Legislature.

But several of the men — and one woman — elected Monday to replace members of the last House are not strangers to provincial politics.

E. B. Jolliffe, C. C. F. leader, was first elected in 1943 but lost his seat in the Progressive Conservative landslide victory two years later.

Agnes Macphail is another C. C. F. member who served those two years.

Sagging Lulu Island Dykes Hold Against Surge of Pacific Tides

Vancouver, June 8 — (CP) — The tidal power of the Pacific Ocean surged up the channel of the flooding Fraser early today to a 13.9-foot swell but sagging Lulu Island dykes held — and so did 5,000 Queensborough district residents.

The prospective evacuees turned their backs on waiting evacuation buses and stayed the night in their homes despite a plea from flood control officials to sleep in Red Cross hostels in New Westminster until the high tide menace was over.

Queensborough is a suburb of New Westminster at the east end of Lulu Island, 12 miles south of Vancouver. But while Lulu Island dykes held, first notice was given late Monday from Creston 350 miles east, that a dangerous new flood threat is being spawned by the province-wide heat wave.

Days and nights of back-breaking toil ended suddenly when a second dyke gave way to the gnawing Kootenay south of Creston. The rampaging river poured over another 7,700 acres of the rich fruit farming area.

Guy Constable, secretary of the district, said financial loss from crop production alone on the 15,400 acres would be about $500,000.

Meanwhile more soldiers from the Prairies are being pressed into B.C.'s flood battle which already has taken an estimated toll of $35,000,000 damage, 10,000 homeless and 70,000 acres a watery waste.

Five hundred troops are due to leave Douglas, Man., today Western Army Command in Edmonton was conducting a survey of their man-power reserve so that a maximum number would be ready to move into B. C. on instant notice.

No relief was expected today from abnormal temperatures through B. C. for the last two days which Monday shot the thermometer at Kamloops to 100 degrees, one degree short of the North Okanagan centre's all-time high for June.

A new onslaught on battered dykes by the snow-fed river was expected hourly.

P.C's Hold 53 Seats With CCF Winning 22 and Liberals 12

Labor-Progressives Retain Two and Liberal-Labor One

Toronto, June 8. (CP)—Premier Drew's Progressive Conservative government was re-elected in Ontario Monday. But the Premier suffered personal defeat in an election which saw the C.C.F. replace the Liberals as official opposition.

Big C.C.F. gains cut deeply into the big majority enjoyed by the Progressive Conservatives in the last legislature. But the government weathered the election safely and emerged with 53 of the 90 seats.

These are the totals, compared with results of the 1945 election:

	1948	1945
Progressive Conservative	53	66
C.C.F.	22	8
Liberal	12	11
Labor-Progressive	2	2
Liberal-Labor	1	3
Total	90	90

Re-election Assured Early

Re-election of the government was assured almost from the start but, as first returns were received, it also was apparent that the C.C.F. would be the big gainer. The Canadian Press at 8.44 p.m. reported that the government's re-election was indicated.

The C.C.F.'s new strength was greatest in the 17 Toronto and York ridings, traditional Progressive Conservative strongholds, none of which had C.C.F. representation in the last House.

The C.C.F., led by 39-year-old E. B. Jolliffe, grabbed 11 of the 15 held by Progressive Conservatives. The other two were retained by the only Labor-Progressive members in the legislature.

Premier Drew's personal loss was to W. H. Temple, 30-year-old native of Montreal, a former resident of Saskatchewan and a member of the C.C.F. since its inception.

Their battle in Toronto High Park had been fought mainly on the issue of cocktail bars. Mr. Temple contended that, if a Drew government was re-elected, a licence for a cocktail bar in High Park would be issued. The 54-year-old Premier denied that and defended his government's liquor policies.

Two of his cabinet ministers were defeated—Provincial Secretary Michener lost to William Dennison, C.C.F., in Toronto St. David and W. G. Webster, Minister without Portfolio, was downed in London by Campbell Calder, Liberal.

Electors in Two Federal Ridings To Elect Members

By The Canadian Press

Electors in two federal constituencies go to the polls today to vote in by-elections called to fill vacancies in the House of Commons.

Voting will start at 8 a.m. and close at 6 p.m. P.D.T., in Vancouver Centre. Voters there will cast ballots for a successor to Senator Ian Mackenzie (L—British Columbia), former veterans minister, who was appointed to the Senate last December.

The polls open at 9 a.m. and close at 7 p.m., E.D.T., in the Ontario riding of Ontario, today. Its federal seat became vacant with the death of W. E. N. Sinclair, a Liberal.

Each constituency has a straight three-party fight.

The candidates in Vancouver Centre are Ralph Campney, Liberal, a former secretary of Prime Minister King; Lyle Jestley, a Progressive-Conservative lawyer, and Rodney Young, a C.C.F. war veteran.

Ontario riding is contested by W. H. Gifford, Liberal; Mayor Frank McCallum of Oshawa, Progressive Conservative, and Arthur Williams, C.C.F.

Vancouver Centre was held for the Conservative Party by Hon. H. H. Stevens from its creation in 1917 until Senator Mackenzie won it for the Liberals in 1930. It has been Liberal ever since. The government maarity in the last election was 816. There were seven candidates. Senator Mackenzie received 9,959 votes, the C.C.F. 9,141, Progressive Conservative 8,896, Labor Progressive 3,757, Social Credit 1,040, New Democracy 400, Labor Socialist 319.

Ontario riding, created in 1924, was Conservative until 1930 and has also been held by the Liberals since then. Mr. Sinclair's majority in 1945 was 3,069. He obtained 12,119 votes, the Progressive Conservative candidate, 9,050, the C.C.F. 4.401 and a Labor Progressive candidate 672.

Gave Candidates Counted Ballots As Souvenirs

Peterborough, June 8 (CP) —Slight confusion was caused in this area Monday night when a District Returning officer, intent on giving political candidates a positive memento on Monday's election, delivered counted ballots from one of the polls to their respective candidates.

A party official soon had the ballots on their way back to the ballot box, but another asked for a receipt—for a souvenir.

EGYPTIANS USE SEAWAY

Police Blotter

Verdun Whitemarsh, Purdy St. painter, reported the disappearance of a 24-foot extension ladder from the Regent gasoline station on Bridge Street. Mr. Whitemarsh had been painting at the station last week and left his ladder over the weekend.

Three minor motor accidents were reported with property damage only resulting. Police are still continuing their check of trucks being operated without the owners' names printed on the cab. In each case the owners are charged for operating their vehicles con- local traffic by-laws.

Call For Tenders Of 104 Veterans Rental Houses

Tenders for the construction of 104 veterans' rental houses to be built on property recently annexed into the city at the eastern limits of the corporation have been called by the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation; tenders to be received till June 18th.

Calling of tenders for the construction of the rental units is the culmination of much effort on the part of certain members of the city council who have worked hard to get such a project started. The houses are to be constructed on property extending east from the present end of Pine Street and will be of three different basic types.

Plans for the rental development were approved by council some weeks ago and have been finalized and approved by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation. The city has provided the site and is prepared to construct services such as sewers, water and roads and sidewalks.

However, the letting of contracts and the actual construction of the dwelling units will be supervised and controlled by Central Mortgage and Housing.

Alderman Harold Armstrong as chairman of the local housing committee, has been responsible for much of the preliminary work in arranging for the rental units to be built in the city.

Rotarians See Life of Princess In Movie Film

The simple girlhood life of the "Queen of the Future" Her Royal Highness, the Princess Elizabeth; the events leading up to her engagement and all the color and pageantry of the Royal Wedding were graphically portrayed to the Rotary Club through the medium of a motion picture film on Monday.

The film was shown through the courtesy of the Toronto Globe and Mail, through its representative here. Mr. E. W. Bolton, Moira Street East.

The homelife of the princesses, their simple mode of living, their girlhood friends were seen in the film. Later the trip to South Africa with Their Majesties the King and Queen and the royal entourage were shown with all the colorful scenes of that continent.

The feature of the film, however was the Royal wedding with all its color, crowds and brilliant spectacles.

The only "election touch" introduced at the luncheon was fines levied on all Rotarians who had not voted up till noon.

The club acknowledged with gratitude through Chairman Charles Symons, of the Crippled Children Committee, the gift of $20 from the Sons of Scotland branch here.

McNeil Pleads Guilty of Robbery

Pleading guilty to robbery and also to attempted robbery, Bernard McNeil, 26, of Cape Breton, N.S., and Murray Gray, 21, of St. John, N.B., were remanded in custody for sentence when they appeared before Magistrate T. Y. Wills in local police court today.

Both men were remanded at the request of the Crown to permit the court to ascertain the criminal record of the two accused men.

Charges against the two men resulting following a hold-up in the waiting room of the Crystal Hotel early Saturday morning when Gerald Quinn, Ottawa, was robbed of $15 and an attempt was made to rob Chas. Aikens, hotel night clerk.

Gives Evidence

Inspector C. Hayes in giving summary evidence told the court that the two men had stopped off in the city on Thursday while they were enroute from Montreal to Toronto. They had obtained work with a construction firm at Point Anne for one day and took a room at the Crystal on Friday night where they had planned to hold up the night clerk.

Holding his hand in his suit coat pocket as though holding a revolver McNeil had ordered Quinn to hand over his money and was in the process of holding up the night clerk when he was struck down by Finley Smith, of Madoc, who had entered from the street. Police had been immediately called and the two men were placed in custody.

"Do you want to obtain a lawyer", asked Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan as he read the two charges to McNeil.

Pleads Guilty

"No", was the reply. "I am pleading guilty so I cannot see the point of having a lawyer."

In presenting his evidence Inspector Hayes stated that Gray had acted more or less as a "silent partner" in the hold-up proceedings and also in the following fight. According to the Inspector, however, Gray had admitted being with McNeil for the purpose of staging the hold-up.

Rev. C. W. Hyde, pastor for the Pentecostal Church, pleaded for leniency for Gray, who, he stated, had not realized the seriousness of the offence. The hold-up had been planned after the two men had had several drinks. Mr. Hyde stated he would be willing to take Gray into custody and see that he took a job.

Magistrate Wills noted that Mr. Hyde's offer to take Gray into custody would be considered when the court received the criminal record of the two men.

According to police records, McNeil was recently released from Dorchester penitentiary, in Nova Scotia.

In addition he has been awarded a $500 scholarship by the Research Council of Ontario a few days ago.

He has left for Labrador and is engaged with the Labrador Exploration Company. He expects to return to the university in the autumn to take a course leading to his master's degree.

Harold E. Neal is known to many in Belleville where he began his schooling at Queen Mary School. His father Rev. Harold B. Neal was for a number of years the popular minister of Holloway Street United Church.

MAY RESTORE SIGHT

Miami, Fla., June 8 — (AP) — Antonio Puzo, one of Haiti's foremost artists will be flown to New York tomorrow for a delicate operation that may restore his sight, Pan American Airways said. Puzo was blinded by gas during the Haitian Revolution in January, 1946.

Paragon Cafe Will Feature Chinese Dishes

Bill Wong, the enterprising young manager of the Cafe Paragon has a surprise in store for his Belleville friends when this well-known Front Street restaurant re-opens today. Bill has definitely captured the "new-look" with his tasteful, colorful arrangement. The coral walls and high ice-blue ceiling lend a restful, cooling atmosphere in the summer heat.

The new soda bar with its chrome and maroon leather covered stools blends with the maroon leather covering of the booths. The new Cafe Paragon has a seating capacity for 90 and an efficient staff of twelve.

Mr. Wong is going to try something new to entice his Belleville customers; he is going to feature Chinese food; luscious egg foo young and an equally tempting dish of breaded almond chicken served with a delectable sauce. Besides these "specials" there is a breakfast menu and dinner menu with of course, the usual a la carte dishes for those who prefer to order this way.

The Paragon which enjoyed a large clientele during its nine years of operation here, is the only Chinese restaurant in town which will feature special Chinese dishes. There will be the regular chicken, fish and steak dinners which have long been a specialty of the Paragon.

Tomato Planting About Completed In This District

District farmers took full advantage of the fine weather of last week to transplant tomatoes from flats into the fields with canning factory officials reporting that approximately 100 per cent of the tomatoes are now in the fields.

The Canada Packers plant officials at Belleville stated today that their tomato acreage was now virtually all in, with farmers having completed transplanting the last of last week. No plants had gone out for three or four days but it was expected a few additional plants would still go out to farmers to complete planting.

Tomato acreage contracted for with the Belleville factory was stated to be up slightly from last year, while the pea acreage was about the same. With more favorable weather conditions than last year, however, it was thought there had actually been more peas planted this year.

Amateur "Ham" Club is Formed

Flood disasters and forest fire hazards might be averted if Amateur "Hams" were encouraged. An independent power supply other than the hydro that could be called upon in states of emergency would be of untold benefit to any community.

An amateur "Ham" club has been started in Belleville with a membership of some 35, including members from Trenton, Stirling and Picton. Harold Carruthers is president, Gene Hitchon, secretary and Jack Warner, program director.

Many interesting contacts have already been made by this club which will be discussed in a future article. The Hams rendered a service Monday evening in connection with the election. West Huntingdon on the Madoc Road was without good direct communication and the Hams relayed voting results.

Gene Hitchon, the secretary of the Club states that he feels that if everyone realized the important work that the Hams are trying to do they would be made interested in their plans. Some animosity has arisen in the city towards the 'Hams' because of interference with local radios. Mr. Hitchon states an additional part known as a "Filter" will filter out or take away all interference from Hams.

The Hams are planning a field day to take place in the near future of June, three miles west of Brighton. This site was chosen for its high level. The idea of this field day is to run up a score of as many contacts as possible.

Nine Outstanding Sires Ready For New Quinte Breeding Unit

In the course of organization since late winter the Quinte district artificial insemination unit is scheduled to commence operations this week.

Headquarters for the district are at Belleville with organization officials having purchased a barn and house in Sidney township just west of the city from which to conduct operations. The barn and house purchased was formerly known as the Wellman property on the second concession of Sidney. The barn was recently renovated to facilitate the operation of the unit.

Chief technician for the breeding unit is Dr. Keith Mitchell, while the caretaker is John Lawrenson. The best herd sires available have been placed at the station.

Much interest is being shown in the nine sires purchased by the centre. Elmcroft Patriarch is a three-year-old whose three nearest dams average well over 16,000 lbs. of milk with a 4.18 fat test. His sire, Montvic Monogram, is an extra and xxx bull, who has a number of daughters testing up to 4.75 in fat and over 25,000 lbs. in milk. The dam, Elmcroft Beauty Triume, is a good plus cow.

Glenafton Rag Apple Craftsman will be five in the Fall and his three nearest dams average close to 22,000 lbs. of 4 percent, milk. His sire, Montvic Rag Apple Marksman, is an outstanding show animal, being All-American grand champion at the Royal and many other events in 1947; 53 records of 42 daughters average 16,505 lbs. of milk with a fat test of 3.87. The dam, Glenafton Helbon, is a very good cow.

Top Animals

Lifloc Grand Artist is a four-year-old and a full brother to the Canadian champion three-year-old for fat. The sire, Supreme Grand Slam, has outstanding daughters whose records by 27 individuals average 13,000 lbs. of milk and a 3.69 test. The dam is a very good cow.

Lifloc Supreme Anchor is a half brother of the above bull, and was senior and reserve grand champion at Peterborough Black and White Show in 1947. His dam a good plus has a 4.14 fat test.

Elmcroft Abbekerk Memory, the fifth bull in the group, is a year old past whose three nearest dams average 16,664 lbs. of milk with a 4.21 test. His sire Montvic Memory sold for $2,000 to Great Britain in 1946 and is a brother of the Elmcroft bull, top all American in 1945 at $10,000.

Pabst Posch Admiral is a three year old who was reserve senior champion at Peterboro Black and White Day in 1947 with the sire Supreme Grand Slam and the dam Pabst Posch Francy Burke, reserve grand champion at Orono in 1943 with fat records close to 4 percent.

Another line of interest is Regasborne RA Royal Governor, two year old whose sire has several outstanding sisters who were all Canadian in shows and tested up to 4.75. The dam was honor list leader in 1947 with 20,795 lbs. of milk and 718 lbs. of fat as a three year old.

Well Proven

Raymondale Rag Apple Paul is another four year old whose sire was Montvic Rag Apple Ajax top bull at Mount Victoria Sale at $5,300. In 17 records by 16 daughters average 14,707 milk, with a 3.76 test. The dam has several records of over 4 percent. fat.

The ninth bull in the battery is Elmcroft Advance, whose three nearest dams have an average of 4.32 test. He is also by Montvic Monogram sire of the first bull mentioned and his dam an extra cow has a five year record on twice a day milking of 15,671 lbs. of milk with a 4.11 test.

The object of the farmers making the purchase was to find animals backed by production close to 20,000 lbs., per year and 4 percent fat. This is three times as much milk as the average Northumberland County cow has given and one per cent higher in fat than most herds can show on their test statement.

In the purchase Northumberland was represented by Lindsey Anderson of Campbellford, secretary of the Holstein Breeders Association.

Ilsley Proposes Amendments To Criminal Code

Ottawa, June 8 (CP)—Canada's laws on libel, sex crimes and culpable homicide will be tightened under 46 criminal code amendments Monday introduced in the Commons.

Justice Minister Ilsley, obtaining first reading for a bill providing for the changes, said the libel section of the code will be amended so that charges of conspiracy to publish defamatory libel must be tried only in the province in which the libel is published or where the defendant resides.

It will prevent a recurrence of the recent New Liberty Magazine case when two of its editors, resident in Ontario, were required to go to Edmonton to face trial.

Other of the amendments deal with stock market manipulations, trials by jury, powers of magistrates, thefts from the mails and intimidation of persons by threats.

Amendments dealing with changes in powers of magistrates will not become effective until Oct. 1, 1949, but most of the other changes are to become effective Nov. 1, if accepted by parliament.

Mr. Ilsley told the Commons that code sections will be tightened so that courts may add indeterminate sentences to the terms of sex criminals.

He said if the court finds evidence that offenders are criminal sexual psychopaths, they may be sentenced to penitentiary for two years and for "an indeterminate period thereafter."

"Infanticide" will be added to the section dealing with culpable homicide. At present a jury trying a person on a charge of murder may reduce the charge to manslaughter.

Under the change "a woman who by wilful act or omission causes the death of her newly-born child," may face a charge reduced from murder and manslaughter to infanticide. The charge carries with it a liability to three years' imprisonment.

Six-Year-Old Child Returns To Her Home

Milton, June 8 — (CP) —Six-year-old Shirley Broatch staggered or was pushed into her home near this Halton county town early today after being missing since early Monday night. Hundreds of neighbors formed a search party which combed bushland in which the little girl told her parents she had been.

Hysterical when questioned by her mother, Mrs. Harry Broatch, and police, the girl showed no outward signs of having been molested. Her 17-year-old sister, Loraine, said she was sure Shirley was pushed into the door by a man.

There were scratches on the little girl's legs and back and she told her parents that all she could remember was that she had been chased by an automobile. Her parents thought the child might have been mistaken because there had been a number of cars near the house Monday night.

Shirley, whose mother said appears "to be acting as though in a dream," will be examined by a doctor.

Whose passing has brought many tears
Will cherish his memory always

Memories that will always linger
While upon this earth we stay.

Business Spotlight

(By The Canadian Press)

Freedom from want and freedom from fear are two objectives of world trade meetings, in the words of Dr. J. Milius of the Royal Netherlands Fair of Utrecht.

He is one of several heads of long-established European trade fairs now in Toronto to look at the first in North America.

All agree that the simple fact of traders getting together and trying to find ways of trading despite present difficulties is one of the most effective steps on the road back to free world commerce.

Trade Minister Howe expressed it: "All we can do is to take the world as it is and try to overcome the handicaps."

He believes Canada will try to widen her world trade, and wants to be a buyer as well as a seller.

One of the most interesting visitors brought to Canada by the fair in N. H. Tata, whose firm controls a vast network of Indian industry, including steel, textiles, and air lines.

He said India is a market for capital goods, but just now she lacks dollars. "We are all tied up with the fate of Britain," he said, commenting on India's sterling balances, at present non-convertible. Discussions on this are proceeding with Britain and if a satisfactory solution is found then India could embark on a buying program.

Markets Monday

Canadian markets were closed Monday but New York continued to fall back, reaching the lowest average level since may 13, with the Associated Press 60 - stock average dipping .2 to 70.2 in the slowest trading in two months.

Prince Philip Accepts Freedom Of City of London

London, June 8. (AP)—Prince Philip, spick and span in a naval uniform that stood out among garbs of medieval splendor,' accepted the freedom of the ancient City of London today as one of "those who follow".

With Princess Elizabeth near him in a long midnight-blue dress, the Duke brought cheers from the crowd with a reference to "my wife and I".

Opposition Leader Winston Churchill and his wife, and Prime Minister and Mrs. Attlee were among those attending a Lord Mayor's luncheon following the ceremony.

It was the young royal couple's first formal public appearance together since a Buckingham Palace announcement last week disclosed they are expecting their first child this Autumn.

"In every kind of human activity there are those who lead, and those who follow," Philip told the Lord Mayor, Sir Frederick Wells.

The handsome blonde prince, who helped fight the Nazis in the Mediterranean and North Seas as a naval lieutenant, said he accepted the freedom of the city "for all those millions who followed during the Second World War."

"Our only distinction is that we did what we were told to do, to the very best of our ability—and kept on doing it," Philip said.

Children Must Be Raised in Faith Of Greek Church

Athens, June 8 (AP)—Children born of the union of ex-King Michael of Romania and Princess Anne of Bourbon-Parma will be raised in the faith of the Greek Orthodox Church, one of Michael's aides announced Monday night.

The couple will be married here Thursday by Archbishop Damaskinos of the Greek Orthodox Church. Michael is a member of that church; Anne is a Roman Catholic.

(In Paris, Prince Xavier of Bourbon-Parma said Princess Anne's family is opposed to the marriage because "we cannot admit of marriage outside the the Roman discipline." Special dispensation for the wedding had been sought from the Pope, but it was reported refused because of Michael's insistence that children of the marriage be raised in his faith. Prince Xavier is Anne's uncle.

The former king's aide said:

"Under the provisions of the Romanian constitution and the statutes of the Domanian Royal family, the King of Romania must be an orthodox and must be married according to the rites of the Greek Orthodox Church. Another reason why he should be Greek orthodox is because the king is head of the Romanian Orthodox Church.

"The king's children also have to be orthodox because under the provisions of the constitution and Royal family statutes, the heir to the throne must be orthodox.

Michael, although he abdicated last December, has renounced his abdication and still has hopes of regaining the throne.

Arab-Jewish Rioting Causes Death of 42

Casablanca, June 8 (AP)—Arab-Jewish rioting has caused the deaths of 42 persons in French Morocco, police announced today.

Thirty-seven persons, all Jews, were killed Monday night at Djerada after another five persons died at Oujda. Ten of the Djerada dead were children.

The rioting began at Oujda, growing out of a quarrel between an Arab and a Jew over the situation in Palestine. The outbreak at Djerada came when news reached there of the Oujda fighting.

Police said that when the news of the Oujda rioting reached Djerada, a mob of Arabs surrounded some 70 Jews in the streets. The Arabs stoned the Jews and then rushed them with knives and sticks.

FACES SERIOUS CHARGE

Toronto, June 8— (CP)—James Burke, who grappled with a worker in the basement of a North Toronto restaurant before he was arrested by police, today was charged with attempted robbery with violence.

When Rudolph Syrotuik, who was installing equipment in the restaurant, heard noises, he went to the cellar and said he found Burke there trying to crack a safe. The pair grappled and Burke escaped, only to be captured by suburban Forest Hill police. A knife, toy pistol and crowbar were found in the cellar.

Capital Speculates On Moves By Prime Minister

Ottawa, June 8 (CP)—In one man's head are the plans for several other men's future political careers.

The man is Prime Minister Mackenzie King and the other gentlemen concerned are various members of his Liberal colleagues in and out of the cabinet. Involved are 13 Senate vacancies and the cabinet lineup to be left to Mr. King's successor when he gives up the Liberal leadership in August and, later on, the office of prime minister.

Just now the odds favor the proposition that Mr. King will distribute the Senate jobs before he departs and, as far as possible, leave cabinet reshuffling to his successor. There are, however, Parliament Hill pundits who like long-shots and will bet you that Mr. King will fix up some cabinet changes before he goes.

Best bet appears to be that Fisheries Minister MacKinnon will go to the Senate. Hon. C. G. Power, former Air Minister, is a sort of second favorite for Senate appointment. You would get longer odds on Labor Minister Mitchell.

Some of these would seem to involve appointment of replacements in the cabinet but many M.P.s think that, as far as possible ,the prime minister will make the appointments on an acting basis. They point to Mr. MacKinnon's recent tasks which have included looking after two other departments as well as his own on a temporary basis.

Similarly, these members think the vacancy which will arise when Justice Minister Ilsley retires to private law practice at the end of the month may well be filled by appointing Solicitor General Jean or another cabinet lawyer.

The argument behind this line of thinking is that Mr. King probably feels his successor should have as free a hand as possible. Permanent appointments, as they figure it, might create an obligation for the next prime minister.

Youth Wants Christianity, Not Communism

By KEN BOTWRIGHT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, June 8 (CP)—Most of the world's youth wants Christianity "not communism, fascism or any other isms," Rev. A. Ian Burnett of Ottawa Monday night told the 74th general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Sixth-day assembly sittings are scheduled today to deal with recommendations by the committee for Evangelism and Social Action. Two of these urge church study of intemperance in Canada, more stringent censorship of motion pictures and increased production of religious films.

A shortage of ministers hampers Protestant churches in Canada today, Mr. Burnett said. He said this occurred because university-trained young people are paid better in other occupations and because the church doesn't provide "economic security for ministers."

Miss M. Webster of Charlottetown, P.E.I., national secretary of girls' work, said the church is sponsoring youth organizations across the Dominion.

Earlier, Rev. A. C. Stewart of Midland, said the church's administration board does not favor sending an official to Great Britain to encourage immigration to Canada.

Dr. Stewart said that an application by the Board of Missions to send Rev. H. R. Pickup of Montreal overseas, had been rejected. Dr. Pickup is the church's director of immigration. The immigration project might "involve a very great outlays," explained Dr. Stewart.

The matter was referred for consideration to a special committee at suggestion of Rev. Dr. C. Ritchie Bell, Moderator.

Police Blotter

Pleading guilty to the theft of a sum of money from a construction worker with whom he had remained overnight, a man was sentenced to six months in the county jail when he appeared before Magistrate T. Y. Wills in city police court.

Court proceedings were comparatively brief and with the exception of hearing charges against Bernard McNeil and Murray Gray two Maritime men, for robbery and attempted robbery, consisted of drunk charges and pleas of guilty with respect to violation of local traffic bylaws.

BLAST KILLS TWO

Los Angeles, June 8 — (AP) — At least two persons were killed today when an explosion, apparently touched off during installation of a new gas line, blasted the fashionable Hillcrest Country Club.

One ambulance driver said he had picked up two bodies. Police said several others, believed to be cooks and chefs in the club, were in the burning wreckage.

'Blue Baby' Rushed To British Specialist

Liverpool, England, June 8 — (AP)—A transatlantic air dash ended Monday night for five-month-old Glynne McKinney, a "blue baby" rushed here from the United States for treatment by a British specialist.

The child, suffering from oxygen starvation, is the son of Walter McKinney, former American soldier, and his English wife, Mrs. Laura McKinney.

The British Foreign Office financed the trip, explaining that Mrs. McKinney's husband was no longer able to support her and that she had been classified as a distressed person.

The Foreign Office said she could not afford medical treatment for the child in the United States and, being a British subject, became the responsibility of her own government.

Investigate Death Of American Soldier

Nuernberg, June 8. (AP) — Officials investigated today the fatal shooting of an American soldier by a United States Army lieutenant.

The provost marshal's office said Pte. Ralph J. Light was shot to death Saturday night. No charges have yet been preferred and the lieutenant was released to his commanding officer pending completion of the investigation. He was not identified.

Officials said the shooting occurred after Light slapped the officer's wife and called her insulting names.

Provincial Election

The Progressive Conservative Government of Premier George A. Drew has been returned to office by the electors of Ontario with a somewhat decreased majority as compared with that he held before Monday's election. The leader himself was defeated in High Park, Toronto, by the C.C.F. candidate William H. Temple, who had been defeated by Mr. Drew in the same riding in 1943.

According to the standing given by returns up to this morning, the Progressive Conservative forces hold 53 seats out of the 90 in the new House, a majority of 16 over the combined representation of all the other parties, whose standings are as follows, C.C.F. 22, as against 8 in the 1945 vote; Liberals 12, a gain of one over the representation in the last Legislature; Labor Progressives two as previously, and one Labor-Liberal as against three in the 1945 election.

While the Progressive Conservatives' majority was cut, the party has 53 seats as against 37 held by the other parties combined and as against 60 in the last House. This may be taken as evidence that the Drew Administration has had the confidence of the people.

Early tabulation indicates that possibly Ontario polled the highest number of votes ever cast in a provincial contest. Incomplete Canadian Press returns today indicated that the 1945 record of votes cast of 1,765,793 would be exceeded but it will probably be some days before this is known for certain. It is the general impression that the election on Monday was drawing large voters to the polls and possibly more than in other contests. An interesting fact is that with incomplete figures of 1,709,487 votes cast the party percentage showed PC's with 41 per cent as against 45 p.c. in 1945, 36 p.c. in 1943 and 40 p.c. in 1937. Liberal percentage yesterday according to present figures was 29 as against 27 in 1945, 31 in 1943 and 51 in 1937. The C.C.F. vote so far shows 27 p.c. as against 31 p.c. in 1943 and 22 p.c. in 1945.

Today's figures indicate that the voters cast 706,095 ballots for Progressive Conservatives, the Liberals 497,313, C.C.F. 459,032 and others 47,074. It will be noted while the Liberal votes reported up to today were higher than the C.C.F. total the latter becomes the official opposition with ten more seats than the Liberals, 22 against 12.

Defeat of Premier Drew in his own riding of High Park was the only spot in the Progressive Conservative victory.

E. B. Jolliffe, C.C.F. leader, gets a seat in the new Legislature, but was not a member of the last House. Agnes Macphail alone of six women candidates, was elected. She was a former member of the Commons and had sat in the Provincial Legislature 1943-1945.

An outstanding figure enters the new Legislature, Major the Rev. John Foote, Dieppe Victoria Cross winner. Former Premier Harry C. Nixon is again in the House, the dean of legislators.

In the local ridings, Elmer Sandercock carried West Hastings on his first contest for office. In Hastings East Roscoe Robson, a member of the previous Legislature was returned. In Prince Edward Donald Baxter, Liberal, was elected, defeating the Speaker of the last Legislature, James de C. Hepburn and Thomas Creighton, Independent Progressive Conservative.

Benes Reported Retired

The resignation of President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia which was reported as being imminent, is now officially reported as having taken place, a Prague report stating that a special meeting of the Czech cabinet had accepted his retirement notice.

In the outside world there is much sympathy for the former president whose devotion to his country has been one of the outstanding marks of a life given to the betterment of his country and the rest of Europe.

Benes recently refused to accept the Communist constitution which was adopted by the Red-dominated government.

For some days stories have been current concerning his impending retirement.

Benes' position has ben one of loneliness, he alone remaining after the Communist purge. One of the severe blows he has felt has been failing health and another the death of his great friend Jan Masaryk who was foreign minister and whose death was announced as suicide by the Communist government.

Benes' life has been one of great devotion to his country. He had stood with the founder of the Czechoslovak Republic, Thomas G. Masaryk. The poor health which he is said to have been enduring and the Communist dominance of his country must have been very severe blows to the patriot who was one of the men who with Thomas G. Masaryk founded the republic. His dream of Czechoslovakia as an ideal modern state became a reality but events since the end of the Second World War, especially recent events must have weighed heavily on the spirit of the man who was already bearing the burden of ill health.

Images of Heroes

During a service in Westminster Abbey on Friday Mr. Churchill went in procession down the nave to the West Cloister and there unveiled Mr. Gilbert Ledward's triple figured memorial to the men of the Submarine, Commando, and Airborne forces killed during the war. It was a brief ceremony. Beside Mr. Churchill stood the Dean and to the right and left of the memorial were the various banners of the Abbey.

After he had unveiled the group of bronze effigies, each of which occupies a separate niche, Mr. Churchill spoke of the bravery of the men "who gave their lives in what they hoped would be the final war against the grosser forms of tyranny." His voice and expression were most grave. The Dean then dedicated the memorial, and, as the bells of the Abbey pealed out, the congregation filed past beneath the inexorable gaze of "these symbolic images of heroes," as Mr. Churchill had described them, the Manchester Guardian states.

Picture Changes

The early postwar fervor with which Russia and its adherents were pushing Communist doctrine in western Europe has cooled . . .

Now the picture has changed. Time itself has been a healing agent. The western nations have struggled to get back on their feet. American loans and credits have helped. Now the European Co-operation Administration is in working order to complete the job . . .

In every political manifestation, from the Italian general election to by-elections in France, the Communists, a year ago riding high on a wave of political popularity, are defeated, says Cleveland Plain-Dealer.

Colors for U. K. Railways

The people of Britain are to choose the new color schemes for the state railways. Fourteen mainline services are being painted in different shades as an experiment. The routes have been selected so that as many of the public as possible shall have a chance of passing judgment on the new colors. The most powerful express engines will be blue relieved with cream, grey and red lines. Other passenger locomotives will have a green ground with lining in similar shades. Traffic engines will have black as their body color with cream, grey and red lines while freight engines will be plain black. Some of the coaches of the mainline passenger trains will be painted plum color with yellow and maroon bands. Others will be chocolate and cream lined with black and gold. Local trains on suburban services will have black and gold lining on a maroon ground. Electric coaches will be colored green. The railway executive are inviting everyone to say what they think of these new experimental color schemes by writing to their headquarters in London.

Of all the things which a man has, next to heaven, his soul is the most divine and more truly his own. — Plato.

Ah, if you only knew the peace there is in an accepted sorrow. — Mme. Guyon.

There is nothing more ill-timed than ill-timed laughter. — Catullus.

JUST FOLKS

THE COMMON COLD

All doctors, whether young or old,
At me will shake their heads and say:
"We cannot cure the common cold;
As yet we haven't found the way."
And very strange that seems to me,
Since friends and neighbors all are sure
They've found a simple remedy,
They'll guarantee my cold to cure

My doctor says: "Just stay in bed!"
Five bucks for that he charges me.
My neighbor has a pellet red
That he prescribes without a fee,
When coughing round the place I go,
Of pills or syrups I am told.
It seems that all but doctors know
The way to cure the common cold.

Old women plasters will suggest.
The bankers seem to favor pills.
Some rub with oil the tortured chest,
And others take a dose of squills.
Though doctors timid seem to stay,
Repeating doubts that still they hold;
All others have a favorite way
They'll guarantee will cure a cold.

The Packsack
of Gregory Clark

In Algiers, I grew tired of French cooking. Being married to a blonde who talks baby talk must have the same effect on a man as has unrelieved French cooking, if he has not been born to it.

What I craved was something like thick Canadian pancakes, not the flimsy wafers the French dignify by that name. Corn on the cob. Ham and eggs. A French chef cannot leave ham and eggs alone. He must do something about them. It seems to me certain foods should come, as it were, from the hand of God.

In Algiers, I walked eastward from the smart Europeanized modern section until I reached the district where the French and the Arab begin to make contact and blend. I was looking for an Arab restaurant that might invite foreigners. Imagine my delight when I saw, over a small unpretentious shop the sign—Cafe Murphy.

Murphy it was. Not a doubt of it. I fairly sprang like a flea across the street and peered inside. Corn beef and cabbage with boiled potatoes was my dish, I felt certain. But my first glance revealed that the cafe was definitely Arab. Inside were Arabs of all shades, from old ivory to jet black. What emboldened me to enter anyway, in search of corn beef was the sight of one Frenchman eating pilaffe — which is rice blended with lamb or fish or shrimps or some such comestible.

An Arab waiter drifted to me where I sat.

"Is Monsieur Murphy in?" I requested in my best Chicoutimi.

The waiter, obviously delighted, retired to summon Monsieur Murphy.

He came out in his white coat, wearing a white cloth on his head, turban wise, in place of a chef's hat. Mr. Murphy was as black as the ace of spades! He was 100 per cent Africa.

In response to my inquiries, he explained that his great-great-grandfather, an Irishman named Murphy, had been captured at sea by the Algerian pirates, and, being a sea-faring man, had settled down and become an Arab. I allowed Mr. Murhy to select my meal for me from the Arabic menu. It was a pilaffe, and the meat in it appeared to be human ears. Probably some sort of sea food; but not corn beef and cabbage. My next meal was French: jambon et des oeufs.

REPORT ON STRIKES

Halifax — (CP) — A total of 1,284,782 man working days were lost in Nova Scotia through strikes during the fiscal year 1946-47, the provincial labor department has reported. A 110-day walkout of 12,000 coal miners was the greatest contributing factor.

Prime Minister Receives Appeal From Union Men

Toronto, June 8 — (CP) — A union appeal direct to Prime Minister Mackenzie King and conflicting claims on the number of vessels tied up today marked the fourth day in the current strike by the Canadian Seamen's Union (T.L.C.).

Ships of five companies—Canada Steamship Lines, Colonial Steamships, Sarnia Steamships, Northwest Steamships, and Transit Tankers and Terminals — have been affected in the walkout in varying degrees.

Latest vessels halted in the labor dispute were four forced to dock Monday night in the Cornwall canal when crews walked off. Canal authorities ordered that the ships cannot lock through the canal until fully manned.

The vessels are the Simcoe and Meaford of C. S. L., the Brampton of the Sarnia Line and the Translake of the Transit Tankers.

Accompanied by a police escort, Milton Nuttall, business agent for the striking union, appealed to crew members of inlocking ships by loud speaker. However, some other ships, including the Rapids Prince of the C. S. L., sailed through unmolested.

Special detachments of the R. C. M. P. and Ontario Provincial Police are guarding the lower section of the canal but waterfront picketing by the C. S. U. has been unmarked by violence so far.

In a jurisdictional dispute spreading over several weeks, the affiliated C. S. U. has protested the operators' negotiations and agreement with the Canadian Lake Seamen's Union, (independent), organized by J. A. (Pat) Sullivan after he resigned as an officer of the C. S. U. and left the union.

C. S. U. president Harry Davis telegraphed Prime Minister King protesting the presence of police at Cornwall. He asserted the movement of ships with skeleton crews was "a danger to navigation and a threat to the lives of our seamen on contract vessels."

The union claimed that 24 ships of the five major lines have been immobilized by the strike action. However, Canada Steamship Lines asserted Monday night 57 of its 58 freighters either were sailing or preparing to sail.

The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, through J. W. Buckley, secretary, appealed to A.F.L. grain elevator employees and the International Longshoremen's Union to assist the C. S. U. in the strike.

HOUSE APPROVES

Justice Minister Ilsley announced plans for tightening up criminal code sections dealing with libel, sex crimes and culpable homicide.

The code would be changed so that a person charged with conspiracy to publish a defamatory libel will be subject to trial only in the province in which he resides or in which the libel is published.

The change was requested by The Canadian Press, the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association and the Periodical Press Association after the recent New Liberty case before Alberta courts. In that case, Jack Kent Cooke, Toronto publisher of New Liberty, and Harold Dingman, its Ottawa correspondent, were brought before an Alberta court on charges of conspiracy to publish a defamatory libel. The charges later were stayed by the Alberta government.

Other charges provided for indefinite sentences for sex criminals and for continuation of jury trials even when one or two jurors become incapacitated. A jury trying a person charged with the murder of an infant will be able to bring a verdict of "infanticide". At present a jury trying such a case can only bring in verdict of murder or manslaughter if it feels the person is guilty.

In the debate on the budget bills Mr. Hackett said there should be an end to taxes on a wartime basis. He called for a comparison of Canadian and American income tax rates. Finance Minister Abbott promised to provide the information.

Wants Co-ops Helped

Mr. Bentley urged tax relief for Co-operatives. However, Mr. Isnor said Co-operatives should be made to carry a fair share of the taxation burden.

Mr. MacDonnell charged that the government was trying to build up a surplus which would allow it to make major tax reductions prior to the next general election.

Mr. Diefenbaker protested that the government is lending impetus to a trend giving non-parliamentary bodies power over individuals. Individuals were being denied recourse to the courts.

He protested especially against a clause in a bill amending the Excise Tax Act, which continues to give certain tariff board decisions the authority of statute.

FOR HEALTH'S SAKE LET THE KIDS PLAY

Readers says her son of the runabout age likes to play outdoors every day in winter, but leggings hamper his movements. She asks for clear instructions about covering the child's legs and keeping him bundled in sweaters, etc., whenever he goes out to play in the winter time. She is particularly concerned about the risk of rheumatic fever or inflammatory rheumatism, which she infers children unduly exposed to cold are likely to get. Then, besides, there are other hazards involved, of course, notably pneumonia, chest colds and infantile paralysis. However, the young wiseacre mother—who tells me about these things with a patronizing air that a million of her kind take when speaking to an ordinary doctor — graciously heartens me by adding that her pediatrician agrees with some of my teachings . . .

Come, come, now, that is no concession. All the near-doctors, and most of the real doctors agree with some teaching or other of mine. What of it? There are only a certain number of teachings possible, so necessarily every one who teaches at all must agree with some of them.

. . . the pediatrician (that, folks, —if you wish to know, is a doctor who gives young snob mothers instruction on changing didies or filling bottles or discovering worms at $10 where the ordinary doctor charges $3. The wiseacres and the snobs love it) —the pediatrician betrays his incompetence as a practitioner by telling the young wiseacre mother that although he believes it is insignificant whether the child is "protected" with excessive clothing or "exposed" in whatever way the child likes, still he dare not so advise mothers in everyday practise, lest they brand him as too radical.

The plain common sense answer to this question of the amount of clothing a child or any one else should wear in cold damp winter weather is this: He or she should wear only what is comfortable in the circumstances. If a child likes to play outdoors with bare knees, bare legs, without hampering coats, leggings, sweaters and other coddling, that is the way the child should be dressed for playing outdoors, in any weather.

If any one likes going without a hat or without an overcoat, in weather that the old grannies and the old time doctors regard as too cold or too damp, it is all right so far as hygiene is concerned. "It is absurd to put on an overcoat when going out for a walk," says Dr. Leonard Hill, noted English physiologist and authority on ventilation and fresh air. "It is good to go out and be braced by feeling cold and so be impelled to take vigorous exercise."

This applies to children as well as to adults.

Let the kids play in comfort and never make 'em wear any more clothes than they want to

Youngest Member Elected in Ontario

Toronto, June 8 — (CP)—Election of Reid Scott, 21-year-old C. C. F. candidate in Toronto Beaches, establishes him as the youngest member ever elected to the Ontario Legislature.

The youthful secretary of the Teamsters' Union in Toronto bettered the record set by Farquhar Oliver who was elected in 1926 at the age of 22.

Despite his youth, Scott who was graduated in political science and economics at University of Toronto last Wednesday has been connected with socialism for 13 years. He delivered party literature when he was eight.

Scott, winner of four oratorical contests in elementary and high schools, broke the 22-year-old hold on the Beaches riding by Progressive Conservative Thomas Murphy who is 63.

The new member for Beaches is studying law and will enter Osgoode Hall in the fall.

Reception of returns was exceptionally good, with speed being the keynote especially in Hastings East. Only two of the eighty-two polls in the riding were not heard from at 10.20 last night and these were tiny polling divisions in the farthest north section of the county.

Special telephones were installed in the County Buildings to facilitate reception of returns, while the Ontario Intelligencer used a short-wave radio to air returns to its offices in the city from the Haggerty home in West Huntingdon.

Newsroom Busy

Perhaps the busiest place in the city, with perhaps the Bell Telephone switchboard offices was the newsroom of this newspaper. An augmented editorial staff manned a battery of telephones and were kept on the proverbial "jump" from before eight o'clock to well after midnight. Literally hundreds of calls came via the phones which buzzed and rang continuously for a period of over four hours. Telephone switchboard operators did a "man's" job in relaying calls to not only news offices but the radio station and party headquarters, not to mention the many long distance calls necessitated by the election.

The city of Belleville polled a strong Tory vote giving the member-elect a total of 3637 vote as against 2439 for the Liberal candidate and 1405 for the representative of the C.C.F. party.

Strong Tory Vote

Sidney Township, traditionally Conservative, gave Sandercock 921; Hughes (Liberal) 133, and Ridley (C.C.F.) 71. Rawdon also returned a strong Tory poll with 720 as against 138 Liberal and 70 C.C.F.

Conservatives and Liberals waxed a close struggle in the town of Trenton with Sandercock emerging with 1,325 against Hughes 1,268 with the C.C.F. running third with 679. Outlying polls in the riding of Hastings West returned Conservative majorities with the village of Deloro the only one to give Hughes a majority. He polled 64 votes there to Sandercock's 56 and Ridley's fourteen.

In Hastings East Robson polled a heavy Conservative vote in the township of Thurlow getting 1,364 to Schlievert's (C.C.F.) 586 and Jordan (Liberal) 491.

Only five votes separated Robson and Jordan in Tyendinaga, usually a strong Liberal centre, the Conservatives polling 522 as compared to Jordan's 517. The C.C.F. candidate received 84. The northern townships with the exception of Bangor and Wicklow returned Conservative majorities. The latter township gave Jordan 130 against Robson's 129 and Schlievert's 37.

Race Close in Tweed

The race was close in Tweed village with Robson getting 256, Jordan 205 and Schlievert 185. Huntingdon township returned a strong Robson poll of 336 as compared to 93 Liberal and 47 C.C.F.. It was closer in Deseronto where Robson polled 295; Hughes 221 and Schlievert 151.

The village of Madoc maintained its Tory traditions by giving Robson 282; Jordan 135, and Schlievert 35, while the township of the same name went almost solidly Conservative with a Robson vote of 414 against 157 Liberal and 28 C.C.F.

Nearly 26,000, or 25,982 voters, to be unofficially correct, went to the polls yesterday in what is said to be a record figure. There are three polls to be heard from, but it is believed the figures there will not increase the above total to any great extent.

Of this total, 13,499 voted Progressive Conservative; 8,333 Liberal and 4,150 C.C.F.

In the city, 7,481 cast their ballots, while the town of Trenton saw 3,272 go to the polls.

PREMIER DREW

"New seats in the north and east give us wider representation and is more expressive of the people of the province," he said.

He reiterated his confidence in the future of Ontario but warned against the inroads of communism which succeeded "only through socialism."

He mentioned the re-election of "two Communists — members of the Labor-Progressive party —in Toronto ridings."

"This is a warning to those who have not played their part in the election. Socialists were returned in densely-populated areas. They are dependent on Communist support—they are enbondaged to them. They could not win an election without Communist support.

Succeed Through Socialism

"Communist governments throughout the world succeed only through socialism. The Socialists made the mistake of supporting them. We belittle here the presence of Communists in this legislature and Socialists who are dependent on the Communists for support.

"I hope people who stayed away from the polls today and felt it unimportant have this warning. Socialism was the 'trojan horse' in Europe. It is Marxism without Moscow."

C.C.F. leader Jolliffe described the reduced majority of the government as a sign of dissatisfaction on the part of the people. The results, he said, in a broadcast, indicate a growing demand for more effective action in housing, health services and planned development of natural resources.

Calls For Effective Action

"Housing," he said, "particularly calls for effective action by a government in power. The C.C.F. will co-operate to the limit in any program to build more houses for more people.

"This is the beginning in the march to elect a C.C.F. government. Many who didn't vote C.C.F. today will vote C.C.F. in the next election."

Liberal leader Farquhar Oliver whose party was relegated from official opposition to the third spot, called on the people of Ontario to support the representative government. He said he was happy the people of Grey South, where he was re-elected, hadn't seen fit to change.

"We will have a chance to continue working out the problems in the days that lie ahead," he said. The last six weeks had given the people of Ontario an opportunity to test arguments advanced by the three major parties. They had made their decision. "We have exercised that great privilege of those who live in democracies, of choosing the men who will govern us."

P.C'S HOLD 53

Mr. Jolliffe, who did not have a seat in the last legislature, was elected in York South, defeating W. S. Gibson, Progressive Conservative, and Ragnar Johnson, Liberal.

The Liberal leader, Farquhar Oliver, 44, was re-elected in Grey South — a seat he had held since 1926. He defeated three opponents — H. A. McCauley, Progressive Conservative; Alice Katool, C. C. F., and Arnold Russell, Union of Electors.

Agnes Macphail was the only successful woman candidate, winning York East for the C. C. F. Five other women were defeated. Miss Macphail, who in 1921 became the first woman ever elected to the federal parliament, was elected as a C. C. F. candidate in the 1943 provincial election and was defeated in 1945.

Despite cold, wet weather in most parts of the province yesterday, the vote was heavy. It was expected to exceed the 1945 record of 1,765,793.

HIGHLIGHTS

The West Toronto riding of Bracondale, as uncertain as any in the province, changed again in the Ontario election. The riding which was Liberal in the 1937 election, C.C.F. in the 1943 vote and Progressive Conservative in 1945, went back to the C.C.F. by electing Harry L. Walters, it marked the defeat of Dr. Fred Conboy, dentist, who was mayor of Toronto for several years.

• • •

Mitchell Hepburn's old stronghold in the Western Ontario constituency of Elgin remained with the Tories. Fletcher S. Thomas who defeated Mitch in 1945, was returned in a three-way fight. Hepburn, former premier, kept to his intention of staying with his onion farm and steering clear of politics.

• • •

Joe (the man you know) Meinzinger, colorful member of the last house from Waterloo North, was defeated by Liberal John G. Brown. Meinzinger gained prominence during the last session of the legislature when he suddenly announced that he had seen "the light" and decided to change from an Independent Liberal to a Progressive Conservative. The party wouldn't have him, however, and he was unable to get the Tory nomination in this election. He ran as an Independent Conservative, splitting the Tory vote and enabling the Liberals to win the seat.

• • •

A split Conservative vote in Brantford helped George T. Gordon, Liberal, to victory. Stanley Dye, Tory member of last House failed to receive nomination this time. In his place was C. C. Siemin. The riding was Liberal in 1937, C.C.F. in 1943 and Progressive Conservative in 1945 before going back to the Liberals.

• • •

The battle of the mayors, a race that livened up the election campaign at the head of the lakes, went to the Liberals. Mayor Charles Cox of Port Arthur, who couldn't win his own city in the 1945 election, tried it in Fort William and won a close victory over Garfield Anderson, mayor of that city and C.C.F. member of the last House. Now Cox represents one city in municipal office and another—and rival city at that—in the provincial office. With the high degree of rivalry that exists between the two cities it would be quite possible for Mayor Cox to find himself forced to favor something as Mayor of Port Arthur and oppose it as legislature representative for Fort William.

Issues of the election, called by the premier last April 16 shortly before the legislature prorogued, were the $600,000,000 program for development of Ontario's hydro resources and the general administrative records of the Drew government.

Conceded Early

Premier Drew, who conceded Mr. Temple's victory at 9.38 p.m. EDT, a little more than 2½ hours after the 7 p. m. closing of polls, said his personal defeat was 'very disappointing.'

But he called other results "more satisfactory" and said in a radio address a few hours later that he believes his party won "wider representation." That was an apparent reference to Progressive Conservative gains in Northern Ontario. They increased their standing there from one to six of the north's 12 seats.

The premier reiterated in the radio speech his oft-sounded warning against communism, which succeeded 'only through socialism."

"I hope people who stayed away from the polls today and felt it unimportant have this warning. Socialism was the 'Trojan horse' in Europe. It is Marxism without Moscow."

Mr. Jolliffe described the reduction of the Progressive Conservative majority as a "clear indication of growing dissatisfaction" among the electors.

Lost in 1945

The Toronto lawyer has not held a legislature seat since 1945, when a Progressive Conservative landslide tumbled down on the C.C.F. in the wake of his charges that Premier Drew maintained a political gestapo at Queen's Park.

The premier subsequently was absolved of the charges. W. J. Grummett, member for Cochrane South, who became C.C.F. House leader when Mr. Jolliffe was defeated, was re-elected Monday.

Mr. Oliver's post-election statement urged the people of Ontario to support the "democratically-elected" government.

One of the Liberals elected is H. C. Nixon, former Liberal premier and dean of the legislature. He has served in eight previous legislatures, representing Brant continuously since 1919.

Rev. John Foote, Presbyterian clergyman who won the Victoria Cross at Dieppe as an army chaplain, was elected Progressive Conservative member for Durham in his first bid for public office.

Two officials of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.) were successful C.C.F. candidates —C. H. Millard, the union's Canadian director, in York West and Eamon Park, publicity director, in Toronto Dovercourt.

Carlin Defeated

Another union official, R. H. Carlin, lost in Sudbury, the constituency he represented in the last legislature for the C.C.F. He ran as an independent C.C.F. candidate after the party withdrew its endorsation because of his alleged association in the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter workers (C.I.O.), with Communists. He is Canadian director of the Smelters' Union.

Among the new appointments as a result of Progressive Conservative defeats will be that of a legislature speaker. James De C. Hepburn, speaker of the last House, was defeated in Prince Edward - Lennox by Donald Baxter, Liberal.

Stanley Dye and Joseph Meinzinger, who ran as Independent Conservative candidates in Brantford and Waterloo North, respectively, were defeated. Mr. Dye served in the last House as a straight Progressive Conservative. Mr. Meinzinger, once a Liberal and a former mayor of Kitchener, announced shortly before the end of the last session that he had "seen the light." When the Progressive Conservatives did not accept him as a member, he chose to run as an Independent Conservative.

Northern Ontario Turns Allegiance To Conservatives

Toronto, June 8 (CP)—Stronghold of either the Liberals or C. C. F. over the last 10 years, Northern Ontario gave the Progressive Conservatives new strength in Monday's provincial election.

Where they held only one seat before June 7, the Drew forces today have six of the 12 Northern Ontario ridings. Two of those gains were from the C.C.F.— in Sudbury and Kenora—while three seats were picked up by the Tories in formerly Liberal Cochrane North, Nipissing and Parry Sound. John Fullerton, Progressive Conservative, was re-elected in Algoma-Manitoulin.

Premier Drew's announcement of plans to establish a Northern Ontario university and aid to mining communities were believed factors in the results.

In the Sudbury riding Progressive Conservative Welland S. Gemmell squeezed into the seat when the C.C.F. vote was split. Robert Carlin, member of the last House whom the C.C.F. refused to endorse this time because of alleged Communist association, ran against A. V. Whalen, official C. C. F. candidate. Carlin finished a close second to Gemmell. Mayor William Beaton, Liberal, was third and Whalen fourth.

The far northwestern riding of Kenora went to Jim White, weekly paper editor, who had lost a close fight to C.C.F. William Docker in the 1945 election.

Veteran Wins in Cochrane

Nipissing, Liberal in 1937, C. C. F. in 1943 and Liberal again last election, went to W. B. Harvey Monday when he defeated Victor Martin, Liberal, in a bid for re-election.

A wartime air force hero, Johnny Carrere, took the vast constituency of Cochrane North away from the Liberals when he defeated Joseph A. Habel and two other candidates. Carrere, whose home is in Cochrane, fought with the French Air Force early in the Second World War. He later escaped from the Germans, came back to Canada and joined the R. C. A. F. With it, he won the D.F.C. and Bar.

Parry Sound, which saw M. T. Armstrong elected with a majority of 124 for the Liberals in 1945, turned its support to Charles W. Cragg in this ballot.

There was one surprise in the north—the victory by Mayor Charlie Cox of Port Arthur over Mayor Garfield Anderson of Fort William. The unusual race was for the riding of Fort William which went from the C.C.F. to the Liberals.

Agnes Macphail Only Woman In New Legislature

Toronto, June 8 (CP)—Agnes Macphail first and only woman in the House of Commons when she was elected in 1921, today is the only woman in the new Ontario legislature.

While the other six women candidates were beaten at the polls, veteran Miss Macphail, 58, defeated three men to become C.C.F. member for York East.

And being one woman among 89 men in the 90-seat House fazed her not a bit.

"I'm sorry I'm the only woman and that's not because I'm embarrassed there," she said as the co-operative hall on Pape Avenue rang to cheers of her supporters.

"After 14 years at Ottawa, I'm conditioned to it. Besides, there's a good bunch of boys in the C.C.F.

"But, oh my, only one woman at Queen's Park! But it'll come!"

"It", she said, would be an equal number of men and women. With that, she would be satisfied.

Actually Miss Macphail sat in the House of Commons for 18 years, first as a Progressive member and later as U.F.O.-Labor. But between 1935 and 1940, when Miss Macphail was defeated in the federal election, she had company—Mrs. George Black of the Yukon, sitting as an Independent Conservative.

In 1943 Miss Macphail turned from federal to provincial politics. As a C.C.F. candidate, she won York East, only to lose it again to the Progressive Conservatives in 1945.

Monday's election was her comeback. She re-enters the legislature as a member of the second largest party, official opposition to the Progressive Conservative government. It was her 10th election campaign.

These other women candidates were defeated Monday:

Audrey Mercer, C.C.F., in Bruce; Alice Katool, C.C.F. in Grey, South; M. Scarrow C.C.F. in Lambton West; Anne Vowles, C.C.F., in Middlesex South; M. Catherine Straight, Liberal, in Windsor - Sandwich; Cecile Brunet, Union of Electors, in Ottawa East.

W. J. Grummett, C.C.F. House Leader in the last legislature, held his Cochrane South seat easily, Calvin Taylor retained Temiskaming for the C.C.F. and George Harvey again won Sault Ste. Marie for the party. Port Arthur was retained for the C.C.F. by F. O. Robinson.

Election-Reaction

Ottawa, June 8 — (CP) — Progressive Conservative members of the House of Commons Monday night expressed pleasure on hearing of the return to power of Premier George Drew's government in the Ontario provincial election Monday.

They expressed keen disappointment at Mr. Drew's defeat in his own riding.

John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, made no public statement on the election result. However, he sent Mr. Drew a telegram expressing congratulations on his government's return and regrets at his personal defeat.

C. C. F. members expressed their delight at the increase in their membership in the legislature and were particularly elated at their victory in Ontario riding, where a federal by-election takes place today.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King made no comment on result, but Liberal member

HANDS AT WORK...

LEARNING AERO ENGINE AND AIRFRAME MECHANICS

ONTARIO'S products are desired and purchased by people all over the world and the capacity to produce such goods largely determines the economic welfare of every man, woman and child within her borders. Because the sale of every article produced in Ontario brings valuable dollars into this Province, we all are more assured of job security . . . and we and our children can have more of the better things in life. To produce such goods in sufficient quantities, skilled labour is vital. That is why every single one of us should be glad that war veterans are constantly being trained to provide the skilled hands so needed by industry. Veterans receive ON THE JOB training under expert instructors in our Ontario factories.

This training, provided through the co-operation of the Department of Veterans' Affairs, the Federal Department of Labour and the Ontario Department of Education, starts veterans off on the road to skilled craftsmanship. Taught to use their hands in general aero engine and airframe work, both on military and civilian aircraft, these veterans may qualify for a Department of Transport license, authorising them to declare aircraft airworthy. In aircraft manufacturing plants and on flying fields throughout Ontario, these newly-skilled veterans will have the opportunity to apply their talents and training. Their efforts will help to make Ontario a finer place in which to live and will contribute to the welfare and happiness of all her citizens.

THE BREWING INDUSTRY (ONTARIO)

AERO ENGINE MECHANICS

H. Parry, 25, of Oshawa, Ontario, a Canadian Army veteran, is shown making an adjustment to the engine of a Cub Trainer. Students work on various types of aircraft ranging from the Cub Trainer to multiple engine military aircraft. Many veterans, trained as ground crew specialists during the war, have chosen to take post-war training in this occupation for which they are particularly suited. For them the transition to peace-time employment has been easier.

WEDDINGS

BADGLEY—CRAIG

A marriage of considerable lo- l interest was recently solemn- d by Rev. Dr. Norman Coll, Parkdale United Church, tawa, when Miss Ruby Margar- Kathleen Craig, daughter of r. C. Albert Craig and the late s. Craig, exchanged vows with . William Walter Cargill Badg- , son of Mrs. George McCoy, Belleville, Ont., and the late . Charles A. Badgley. Wed- g music was played by Mr. llace Findlay.

Given in marriage by her fath- the bride was charmingly wned in a floor length model heavy white satin, with egg- ll lace insets at neck and istline. Her long veil of tulle illusion fell gracefully from a headdress of white satin and tulle, and she carried a crescent bouquet of white roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Her only attendant was Miss Eleanor McOuat, as bridesmaid, while Mr. George Clarke ably performed the duties of groomsman and Messrs. Lester Craig, and Warren Craig were the ushers.

Following a reception at the Orange Lantern Inn, Mr. and Mrs. Badgley left for a wedding trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls, the bride travelling in a suit of midnight blue wool crepe, with navy accessories.

After their return Mr. and Mrs. Badgley will reside in Ottawa.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. George McCoy, Mrs. Emily Clarke, Mr. George Clarke, all of Belleville, and Mr. Lester Craig, of Kirkland Lake.

BOWLER—REID

With a floral background of spirea, iris, peonies and potted ferns, the marriage of Mary Myrtle Reid, daughter of Mrs. Edwin Reid, 25 Grier Street, and the late Mr. Edwin Reid, with Roy Bertram Bowler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clem Bowler, Victoria Ave., took place in Tabernacle United Church, at eleven o'clock a.m., June 5th., with Rev. F. R. Harback as the officiating clergyman. Mrs. M. P. Duff, church organist, supplied the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Barbara Joan Houston, who sang "Because" before the ceremony, and "Ave Maria" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Ted Reid, wore a becoming gown of white satin, with deep lace off-the-shoulder yoke, and matching insets in the skirt. Her fingertip veil fell from a heart-shaped headdress trimmed with seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

She was attended by two bridesmaids, Miss June Sexsmith, wearing a floor length dress of blue taffeta, with matching headdress, and Miss Betty Rees, wearing pink taffeta with matching headdress. Both attendants carried nosegays of small pink flowers with rose centres.

Mr. Bob Byrne was the groomsman and the ushers were Messrs. Don Finkle and Arnold Duffy.

For the reception which followed, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Reid wore a street length dress of navy and grey printed silk, with grey hat, and a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother assisted in receiving the guests wearing a street length dress of deep rose, with a corsage of Talisman roses.

For a wedding trip to Brockville and the Thousand Islands, the bride chose a dress of green eyelet embroidery, with black accessories, and a matching topcoat. Her corsage was of red roses.

Out-of-town guests were from Toronto, Trenton and New Toronto.

Scholarships, Prizes, Medals, Trophies Awarded Students At Albert College Convocation

A cool and cloudy day greeted the students of Albert College on Convocation Day on Monday but the warmth of their reunion with relatives and friends who had joined them to make this occasion a special one did much to dispel the outdoor chill. Cameras clicked busily as permanent mementoes of school days were recorded, and the campus hummed with farewells.

Within Memorial Chapel the traditional procession wended its way, the girl students leading, making a charming picture with long white dresses styled alike, long gloves, and corsages of red roses; the graduating boys, and the students followed, then the faculty wearing gowns and hoods, the guests with the principal and members of the Board of Governors. Mr. William Connor played the processional music.

Following the invocation by the Very Rev. Peter Bryce, D.D., LL.D., the principal, Rev. Bert Howard, addressed the assembly. In the course of his remarks Dr. Howard offered thanks and deep gratitude to God for guidance, uplift and inspiration during the past year. There were moments when all were needed greatly and were sought by the principal, when many situations had to be faced and carried out as a servant of God. He thanked the members of the Board of Governors for their sympathy and friendship which meant so much to the staff. To the staff also he expressed a deep note of thanks. They tried to work together and were truly members of a democracy with their purpose the ultimate good of the school as a worthwhile place for young people. The student body as a whole received thanks for being patient and tolerant and realizing that the staff does act for the best, a realization which will grow clearer as they grow older.

Valedictory Given

The Valedictorian was Miss Irene Sidey who expressed the feeling of the students when she said that it was difficult to say good-bye to the friends with whom one has played and worked. There was a true loyalty to each other and to the teachers. "We realize the value of industry and ambition to gain worthwhile things in life," stated Miss Sidey. "The chapel services have been an inspiration, and we have many enjoyable events to look back upon. We must be prepared to meet new responsibilities, and to rely on our own decisions. We thank Dr. Howard and the faculty for the lessons we have learned, and we hope to go out and make the world a better place for our own sake and the sake of our Alma Mater.

Presentations for distinguished services were made by Dr. Howard to Dr. Peter Bryce who was well-known across Canada as a Christian statesman, a cultured and gracious gentleman, and the beloved pastor of Metropolitan Church, Toronto; and to Dr. Bert Howard by Mr. E. B. Warriner, Toronto, in recognition of his services to the college. Dr. Bryce replied that he was deeply touched by the token of affection and would hang the shield in his church study. He urged the young men to serve their fellowman and there was no better way than in the ministry. Many unfinished tasks were to be done, and the young would have to do them. Life would be rich and full in such service. Dr. Howard was deeply moved by the award, and thought when we feel most that words are inadequate, but humbly accepted for himself and his staff.

Gift of Money

On behalf of the graduating class, President Jack Delaney presented a gift of money for the purpose of buying a diving board for the swimming pool.

The speaker for the occasion was Rev. Wilfred Lockart, M.A., Ph.D., pastor of Kingsway-Lambton United Church, West Toronto.

"If I had some gift of magic," said the speaker, "I could look twenty years ahead and see the graduates then and the world they live in. I can't predict for you what you will be then, but there is one thing I can predict with conviction that the kind of person you will be is the kind you have made yourself, the way you have determined for yourself. Many people think that environment and circumstances will decide, and we cannot know what is going to happen, nor can we minimize what conditions will do, but I have come to the conclusion that there are two kinds of people. The first kind are the thermometers who simply reflect their environment, a thermometer merely registers the temperature. The second kind are thermostats. They create their own conditions and opportunities. A thermostat starts working right away, and sets in motion other apparatus. You can be either a thermometer or a thermostat, the decision is yours.

No Plan Set

"Some believe that God has a plan for each individual," continued Dr. Lockart. "And that life is all mapped out for you and everything is predetermined. But so many things are difficult to ascribe to God. That would mean that God is the source of evil, and we do not believe that. We believe that God has a plan, not for us as individuals, but as a people. God is trying to develop within you whatever fine gifts and endowments you have, and He wants you to take those capacities, not to use for your own gain but for all His children. This is His plan for all, to take us as we are and help us to develop our gifts. This requires constant concentration, self-discipline and self-development.

"Too many people are trying to find short cuts. Your primary task is enlarging your capacities. The only way to use God's endowments is through disciplined training until your gifts reach their full fruition.

At Starting Stage

"You have only reached the starting stage, and you dare not relax. Freedom in the last analysis is the developing of your full capacities when you have emancipated yourself from your inabilities. Take your gifts and consecrate them, for the common good. God gave you gifts that you may use them to help others. You can use what you possess in your own interests or in service to mankind. God gave you gifts to enrich other lives in this great nation and in our great church. I pray that God will use you for great things."

Mr. John Deacon, accompanied by Mrs. Deacon, contributed two fine solos.

A reception was held in Ackerman Hall after Convocation when the guests were served a buffet luncheon by the students.

Reception of returns was exceptionally good, with speed being the keynote especially in Hastings East. Only two of the eighty-two polls in the riding were not heard from at 10.20 last night and these were tiny polling divisions in the farthest north section of the county.

Special telephones were installed in the County Buildings to facilitate reception of returns, while the Ontario Intelligencer used a short-wave radio to air returns to its offices in the city from the Haggerty home in West Huntingdon.

Newsroom Busy

Perhaps the busiest place in the city, with perhaps the Bell Telephone switchboard offices was the newsroom of this newspaper. An augmented editorial staff manned a battery of telephones and were kept on the proverbial "jump" from before eight o'clock to well after midnight. Literally hundreds of calls came via the phones which buzzed and rang continuously for a period of over four hours. Telephone switchboard operators did a "man's" job in relaying calls to not only news offices but the radio station and party headquarters, not to mention the many long distance calls necessitated by the election.

The city of Belleville polled a strong Tory vote giving the member-elect a total of 3637 vote as against 2439 for the Liberal candidate and 1405 for the representative of the C.C.F. party.

Strong Tory Vote

Sidney Township, traditionally Conservative, gave Sandercock 921; Hughes (Liberal) 133, and Ridley (C.C.F.) 71. Rawdon also returned a strong Tory poll with 720 as against 138 Liberal and 70 C.C.F.

Conservatives and Liberals waxed a close struggle in the town of Trenton with Sandercock emerging with 1,325 against Hughes 1,268 with the C.C.F. running third with 679. Outlying polls in the riding of Hastings West returned Conservative majorities with the village of Deloro the only one to give Hughes a majority. He polled 64 votes there to Sandercock's 56 and Ridley's fourteen.

In Hastings East Robson polled a heavy Conservative vote in the township of Thurlow getting 1,364 to Schlievert's (C.C.F.) 586 and Jordan (Liberal) 491.

Only five votes separated Robson and Jordan in Tyendinaga, usually a strong Liberal centre, the Conservatives polling 522 as compared to Jordan's 517. The C.C.F. candidate received 84. The northern townships with the exception of Bangor and Wicklow returned Conservative majorities. The latter township gave Jordan 130 against Robson's 129 and Schlievert's 37.

Race Close in Tweed

The race was close in Tweed village with Robson getting 256, Jordan 205 and Schlievert 185. Huntingdon township returned a strong Robson poll of 336 as compared to 93 Liberal and 47 C.C.F.. It was closer in Deseronto where Robson polled 295; Hughes 221 and Schlievert 151.

The village of Madoc maintained its Tory traditions by giving Robson 282; Jordan 135, and Schlievert 35, while the township of the same name went almost solidly Conservative with a Robson vote of 414 against 157 Liberal and 28 C.C.F.

Nearly 26,000, or 25,982 voters, to be unofficially correct, went to the polls yesterday in what is said to be a record figure. There are three polls to be heard from, but it is believed the figures there will not increase the above total to any great extent.

Of this total, 13,499 voted Progressive Conservative; 8,333 Liberal and 4,150 C.C.F.

In the city, 7,481 cast their ballots, while the town of Trenton saw 3,272 go to the polls.

PREMIER DREW

"New seats in the north and east give us wider representation and is more expressive of the people of the province," he said.

He reiterated his confidence in the future of Ontario but warned against the inroads of communism which succeeded "only through socialism."

He mentioned the re-election of "two Communists — members of the Labor-Progressive party —in Toronto ridings."

"This is a warning to those who have not played their part in the election. Socialists were returned in densely-populated areas. They are dependent on Communist support—they are enbondaged to them. They could not win an election without Communist support.

Succeed Through Socialism

"Communist governments throughout the world succeed only through socialism. The Socialists made the mistake of supporting them. We belittle here the presence of Communists in this legislature and Socialists who are dependent on the Communists for support.

"I hope people who stayed away from the polls today and felt it unimportant have this warning. Socialism was the 'trojan horse' in Europe. It is Marxism without Moscow."

C.C.F. leader Jolliffe described the reduced majority of the government as a sign of dissatisfaction on the part of the people. The results, he said, in a broadcast, indicate a growing demand for more effective action in housing, health services and planned development of natural resources.

Calls For Effective Action

"Housing," he said, "particularly calls for effective action by a government in power. The C.C.F. will co-operate to the limit in any program to build more houses for more people.

"This is the beginning in the march to elect a C.C.F. government. Many who didn't vote C.C.F. today will vote C.C.F. in the next election."

Liberal leader Farquhar Oliver whose party was relegated from official opposition to the third spot, called on the people of Ontario to support the representative government. He said he was happy the people of Grey South, where he was re-elected, hadn't seen fit to change.

"We will have a chance to contnue working out the problems in the days that lie ahead," he said. The last six weeks had given the people of Ontario an opportunity to test arguments advanced by the three major parties. They had made their decision. "We have exercised that great privilege of those who live in democracies, of choosing the men who will govern us."

Mr. Jolliffe, who did not have a seat in the last legislature, was elected in York South, defeating W. S. Gibson, Progressive Conservative, and Ragnar Johnson, Liberal.

The Liberal leader, Farquhar Oliver, 44, was re-elected in Grey South — a seat he had held since 1926. He defeated three opponents — H. A. McCauley, Progressive Conservative; Alice Katool, C. C. F., and Arnold Russell, Union of Electors.

Agnes Macphail was the only successful woman candidate, winning York East for the C. C. F. Five other women were defeated. Miss Macphail, who in 1921 became the first woman ever elected to the federal parliament, was elected as a C. C. F. candidate in the 1943 provincial election and was defeated in 1945.

Despite cold, wet weather in most parts of the province yesterday, the vote was heavy. It was expected to exceed the 1945 record of 1,765,793.

HIGHLIGHTS

The West Toronto riding of Bracondale, as uncertain as any in the province, changed again in the Ontario election. The riding which was Liberal in the 1937 election, C.C.F. in the 1943 vote and Progressive Conservative in 1945, went back to the C.C.F. by electing Harry L. Walters, it marked the defeat of Dr. Fred Conboy, dentist, who was mayor of Toronto for several years.

• • •

Mitchell Hepburn's old stronghold in the Western Ontario constituency of Elgin remained with the Tories. Fletcher S. Thomas who defeated Mitch in 1945, was returned in a three-way fight. Hepburn, former premier, kept to his intention of staying with his onion farm and steering clear of politics.

• • •

Joe (the man you know) Meinzinger, colorful member of the last house from Waterloo North, was defeated by Liberal John G. Brown. Meinzinger gained prominence during the last session of the legislature when he suddenly announced that he had seen "the light" and decided to change from an Independent Liberal to a Progressive Conservative. The party wouldn't have him, however, and he was unable to get the Tory nomination in this election. He ran as an Independent Conservative, splitting the Tory vote and enabling the Liberals to win the seat.

• • •

A split Conservative vote in Brantford helped George T. Gordon, Liberal, to victory. Stanley Dye, Tory member of last House failed to receive nomination this time. In his place was C. C. Siemin. The riding was Liberal in 1937, C.C.F. in 1943 and Progressive Conservative in 1945 before going back to the Liberals.

• • •

The battle of the mayors, a race that livened up the election campaign at the head of the lakes, went to the Liberals. Mayor Charles Cox of Port Arthur, who couldn't win his own city in the 1945 election, tried it in Fort William and won a close victory over Garfield Anderson, mayor of that city and C.C.F. member of the last House. Now Cox represents one city in municipal office and another—and rival city at that—in the provincial office. With the high degree of rivalry that exists between the two cities it would be quite possible for Mayor Cox to find himself forced to favor something as Mayor of Port Arthur and oppose it as legislature representative for Fort William.

Issues of the election, called by the premier last April 16 shortly before the legislature prorogued, were the $600,000,000 program for development of Ontario's hydro resources and the general administrative records of the Drew government.

Conceded Early

Premier Drew, who conceded Mr. Temple's victory at 9.38 p.m. EDT, a little more than 2½ hours after the 7 p. m. closing of polls, said his personal defeat was 'very disappointing.'

But he called other results "more satisfactory" and said in a radio address a few hours later that he believes his party won "wider representation." That was an apparent reference to Progressive Conservative gains in Northern Ontario. They increased their standing there from one to six of the north's 12 seats.

The premier reiterated in the radio speech his oft-sounded warning against communism, which succeeded 'only through socialism."

"I hope people who stayed away from the polls today and felt it unimportant have this warning. Socialism was the 'Trojan horse' in Europe. It is Marxism without Moscow."

Mr. Jolliffe described the reduction of the Progressive Conservative majority as a "clear indication of growing dissatisfaction" among the electors.

Lost in 1945

The Toronto lawyer has not held a legislature seat since 1945, when a Progressive Conservative landslide tumbled down on the C.C.F. in the wake of his charges that Premier Drew maintained a political gestapo at Queen's Park.

The premier subsequently was absolved of the charges. W. J. Grummett, member for Cochrane South, who became C.C.F. House leader when Mr. Jolliffe was defeated, was re-elected Monday.

Mr. Oliver's post-election statement urged the people of Ontario to support the "democratically-elected" government.

One of the Liberals elected is H. C. Nixon, former Liberal premier and dean of the legislature. He has served in eight previous legislatures, representing Brant continuously since 1919.

Rev. John Foote, Presbyterian clergyman who won the Victoria Cross at Dieppe as an army chaplain, was elected Progressive Conservative member for Durham in his first bid for public office.

Two officials of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.) were successful C.C.F. candidates —C. H. Millard, the union's Canadian director, in York West and Eamon Park, publicity director, in Toronto Dovercourt.

Carlin Defeated

Another union official, R. H. Carlin, lost in Sudbury, the constituency he represented in the last legislature for the C.C.F. He ran as an independent C.C.F. candidate after the party withdrew its endorsation because of his alleged association in the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter workers (C.I.O.), with Communists. He is Canadian director of the Smelters' Union.

Among the new appointments as a result of Progressive Conservative defeats will be that of a legislature speaker. James De C. Hepburn, speaker of the last House, was defeated in Prince Edward - Lennox by Donald Baxter, Liberal.

Stanley Dye and Joseph Meinzinger, who ran as Independent Conservative candidates in Brantford and Waterloo North, respectively, were defeated. Mr. Dye served in the last House as a straight Progressive Conservative. Mr. Meinzinger, once a Liberal and a former mayor of Kitchener, announced shortly before the end of the last session that he had "seen the light." When the Progressive Conservatives did not accept him as a member, he chose to run as an Independent Conservative.

Northern Ontario Turns Allegiance To Conservatives

Toronto, June 8 (CP)—Stronghold of either the Liberals or C. C. F. over the last 10 years, Northern Ontario gave the Progressive Conservatives new strength in Monday's provincial election.

Where they held only one seat before June 7, the Drew forces today have six of the 12 Northern Ontario ridings. Two of those gains were from the C.C.F.— in Sudbury and Kenora—while three seats were picked up by the Tories in formerly Liberal Cochrane North, Nipissing and Parry Sound. John Fullerton, Progressive Conservative, was re-elected in Algoma-Manitoulin.

Premier Drew's announcement of plans to establish a Northern Ontario university and aid to mining communities were believed factors in the results.

In the Sudbury riding Progressive Conservative Welland S. Gemmell squeezed into the seat when the C.C.F. vote was split. Robert Carlin, member of the last House whom the C.C.F. refused to endorse this time because of alleged Communist association, ran against A. V. Whalen, official C. C. F. candidate. Carlin finished a close second to Gemmell. Mayor William Beaton, Liberal, was third and Whalen fourth.

The far northwestern riding of Kenora went to Jim White, weekly paper editor, who had lost a close fight to C.C.F. William Docker in the 1945 election.

Veteran Wins in Cochrane

Nipissing, Liberal in 1937, C. C. F. in 1943 and Liberal again last elertion, went to W. B. Harvey Monday when he defeated Victor Martin, Liberal, in a bid for reelection.

A wartime air force hero, Johnny Carrere, took the vast constituency of Cochrane North away from the Liberals when he defeated Joseph A. Habel and two other candidates. Carrere, whose home is in Cochrane, fought with the French Air Force early in the Second World War. He later escaped from the Germans, came back to Canada and joined the R. C. A. F. With it, he won the D.F.C. and Bar.

Parry Sound, which saw M. T. Armstrong elected with a majority of 124 for the Liberals in 1945, turned its support to Charles W. Cragg in this ballot.

There was one surprise in the north—the victory by Mayor Charlie Cox of Port Arthur over Mayor Garfield Anderson of Fort William. The unusual race was for the riding of Fort William which went from the C.C.F. to the Liberals.

Agnes Macphail Only Woman In New Legislature

Toronto, June 8 (CP)—Agnes Macphail first and only woman in the House of Commons when she was elected in 1921, today is the only woman in the new Ontario legislature.

While the other six women candidates were beaten at the polls, veteran Miss Macphail, 58, defeated three men to become C.C.F. member for York East.

And being one woman among 89 men in the 90-seat House fazed her not a bit.

"I'm sorry I'm the only woman and that's not because I'm embarrassed there," she said as the co-operative hall on Pape Avenue rang to cheers of her supporters.

"After 14 years at Ottawa, I'm conditioned to it. Besides, there's a good bunch of boys in the C.C.F.

"But, oh my, only one woman at Queen's Park! But it'll come!"

"It", she said, would be an equal number of men and women. With that, she would be satisfied.

Actually Miss Macphail sat in the House of Commons for 18 years, first as a Progressive member and later as U.F.O.-Labor. But between 1935 and 1940, when Miss Macphail was defeated in the federal election, she had company—Mrs. George Black of the Yukon, sitting as an Independent Conservative.

In 1943 Miss Macphail turned from federal to provincial politics. As a C.C.F. candidate, she won York East, only to lose it again to the Progressive Conservatives in 1945.

Monday's election was her comeback. She re-enters the legislature as a member of the second largest party, official opposition to the Progressive Conservative government. It was her 10th election campaign.

These other women candidates were defeated Monday:

Audrey Mercer, C.C.F., in Bruce; Alice Katool, C.C.F. in Grey, South; M. Scarrow C.C.F. in Lambton West; Anne Vowles, C.C.F., in Middlesex South; M. Catherine Straight, Liberal, in Windsor - Sandwich; Cecile Brunet, Union of Electors, in Ottawa East.

W. J. Grummett, C.C.F. House Leader in the last legislature, held his Cochrane South seat easily, Calvin Taylor retained Temiskaming for the C.C.F. and George Harvey again won Sault Ste. Marie for the party. Port Arthur was retained for the C.C.F. by F. O. Robinson.

Election-Reaction

Ottawa, June 8 — (CP) — Progressive Conservative members of the House of Commons Monday night expressed pleasure on hearing of the return to power of Premier George Drew's government in the Ontario provincial election Monday.

They expressed keen disappointment at Mr. Drew's defeat in his own riding.

John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, made no public statement on the election result. However, he sent Mr. Drew a telegram expressing congratulations on his government's return and regrets at his personal defeat.

C. C. F. members expressed their delight at the increase in their membership in the legislature and were particularly elated at their victory in Ontario riding, where a federal by-election takes place today.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King made no comment on result, but Liberal members dicated privately their di pointment at the Ontario Lib al party's showing.

M. J. Coldwell, C. C. F. le er, said he was delighted the results.

"I am particularly ple that we have elected a strong group led by E. B. liffe, who now becomes le of the opposition." said Coldwell.

"My personal delight is hanced by the outstanding tories of my old friend, W. Temple, over Premier Drew of Reed Scott, who captured Toronto seat."

Mr. Scott is national pr dent of the Co-operative Co monwealth University Stude Federation.

"Ontario electors did not spond to the campaign of m representation of the Sask chewan government's rec and the communist bogey."

HANDS AT WORK...

LEARNING AERO ENGINE AND AIRFRAME MECHANICS

ONTARIO'S products are desired and purchased by people all over the world and the capacity to produce such goods largely determines the economic welfare of every man, woman and child within her borders. Because the sale of every article produced in Ontario brings valuable dollars into this Province, we all are more assured of job security . . . and we and our children can have more of the better things in life. To produce such goods in sufficient quantities, skilled labour is vital. That is why every single one of us should be glad that war veterans are constantly being trained to provide the skilled hands so needed by industry. Veterans receive ON THE JOB training under expert instructors in our Ontario factories.

This training, provided through the co-operation of the Department of Veterans' Affairs, the Federal Department of Labour and the Ontario Department of Education, starts veterans off on the road to skilled craftsmanship. Taught to use their hands in general aero engine and airframe work, both on military and civilian aircraft, these veterans may qualify for a Department of Transport license, authorizing them to declare aircraft airworthy. In aircraft manufacturing plants and on flying fields throughout Ontario, these newly-skilled veterans will have the opportunity to apply their talents and training. Their efforts will help to make Ontario a finer place in which to live and will contribute to the welfare and happiness of all her citizens.

AERO ENGINE MECHANICS

H. Parry, 25, of Oshawa, Ontario, a Canadian Army veteran, is shown making an adjustment to the engine of a Cub Trainer. Students work on various types of aircraft ranging from the Cub Trainer to multiple engine military aircraft. Many veterans, trained as ground crew specialists during the war, have chosen to take post-war training in this occupation for which they are particularly suited. For them the transition to peace-time employment has been easier.

Dick Sisler, Former Cardinal, Helps Phillies Defeat Cards To Drop Them in Second Place

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

It never fails — trade away a guy and he comes back to make you rue the day.

Eddie Dyer, manager of St. Louis Cardinals, is the latest to feel the wrath of a discarded player. Dyer must have had moments of regret Monday night when Dick Sisler, former Redbird first baseman, cracked two home runs to lead Philadelphia Phillies to a 5-1 victory over the Cardinals.

St. Louis' loss together with New York Giants' 9-5 victory over the Pirates in Pittsburgh, dropped the Cards into second place, half a game behind the Giants.

The Giants climbed back into the lead by clubbing Kirby Higbe and Elmer Singleton for 13 hits. After the Pirates had overcome deficits three times to pull even 5-5 at the end of seven innings, the Giants finally moved ahead to stay when Bobby Thomson whacked a two-run homer in the eighth.

Jim Russell blasted two home runs and two doubles to lead Boston Braves to a 915 victory over the Cubs in Chicago.

Tommy Holmes' batting streak for the Braves was stopped at 17 straight games.

In the American League, St. Louis Browns upset New York Yankees at Yankee Stadium 5-3, to snap their six-game losing streak. Rookie Righthander Ned Garver went the route for the first time this season, scattering 11 hits. Johnny Lindell and Phil Rizzuto hit homers for the Yankees and Paul Lehner slammed one for the Browns.

The Senators rolled to a 7-1 victory over the last - place Chicago White Sox in a night game at Washington. The game was halted by rain with the Senators at bat in the last half of the seventh. Rae Scarborough checked the Sox with five hits to post his fifth victory of the season.

The Pick of Pipe Tobaccos

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BY GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

A Merriwellian finish featured the Batawa-Oshawa game played in the Motor City on Saturday when Mac Watson's trusty war bludgeon blasted a fast Oshawa shoot to the wild blue yender for a circuit tripper and three mates who cluttered up the sacks strolled ahead of the galloping Shoeman to score four runs and snatch victory out of almost certain defeat.

• • •

And the grapevine reports that the clout was a right lusty one. It sailed over the head of the outer gardener patrolling that particular part of Oshawan terrain and rolled across the track. And on the sveldt Oshawa baseball park practically any ball that goes over the medually obomgata of the out fielders is labelled a triple at least and a homer in most cases.

• • •

Anahoo—it was a lulu of a game to win—and one of these sudden things that happen that takes all the joy out of life for the squad on the short end of the score. According to reports the ball was hit so hard that Watson could have strolled in from second and rolled himself a couple of gaspers before the ball was retrieved from the faraway greens.

• • •

Meanwhile Eddie Murphy's Peterborough COBL seniors chalked up their fourth straight victory in as many starts but taking the luckless Kingston Locos into camp by a 10-3 count. Batawa is breathing down the Pete shirt collars with three wins and one defeat, and appear to be getting stronger all the time. But at that, the squad could do with some help in the flinging department. To date rangy Ken Peacock has been the hurling hero of the squad, but he can't carry the load for the season.

• • •

Gordy Muffit, who it is stated, is suffering with a sore arm started the chore for the Shoemen on Saturday, but Peacock in his third appearance in as many games, rushed to the rescue in the fifth, and between the two, the best the Oshawans could do was eight hits. At that they had the Shoemen under control until they loaded the Batawa bags and Watson came through with his mighty four-base clout.

• • •

In the intermediate league, Napanee and Kiwanis Juniors are racing along neck-and-neck with three wins each for a percentage of .1000. The Gibbardville crew, along with the beardless ones have a strong pitching staff and that appears to be the most potent factor in the league thus far. Juniors are well supplied with Bunton, Art Wright and Don Semark, in fact the kids hurling staff appears to be the best this year than for the past three seasons. Wright and Semark gained valuable experience last year—and it is beginning to pay off this season.

• • •

Bunton carried the load for the Kiwanis in other years, but Semark and Wright will be able to give valuable assistance this year. The team which is idle for the next two weeks, according to the schedule are planning exhibition games and it could be that outstanding Prince Edward and Kingston teams may be invited here to help the kids over the long route of idleness.

• • •

Glancing over the Kiwanis squad, it appears to be the strongest in all departments this year than before. Russ Soules and "Huck" Reeves are looking after the catching chores with Peter Jones, ex-Montreal junior, one of the best first-base prospects seen here in years, taking care of the initial sack chore.

• • •

Dave Lockyer, has been transferred from his old spot at first base and is doing a creditable piece of work at the hot corner. "Mouse" Bush is cavorting around the keystone sack while Finn is rounding out a nice infield at short.

• • •

Some of the youngsters hitting power is in the outfield where Bob Strachan, Donovan and Galbraith are doing some neat ball-hawking aided by Semark, McBride and Taylor. Coach "Chuck" Burnett is busy trying to weld the whole into a happy family with the assistance of Manager Aubrey Coe.

• • •

The sincere sympathy of sportsdom in this city and district goes out to Ron Fralick whose mother passed away a few days ago. Ron was assistant to the trainer of the Philadelphia Rockets hockey team here last winter and has been associated with the ANAF senior "B" squad for the past two seasons.

• • •

Fistic action resumes at Maple Leaf Gardens tonight when Toronto's unbeaten star Alan McFator meets Clayton Kenny of Ottawa. Kenny sprang the surprise of the recent Olympic trials when he scored a knockout win over the Dominion champion, Frankie Almond, of Vancouver. Kenny, incidentally, is the only battler to hold McFator even for the past two years. The pair fought a sensational draw at the Gardens a few months ago.

• • •

Glad to see the amiable Jack Yanover back in the familiar haunts after a somewhat lengthy session in Belleville General Hospital. Jack underwent a serious operation, and came through with more or less flying colors. He is convalescing at his home at present, but takes time out occasionally to drop in his New Queen's Hotel. His many friends in the sports world wish a speedy recovery.

Montreal, June 8 — (CP)—Canadian football's Big Four are a-feudin' again and this time it's Hamilton Wildcats who have decided to abandon Sunday games. Inasmuch as Sunday games are played only in Montreal, Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson feels that the Alouettes will be taking a kick in the pocketbook.

"If Hamilton's pious motion to abandon Sunday football goes through, Alouettes will take something of a box-office beating," Fergie writes.

The latest Big Four development is only one of a series of battles in that circuit. First there was a report Alouettes would jump to the Ontario Rugby Football Union because of the ban on imports. Alouettes decided to stay when the Big Four upped the imports from the United States to six instead of the five permitted by the Canadian Rugby Union.

Then Hamilton Tigers withdrew and were replaced by the 'Cats. The Tigers had dropped out when they failed to reach an agreement on a cut of out-of-town gates. They promptly took Wildcats place in the O.R.F.U.

Fergie comments on the latest move:

"If Hamilton joins Toronto Argonauts in shunning Sunday football, that will leave only Ottawa to face Alouettes in Sunday matches. It was Sunday football that enabled the Dandurand - Hayman combine to lift Big Four football out of the rut here and place it on a financial basis where it could compete on even terms with other clubs in the circuit."

Icing Along

Now that the Quebec Senior Hockey League has expanded to an eight-team loop, Baz (Montreal Star) O'Meara asked "Where are sufficiently good players coming from?"

"The league," said Baz, "may see a decline in quality with Sherbrooke included in the loop because such well-endowed teams as Montreal Royals, Quebec Aces, Ottawa Senators, Shawinigan Falls and Boston Olympics, Valleyfield Braves and New York Rovers will have an edge in the bargaining."

COCA-COLA AND COKE ARE THE REGISTERED TRADE MARKS OF COCA-COLA LTD.

June 5th, 1948.

TO ALL CONSUMERS OF COCA-COLA

For almost three generations...since 1886...Coca-Cola has been a 5¢ product. Today you pay 7¢, the extra 2¢ being due solely to the two special wartime taxes imposed on soft drinks.

Newspaper commentaries, following the recent Federal Budget, outlined two main reasons given for the Government's decision not to remove certain excise taxes. One of these was summed up as follows:

> "There is no guarantee that if they (the taxes) were dropped the saving would be passed on to the consumer."

We are pleased to say that this does not apply to the special wartime taxes on Coca-Cola, because we continue to hold our traditional belief in a 5¢ price for our product. We have been and are now prepared to pass on to the consumer the full amount of these taxes, when removed. We will neither want nor seek any profits from the elimination of these taxes when they are removed.

With prices so much a matter of daily interest, you may be interested to know that our price remains exactly what it was before the war, with only the two wartime taxes added.

Coca-Cola is the same refreshing drink of fine quality which you have enjoyed through the years.

5 Hours a Day Scrubbing

More than half the working day at a dairy is spent in the thorough cleaning and sterilizing of equipment. Every pipe and piece of equipment through which milk passes is dismantled and scrubbed inside and out before each batch of milk is processed.

In fact few other businesses have their plant actually working so few hours a day and spend so much time on cleaning. Milk cans are sterilized with superheated steam before they go back to the farmer. Bottles are polished and sterilized before they are filled. So much labour is expensive, but it is an investment in health your dairy is making for the community.

Rocky and Tony Will Do All Right in Fight

Newark, N. J., June 8 — (AP) — The "Seven Millionaires" promoting the third Rocky Graziano-Tony Zale fight here tomorrow night won't get rich but Rocky and Tony will do all right.

A little matter of a guarantee posted in New Jersey assures Graziano, middleweight boxing champ, of at least $120,000. The ex-champ from Gary, Ind., will get $60,000 or more.

Neither Graziano nor Zale are close to the Dempsey-Tunney payoffs but they should have a little stacked away for their old age. In the first fight they each took down $78,892. As defending champ in Chicago last July, Zale was paid $152,968 and the Rock $76,484.

These figures add up in a nice neighborhood. For Zale it's $231,860 for two starts and $155,376 for Graziano.

Despite early optimisti Sdh

Despite early optimistic estimates of a Ruppert-Stadium gate of $450,000 it looks now as though they'll settle for $350,000. At $30 tops the house is scaled for a $540,000 sellout.

This probably is the last big payoff for Zale, even if he wins the crown. The only other opponent for a big-money fight is France's Marcel Cerdan, whose prestige was damaged by his recent loss at Brussels to Cyrille Delannoit.

Apparently the eight - year youth advantage of Graziano, who is 26 to Zale's 34, is the most important factor with those who bet on fights. Rocky was established as an early favorite and remains 5 to 12 despite the late hour.

Ralph McCabe Hurls His Club To No-Hit Win

(By The Canadian Press)

Long Ralph (High Pockets) McCabe, six-foot four-inch pitching coach for Frood Tigers, made Nickel Belt senior baseball history last night as he hurled his club to a no-hit 5-1 victory over Copper Cliff Redmen.

Other senior Ontario leagues spent a rather quiet night with only two games scheduled. In the Intercounty Baseball League — Western Ontario's top loop—Kitchener Legionnaires handed the cellar-dwelling Galt Terriers a 10-0 blanking. Rain forced cancellation of the Stratford Nationals — London Majors tilt with Nats leading 2-0 and only one out in the last half of the second frame.

McCabe, who formerly twirled professionally with Oklahoma City, Cleveland Indians and Toronto Maple Leafs at various times, racked up his no-hitter in his first mound chore. The run that spoiled a shutout came in the bottom of the fourth on two Frood errors.

Herb Herigoe took two bases on an overthrow to first and then went to third on a foul putout and scored on Al Kelleher's error when the Tiger first-baseman failed to keep his foot on the bag on a play that would have made the third out.

Lanky Ralph struck out 10 men and issued only one walk. He gave up a free ticket in the eighth when he hit Rocco Canapini with a pitched ball. Frood hit starter Lefty Stelmakowitch for 10 safeties and five runs but were unable to reach fireman Frank Ovis when he took over in the seventh. Bill Demkiw led Frood in hitting, with two, including a triple.

Put up Good Fight

Galt put up a good fight until the seventh and eighth innings when they fell apart and made two errors in each frame to help Kitchener score seven runs. Bert McCrudden started for Galt and lasted until the sixth when he was relieved by manager Knarr.

Roy Tredgett went the route on the hill for Kitchener, scattering four hits, fanning seven and not walking a single man. Howie Meeker was the big hitter with three-for-four including a double. John Bain and Bob Bloxam blasted triples while manager Bob Schnurr hit a two-bagger.

Rain stopped the Stratford - London game for five minutes before it finally came down so heavily that the game was called. Skip Pawley started on the mound for Majors and gave up two hits. Opposing hurler was Bill Russ who allowed three safeties.

A walk to Max Haunn, Billy Flock's triple and Gord McGraw's safety, accounted for Stratford's two runs in the second.

Games will be played in all senior Ontario circuits tonight. Brantford Red Sox invade Waterloo in the Intercounty League, while Shamrocks tangle with Copper Cliff in the Nickel Belt loop. Kimberley-Clarks travel to Welland and Lewiston to Niagara Falls Flores in the Niagara district circuit, while the lone Central Ontario League game is between Peterborough Petes and Kingston Locos.

Connie Mack Says Conditions Are Not Permanent

Philadelphia, June 8 — (AP)— Connie Mack today took a speculative look at his Philadelphia Athletics, winners of only two games in their last nine, and offered this comment: "These conditions are not permanent."

This stand by the 84-year-old president-manager of Philadelphia's American Baseball League entry was in contrast to his repeated refusal to give lip service to the fans' exuberance while the A's were leading the league.

The Mackmen came back to Philadelphia for a long home stand, won three out of four from the Yanks and then went into a slump climaxed by three straight defeats in the recent Cleveland series.

It was suggested that the A's might be tired.

"No, they're not tired," said Mack. "It's simply that we miss Valo and McCosky, and our pitching staff at the moment is all shot."

Rightfielder Elmer Valo sustained a rib fracture in a fence-crashing catch at St. Louis two weeks ago and at the same time leftfielder Barney McCosky pulled up with a strained leg muscle.

Three starting pitchers have been having arm trouble, Bill McCahan as a result of a stiff shoulder, Dick Fowler because of bursitis and Phil Marchildon of Penetanguishene, because of a cold in his back.

Best Rookie Crop This Year Since the War

(By The Associated Press)

The International League has come up with one of its best rookie crops this season since the outbreak of the war.

Bob Porterfield, the sensational freshman hurler of Newark Bears has received the most rave notices but every team in the circuit has at least one recruit that seems a cinch to advance to the Majors.

Porterfield, who hurled for Norfolk in the Piedmont League in 1947, has started and won nine games for the Bears. Four of his victories have been shutouts and he tops the league in strikeouts with 82. At one stage Porterfield pitched 36 consecutive scoreless innings.

The Jersey City Giants have a number of players who are making good in their first season of ball.

Chief interest is centred on 1st sacker Jack Harshman. The parent New York Giants gave up 5 players and a considerable amount of cash to pry Harshman away from San Diego of the Pacific Coast League. The young first sacker is holding his own both at bat and in the field.

Buffalo's Johnny Groth, young outfielder on option from Detroit Tigers is one of the best power hitters in the circuit. He is batting over .300 and has slugged 7 four-baggers.

Three games were scheduled Monday but all were postponed because of rain.

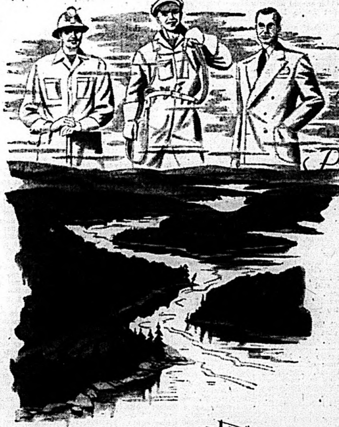
Today we Live in a Greater Canada



The Barren Lands Produce New Wealth

NEW MINES, new power dams — whole new communities, — are rising where only yesterday was nothing but a waste of rocks, water and trees and frozen tundra. Today Canada has a new empire in the wilderness.

The development of our one-time wastelands is one of the most significant phases of Canada's modern advance. Every Canadian is benefitting from that expansion. Today we live in a greater Canada — far greater than we ever knew before — a land of new and exciting opportunities for those commencing their careers today.

. . . .

AT STEEP ROCK the wartime development of one of the richest bodies of iron ore on the continent has given us a new, long-sought primary industry . . . Today under the caribou moss of Ungava vast new areas of high-grade iron ore are now being actively explored.

WHERE BEFORE the war was a roadless Quebec wilderness, Shipshaw is now producing more than a million horsepower of electrical energy . . . At Yellowknife on Great Slave Lake, rich gold-bearing ores are being developed . . . From Great Bear Lake near the Arctic Circle comes precious radium . . .

WAR-CREATED transportation facilities — by road and air — have opened up a hundred thousand square miles of the northwest, making accessible, for the first time, vast resources of farmland, forests, coal and power sites.

NEW . . . OPPORTUNITIES

JOHN ADASKIN, son of an immigrant woodworker, developed his talents as a musician to win a distinguished place in Canadian radio. He became CBC's senior program producer; now has his own Productions company in Toronto; has produced over 4,000 radio shows, including some of the most popular on the Canadian air; is Master of Ceremonies and musical conductor on the national talent show "Opportunity Knocks".

JOHN ADASKIN says: "I have never regretted a career in Canada. Today — more than ever before — new fields and opportunities are opening up for young Canadians. As business in general expands, as the arts gain wider recognition, it's certain that opportunity will continue to knock harder and more often for the talent of this country."

If partnership bridge you are playing, advices from partner you woo. He listens to what you are saying and helps you decide what to do.

Step into this pair of hands:

SOUTH

♠Q 10
♥10 4
♦A Q J 6
♣A Q J 9 6

NORTH

♠A 5
♥7 6 5
♦K 10 5 2
♣K 10 5 2

The bidding went like this:

South	North
1 C	2 C
2 D	3 D
5 C	5 D

South has a count of seven tricks. They are the five high cards (aces, kings, queens) and a short card in each major. North counts four. They are the three high and a short in spades.

With a count of 11 between them and a minor trump suit, a pair should reach a bid of five. As in the spades here they may find a duplication of values. But good players should get there.

Showing a lower rank before a higher, south says he has less cards in the higher. No biddable suit has less than four cards. North reads this for a holding of five clubs and four diamonds.

So what? Looksee. North is in a position to decide which suit is best as their final trump. When given the chance he announces that they should be in diamonds instead of in clubs. Why?

With enough trumps in either, prefer the trump suit that is most evenly divided in the pair. This often gives declarer a chance to save more tricks. Study this pair and you will see why.

If clubs are trumps there will be three losers; two in hearts and one in spades. If diamonds are trumps, the north spade loser can be sluffed on the fifth round of clubs.

In a bridge struggle do what is better for you.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, June 8 — (AP) — The latest fashion among Hollywood male stars is grey hair.

In the old days, the best friend of an actor advancing through his 30s and 40s was his dye pot. Times have changed. Jimmy Stewart is the latest to sport distinguished strands of silver in his hair. He joins Clark Gable, Ray Milland, Spencer Tracy, Humphrey Bogart, Ronald Coleman and other members of the "Frankly Grey Club." I have even heard of one star who has ordered a grey-streaked toupee.

Jaunt Postponed

Sonja Henie's European jaunt has been postponed because most of "Countess of Monte Cristo" will have to be shot again. The first version lacked oomph, and a fast rewrite was ordered. Sonja still expects to spend three weeks in Paris and southern France, after which she'll return to start rehearsals for her ice show.

Betsy Drake, Cary Grant's new find and co-star in "Every Girl Should be Married," is due for a double-barrelled build-up by R.K.O. and Selznick. Both studios own her contract. I might add that Grant himself is her best press agent. He discovered her in the London company of "Deep Are the Roots."

Betsy seems unaffected by all the hubbub over her.

"I'm just sitting back and letting my bosses handle everything for me," she says. Her only nervous moments have been during the close-ups.

"It terrifies me to think that my face will take up all that space on the screen," she remarks.

Capsule Review

"So Evil My Love" (Par.) is an arresting study of a missionary's widow who becomes a thief and murderess through the influence of her lover. Naturally, it's a fantastic tale, but it's made credible by (1) the polished acting of Ann Todd, Ray Milland and an English cast; (2) being filmed in England with an authentic flavor.

Baltimore — (AP) — Forever Ampere, a sprightly 30-year-old out of A-Bomb by Nuclear Fission, waddled to a three-length victory in the 13th annual Johns Hopkins Hospital Turtle Derby Monday.

"What happened?" she panted.

"Can't find my pants," Redden replied.

And he didn't. They were with the burglar, plus $250 in cash and some jewelry.

London — (CP) — Michael Marcus, chairman of East London rent tribunal, received a letter threatening to "bash you severely" if he gave protection to a certain tenant asking for reduced rent, and if he made the letter public.

The letter was signed "Juicy Joe the Mauler."

Marcus defied the threat and received a second letter granting him "a free pardon for bravery in the face of Juicy Joe's gunfire."

Juicy Joe informed him he smoked two big cigars for breakfast, drank half a gallon of beer at tea and ate two pounds of horse meat for supper.

Joe added that he "had class" . . . knew the Bible, the Koran, Shakespeare and Sherlock Holmes "better than the guys who wrote the stuff."

TrentonMerchants Hang on to Beat Belleville 15-14

In a comedy of errors the Trenton Merchants team hung on to let the Belleville Merchants outfumble them ,to gain a 15-14 victory in a Belleville Baseball League game at the Fair Grounds Monday night. The local squad miscued 11 times in the nine inning comedy while the visitors contented themselves with six miscues.

A slight drizzling rain that lasted from the second to the seventh inning contributed heavily to the fumble fandango and cost the Belleville squad the services of Leo Goyer who slipped on the wet grass in centre field in the fourth inning. How long the heavy hitting regular will be sidelined is problematical.

The locals collected one run in the second inning on Leo Goyer's triple over the centre fielder's head, and an error to the Trenton pitcher. Two hits ,an error, and a walk gave the Belleville crew three counters in the fourth. Two singles in the fifth counted another run and five singles and V. Goyer's triple in the seventh frame gave them four more. Two singles in the eighth counted another.

The Trenton squad scored two in the third, three in the fourth, three in the fifth, four in the sixth and three in the eighth.

Close to Win

The Merchants came close to winning the game in the ninth when they scored four runs and had three men on base with one down. Needing only one run to tie the score and two to go ahead Williams fouled out to the catcher and Jack Wardhaugh struck out.

Fifty Belleville batters officially came to the plate in the two hour and forty-five minute struggle with Leo Goyer getting two triples in two trips to the plate being the best for the locals. Bosin and Milock got three for five for the visitors.

Ellis, on the mound for Trenton, gave up seventeen hits, walked five, and struck out fourteen over the nine inning canto. Belleville used two pitchers in an attempt to halt the carnage. Williams lasted five innings giving up eight hits and three walks for ten runs. Fitzpatrick gave up no walks, four hits, and struck out three for the other five runs.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was shaking her head to herself, saying to pop, Poor Blantche Hipple, William, she could hardly play bridge this afternoon. She didn't seem to care whether she won or lost.

So she probably won, pop said, and ma said, Well yes she did, ironically speeking, but the point is, life just seems a hollow mockery to her. All she can think of is that Wigwag is dead after 10 years. After all, William, I mean after all, life is too full of serious ups and downs to be that mutch concerned over the loss of a pet, ma said.

Oh, I think I understand how she feels, pop said. After coming home every day for 10 years to find her dog apparently happier to see her than her own childern are, the thing must be pritty mutch of a shock, he said, and ma said, Now William, no dog could be that important, even if it had a full bred peddigree with ancesters that barked their way over in the Mayflower. But as a matter of fact, Wigwag wasn't a dog, she said.

Well, even berds have been known to have almost human intelligence, pop said. It's true some canaries talk too mutch, but at least they have pleasanter voices than a lot of people, he said, and ma said, Wigwag wasn't a berd either. He was a goldfish, and Blantche Hipple always swore he reckonized her face and waved his triple tail at her.

For Peet sake, that woman must have fish food in her head instead of branes, pop said, and ma said, Why William, how unfeeling. I've known goldfish that really had soles. You could see it in their eyes, she said.

Yee gods, it's a woman's werld, pop said. If anybody asks for me, I'll be in my tent, he said.

Goalie Cannot Leave Net To Protest Decision

(By The Canadian Press)

Representatives of three professional hockey leagues and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association met in Montreal over the weekend to redraft and clarify rules acceptable to all the bodies.

One of the most important changes was provision of a penalty for a goalkeeper who leaves his net to protest a decision. Even if he is team captain or alternate captain he will not be allowed to wander about the ice protesting. In the professional ranks an automatic fine of $50 will be imposed while a minor penalty will be given the offending goalie in amateur play. Rulemakers also decided that any goalie dropping a puck on top of the net to stop play will be given a minor penalty.

Provision for an extra player made by the National Hockey League rules committee at the annual meeting last week will not apply to amateur teams.

Beau Jack, who has twice been world's lightweight boxing champion, will meet champion Ike Williams on July 12 in a 15-round title bout it was announced Monday night at Philadelphia. Managers of the two battlers signed articles for the match Monday and promoter Herman Taylor said the site of the fight will either be Shibe Park or Municipal Stadium.

Boston's Ted Williams thumped the ball at a .500 clip last week to bolster his grip on the American League battling leadership with a .391 percentage. Williams collected 11 hits in 22 trips last week. He holds a 29-point margin over runner-up Lou Boudreau of Cleveland who has .362. Bobby Brown of the New York Yankees is in third spot with .349. Ken Keltner is still the home run leader with 14.

Boston Braves' Tommy Holmes and St. Louis Cardinals' Stan Musial are waging a hot duel for the leadership in the National League baseball race. Holmes leads Musial by a scant one point in averages released in New York Monday. The Braves' outfielder is hitting .372, Musial .31. Richie Ashburn, the sensational rookie of Philadelphia Phils, is holding down third place with a neat .364 average. Hank Sauer leads the home run department with 16 circuit clouts.

Marathon runner Joaquin Guerrero of Argentina set what he claimed is a world record when he ran non-stop for 71 hours, 20 seconds. Guerrero started Friday at Ica, running toward Lima along the Pan-American highway. He reached Lima Sunday and continued toward the Andean region of the Central High Road. Monday, almost overcome by sleep, he was ordered to quit by a physician. He had covered approximately 250 miles.

Murray (Muzz) Patrick, longtime big league hockey star, was signed Monday as coach of the Tacoma Rockets of the Pacific Coast Hockey League. His appointment was announced in Tacoma by Sam Bergesen and Fred Urban, new owners of the Rockets. Patrick has been coach of the St. Paul Saints of the U. S. League for the past two seasons. He is the son of Lester Patrick, New York Ranger manager.

A fight for the British Empire lightweight championship between Billy Thompson, British and European champion, and Arthur King, Negro Canadian champion from Toronto, tonight was termed a "natural" by Thompson's manager, Benny Huntman, at New York Monday. Thompson and Huntman arrived Monday from Britain. Huntman has been in touch with promoter Jack Allen of Toronto and a bout between King and Thompson "is only a matter of terms," he said.

Stanley Woodward's account of an abortive St. Louis Cardinal strike against the presence of Negro Jackie Robinson in a Brooklyn Dodger uniform was voted Monday in New York as the outstanding sports story of 1947. The judges were Franklin P. Adams, John Chamberlain and Quentin Reynolds. The story was written in May a year ago.

Ticket sales for the summer Olympic Games are expected to exceed $3,000,000, it was announced by Paul Herbert, general manager of Wembley Stadium in London Monday. Herbert said $544,000 had already been received.
